FOURTH OF JAP NAVY SMASHED BY U.S. PLANES

GUAM, April 8 [Sunday] (AP)—United States navy carrier aircraft smashed probably the last strong Japanese naval force, including the super-battleship Yamato, most powerful in the enemy navy, in the East China sea Saturday.

Adm. Nimitz announced that the battle was fought around noon, Japanese time [10 p. m. Friday, Chicago time]. The bulletin reported six Japanese warships, including the Yamato, and 417 enemy planes were destroyed in Friday and Saturday sea and air actions.

In Washington a navy spokesman said "a good 25 per cent of the remaining Japanese major combat force" was lost or put out of action in the engagement. United States losses were listed as three destroyers sunk, several other destroyers and smaller craft damaged, and seven carrier planes destroyed.

Heavy Unit Hit

In a second bulletin issued today Nimitz said additionally that "one of our heavy fleet units suffered minor damage during an aircraft attack, but is fully operational." The heavy unit, presumably a battleship or large carrier, had participated in the naval battle.

Nimitz said that in addition to the damage first announced carrier pilots sank four small cargo ships and many small craft and destroyed two Japanese airplanes caught on the ground.

The Japanese initiated the two days of desperate action in efforts to shatter the American amphibious force invading Okinawa Island. A large force of Japanese aircraft attacked the invasion ships and Okinawa shore positions Friday. The bulletin said the airmen succeeded in sinking the three destroyers and damaging the other warships. United States fighter planes and gunners brought down 116 Japanese planes.

Planes Sight Fleet

The Japanese surface force was sighted heading into the East China sea from Nippon's inland sea bases by United States search planes. Vice Adm. Mitscher immediately sent his carrier task force to intercept the Japanese.

The carrier planes struck the Jap force 50 miles southwest of Kyushu Island, part of the Japanese homeland. Swarming in from all directions, despite heavy gunfire from the ships, the American planes sent torpedoes and bombs into the hulls of the Japanese force.

The 45,000 ton Yamato—which the United States bulletin said was the "most powerful ship left in the Japanese navy"—went down belching smoke and fire from eight torpedo and eight heavy bomb hits.

Two Cruisers Sunk

Also sunk were a light Agano class cruiser, one other small light cruiser or large destroyer, and three destroyers. Three other destroyers were left burning. Three destroyers escaped from the attack.

In "minor contacts" prior to the main action, 30 Japanese planes were shot down. The United States carrier force aircraft had destroyed 245 enemy planes the previous day.

Nimitz announced that units of Mitscher's carrier force in the Saturday battle were commanded by Rear Admirals F. C. Sherman, A. W. Radford, G. F. Bogan, and J. J. Clark.

85 Hit in 10 Months

The Yamato was the fifth battleship definitely reported sunk in the war. It was 900 feet long and had a main battery of 16 inch guns. This latest blow brought to 85 the total of Japanese warships sunk or damaged in the last 10 months.

Japanese planes launched a concerted attack earlier on the British Pacific fleet, operating in support of the Okinawa campaign, as it shelled and bombed the Ryukyus March 31 thru April 2. "Some major units" were slightly damaged, Nimitz reported.

Britain's 35,000 ton battleship King George V. was the target for five Japanese aircraft, which one British naval observer said were driven off. The British task force, which also includes the carrier Illustrious, destroyed or damaged 31 enemy planes.

Tokyo radio reported, as usual, that Japanese flyers "already have

Buffalo Steak! Farmer's Wild Idea Pays Off

Coldwater, Mich., April 7 [Special]—Farmer Edwin B. Butters, 36, arrived here today with 175 American bison, each one representing several hundred pounds of point free meat.

He brought them in cattle cars from the Park Ridge Indian reservation in the Black Hills of South Dakota where, during the last few weeks, he rounded them up with the aid of Sioux Indians.

On his 230 acre farm here, which he mortgaged a year and a half ago to go into the buffalo business, Butters, a graduate of the Michigan state agricultural college at East Lansing, plans to breed and raise buffalo for meat, unhampered either by ceiling prices or ration points.

To Market by Fall

The buffalos arrived in cattle cars, and Butters was busy all day trucking them from the railroad station to his farm, where huge signs on fences warned possible visitors of "Certain Death Inside." By fall, Butters said, he hopes to have at least 100 sleek, corn fed buffalo ready for the New York market.

"Since people have heard I've got buffalo meat, I 've had offers from all over the country," Butters said. "Hotels in the big cities have offered to buy all I could supply. But I'm sticking with the New York wholesale firm that dealt with me in the beginning."

This firm, he said, has already handled two and three carloads of buffalo meat for him, obtaining from 70 cents to $1.25 a pound on the market where restaurants and hotels vie for the opportunity to serve point free buffalo steaks.

Inspired at the Zoo

Butters said he got his inspiration to go into buffalo raising when he saw a buffalo in the zoo at Lansing in November, 1943. If he could only acquire a herd of buffalo he would have a commodity which the OPA had never attempted to regulate, he reasoned. He discussed his idea and got helpful counsel from George A. Brown, animal husbandry professor at the agricultural college.

Buffalos, he learned, were under the jurisdiction of various agencies of the department of the interior. The park service, he discovered, controls many buffalo herds and is willing to give animals free to zoos or individuals desirous of exhibiting them or preserving them for propagation purposes. He wanted animals to butcher, so he looked further.

His next discovery was that buffalos on Indian reservations are under the jurisdiction of the Indian service and that this agency is occasionally willing to sell buffalos with no strings attached.

Mortgages Farm to Bid

Last summer he heard that the Indian service was anxious to dispose of surplus buffalos on the Pine Ridge reservation in the Black Hills. After negotiation, the agency agreed to ask bids on the animals. Butters appealed to various Michigan banks for financial help in swinging the deal, but found them leery of the buffalo business. Determined to proceed with his plan he mortgaged his farm and made his bid.

Early last fall, Butters was informed by the Indian service that he was high bidder and the owner of 250 odd buffalos roaming the unfenced wilderness of the reservation, which covers two South Dakota counties. The trip from which he returned today was his second to the buffalo country. Last November he made his first trip and after

ARMY TO BREW BEER FOR YANKS

U. S. Technicians to Use French Plants

So that G. I.'s on the European war fronts can have American beer, the army for the first time in its history has gone into the beer manufacturing business, the quartermaster general's office disclosed yesterday in Washington, D. C.

Initial shipments of raw supplies and a staff of 10 technicians and chemists, furnished by the American beer industry, have been sent to France to start the beer barrels rolling.

French breweries, whose beer offends the Yankee taste, will be adapted for production of the American product. Formulas and processes used by United States breweries will be followed by the army.

Brewer Makes Survey

The army decided to make its own beer on the advice and counsel of leaders of the industry in this country. Prominent among them was James Shakman, of Chicago, vice president of the Pabst Brewing company.

At the request of the quartermaster general he spent a month in Europe at the various fronts and back of the lines. He inspected French brewery properties, made surveys, and gathered data for his report to the army.

Besides the superior quality of American beer, the other main factor, said Shakman, is that raw supplies for making beer take only a fourth of the shipping space required for the finished product.

One of the biggest problems, he said, will be to deliver supplies to the army's swiftly advancing front lines.

Daily Output 4,500 Barrels

To fill the need, Shakman explained, it will be necessary to furnish one and a half millions bottles, or approximately 4,500 barrels of beer a day.

Production areas, he said, will be designated on the basis of the greatest concentration of service people, particularly the front lines. No machinery will have to be shipped to the French plants, as French equipment will be adapted for army use.

Another advantage, Shakman said, will be the big relief in man power to the brewery industry in this country.

Battle in West Entering Mop Up Phase, Says Officer

Nazis Falling Apart

BY JOHN THOMPSON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

U. S. 1ST ARMY ADVANCE HDQ., Germany, April 7—"The German army is falling apart with no chance of establishing a cohesive western front. We are now entering the phase of mopping up operations."

These words were used tonight by a 1st army staff officer to describe the situation before Lt. Gen. Hodges' forces as they drive east toward Berlin and west in conjunction with Lt. Gen. Simpson's 9th army to clean out the Ruhr pocket.

Nothing to Stop Advance

From a strategic viewpoint, the officer said, there is nothing to halt the eastward advance save a hodgepodge of hastily formed units and a comparatively small number of SS [elite] troops.

From a military viewpoint, however, the officer said, elimination of the Ruhr pocket is the most important. Within this 4,000 square mile area are elements of three German armies representing at least 100,000 and probably 125,000 men. Attempts by the units of the 5th panzer army, the 15th infantry army, and the 1st paratroop army to break out of their hopeless trap have failed.

Remagen Decisive Factor

In the opinion of the staff officer, the decisive factor in the German western front collapse was the seizure of the Remagen bridgehead by Hodges' army.

"We are now reaping the fruits of that Remagen bridgehead," he said.

Biggest Force in Trap

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

HAMM, Germany, April 7—Field Marshal Kesselring's forces inside the Ruhr pocket are now the largest body of German troops anywhere, except the armies facing Russia.

Altho the units were chopped up at the Normandy beachheads, during the break-thru across France, in the Ardennes bulge, at the Roer, and across the Rhine, they still represent a fighting force composed of about 40,000 combat troops and 60,000 flak artillerymen and volkssturmers. The British estimate the force totals 150,000.

Hitler's Finest Troops

They are the finest troops now available to Hitler. Those farther south are considered second rate and incapable of stiff resistance.

Operations now under way are driving corridors thru the pocket, cutting the armies into slender sections and isolating each group, thus preventing organized, coördinated resistance or any break-out attempt. With excellent weather, massive air bombings and strafing are further demoralizing the caged units.

Leaders Abandon Troops

Indentified as inside the pocket are the 116th panzer, 180th, 190th, and 2d parachute divisions.

Both Kesselring and Field Marshal Model are believed to have abandoned their troops, fleeing by plane. It is considered likely that Maj. Gen. Count Waldenburg, commanding the 116th panzer, has taken over control and is following radio instructions from Hitler.

HOUSE SPEAKER GREEN TELLS OF BEATING BY MAN HE CONVICTED

Springfield, Ill., April 7 (AP)—Speaker Hugh Green of the Illinois house of representatives said in a statement today he had been assaulted and injured painfully by a man he had prosecuted when state's attorney of Morgan county.

The statement did not identify the assailant or say when or where the attack occurred. Green could not be reached for further details.

The 58 year old speaker did not preside over the house Wednesday and Thursday. His absence was explained officially as caused by "sickness."

Green's statement, issued by his office here, said:

"Due to an assault that was made upon me by a man whom I had tried and convicted while I was state's attorney of Morgan county, I have been unable to perform my duties as speaker during the past week.

"Altho receiving painful injuries about the face, I do not consider that I am seriously hurt and I propose to be back in my office and to carry on my business as usual in a few days."

Green, whose home is in Jacksonville, was state's attorney from 1924 to 1932.

SERGEANT BURNS, SO DOES ROOF OF POLICE STATION

"If there's anything that burns me up," remarked Desk Sgt. Dave Petacque of the Warren av. station to the half dozen patrolmen lounging in the squadroom, "it's screwballs who call up and tell me the police station's on fire."

Some funster, Petacque went on, had just telephoned him for the third time in 10 minutes that the station roof was ablaze.

Just then a man rushed in.

"Hey, your roof's on fire!" he yelled.

Petacque halted him. "Did you just telephone?" he asked. Surprised, the caller shook his head.

"Well then," Petacque said, "maybe there is a fire."

There was. But firemen of Engine company 24 put it out before it burned thru the roof.

Mary Had a Little Lamb 80 Yrs. Ago; She's 90 Now

GRANTHAM, England, April 7 (AP)—Eighty years ago a little lamb insisted on following Mary Partridge to school and had to be tethered on the village green during lesson hours. The girl who was the inspiration for the famous nursery rhyme celebrated her 90th birthday at her home here today.

YANKS FLANK HANNOVER IN 18 MILE DRIVE

PARIS, April 7 (AP)—The United States 9th army today outflanked Hannover with an 18 mile drive that hurdled the Leine river 10 miles southeast of the city.

The United States 1st army surged seven miles across the Weser river at numerous points, and west of the river was locked in fierce fights with the Germans on the east side of the Ruhr pocket.

British tanks speared within 20 miles of the big port of Bremen.

The United States 3d army's 6th armored and 65th infantry divisions, smashing a heavy counter-attack northwest of Muehlhausen, knocked out 40 German tanks.

Front by Front Situation

This was the front by front situation in what the Germans themselves called "the battle of decision":

The Canadian 1st army fanned out 35 miles south of the North sea, cutting road after road on the diked lowlands of Holland which two hemmed-in German armies must have for attack or retreat.

Allied planes clamped an aerial seal-off on the 19 mile lane of retreat running up around the Zuider Zee from Amsterdam and Rotterdam, pounding everything that moved.

The British 2d army in gains up to 35 miles was quickly sealing the fate of Bremen, seat of Germany's once vast sea traffic, and was threatening to cut off the Danish peninsula and every enemy naval base on the North sea.

Chutists 12 Miles Past Weser

Farther south British parachute troops drove 12 miles beyond the Weser river to a point 20 miles west of Hannover, the city which gave them England's present royal dynasty.

The 9th army, besides outflanking Hannover in a drive 140 miles west of Berlin, crashed 13 miles thru the roof of the Ruhr pocket, knocking out Soest—a city 16 miles southeast of fallen Hamm which the 125,000 trapped Germans had converted into a keystone for their stand-and-die defense.

The 1st army, while knocking in the sides of the Ruhr pocket from east and south, turned on its main power once more toward Berlin on a 35 mile front.

The 3d army rammed a second armored spearhead 130 miles southwest of Berlin.

Its forces were in the best position to link up with the Russians—170 miles to the east—and

LONDON, April 8 [Sunday]—(AP)—Red army tank columns, in a headlong 14 mile sweep around western Vienna, three-fourths encircled the Austrian capital yesterday, leaving the Nazi garrison a 24½ mile escape gap, as other shock troops gained in a frontal assault thru the city's rubble strewn streets.

More than 3,000 German troops were killed yesterday in street fighting within Vienna, Moscow announced.

Reaching the Danube river northwest of the city, Russian troops sliced across six of Vienna's escape routes and left the imperiled capital with only seven of an original 22 major railroads and highways.

Berlin reports said that the escape gap to the north already had been narrowed. Soviet cavalrymen were said to have forded the Morava river northeast of Vienna and to have established bridgeheads that threatened to close the enemy's last retreat roads.

At the same time, Berlin reported that tank spearheads had broken 23 miles thru the Vienna woods west of the capital and were plunging westward within 125 miles of Hitler's mountain retreat at Berchtesgaden in Bavaria.

Siege Arc Extended

As the Nazis cried that Vienna "will be defended to the last sewer," two soviet armies extended the siege arc around the city to 112 miles on the west, south, and east.

The greater part of the city was encircled when Marshal Tolbukhin's 3d Ukrainian army tankmen battered 14 miles thru the Vienna woods in a two day advance, sweeping thru the town of Pressbaum, seven miles west of the city, to reach the Danube at Klosterneuburg, one mile from Vienna's northwestern limits.

The swift surge that isolated southern Vienna, where 20 of the city's 21 districts are located, cut across the railroad and highway to Linz and Munich and the main railroad to Prague. Three other minor highways were severed.

Berlin indicated that the narrow wedge to the Danube northwest of Vienna was rapidly being expanded. Tolbukhin's tank spearheads, the enemy said, had thrust 23 miles from their last positions to reach the key rail junction of St. Poelten, 28 miles west of the capital.

Drive Toward Bavaria

St. Poelten lies on Vienna's severed trunk line to Linz, 60 miles to the west and the Russians apparently were driving toward Bavaria, potential mountain hideout for Nazi leaders.

Simultaneously, Moscow announced that Tolbukhin's men had battled their way into the southern districts of Vienna proper. Berlin said hand-to-hand fighting raged in Favoriten within four miles of St. Stephen's cathedral in midcity. The Russians also were reported to have broken into the eastern district of Simmering, site of the city's main gas and power plants.

While the battle for Vienna held the spotlight, far to the north in East Prussia the Germans reported that the Red army had launched an assault to reduce the long embattled fortress of Koenigsberg.

In southwestern Poland, the soviets moved within 12 miles of Cieszyn [Teschen], and in Czechoslovakia gained up to 10 miles on an 80 mile front. In Yugoslavia other Russian units battered to within 100 miles of Italy at a point 42 miles northeast of the Croatian capital of Zagreb.

Seize 100 Nazi Tanks in Factory

BY JOHN THOMPSON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

KASSEL, Germany, April 6 [Delayed]—Among the battered wreckage of Henschel's, once the largest locomotive works in the world, we found today nearly 100 Royal Tiger tanks on or near the assembly line.

Their fresh, thick armor plated chassis brightly colored with new red lead were caught here by the swift American advance. But such is Germany's lack of good tanks that this factory actually was producing them until April 1 on the northern edge of town while American soldiers were fighting into the southern edge.

On that day, until our shells made it too hot to work, German workmen were screwing on turrets with big new extra powered 88 mm. guns.

Tanks Used as Forts

Then the tanks were run east beyond the Fulda river. There they were placed in prepared gun pits where they are now being used as fixed gun positions.

Today their red hulls stood stacked in desolate splendor outside near the railroad tracks. Inside the plant, lighted by holes in the ceiling, other hulls made neat lines on the south side of the shop. The workmen's boxes were open, their tools scattered as they had left them in flight.

R. A. F. Grants Priority

It was not until October, 1943, that Kassel began to receive a high priority notice from the R. A. F. In two attacks that month most of the town's industrial potential was destroyed.

Today the Germans were still struggling to get out from under. They were shoring up some building with brick. Flimsy sheet plates had been hung over the skylights to serve as covers for undamaged machines.

FIND BILLIONS IN BULLION AND ART INSIDE MINE

Patton Army Takes Nazi 'Fort Knox'

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH THE U. S. 3D ARMY, Germany, April 7—The German reichsbank's entire gold reserve of about 100 million dollars was captured today by Lt. Gen. Patton's 90th division in the Nazis' "Fort Knox"—a salt mine at Merkers, 140 miles southwest of Berlin.

Priceless paintings, including works by Rembrandt, Raphael, Van Dyke, Durer, and Renoir, were included in the stupendous cache which may be worth billions of dollars when finally appraised.

Also captured in the huge chamber 2,100 feet under ground were three bank officials who said it took five weeks to move the treasure from Berlin and that the 100 tons of bullion found in the mine represented "all the gold in Germany."

Currency Also Found

The booty in addition comprised 3 billion German marks, 2 million dollars in American currency, 100 million French francs, 110,000 British pounds, 4 million Norwegian crowns and lesser amounts in Turkish, Spanish, and Portuguese currency.

Dr. Fritz Vieck, one of the reichsbank advisers seized in the mine, said that the speed of the American advance and the difficulty of transportation prevented the removal of the treasure horde. The Germans started moving the gold and currency from Berlin Feb. 11, Dr. Vieck said.

[On that date the Russians were holding positions on the Oder river 30 to 40 miles from Berlin and were smashing 37 miles across southern Germany toward Dresden, capital of Saxony. They also cut the Berlin-Breslau railway and highway.]

Stored in Huge Room

The gold and currency were stored in a room 395 feet long and 65 feet wide. In plate and ingot form, the treasure was packed in bags weighing 70 pounds each.

Among the workers in the mine were about 200 British prisoners.

Dr. P. O. Raabe, German state curator and assistant director of the Berlin national art galleries, who also was in the mine, said that the fabulous art works included a thousand cases of paintings and statues, in addition to 150 tapestries.

Raabe said that there were a thousand priceless engravings in 120 cases, containing the original Goethe collection from Weimar. They were brought in from Berlin between March 20 and April 4. The statues, paintings, and other art objects, he said, were only part of the collection moved from Berlin.

Discovery Is Accidental

Finding the treasure trove was accidental. Two military policemen stopped some French women and, during the conversation, one indicated the mine and said, "That's where the bullion is stored."

Both Raabe and Vieck willingly discussed the mine's unique contents as army officers inspected the crates of art works and saw the sealed gold vault.

A few days ago, as Patton's troops pressed ever nearer the hiding place, the Germans started frantically to move the treasure from the salt mine, Vieck said. But their efforts were thwarted by blown up bridges and they had to return it a few days ago.

A German lawyer, captured with Vieck and who said he was one of the reichsbank's counsels, said the German army tried at first to get everything out but the Americans were coming so fast that they just concentrated on the money. In the end they had to leave everything.

Patton ringed the golden salt mine with a circle of tanks. The tanks were in command of Lt. Col. V. B. Kedrovsky of Gary, Ind.

The doughboys captured another salt mine in the neighborhood which pleased them even more. The second mine held vast quantities of cognac and champagne which local residents said were from Berlin also.

WILL IMPOUND BOOTY

Officials in Washington, D. C., said the booty would be impounded and later turned over to the allied commission to decide what should be done. Identifiable loot such as paintings would come under restitution plans and be sent back to the country from which it was stolen.

HITLER ORDERS PARTY MEN TO QUIT STATE JOBS

Takes Nazi Leaders from Administrative Posts

LONDON, April 7 (AP)—Adolf Hitler decreed the splitting of state and Nazi party offices today in a drastic move enabling topflight nazi leaders to abandon their posts in the path of allied armies and take up underground stations in the "werewolf war."

The action apparently is intended to leave non-Nazi party "surrender stooges" in the areas overrun by the allies.

A decree by Hitler and an order by the party chancellor, Martin Bormann, as quoted by the German news agency DNB, said the move was made to facilitate "the freedom of movement" of functionaries in "these difficult times." There have been previous reports that Nazi party leaders had been executed for fleeing their posts.

Reverses Nazi Trend

This reversed a trend during 12 years of nazi history in which province after province fell under the rule of Nazi party gauleiters.

Hitler's order said that "all party and state functions on the level of the kries [the administrative subdivision of a province, where they are held by the same person, shall be separated."

"Similarly," the decree continued, "where two party or administrative posts are at present held by the same person they shall also be separated."

DNB interpreted this thusly: "For instance, the personal union of the offices of mayor and kreisleiter, or the holding of subordinate offices in the party or its affiliated organizations, or the leadership of several kreis by one kreisleiter, will be eliminated."

Two Jobs Outlawed

Bormann's order said that Hitler's decree also applied to local levels and "accordingly the post of local party leader and burgomeister [mayor] will not in the future be held by the same person."

"The reason for this measure," DNB continued, "must be sought in the fact that the tasks of human leadership falling upon the party at a time of the most difficult and manifold problems, would suffer if the party had to carry the additional burdens of state administration.

"Practical experience of warfare in the interior has clearly shown how little it is possible for a state duty and a party function to be filled by the same person without one or other or all of them suffering neglect.

Coöperation Will Continue

"A double office is particularly disadvantageous where the presence of the office holder is required in two places at the same time.

"As a result of war conditions the tasks of state administration have grown so much and require such a high decree of freedom of movement that state offices call for complete attention.

"The close coöperation between party and state which has been often proved will of course not be changed."

FUEL SHORTAGE HITS NAZI ARMY, SAY U. S. FLYERS

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH THE U. S. 9TH AIR FORCE, Germany, April 7—Ninth air force pilots, scouring thru the interior of Germany, report that rail and highway transportation has collapsed as the result of a fuel shortage as well as the bombing and strafing of vehicles. The German armies, according to an air general, no longer can maneuver and are deprived of supplies. The encirclement of the Ruhr robbed Germany of her main coal supply. The Russians took her other coal in Silesia. Petroleum is so scarce that nazi flyers are put in the air without adequate training, Lt. Gen. Vandenberg, commander of the 9th air force, believes.

Peace is Path to Freedom for India, Gandhi Says

BOMBAY, India, April 7 [Reuters]—Mohandas Gandhi, leader of the Indian Congress party, said today that freedom of India could only be achieved thru peace, truth, and nonviolence. Decrying parliamentary methods, he said, "Our only way is a conservative program which will place freedom in our hands."

87 NAZI PLANES SHOT DOWN IN BIG AIR BATTLE

1,300 Bombers Hit Port Routes; 22 Lost

LONDON, April 7 (AP)—American airmen shot down at least 87 German planes today in the greatest aerial battle over Europe in three months as the Nazis tried to stop 1,300 American heavy bombers plowing an invasion path for Marshal Montgomery's drive on the North sea ports.

The Germans downed included a large number of jet propelled Messerschmitt 262s.

Following the big American daylight raids, the German radio reported allied bombers were over head during the night, indicating that the R. A. F. was out again after a two night lay-off due to bad weather.

Fighter Pilots Get 63

In the day's air battles, American fighter pilots got 63 enemy planes while bomber gunners accounted for at least 24.

American losses were 22 bombers and three fighters, heaviest suffered by the 8th air force since the Rhine crossing of March 24.

The R. A. F. in a side operation in daylight raided Ijmuiden on the German held coast of north Holland, where there is a submarine works and power station, and also a suspected site of Nazi rocket guns.

Race 100 Miles Ahead

The big fleet of Liberators and Fortresses, escorted by 850 fighters, raced more than 100 miles ahead of onrushing British and American armies and blasted four jet airfields, two rail yards, two ammunition and storage plants, an oil depot, and an ordnance depot. Most of them were in the vicinity of Bremen, Kiel, and Hamburg, three of Germany's greatest ports, imperiled by Montgomery's drive.

American flyers who shot down one Nazi plane each, included Lt. Joseph E. Mullen, Evansville, Ind.; Capt. J. Brooks Bline, Annapolis, Ill., and Capt. Ivan J. McGuire, Danville, Ill.

YANKS LIBERATE PATTON SON-IN-LAW FROM GERMAN CAMP

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH U. S. 14TH ARMORED DIVISION, Germany, April 7—More than 100 American officers, some of them wounded and ill, were being evacuated today after being freed yesterday by a flying column of this division's tanks from a German prison camp below Hammelburg, 18 miles northeast of Lohr. Among those liberated was Lt. Col. John K. Watters, son-in-law of Lt. Gen. Patton, Watters was injured and captured in February, 1943, in the battle of Kasserine pass in Tunisia.

Also rescued from the camp were nearly 5,000 officers of other allied nations. An estimated 1,500 had been taken east by the Germans a few days ago.

The rescuers led by Lt. Col. James P. Lann, Amory, Miss., raced 20 miles to the camp. The enemy fought with big caliber shell and motar fire and with anti-tank guns, bazookas, and small arms. The last defense was around the barbed wire fences of the camp. Emplacements within 100 yards of the camp buildings had to be knocked out before the American tankers could get in.

U-Boats Force Swedish Ships to Give Up Food

LONDON, April 7 [Reuters]—German U-boats are stopping Swedish fishing vessels in international waters south of Sweden to demand food, the Swedish radio reported tonight.

MASS KILLING OF 700 FRENCH BY NAZIS TOLD

PARIS, April 7 [Reuters]—The story of the massacre of 700 French civilians by the Germans at Fort Chantillon, seven miles from Paris, in September, 1943, was told today by a witness.

He is a German medical private who has been captured. He said the French victims were taken to the fort because they had refused to sign contracts to work in Germany. The soldier asserted 500 were lined up and shot with six machine guns as two searchlights played on them. A few minutes later, the man added, 200 more Frenchmen were similarly slaughtered.

The soldier gave authorities a list of soldiers who took part in the mass slaying and pointed out the trenches where he said the victims were buried.

Pope Visited by Aide of U. S. Surgeon General

VATICAN CITY, April 7 (AP) — Pope Pius XII. held an audience today with Brig. Gen. Hugh Morgan, consultant to the United States surgeon general. Morgan is touring the European war theater. The pope received privately the Rev. Harold Stockman, Jesuit father who is chief chaplain for the United States navy in Italy.

CHICAGO WOMAN FREED BY YANK DRIVE INTO RUHR

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BIELEFELD, Germany, April 7—An American woman who lived in Chicago, her home town, for 26 years, was free again today after having been held by the Germans, with her Polish husband, as a forced laborer since last June.

The Chicagoan, Mrs. Lucille Pyrzynski Langner, was one of the hundreds of foreign slave workers liberated by the 291st regiment of an armored division as it swept into this Ruhr town. A hollow cheeked but pretty blonde mother, she was nursing a two day old baby as she told her story to Lt. John Herz of New York City.

"In 1932, while visiting my grandparents in Poland, I married a farmer, Stanislas Langner," she said. "In 1938 I returned to Chicago for a visit, then came back to Poznan. When the Germans occupied Poland we were sent to Germany, and finally to the Ruhr last June.

"We were working for a farmer who also sheltered my daughter, Christina, 12, and stepdaughter, Catherine, 17."

Mrs. Langner's father, Steve Pyrzynski, is employed in the Chicago stockyards, where she once worked as a labeler.

STARVED YANKS TELL OF BRUTAL NAZI TREATMENT

Many Die in Labor Camp, Says Freed Captive

AT AN AMERICAN EVACUATION HOSPITAL NEAR THE RHINE, March 28 [Delayed by censor]—(AP)—Two gaunt American soldiers who almost died of starvation in a German prison camp near Limburg told today of brutal treatment in stalag 12—the first such camp for allied prisoners to be seized east of the Rhine.

They are safe now in this Rhine valley hospital and before long they will be on their way home—as soon as they recover a little more from the effects of prison life.

The tag at the foot of the bed occupied by Staff Sgt. Francis Holley of Rome, N. Y., read: "Malnutrition due to starvation. Dysentery."Holley said his captors at the front treated him pretty well, but it was different the farther back he went. Holley said that by the time he reached Flamerscheid there was not much to choose between the way the Germans were treating prisoners and what he had heard about the Japanese.

He Marched 36 Miles

It took just 20 days at Flamerscheid to make a hospital case out of Holley. He was marched 36 miles to a hospital—a march which he said killed one man. At the hospital Holley did get a special diet of thick soup, jam, and cheese.

After eight days he was released from the hospital and sent to Limburg prison.

"Maybe they couldn't help it because the hospital was overcrowded," Holley said. "They didn't have enough medicine and if anybody had a bad leg it meant amputation.

"They washed out the bandages and used them over and over again. They always were wet."

Slips Away in Fog

At 1 a. m., two days before the Americans entered Limburg, the guards waked up the prisoners and loaded them into boxcars. Holley slipped away in the fog and hid until tanks of the United States 9th armored division rumbled into town.

In the bed next to Holley was Sgt. Edgar D. Garwood of Troy, O., who was captured last December near Marche when Field Marshal Von Rundstedt made his bid to smash the allied armies in the west. Garwood was with the 35th regiment of the 84th division.

Garwood was taken to the same train with Holley. The prisoners were loaded into cars which sat on a siding from Friday morning until the next Monday, and each day they had only a small square of bread and a little cheese.

American planes came over and bombed and strafed the train and the guards fled, leaving the men locked inside. They broke out and identified themselves as prisoners by forming a large P. W., but 14 were killed and 26 wounded in an air raid before planes went away.

Garwood was captured and served the same meager fare as that given to Holley. He was marched to a labor camp at Gerolstein. There his job was digging bodies from bomb wreckage or filling road craters from 7:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., daily. He said the prisoners were treated brutally.

"Five or six men died there every day," Garwood said. "One of my buddies was in a bad shape and couldn't stand digging. He started to sink to the ground, but we knew if he fell he'd be clubbed by a guard. Another soldier and I tried to hold him up and we all went down.

"Then the guard kicked us and kept us there four more hours. We were cold and wet thru when we got back to the camp and had to sleep without even a blanket.

They Fought for Food

"One of the men got frostbitten feet and they were so swollen he had trouble getting his shoes on. A guard got mad because he was delaying the working party and shot him thru the neck and eyes."

Garwood said the men were so hungry they would fight for food—food which a sick man could hardly eat. The guards sold small-sized potatoes for 100 Belgian francs each and a cigaret brought 250 francs.

A jeep picked Garwood up and took him to a medical station after the Americans arrived.

"They were eating raisin bread," Garwood said, "and I never saw anything more beautiful in my life."

More than 2,000 prisoners from Stalag 12 were taken back into Germany, Garwood said.

Charles Berry, Gates Mill, Utah, who weighed 150 pounds when captured; Sgt. Leonard Nevius, Washington, D. C., who had weighed 160; an unidentified man; Technician 4th Grade Herbert Borden, New York Mills, Minn., who normally weighs 150 pounds. Weights of prisoners when freed were not given on caption, which called attention to crude wooden beds in which soldiers lie. All were captured during the battle of the Belgium bulge.

THIS LITTLE HARP DIDN'T GO TO MARKET—
it went to war!

In the middle 1880's Lyon & Healy set out to solve a problem that had plagued harp manufacturers almost back to the days of David. . . . They decided to be done, once and for all, with harps that were forever getting out of tune because of the uncertainties of climate and the vicissitudes of moving from one music center to another.

In 1889—after years of research, new harp designs and mechanism—such a harp was finally perfected in the Lyon & Healy factories in Chicago. . . . Here at last was the Utopian instrument that harpists had dreamed of owning one day—the harp that would "travel around the world without loosening a screw." . . . Then it was that the Lyon & Healy Harp started its March of Triumph to every music center of the world . . . to homes, to schools, to great orchestras and later to radio stations.

Only one thing has ever stilled the song of this great harp—the urgent needs of War itself. Today the Lyon & Healy Harp factory still hums but not with peaceful harp-making. . . . In this same place and with much of the machinery formerly used in building harps, Lyon & Healy is steadily turning out instruments of war and will continue to do so while the freedom of men is in jeopardy. . . . And after the great day of final Victory, the Lyon & Healy Harp will once again be built in our Chicago factories.

YANKS OUTFLANK HANNOVER IN 18 MILE ADVANCE

1st Army Crosses Weser; Gains 7 Miles

to cut Germany in half by driving the last 58 miles to the border of Czechoslovakia.

The 7th army was driving toward the Nazi shrine city of Nuernberg from positions 34 miles to the northwest amid indications that the once strong resistance was sagging on this front.

A combat team of the 10th armored division broke south for a 35 mile dash, capturing Crailsheim, 49 miles southwest of Nuernberg.

The dash came as the 100th infantry division, 36 miles to the west fought from house to house to clear Heilbronn, while to the north both the 12th armored and elements of the 42d infantry division pushed to Hergolshausen, less than five miles from Schweinfurt.

The French 1st army was clawing along the Siegfried line south of Karlsruhe, driving the enemy from bunker to bunker.

May Be Farther Advanced

The pace of the allied advances had stretched communications so badly that supreme headquarters told correspondents that there was a considerable time lag between their reports and the actual advance. That meant that nearly everywhere along the line, Americans, British, Canadians, and French might be well beyond positions reported here.

Behind the 1st army's 2d armored division, which striking only spotty resistance across the Weser, the Germans fought stubbornly in the fabled city of Hamelin and many an ancient building in this Mecca of sightseers was being pounded into rubble.

At one point the Americans fought out on a double lane highway two and a half miles southeast of Muenden—at the eastern edge of the Hessian gap on the ancient invasion route to inner Germany.

Fifteen miles to the northwest, an armored column advanced nearly five miles to the vicinity of Trendelburg, which lies on the Diemel river, a minor stream that must be crossed to reach the Weser.

Gains of up to four miles were hacked out in the Ruhr pocket drive from the east, and on the south the 8th infantry division captured Siegen, major enemy strongpoint in that sector.

Seize 30 Robot Bombs

The 7th armored division of the British 2d army, on the rampage for the second successive day, hammered within 20 miles of Bremen in a 15 mile dash from Diepholz. Thirty robot bombs were captured in this area.

Early reports had placed the British within 12 miles of Bremen, but this later was corrected officially to 20 miles. This drive put the British 60 miles southwest of Hamburg.

Another column of this division, wheeling 35 miles northeastward, drove into Buecken, 22 miles southeast of Bremen and a mile and a half from the Weser, knifing thru disorganized resistance.

While Lt. Gen. Dempsey exerted strong pressure on the big U-boat base and shipbuilding center, his 6th air borne division beyond the Weser linked up at Petershagen, seven miles northeast of fallen Minden, and then drove 12 miles east to a point near Sachsenhagen.

The British 11th armored division farther north scored minor advances east of the Weser.

Westward the Germans still fought furiously along the Dortmund-Ems canal line anchored around Lingen, but the British moved their lines up to a point seven miles east of the city.

Nazis Pulling Out

Aerial reconnaissance showed the Germans were pulling out of these strong positions and were falling back on Bremen.

Gen. Crerar's Canadian 1st army, battering three miles north from the captured communications center of Coevorden, fought into Dalen, less than 34 miles south of the only railway line still open to the enemy for retreat from Holland.

The Germans still fought bitterly in Zutphen, where the Canadians after crossing a moat were threatening to break on west across the last 19 miles to the Zuider Zee, which would pin the German garrisons of Amsterdam, Rotterdam, and the Hague against the sea.

Allied Armies Advance on the Western Front

BEVIN REJECTS CHURCHILL BID FOR NEW UNION

LONDON, April 7 [Reuters]—Ernest Bevin, Britain's labor minister, today is believed to have torpedoed any chance of labor leaders accepting Prime Minister Churchill's invitation to labor ministers to join him as individuals in a new all-party administration after labor officially leaves the government at the end of the war in Europe. Bevin unequivocally rejected the prime minister's proposal.

Bevin is said to have been annoyed by Churchill's reference to Labor leaders who did not agree with their followers' demands for nationalization of key industries. Political circles at the time assumed that Churchill had referred to the minister of labor, and that Bevin was the prime minister's chief hope for forming another government with powerful men from all parties.

It is not certain whether Bevin's condemnation of the conservative policy applies only to the election period or whether he might reconsider his position should the election result in no clearcut decision.

INJURED RAILROADER DIES

George Bonitzer, 56, of 8809 Normal av., a signal maintenance man for the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, died in his home yesterday morning after complaining of a back injury which he said he suffered while at work the day before.

NAZI TROOPS IN REAR IN ITALY SHOW SIGNS OF DISCOURAGEMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

CHIASSO, Switzerland, April 7—In Milan, Italy, few German soldiers are seen in the streets, but there are many neo-Fascist uniforms, according to information reaching the border press from Italy. It has been announced that fortifications around the Lombardy capital apparently have not been started or have not advanced. The German commanders are alarmed, but it is not certain whether this is a foreboding of impending defeat or of preparations for coming military operations.

Discouragement already is noticeable among German troops at the rear, and at the front numerous desertions have been reported. Three German officers were court martialed and shot in the Emilian sector of the Appennines for contacting Partisans.

A neo-Fascist broadcast tonight mentioned that the Italian maquis is active in supporting the allied advance to the Tyrrhenian sea, but claimed that the wehrmacht reaction is effective.

CHICAGOANS DIG IN FOR EATS AND DRINKS IN HAMM

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAMM, Germany, April 7 — A number of Chicagoans of the 9th army were in Hamm today, making the most of their stay.

Covered with brown dust and caked over with sweat but happy, they were singing "I Walk Alone" as they filed into cellars of demolished buildings to eat their K rations and drink chlorinated water or any schnapps they had managed to "liberate."

Among the Chicagoans thus happily engaged were Pvt. Harry Gould, 2741 N. Sawyer av.; Pvt. Leonard Sowa, 3752 George St.; Pvt. Milton Kessler, 1927 Peoria st.; Pvt. Irving Gesicke, 2865 McLean av., and Pvt. Joseph Tradzyk, 2129 Haddon av.

"Be sure to tell the folks back home we're winning this war and we'll be home soon unless we get sent to the Pacific," the soldiers, lugging light machine guns, rifles, and bazookas, yelled.

CHINESE CLAIM MAJOR VICTORY; KILL 5,000 JAPS

CHUNGKING, China, April 8 [Sunday]—(AP)—A major Chinese victory in southwestern Honan province was claimed last night by the Chinese high command. A bulletin said counter-attacking Chinese forces killed 5,000 Japanese troops driving for Shensi province, guarding the northern approaches to the Chinese capital. The reported victory was at West Neisiang, on the the Honan-Shensi highway, 25 miles northwest of the great central China city of Hankow.

The high command said the Chinese destroyed 15 Japanese tanks and captured a large quantity of war supplies. "Enemy remnants" were fleeing with the Chinese in pursuit, the Chinese said.

Chinese planes attacking in support of the beseiged defenders of Laohokow, 200 miles northwest of Hankon, the Chinese added.

YANKS REHEARSE AIR WAR ON JAPS IN EUROPE'S SKY

Arnold Hopes for Quick Shift to Pacific

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH THE U. S. 9TH AIR FORCE, Germany, April 7—Gen. Arnold, commander of the United States army air forces, said this afternoon that Hitler no longer controls "a single cubic foot of air over Germany."

"Our planes," he continued, "can fly anywhere, any time they want. We are going to keep on punching military targets and industrial targets. Altho some flattened cities appear to the contrary, we know that we can not destroy all of Germany, but we are going to keep on hitting where it hurts most.

"In the European theater we have developed a technique, close coördination of land and air forces, that can be used against the Japs. We can plan the Jap air war, using European theater types of weapons. When we are finished here we hope to get the air power here into the Pacific as quickly as possible."

Won't Guess on End

Arnold, here in the course of his inspection tour of the western front, declined to guess the length of the war against Germany. He also parried questions regarding how long it will take to move the air forces to the Pacific.

The general said time involved in the transfer is dependent mainly upon construction of more air ports for use against the Nips. He commented that before the move is made America may have captured more Japanese built landing fields.

Arnold, in reply to the popular question of what has become of the German air force, said he was informed that Hitler has as many planes now as during the peak of the Nazi conquest, but that gasoline supplies have been cut to 6 per cent of normal requirements. Oil supplies, he continued, have been cut to 10 per cent of German requirements.

Ground Forces Also Crippled

"Our bombers hit German airports with the German planes unable to get off the ground for want of fuel," said the general. "Owing to the fuel shortage, German ground forces have also been crippled. Twenty-seven German tanks in good condition were recently found abandoned by the enemy because the fuel tanks were empty."

Curtailment of the German fuel supply was credited to the air forces by Arnold. He also said air power had the key role in encirclement of the Ruhr and in recent advances of armored columns far into Germany. He said the Ruhr was isolated before the American armies crossed the Rhine, making it difficult for the Germans to get reënforcements or supplies or to escape.

SWISS BUILDING CAMPS TO MEET NAZI COLLAPSE

ZURICH, Switzerland, April 7 [Reuters]—Switzerland is hastening preparations to meet Germany's collapse. Hundreds of camps are being erected along the country's frontiers, particularly at Kreuzlingen, near Lake Constance, and Buchs, on the Austrian frontier, for housing thousands of foreign workers and war prisoners and "eligible" German refugees, waiting beyond the border.

Entry of individual war criminals is not so much a worry for the Swiss authorities, as the inevitable stampede of fugitives to the Swiss frontier, when the tota German collapse comes.

The Lake Constance district is crammed with "retired" gauleiters, among whom is the notorious Robert Wagner, and other Nazi officials. On Switzerland's southern frontier, prominent Fascists, including Mussolini's wife, Donna Rachele, his son, Vittorio and nephew, Vito, Marshal Graziani.

CZECHS PLEDGE THEY'LL STAND BY SIDE OF REDS

New Regime to Back Soviet Policy

LONDON, April 7 (AP)—The day-old Czechoslovak government pledged itself today to maintain "practical" military, political, economical, and cultural relations with the soviet union.

The declaration of policy was issued thru its London press bureau soon after formation of the new government with left wing factions represented in two key posts.

The announcement also said mobilization of a new Czechoslovak army would continue in the liberated areas of the country, and residents of German occupied areas would be roused to "an all-national struggle against the occupants."

The government is headed by Premier Zdanko Fierlinger, former ambassador to Russia, and includes Communist Vaclav Nosek as internal affairs minister.

"In matters of punishing Germany, in settling Germany's reparations obligations, in setting of new frontiers and in organization of future peace, Czechoslovakia will stand as near as possible at the side of the soviet union and in one row with the other Slav and all democratic countries," it was stated.

The new regime also declared its intention to strengthen relations with Britain, the United States, and France.

It made it clear the regime regarded itself as a provisional government. It said a new cabinet would be formed after complete liberation to prepare for secret elections and the drafting of a new constitution.

GREEK PREMIER OUSTED; NAVAL CHIEF CALLED

ATHENS, Greece, April 7 (AP)—Adm. Petros Voulgaris, head of the Greek navy, was named by the Regent Archbishop Damaskinos today to form a new government succeeding that of Premier Nicholas Plastiras, who was dismissed.

Dismissal of Plastiras climaxed a cabinet crisis which arose when a monarchist newspaper published a letter which it said Plastiras had written in 1941 favoring German intervention to halt the Greek-Italian war.

Adm. Voulgaris has been prominent in the navy since the World war, when he joined forces with the Venizelos revolutionary movement in 1917. He is credited with having halted the Greek naval mutiny at Alexandria, Egypt, in 1944.

PEACE IN EAST UP TO RUSSIA, SAYS JAP RADIO

San Francisco, Cal., April 7 (AP)—Russia's abrogation of the Russo-Japanese neutrality pact does not mean Japan's "attitude of neutrality remains unchanged," a Tokyo radio political commentator asserted tonight.

"In the Soviet reorientation of its policy in the east," he added, "will depend the establishment of a strong and stable peace or conquest and turmoil for years to come."

The speaker, identified as Toshiro Shimonouchi, ascribed Russia's action to its "military and political comeback in Europe."

YANKS CAPTURE 3,000 FOOT PEAK IN ITALY DRIVE

ROME, April 7 (AP)—American 5th army troops have captured 3,000 ft. Monte Folgorito, dominating the main west coast highway one mile southeast of Massa, in a drive putting them 19½ miles from the naval base of La Spezia, a bulletin announced today. Two British destroyers, Marne and Lookout, and swarms of American fighter bombers supported the operation. The destroyers hurled shells into German artillery positions and silenced some batteries.

At the eastern end of the Italian line, the British 8th army troops drove across the Reno river northwest of San Alberto, near the southwest corner of Valli di Comacchio.

The two actions, anchoring more firmly the two sea flanks, already have brought in more than 2,000 prisoners. Most of the prisoners were taken on the 8th army front.

Dutch to Build Merchant Fleet to Pre-War Size

LONDON, April 7 (AP)—The Netherlands, which lost half of its 3 million ton merchant fleet in the war, is placing orders for materials and machinery to rebuild to a pre-war status, it was learned today. The orders are being placed in Britain, Belgium, Switzerland, and Sweden.

PIED PIPER CITY GETS 'PIE EYED' AS G. I.s MOVE IN

Sober Ones Inform on Local Nazis

HAMELIN, Germany, April 7 (AP)—Yanks of the 30th division entered Hamelin today and found a good proportion of the population of the Pied Piper city were drunk.

Those who were not drunk were running around informing on the local Nazis, looting their neighbors' shattered homes, or fawning on the Americans.

The only places of sanity found in this picturesque town of fairy tale fame were a dozen hospitals filled with German soldiers and a handful of allied wounded, including an American aviator.

The city had been by-passed by the 2d armored [Hell on Wheels] division, which in a week has overrun 26 German army hospitals, the largest holding 3,000 patients at Bad Prymont.

Most Vote for Peace

Most of the big shot Nazis had departed when the Americans arrived in Hamelin, which is pretty well battered by American artillery fire. The residents said the Germans held a vote before the Americans attacked and a majority of the civilians wanted to give up, but a few diehards kept on fighting.

In the last three days the civilians had looted almost everything they could get their hands on.

When the Americans showed up the civilians immediately busied themselves trying to get the Yanks to arrest their favorite enemies as Nazis.

"They were all crying and squealing on one another," said Capt. William W. Drucker, Oak Harbor, O., whose company was one of the first to enter the town.

Round Up 1,000 Soldiers

First into the city hall was Col. Walter Johnson, Butte, Mont. His 117th infantry, which entered the city without a casualty, rounded up almost 1,000 German soldiers as they moved thru the town toward the city hall.

Lt. Alfred Shull, Arlington, Tex., said prisoners were taken out of almost every house as the civilians rushed about pointing out where German soldiers had taken hiding.

One Nazi official taken by the 30th tried to hang himself but was restrained. Another shot himself to death when G. I.'s went to arrest him.

Among the Yanks who took Hamelin were Pvt. Leroy Vieth, 2903 Belden av., Chicago, and Sgt. Don Breeding, Macomb, Ill.

GIVE UP! NAZI PRISONERS IN U. S. URGE GERMANY

Radio Plea Asks End of Sacrifice

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP)—An appeal by German prisoners of war in the United States to German soldiers and people to "put down your weapons immediately" is being broadcast to the reich.

The war department made public the text of the message tonight, saying the "petition was signed voluntarily by 1,391 of the 3,102 German prisoners of war" held at Fort Devens, Mass.

The peace appeal was addressed by the prisoners to "the German soldiers and workers, German men and women."

"Victories" Termed Myth.

"Listen to us, German brothers, comrades of the armed forces, women, and workers," the message said in part. "Be not blind facing the danger of a frightful end, about which Hitler is trying to deceive you by telling you tales of secret weapons.

"Only recently Hitler made you promises of victories. Are you still believing anything like that? Only now, the Red army is carrying its mightiest offensive into the heart of Germany. In the west Rundstedt's Belgian offensive is smashed and armies of the United States of America and Great Britain, restored, move on to overrun the west wall.

"Germany, our homeland, has now itself become just what its own armies made out of other countries—theaters of war operations. These are the conditions after 12 years of the Hitler regime!

"Suicide for Germany"

"In view of catastrophe which is daily gaining momentum, you will be called up on by the guilty ones for defense to the last. Do you know what that means? That means death! Mobilization of the entire people, insufficiently equipped—Everybody a front trooper; children, women, cripples, and old people are given rifles or spades and are instigated, egged on, to their own destruction.

"That means suicide for Germany. The guilty ones, fearing the day of settlement, are determined in a frantic manner to force the people into self-destruction.

"War of defense? Why? Was Germany ever attacked? Germany was not attacked, but Hitler attacked other nations, invaded foreign soils. Now these nations call the guilty to an account. If you continue to fight, you defend those guilty of this war in Germany.

War "Mad from Beginning."

"You are not fighting for your native land, but for Hitler, Himmler, Goering, Goebbels, Ley, Koeckner, Krupp, and accomplices — the Nazi regime. Are you willing to sacrifice yourselves for that; to sacrifice your wives and children?

"The continuation of this combat, which was mad from the beginning, brings us only closer to the total destruction of our homeland, our native country; the bleeding to death of our people. The German nation is not Hitler! The German people are you and we.

"Therefore, put down your weapons immediately! Stop the war, surrender! Do not let the SS chase you out of your dwellings. Let the battle roll on. Hide yourselves!

Future Seen for Germany.

"Listen to us! Germans are speaking who have gone thru many battles. We know that the allied nations can well differentiate between the Nazis and the German people.

"There is a future for us, but it must be without Hitler."

The signers of the petition said they were prisoners from the fighting fronts in Africa, Sicily, Italy, and Normandy.

REPORTS NAZI INDUSTRY COULD RECOVER FAST

FRANKFURT ON THE MAIN, April 7 (AP)—Dr. Rudhard Duisberg, manager of Industrie und Handels Kammer, now coöperating with the allied military government here, said today that German industry could make a quick recovery after the war if the allies permitted it. "The destruction undoubtedly is vast," he said, "but buildings can be replaced and German ideas and enterprise have not been destroyed."

Duisberg estimated that 30 per cent of German industry had been destroyed by the war.

W. C. Boehnert, who was an official of the I. G. Farben enterprises and who now advises the American military government, said German industry of late had become vastly complicated. Great plants made parts of various weapons and the parts were assembled elsewhere.

Baron Munchausen Castle Won by 2d Armored Unit

WITH THE U. S. 2D ARMORED DIVISION, April 7 (AP)—The 2d armored division has captured Baron Munchausen castle, where the legend of the Munchausen tales is said to have started. The first book of Munchausen stories was written in 1875 by Rudolf Erich Raspe, who had become acquainted in Goettingen with Freiherr von Munchausen of Bodenwerder, teller of amusing tales of his prowess as soldier and sportsman. Bodenwerder is 12 miles southeast of Hamelin.

Berlin Cancels All Coal Rations for Home Heating

LONDON, April 7 (AP) — All coal rations for domestic heating in Berlin have been canceled, the German Transocean news agency announced today. The decree followed yesterday's order cutting off the gas supply to the reich capital's homes and instituting a "further drastic reduction" in electricity.

3 CHICAGO YANKS NAMED IN PHOTO OF NAZI CAMP

A wire photo showing allied prisoners outside a camp near Limburg, Germany, published in yesterday's TRIBUNE, elicited calls from several Chicagoans who said they identified men in the picture as their sons or husbands.

Mrs. Joseph A. Renaldi, 10742 Calumet av., said that a soldier in the center of the group appears to be her son, Corp. Joseph A. Renaldi Jr., 21, crew chief on a B-26. He was declared missing since Dec. 23, and Mrs. Renaldi has not heard from him since Dec. 13.

Another identification was made by Mrs. Charles C. Luecht, 2315 S. California av., who believes that a man in the same photograph is her husband, Pvt. Charles C. Luecht, declared missing since Jan. 2. She received a war department telegram yesterday informing her that he is a prisoner of the Germans. He was with a medical unit attached to the 71st infantry.

Corp. Robert Peterson's wife, 3745 W. Eddy st., also believes that one of the men pictured is her husband, 21, who was with the 28th division of the field artillery. Corp Peterson was declared missing since Dec. 18.

SON, 16, REPORTED MISSING
Frank Boldin, 9718 Exchange av., yesterday asked police to search for his son, Frank Jr., 16, who has been missing since Friday.

Count's Estate Seized but No One Will Work

FUERSTENBURG, Germany, April 7 (AP)—Foreign laborers liberated from the Nazi yoke by the eastward sweep of the 1st army have seized the fertile acres of Count Metternich, Hitler's curator of arts, and set up the first little communist community in western Germany.

Poles, Russians, and Czechs took over running of the rich feudal estate with the white haired Count and Countess Metternich virtual prisoners in their own castle.

Metternich, professor of history and arts at the University of Bonn, needed laborers at his four huge estates near here when the war started. Thru the Nazi labor office he obtained approximately 1,000 men and women who were put in charge of overseers.

Merely Called Gestapo

The count, himself, had little time to oversee his farms. If any worker became unruly all Metternich had to do was to call in the Gestapo and have him removed to a concentration camp. If the workers didn't like their filthy quarters in the barns or became sullen because the food they ate was not the rich fare enjoyed by the German overseers and workers, it was just too bad.

Then the Americans came and 250 workers on one 250 acre farm decided their lives should be changed. The Russians' officer assumed the title of commissar and with a Polish officer demanded all keys from the overseer. The overseer fled in fear to Capt. Erhard Dabringhaus of Roseville, Mich.

"The Poles and Russians are going to kill us all," he cried.

Dabringhaus found that a communist center had been set up. The workers were having steaks three times a day or as many times as they wished. There was plenty of milk and the farm's food stores had become community property.

"It was a like a movie," Dabringhaus said. "There were steaks broiling all day long. Workers released from other farms have joined this community and the doors are not barred to any one who wants food and shelter."

No Longer Fear Stick

The Russian and the Pole now are running the show—but the major difficulty is that no one wants to go back to work. The overseer no longer has authority and the workers no longer fear the stick he carried. So the Russian and Dabringhaus sought to make them see the wisdom of returning to their jobs until such time as they could be returned to their homes.

The Russian confided to Dabringhaus, "I'm no more a commissar than you are, but they will listen to me if I call myself the commissar."

This state of affairs will not last for long, however, for sooner or later the military government will begin sending these displaced persons back to clearing centers for return to their homes.

Superbomber for R. A. F. Attacks on Japan Built

LONDON, April 7 (AP)—A British bomber of the same class as the American Super Fortress is being built for R. A. F. attacks on Japan, the London Daily Mail said today. The newspaper said first news of the plane was given yesterday by Roy Dobson, managing director of A. V. Roe, Ltd., makers of the Lancasters which now are dropping 11 ton bombs on Germany.

NORWAY PLEADS FOR SWEDEN TO COME TO RESCUE

Report 200,000 Nazis Plan Last Stand

LONDON, April 7 (AP)—The Norwegian government, declaring that a Nazi force of approximately 200,000 would make a "last desperate stand" in Norway, appealed today to Sweden to drop its neutrality and rescue "what can be saved" of Norway.

"The general feeling in Norway," a statement issued by the royal Norwegian government said, "seems to be that the war against the Germans has reached the stage where neutrality has become a mere, empty word, that both the Swedish people and the government are in fact aware of their moral responsibilities and are prepared to assist in saving what can be saved."

A Swedish bulletin issued yesterday said a Swedish-Norwegian volunteer association had been granted permission to train 200 of its volunteers at Swedish military establishments. The bulletin gave no further details about the "Volunteers for Norway" movement.

Norway "Easy to Defend."

The statement of the Norwegian government said the Germans were bringing heavy guns and other war material into Norway, sending in ammunition by air, increasing the number of fortified U-boat pens, improving their air fields, and stocking up supplies of gasoline.

The statement declared that Norway with its mountains and fjords was "easy to defend and fortification work is going on today in Norway on similar lines to those which have been reported from the Bavarian Alps. It is also known that the Germans all over the country have planned destruction on the most extensive scale."

The statement added that Norwegian economy already had suffered a hard blow in the loss of the greater part of its merchant navy, and "if the Germans are allowed to carry out their plans the economic destruction of Norway will be practically irreparable."

Report Torture Increases

The statement, which followed Foreign Secretary Eden's message yesterday to Norway that their hour of liberation was nearing, contended that the approach of the end "seems in no way to have weakened the cruelty of the Gestapo."

"The number of arrests is increasing," it was stated. "Never before have so many Norwegians been German prisoners as now, and all reports also confirm that torture is being increased. There is also a growing fear in Norway that hostages are being taken to be used by the Germans as a means of bar gaining."

REVERSE LEND-LEASE FILLS 75 PCT. OF U. S. DRUG NEEDS IN BRITAIN

LONDON, April 7 (AP)—Three-fourths of the American army's total medical requirements in Britain, ranging from artificial eyes to 78 tons of bicarbonate of soda, were received from England under reverse lend-lease in a two year period, it was disclosed today.

A report of the ministry of production summarized the orders filled for the Americans between July, 1942, and July, 1944.

The supplies included 20,000,000 aspirin tablets and enough bandages to go three times around the world. British technicians trained American dental technicians and every American hospital in Britain has been equipped to make artificial eyes from plastics. All agar used to come from Japan, but when the United States forces asked for 36 tons of it British scientists obtained it from seaweed on England's coast.

British Give $36,000,000 to Soviet Red Cross

LONDON, April 7 (AP)—British aid to the soviet Red Cross has exceeded $36,000,000, the Moscow radio said today. The figure was revealed yesterday when Mrs. Winston Churchill, wife of Britain's prime minister, attended a meeting of officers of the union of Red Cross and Red Crescent societies in Moscow.

NAVY'S RETIRED OFFICERS TO BE LET OUT BY JAN. 1

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP)—Substantially all retired officers on active duty in the navy will have been released to inactive status by the first of next year, the navy disclosed today.

An official letter from Vice Adm. Jacobs, chief of navy personnel, said the officer personnel situation in the navy had improved to such an extent that by next July 1 most of the retired officers "may be considered as available for release to inactive duty."

The current rate of release will be "sharply increased," Adm. Jacobs said, until substantially all will have been released by Jan. 1. Exceptions will be made only in the case of medical officers who continue fit for active duty.

SPRING FEVER SENDS AUDUBON GROUP TO WOODS

Flower, Bird Aristocrats Greet Nature Hikers

More than 100 members of the Illinois Audubon society, opening their fourth annual series of nature walks, yesterday visited the forest preserves and found a colorful setting of flowers and trees advanced by spring weather that has shattered records of 75 years' standing.

The sudden upsurge of spring plants, which bloom as soon as their heads are lifted, is a race with the leafy bower overhead, Robert Mann, superintendent of conservation, forest preserve district, explained. The plants must bloom and set seed before the shade becomes dense.

Flower Beauties in Bloom

That's what nature is doing in Thatcher woods, the peaceful rolling acres west of the city which the hikers visited yesterday. Already spring beauties, hepatica, bloodroot, adder's tongue, and rue anemone cover the ground with delicate colors, and patches of white toothwroth are abundant. Red trillium, or wake robin, is coming into bloom and even the Virginia bluebell is unrolling its pink and lavender buds.

Blossoms of the wild plum made a lacework pattern in the dark woods and the chartreuse buds of the trees turned into a deeper green with the imminence of the noon day sun. Over the half concealed winding paths the nature enthusiasts followed Mrs. Theron Wasson, 600 Thatcher av., River Forest, and her assistants thru the preserve.

Aristocrats of Birdland

Notebooks flourished as interesting items were jotted down. . . . Yellow bellied sapsucker, only member of the woodpecker family to spend time persistently tapping live trees. It sometimes clings for hours on the side of a tree sipping sweet sap thru the hole it bored. . . . Fox sparrow, aristocrat of the species. . . . Song sparrow, nature's optimist, which sings every day of the year. . . . Belted Kingfisher, the high diver of birdland. It swoops down over rivers and lakes to catch its food. . . . Brown creeper, curious little climber of trees, whose call of "tseeps" is emitted with regularity.

Euphoria is the word the psychologist would use to describe the sense of bouyancy and well being that permeated the Boy Scouts, housewives, and nature lovers who participated in the walk thru the forest. But to a reporter not usually given to more than meterological consideration of the seasons or weather, it was plain spring fever.

FREE SPENDING LOOP VISITOR'S CHECKS BOUNCE

Raul Hardin, 35, introduced himself to Margaret Marais, manager of the Brown Derby, 104 S. Wabash av., two weeks ago and at once made it his favorite spot. Every day since then, until yesterday, he cashed a check for $30 to $50 and spent most of it over the bar. He arrived yesterday just after Miss Marais had opened a letter from the Paris, Edgar county, bank on which all the checks were drawn. It contained the first four of the two weeks' series and they were marked no account. Hardin had his check for yesterday already written, said Policemen James Hoey and James Tully of the 1st district, who came in response to Miss Marais' phone call.

GARDEN GROUP TOLD HOW TO INCREASE YIELD

All Day Forum Held in Loop Hotel

Three hundred members of the Chicago Horticultural Society and Garden Center met at an all-day forum yesterday in the La Salle hotel.

Prospective producers of vegetable in urban and suburban garden plots, they gathered to receive advice on how to get the largest yield from their ual gardens. Soil enrichment, garden planning, and the eradication of garden pests and weeds came in for a large share of attention.

Soil Needs Told

Lee A. Somers, assistant professor of vegetable gardening at the University of Illinois, told the gardeners during the morning session that soil lacking the right proportions of nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash can thwart the best war gardening intentions. Leafy vegetables need the nitrogen, he said. Vegetables of which the storage portion is eaten, such as carrots and beets, require potash, and varieties whose reproductive portions go to the dinner table, such as snap beans and peas, need soil rich in phorphorus.

Prof. Somers cautioned the gardeners to make a garden plan on paper, to prepare the seed bed properly, to plant according to the vegetable's climactic needs, and to respect the plant's growing habits by giving the seed proper depth, the row the right width, and taking care not to overplant. One seed will do where enthusiastic gardeners usually plant 25, he warned.

Keep Up Weeding

"One of the greatest mistakes war gardeners make," Prof. Somers said, "is to let their weeding enthusiasm wane when the fish begin to bite. Keep up the weeding," he told his audience, "well into the summer months."

Other speakers included Mayor Kelly, who praised the Chicago gardening program as an aid to the prosecution of the war; Frank McFarland and R. Milton Carleton, who discussed soils and fertilizers for home gardeners, and Dr. J. A. McClintock, professor of horticulture at Purdue university, La Fayette, Ind., who described the uses of insecticides.

The society, founded in 1890, was revived at yesterday's forum, which was the first of a planned annual series. C. Eugene Pfister is president.

JUDGE CONCURS, BUT ALSO KEEPS REMINDER HANDY

Judge J. M. Braude of Boys' court yesterday explained the reason for the sign, "Keep Your Mouth Shut," which faces his bench. "A good judge," he said, "is one who listens and doesn't talk too much." That, the judge said, is the reason for the sign, which is not meant for the public. The idea was introduced in 1941 when Judge Edward S. Scheffler, chief justice of the Municipal court, took office. He introduced the practise and had a similar sign on his bench.

NAME SEN. MEAD JEFFERSON DAY SPEAKER HERE

Sen. James Mead [D., N. Y.] chairman of the special war investigating committee of the senate, will be the principal speaker at the Jefferson day meeting of Illinois Democrats in the Stevens' hotel grand ballroom on April 13.

The Chicago meeting, one of scores to be held that night thruout the country to raise funds for the 1946 Democratic congressional campaign, will be open to the public at $25 a plate, Mayor Kelly announced. Arrangements have been made for 2,000 to attend the dinner.

Sen. Mead will speak immediately following the broadcast of President Roosevelt's address from 8:30 to 9 p. m., CWT, at the $100 a plate banquet in the national capital.

BUFFALO STEAK! FARMER CASHES IN ON WILD IDEA

many tribulations captured and slaughtered 32 animals, which he shipped directly to New York. He also rounded up two dozen more and shipped them back alive to his farm.

Learn to Eat Corn

"I brought them here as an experimental herd," he explained. "I found it took a lot of patience to domesticate them, but they finally learned that corn was good to eat. Of course they had never eaten anything except range grass. When they start to eat corn, however, they can outeat any cattle that ever lived.

"They fattened up nicely, and before I went west this time I butchered them and sent them to New York. I kept them in barns during the winter but they were too wild to be shut in and I had to leave the doors open. Many of them would go outside at night to sleep in the snow."

Butters has now obtained all the buffalos to which he was entitled by his deal with the Indian service. An estimated 40 buffalos were left on the reservation in accordance with a government agreement with the Sioux tribe, which needs a continuing source of supply for its annual buffalo feast.

Indians Help in Roundup

He hired Indians to help him with the roundup, he said, first constructing a corral. The animals were then trucked overland to Grand Island, Neb., where they were placed aboard cars for the 1,000 mile trip to Coldwater.

"I don't regret a bit of it," Butters commented. "I've already learned it costs a lot more to raise buffalo than any other kind of meat, but as long as I can get premium prices I've got a good business." He expects his present herd will produce about 100 animals for slaughter each year.

MINERS' PARLEY REVIVES HOPE OF ENDING STRIKE

Confer After Threats of Seizure by U. S.

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP)—Soft coal producers and miners agreed suddenly today that chances are good they can settle their wage dispute without government intervention.

Chairman Ezra Van Horn of the conference of operators and the United Mine Workers told reporters "we have the belief" that a contract can be agreed to Monday. Van Horn is an operator.

K. C. Adams of the UMW Journal said in a statement on behalf of John L. Lewis, union president:

"Mr. Lewis shares . . . the optimistic prophecies. He feels, like Mr. Van Horn, that the industry should of its own accord adjudicate its controversies."

Letter Sent to WLB

The conference sent a letter to the war labor board saying much the same thing as Van Horn's statement to the press. The letter spoke of a belief that "it may be possible by Monday night, April 9, to reach an agreement, at least in principle, on all controversial points."

It promised the WLB that the conference would advise "not later than Monday evening whether or not an agreement has been reached."

If the controversy is not settled soon, the WLB is prepared to move in on the dispute. Today's developments, however, took immediate emphasis off prospects that the government might seize idle coal mines. The solid fuels administration estimated that the wave of unauthorized strikes since Sunday has cost the country more than a million tons of coal in Pennsylvania alone.

The old contract expired a week ago tonight but Lewis agreed to a 30 day extension. For more than five weeks the operators and miners have been negotiating for a new one.

Seizure Asked by Ickes.

Interior Secretary Ickes, as solid fuels administrator, called in midweek for immediate seizure of the mines, without waiting to see whether the disputants can get together.

Today's developments followed the recent trend of up-and-down maneuvers.

The operators, after first deciding to stay away from this morning negotiations and to submit the case, as stalemated, to the WLB, changed their minds and attended. They decided to send a letter to the board instead.

Gloomy predictions were quickly reversed by this statement from Van Horn:

"At our meeting this morning, three subcommittees were appointed to deal with technical questions under consideration. They reported back and all reported progress.

Recess Until Monday

"We are sending a letter to the war labor board in lieu of the meeting [with the WLB] this afternoon. We recessed the conference until 11 a. m. Monday.

"The three subcommittees will continue in session and report back at that time and we have the belief that a contract can be concluded."

Lewis already had summoned the UMW's 250 man policy committee to meet here Monday. In event the negotiations reach an agreement, the committee could pass on it immediately.

Assailed by N. A. M. Head

There was no information as to whether Lewis, or the operators, or both had backed down from their former stand. The operators had opposed most of 18 wage demands submitted by Lewis, expressing particular opposition to one for a union royalty of 10 cents for each ton of coal mined.

This idea was assailed today by Ira Mosher, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, as one which could cost the public near 3 billion dollars a year if extended to all articles made by union labor. Mosher issued a statement in New York.

UNION TO ASK DODGE TO REHIRE LAID OFF VETS

Joseph Mattson, regional director of the United Automobile Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers' union [CIO], said yesterday that he had addressed a telegram to the Chrysler corporation requesting a meeting with the management with a view to the reinstatement of war veterans recently laid off by the Dodge-Chicago company. Mattson said the company's policy of dismissing veterans was not necessary because the plant employs more than 5,000 probationary workers with less than six months' service. He said he also would demand the veterans receive back pay for the time lost by the lay-off.

Frenchman Who Betrayed Paratrooper Must Die

VERSAILLES, France, April 7 (AP).—A French court administered swift justice today to two Frenchmen who betrayed four British parachute troopers for a small sum of money. The Frenchmen spotted the British soldiers near a railroad station and notified the Germans, receiving the equivalent of $40 apiece after the Germans had shot three of the parachutists. One Frenchman was sentenced to death, the other to 20 years at hard labor.

CURB TRAVELING TO CHILDREN'S SUMMER CAMPS

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP)—Curtailment of rail travel facilities and limitation of special bus service to and from children's summer camps was announced today by the office of defense transportation.

Camp directors were advised to spread transportation needs over a longer period of time. Parents were requested to choose a camp near home and to forego visits. No special trains or extra sections will be authorized for camp transportation, ODT said, nor will special bus service be permitted unless approved by the office of community war services.

Daily bus service for war workers' children under 12 in day care summer camps will be permitted, ODT said, providing at least two-thirds of the parents are thus enabled to continue essential war jobs, if other supervised recreational programs for children are inadequate, if the day care is recognized by a responsible welfare agency, and if the transportation applications are approved.

RED CROSS DRIVE NEARS ITS GOAL; GIVEN $10,912,054

Martin H. Kennelly, chairman of the Chicago area Red Cross War Fund campaign, yesterday announced that $10,912,054 of the area's quota of $11,300,000 has been reached, leaving only 4 per cent of the quota still to be collected.

Substantial subscriptions still are coming in, he said.

Kennelly reported that four units of the drive have gone over their goals. These include the United States naval establishments, with 142 per cent; governmental agencies, with 111.5; United States army departments, with 115.2, and the county communities division, with 106.1.

OKINAWA YANKS RUN INTO STRONG JAP PILLBOXES

7th Division Attacks to Take Air Fields

BY HAROLD SMITH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH THE 7TH INFANTRY DIVISION ON OKINAWA, April 7—Assault units of this division resumed their attack southward along Okinawa's east coast this morning against greatly stiffened Japanese resistance.

The 32d regiment's thrust, carried by the 2d battalion, encountered the least resistance, but was held up by the slow progress of the 184th regiment, in high ground to the right, which encountered numerous enemy blockhouses, pillboxes, and other strong points in tortuous terrain studded with volcanic rock outcroppings forming formidable natural defenses.

The entire division front was under heavy and accurate Jap artillery and mortar fire thruout the day, as was the division driving down the west coast.

Three Airstrips Ahead

Yonabaru airstrip, partially constructed by the enemy, is now directly in the path of the 32d and about 2,500 yards ahead. It is one of three air fields still held by the Japs in the southern sector. All three have been within range of our artillery and are unusable.

Despite powerful enemy fortifications, aided by excellent artillery observation and easily defended ground, our over-all casualties for this division are only about one-third of the counted enemy dead so far. This is attributable, in large part, to the numerical strength and accuracy of our artillery.

Civilians Flowing In

Okinawa civilians, now flowing rearward in ever increasing numbers, are a big problem. Our attitude toward them is one of sternness but humanity, yet it's usually difficult to persuade them to come out of hiding. They hole up in caves and in hillside tombs, where many seem determined to die, but hunger, thirst, and persuasion eventually draw them forth.

On this overpopulated isle, these poor and despised cousins of the Japs have lived at a bare subsistence level for many years. Their robelike garments are patched over patches, and the treasures they bore into the hills when they evacuated their homes would get scarcely a glance from an American junk dealer.

Marines Gain 2 Miles

GUAM, April 8 [Sunday]—(AP)—Marines of the 3d amphibious corps advanced almost two miles northward along both coasts of Okinawa yesterday against negligible resistance, but army doughboys ran into stiff resistance from entrenched Japanese in their push toward Naha, the island capital, Adm. Nimitz announced today.

The troops in the south were moving thru hard terrain in which the enemy is fortified in extensive trenches, blockhouses, and pillboxes, the admiral said. He made no mention of the extent of the soldiers' gains.

The Japanese made a small scale aerial attack on the ground troops yesterday. Twelve attackers were downed. Nothing was said as to whether they inflicted any damage.

British Bomb Islands

The marines continued their northward push on the Ishikawa isthmus. By noon they had advanced to the vicinity of Naga town on the west coast and to Ora bay on the east coast.

British carrier planes operating 300 miles to the south hit air fields and other installations on Ishigaki and Miyako in the Saki Islands, southernmost of the Ryukyus. British pilots shot down five Japanese planes and destroyed three more on the ground.

A Japanese bulletin broadcast by Tokyo radio admitted the American troops advancing on Naha had reached "a line south of Oyama, Shinoushi, and Arakaki" and said: "At present the outlook of the war situation does not permit of any optimism whatsoever."

Conquer Hill Positions

WITH THE U. S. 24TH ARMY CORPS, Okinawa, April 8 [Sunday]—(AP)—Infantrymen supported by tanks and artillery and naval gunfire conquered strong Japanese hill positions today in their advance on southern Okinawa toward Naha and its air fields.

The Yanks' advance against artillery, mortar and machine gun positions, some of them in natural caves on ridge tops, was slow. The Japanese had some new tricks.

On the east coast the 7th infantry division advanced 2,000 yards yesterday to occupy the town of Tsuwa, and field reports told of the 184th regiment's bitter fight to capture four blockhouses used by the enemy on a ridge top where 175 Japanese were killed.

The Nipponese used jack-in-the-box infiltration methods, remaining in caves until the Americans had passed and then emerging at night to strike the Yanks' rear. This trick brought death to hundreds of the enemy.

ARMY OF 50,000 JAPS SHATTERED IN BURMA DRIVE

Two Others Mauled, British Report

CALCUTTA, India, April 7 (AP)—The Japanese 15th army in central Burma, officially estimated three weeks ago at 50,000 men, "no longer exists as an effective fighting force," a southeast Asia bulletin said today. A headquarters spokesman said two other Japanese armies, the 27th and 28th, were severely mauled in attempts to rush relief.

"There are no organized Japanese forces" left inside the Mandalay-Meiktila pocket, the announcement said.

The bulletin, stating that the 15th army was defeated in one of the "greatest victories" of Adm. Mountbatten's command, added that the British 14th army had won mastery of the battlefield in the last few weeks in "an intensive killing match." The bulletin was issued by Lt. Gen. Leese's headquarters.

17,000 Bodies Counted

It was announced that 17,000 Japanese bodies had been counted on the central Burma battlefields to March 31.

"What is left of the Japanese divisions which opposed our advance in central Burma," the spokesman said, "are attempting to withdraw at night thru our lines toward the hills southeast of Mandalay and south of Meiktila.

Armor Slaughters Foe

"Our armored columns, which have been mopping up in the pocket, reported a merry slaughter and are retaining the initiative.

"Some Japanese will succeed in filtering thru our lines and will attempt to regroup outside our net, but they will lack guns and wheeled vehicles and heavy equipment of all descriptions."

succeeded in either sinking or damaging several enemy warships, including battleships, cruisers and other types." The enemy broadcaster claimed three United States aircraft carriers had been sunk or damaged.

No mention was made of the six ships sunk by American airmen yesterday and today or the 391 planes shot down during the same period.

A sister ship of the Yamato, the Musashi, was sunk in the battle of Leyte gulf in the Philippines last October. The Yamato was reported damaged last month in a United States carrier force raid on Japan's inland sea naval bases.

GREAT BLOW TO JAPAN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

In the sinking of the 45,000 ton Yamato, Japan has lost more than a great battleship. The name Yamato has a deep, almost religious significance for the Japanese.

Japanese battleships are named for the provinces of ancient Japan. These names do not appear on most maps, since the old provinces have given way to modern prefectures. But they are treasured in Japanese literature and culture.

Empire Founded There

Yamato was in the peninsula just south of Osaka. It was there, according to legend, that the first emperor, Jimmu, founded the Japanese empire in 660 B. C. From Yamato the ancestors of the modern Japanese apparently spread out to conquer the rest of the islands.

Yamato therefore is the ancient name for Japan itself. The Japanese call themselves the Yamato race, and impute to the name all the material virtues they believe themselves to possess. When the Yamato's loss is known to the Japanese people it is bound to have a great depressing effect.

B-29S AND FIGHTERS BAG 173 JAP PLANES IN BOMBING TOKYO

GUAM, April 8 [Sunday]—(AP)—American B-29s and their P-51 escorts destroyed or damaged 173 Japanese fighter planes in their 300 plane bombing of Tokyo and Nagoya yesterday, air force officials disclosed today.

The Super Forts, running into the greatest aerial battle of their many attacks on Japan's war-important centers, alone destroyed or damaged 136 enemy fighters. The P-51 Mustangs, making the army's first land based fighter sweep over the Japanese homeland, accounted for 37 interceptors. Of these, 21 were shot down, six probably destroyed and 10 damaged.

The combined bag was 57 more than the B-29s old record of 116, made over Tokyo Jan. 27. Five Super Fortresses and two Mustangs were lost as the Americans ran into intense anti-aircraft fire.

WOUNDED YANKS FROM IWO JIMA REACH CHICAGO

The first group of wounded sailors and marines from Iwo Jima to reach Chicago arrived last night at the Great Lakes Naval Training center hospital. The group included 200 marines and 105 sailors from the Southwest Pacific, virtually all of whom saw action on or near Iwo Jima. The greater part of yesterday's arrivals were ambulatory cases—able to walk into the hospital under their own power, but suffering from arm or other wounds which incapacitate them for service.

YANKS GAIN 30 MI. ON NEGROS; SEIZE AIR FIELDS

Conquest of Mindanao Is Virtually Complete

MANILA, April 8 [Sunday]—(AP)—Doughboys of the 41st division virtually have completed conquest of southern Mindanao, Gen. MacArthur announced today. On Negros Island elements of the 40th division advanced 30 miles, capturing two air fields in their sweep. They now hold all seven of Negros' air fields, Gen. MacArthur announced.

The far eastern air force, maintaining its daily devastation schedule, blasted Formosa's Kiirun shipping base with 114 tons of bombs and poured 87 more onto Hong Kong's Kowloon dock.

Clouds prevented estimates of damage at Kiirun. At Kowloon bombs created explosions and fires in an electric power plant and a large building in the supply area.

A 3,000 ton freighter and several smaller freighters were damaged by other bombers ranging the South China sea. Two other small vessels were sunk east of Formosa.

Smash Jap Cruiser

Medium bombers found a Japanese light cruiser in Soemba strait in the lesser Sundas and scored two direct hits. MacArthur said the warship was either sunk or heavily damaged. Other Philippines based aircraft strafed and bombed Nipponese shipping in the Macassar straits and the Celebes.

On the ground MacArthur reported that Maj. Gen. Jens A. Doe's 41st division troops have counted 2,297 Japanese dead and taken 59 prisoners in their capture of the Zamboanga sector of southern Luzon. American casualties there were 131 killed, two missing, and 533 wounded, MacArthur said.

Total Japanese casualties in the Philippines campaign thus were brought in official reports to 310,000, with American losses at slightly more than 30,000—a 10 to 1 ratio.

MacArthur said remnants of the Zamboanga Japanese "have been scattered and disintegrated into the mountains north of Moroc."

Take All 7 Air Fields

The 30 mile advance on Negros was made by armored units of Maj. Gen. Rapp Brush's 40th division, which swept thru Alicanta and Carolina airdromes to the Himugaan river at Fabrica and reached the northern coastal plain.

On Cebu, Maj. Gen. William H. Arnold's Americal division continued its "systematic destruction" of Japanese positions north of Guadalupe.

On southern Luzon, the 14th corps liberated many towns and villages in a sweep south and east of Laguna province and Brig. Gen. Hanford McNider's 158th regimental combat team is maintaining pressure on Japanese in mountain positions.

Oak Park M. P. Risks Life to Save Belgian Children

Pvt. R. P. Dunn, 734 Carpenter av., Oak Park, saved two small children from being run over by an army truck in Belgium when he was on duty as a military policeman. A letter from his commanding officer citing his heroism was forwarded by the soldier to his wife last week. It stated he had risked his own life and "undoubtedly" saved the lives of the children.

Meets Mom in Pacific

WAC Pvt. Mabel Ringer of Chicago, and son, Sgt. Edward, in Pacific.

Most soldiers in the South Pacific face a trip of several thousand miles when they start out to see Mom during their furlough. Things weren't so tough, tho, when Sgt. Edward Ringer, 23, of 2647 Division st., got a 14 day leave. He just wandered around New Guinea for a while and bumped into Mom—who is Pvt. Mabel Ringer of the WAC—right there on the spot.

The records don't show whether Mom baked Eddie an apple pie right then and there, but they show that Mrs. Ringer was glad to see her son after two years.

Pvt. Ringer—who is 46—was a government telephone operator here before she got lonesome for Ed and another son, William, 25, who has been in the coast guard for several years and is now in the Pacific, too. She joined the WAC in February, 1944, and asked for an overseas assignment. She got it last December—and she made her dream come true. Her sister, Mrs. Charles Brammer, lives at the Division st. address, and receives a letter every week from the mother who went to war to see her boys.

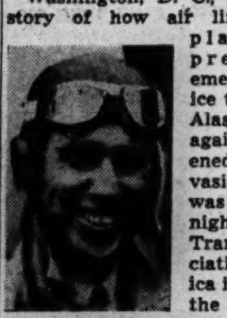
AIR TAXI FLEET BARS ALASKAN THRUST BY JAPS

Men and Arms Flown to Halt Invasion

BY JOSEPH HEARST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 7—The story of how air line transport planes were pressed into emergency service to bolster our Alaskan defenses against a threatened Japanese invasion in 1942 was disclosed tonight by the Air Transport Association of America in a review of the services the commercial lines have performed in three years of war.



Capt. Bob Dawson

Passengers who may have wondered why they were put off planes hundreds of miles from their destinations on June 13, 1942, may now be told that the planes—forming a sort of aerial counterpart to the famous taxicab army of Paris in World War I.—flew north to play their part in keeping the Japs out of Dutch Harbor and a foothold in North America.

On that date the Japs were on Attu and Kiska and were threatening Dutch Harbor. At 6 p. m. orders went out from Washington to the headquarters of 11 air lines to send every available transport plane to Edmonton, Alta., from where they would rush men and materials to Alaska.

Passengers Are Landed

Within minutes flight superintendents had radioed orders to all planes from coast to coast to alter their course, land their passengers at the nearest airport, and head for Edmonton.

From the Edmonton base the "minute man" fleet began shuttling vitally important ammunition, medicine, food, machinery, guns, and personnel to the Alaskan command. These flights of thousands of miles were made over uncharted terrain where mountain ranges forced planes up to an altitude of 23,000 feet for safety. At Anchorage, Alaska, there was more work to be done.

Dutch Harbor had been bombed by the Japs and the American forces there needed ammunition. A Jap aircraft carrier had been reported in the vicinity, but Capt. Bob Dawson and 1st Officer M. W. Ashby of United Airlines promptly volunteered to fly the ammunition in. They took off at night for a flight down the Aleutian Islands chain with no lights and only instruments to guide them, and they landed safely at a field where the rough runway was outlined for them by men holding flashlights.

Sees Enemy Carrier

Dawson, incidentally, confirmed the presence of the Jap carrier, too. Coming out of the overcast, he found himself almost directly over it, but the Japs didn't detect him.

The lines that shared in the Alaskan mission were Pan-American, United, American, Eastern, Northwest, Pennsylvania Central, Transcontinental and Western, Chicago and Southern, Western, Braniff, and Pan-American Grace.

In the first three years after the Dec. 7, 1941, attack on Pearl Harbor the Air Transport association says the army and navy used 193 air line planes and 1,200 air line pilots. In this period contract carriers on overseas routes flew 2,581,903,999 passenger miles and 603,137,283 ton miles of cargo. The latter included such diversified items as dynamite, eggs, war dogs, fresh vegetables, hog bristles, cutting diamonds, beetles, jeeps, a 1,200 gallon gasoline truck and little boxes which each contained a queen bee and two worker bees.

Precious Cargo—the Wounded.

One of the greatest war contributions made by the commercial planes was, and is, the flying of sick and wounded men home from the fronts, the association said.

At the outbreak of the war authorities feared air movement of litter cases might be harmful to the patients and too costly and hazardous. That experience proved this view wrong is shown by the fact that in 1944 the army's air transport command alone flew 123,000 casualties in air ambulances, compared with 12,000 in 1943.

Counting all the air units, such as troop carriers returning from front line missions, more than 800,000 sick and wounded have been carried to hospitals in airplanes in the last two and a half years, the association says, and only one patient in 30,000 has died en route to a hospital.

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP)—The state department today received ratification by the exiled Polish government at London of agreements concluded at the aviation conference at Chicago last year.

DISCLOSE HOPKINS GOT $5,000 SALARY INCREASE LAST JULY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 7—The White House today acknowledged that President Roosevelt has given Harry L. Hopkins, his intimate friend and special assistant, a 50 per cent salary boost from $10,000 to $15,000 a year without sending the increase thru wage machinery of the war labor board or submitting it to congress.

White House Press Secretary Jonathan Daniels acknowledged the Hopkins' pay boost, which was brought to light yesterday by THE TRIBUNE, was given him last July 11, a few days after he resumed his duties following a six months absence forced by illness. Daniels said Hopkins' pay had been boosted to the level of Vice President Truman and cabinet members because "he is, as you know, handling many important matters for the President."

Asked whether the 50 per cent pay increase was compatible with the Little Steel formula which holds wages to a 15 per cent increase of January, 1941, levels, Daniels replied that it did not seem to him that the Little Steel formula figured in the situation.

ARMY OF DUTCH TRAINS TO FIGHT FOR EAST INDIES

San Francisco, Cal., April 7 (AP)—A small Dutch army, recruited in liberated areas of Holland, soon will arrive in Australia where it will complete training to take part in liberation of the Netherlands East Indies and final defeat of Japan, Acting Gov. Gen. of the Indies Hubertus J. van Mook said in Brisbane today.

Aneta, official Dutch news agency, quoted Van Mook as saying the Dutch volunteer army was activated and being trained in England.

Van Mook also disclosed that after his return from the world security conference at San Francisco, where he will be a member of the Netherlands delegation, the East Indies government will be moved from Australia to an undisclosed location farther north.

Top Sergeant Is Target in a Red Cross Campaign

Tyler, Tex., April 7 (AP)—A Red Cross drive with a punch was conducted by one company at Camp Fannin. Sgt. Charles Negola of Chicago called the men together and explained the idea, and then money started flying thru the air. The target was the company's first sergeant—Jeff Keebler. The G. I.s' got a chance to kill two birds with one stone, and the Red Cross got $60 in change. Keebler's only comment was: "I'm lucky no one threw any silver dollars."

Red Planes Sink German Destroyer and Transport

LONDON, April 8 [Sunday]—(AP)—The Moscow radio said today that aircraft of the Russian Baltic fleet had sunk a German destroyer, a 5,000 ton transport and two high speed landing barges and a gunboat in Danzig bay.

Vinson Sworn in as War Mobilization Director

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP)—Fred M. Vinson was sworn in today as director of the office of war mobilization and reconversion succeeding James F. Byrnes. Vinson, former economic stabilization director, announced that his head attorney in that office, Edward Pritchard, would become his general counsel in the new post. Pritchard succeeds Benjamin V. Cohen, who resigned with Byrnes.

PLANT SUPPLYING MEAT FOR ARMY SHUT FOR 3D DAY

Ottumwa, Ia., April 7 [Special]—The big packing plant of John Morrell & Co., which has been supplying most of its output to the army and navy and to lend-lease, remained shutdown by an unauthorized strike of the CIO Packing House Workers' union for the third straight day today despite a return to work order from the national war labor board.

Officers of local No. 1 of the union wired the WLB that they had requested the workers to return to their jobs but that the membership had voted to stay out unless the management rescinds an order for the transfer of certain employes in the fresh meat department. "Otherwise," the union wired, "we would prefer to see the army take over."

Picket lines have closed both the company's plant and offices, and 3,000 workers are idle, 2,200 members of the union, it was said. When the strike broke out Thursday the WLB notified the union that the work stoppage was delaying meat for the military. Its order today said the government would refuse to attempt mediation until the plant is reopened. Company officials were mum as to the amount of army and navy meat already held up and as to whether spoilage has occurred, but indicated they would make a statement Monday.

CHICAGOANS SET FREE FROM JAPS NEARING HOMES

On Vessel Soon to Dock at San Francisco

More than a score of persons from Chicago and its suburbs, liberated from Japanese prison camps in the Philippines, are aboard a ship scheduled to dock shortly in San Francisco, relatives were advised last night. They include:

Domenicio C. Galassi, 50, of 440 S. Waiola av., La Grange, foreign representative of the Automatic Electric company, 1033 Van Buren st., who went to the Philippines on a business trip in June, 1941, and was caught there by the Japanese invasion. He was held for a time in Santo Tomas, and later was in the camp at Los Banos. His wife and their two children, Nelson, 13, and Karen, 8, live in La Grange.

William E. Gallipaue, 52, another representative of the Automatic Electric company, also is reported aboard the ship.

Sons of Manila Attorney

Jay Ward Hill, 20, and John M. Hill, 18, nephews of Mrs. Henry L. Kellogg, 7043 Princeton av. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Alva J. Hill. Hill is a Manila attorney, and both boys were born in the Philippines. Mr. and Mrs. Hill and a third son, Samuel, 15, are awaiting transportation to the United States.

The Rev. Charles H. Gries, 36, of the Society of the Divine Word Techny, who was in Santo Tomas prison. A sister, Mrs. Margaret Wells, lives at 14323 Michigan av., Riverdale.

Mrs. Catherine H. Heyda, 27, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert R. Hedman, 115 Fuller lane, Winnetka, who taught a class of children in the Santo Tomas camp. Her husband, Charles W. Heyda Jr., a mining engineer, also was held prisoner by the Japs.

Mrs. Dora Perkins Anderson, 29, niece of E. J. Moore, 2211 W. 110th pl., and her daughter, Sheila Mildred Anderson, 2.

Family of Four Included

William J. Hoffman, his wife, Mrs. Anne V. Hoffman, and their children, Margaret and William J. Hoffman Jr., relatives of Charles Hoffman, 6238 Greenwood av.

Sanford Ladic, 42, his wife, Cecilia M. Ladic, 28, and their children, Mary Ann, 10, Marie Georges, 9, and Cecilia R. Ladic, 8. Ladic, a mining engineer, was assistant superintendent of the Balatoc Mining company at Baguio. The family was interned in Bilibid prison. At the time of the American landing, Mrs. Ladic was in a Manila hospital, which was burned by the retreating Japs. She was rescued by a cousin, Pvt. Francis Callaghan of the 530th army engineers. Mrs. Ladic's sister, Mrs. Catherine Grogan, lives at 1020 W. Garfield blvd.

Missionaries on Ship

The Rev. Lawrence Leisring, 47, of the Society of the Divine Word, Techny. He had been a missionary in the Philippines since 1928, and was at Lingayen when the Japs landed. He was held in Los Banos prison.

The Rev. Alphonse Lesage, 41, also of the Society of the Divine Word. He was a teacher in San Carlos college in Cebu, but joined a guerrilla band on Negros Island after the Japanese invasion. He was captured and placed in Los Banos.

The Rev. Joseph John Smith, 42, of the Society of the Divine Word. He had been in the Philippines since 1930, as an army chaplain and teacher in San Carlos college. He was in Los Banos.

The Rev. Eugene Leo Stoll, 40, of the Society of the Divine Word, also a teacher in San Carlos college, also liberated from Los Banos.

The Rev. John D. Vogelgesang, 29, of the Society of the Divine Word, who was a teacher in Christ the King seminary in Manila. He also was in Los Banos.

NEW PREMIER TO BE JAPAN'S FOREIGN CHIEF

San Francisco, Cal., April 7 (AP)—Japan's third war cabinet, headed by Baron Kantaro Suzuki as premier, was formed today in a shower of American air bombs and installed in imperial palace ceremonies held under a black cloud of naval defeat.

The war ministry straightaway announced a reshuffle of the Japanese army high command, the Tokyo radio said, and Suzuki warned his countrymen the "very basis of our empire's existence will be threatened if the situation is allowed to pass as it has been."

Domei, Japanese news agency, said that Suzuki, successor to Premier Koiso, whose cabinet fell on Thursday, personally took the portfolios of foreign minister and Greater East Asia minister, two top rank posts.

Koiso's cabinet resigned as the result of the war situation and to make way for a stronger government, Tokyo said. Suzuki was internationally known, however, as a moderate who has often opposed military extremists.

Others May Enter Cabinet

Suzuki's retention of the foreign and Greater East Asia posts gives him the key positions should Japan, failing in war and faced with Russia's denunciation of the Russo-Japanese neutrality pact, make peace overtures. Such a movement was predicted by the Army and Navy journal in Washington, D. C.

The premier, however, may be holding the foreign and Greater East Asia portfolios only temporarily, later Domei reports indicated, pending the arrival in Tokyo of Shigenori Togo, a former foreign minister, and Naoto Kohiyama, who may be named to take the Greater East Asia post.

Togo was foreign minister from Oct. 18, 1941, to Sept. 1, 1942, in Japan's first war cabinet headed by Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo. Kohiyama is president of the South Manchurian railway.

The Japanese news agency also reported a previously unmentioned name in Suzuki's cabinet—Gen. Jiro Minami, president of the imperial Japanese political association, totalitarian political party. Minami is a minister without portfolio.

Naval Minister Stays

Tokyo broadcasts said the new government was completed after a slight delay when the Japanese capital and Nagoya were raided by American planes.

Suzuki, 77, and a retired admiral, reappointed Adm. Mitsumasa Yonai navy minister. Yonai held that post in Koiso's cabinet and also was co-premier.

Suzuki appointed Gen. Korechika Anami war minister. Anami and Yonai represent their respective service cliques and had the approval of the Japanese war lords.

Domei said Horimasa Matsuzaka, minister of justice in the Koiso cabinet, would continue in that post. It listed the other new cabinet members as follows:

Adm. Teijiro Toyoda, minister of munitions and also minister of transportation and communications; Toyosaku Hirose, finance; Genki Abe, home affairs; Tadahiko Okada, welfare; Kozo Ota, education; Tadaatsu Ishiguro, agriculture and commerce; Vice Adm. Seizo Sakonji and Hyogoro Sakurai, state ministers; Dr. Hiroshi Shimomura, state minister and president of the board of information; Hisatsune Sakomizu, chief cabinet secretary, and Chokkyo Murase, chief of the legislative bureau.

HOUSE PROBERS FLAY LAXITY IN NAZIS' ESCAPE

Reveal Prisoners' Life of Luxury in Arizona

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP)—The house military committee today blamed "laxity, inefficiency, and a lack of safeguards" for the escape of 25 German war prisoners last Christmas eve from the Papago Park prison camp near Phoenix, Ariz.

All the escaped prisoners have been recaptured and disciplined, the commanding officer of the camp has been replaced, and "corrective measures" have been taken to prevent further escapes, the committee said in a formal report promising a further check on conditions.

Luxurious Life at Hotel

The report, prepared by H. Ralph Burton, general counsel, said conditions at Papago Park warrant "some criticism."

For example, prisoners working for the Arizona Biltmore hotel, which was closed to the public, were permitted to bathe in the hotel swimming pool and to dine on the veranda, the committee said:

"Such indulgence could hardly fail to create resentment," the committee commented.

The committee said it had investigated charges that prisoners had waved "some kind of a red flag while being conveyed thru the town of Chandler," had made "vulgar and suggestive gestures toward girls," and that one had appeared at a Hotel Biltmore dance.

In the cases of the flag waving and the insults to girls, the committee reported, guards riding in the front part of trucks carrying the men were unaware of the actions.

Guest Masquerades as Nazi

"But this is no valid excuse and indicates insufficient control over their charges," the committee said. "Corrective measures should be instituted at once to prevent any repetition of such occurrences. . . . And this applies not only to that locality, but to every section of the United States."

No prisoner attended the dance at the Biltmore, the committee found, but many guests unaware of the facts "probably still incorrectly believe that a prisoner of war was actually permitted to participate in the festivities at the hotel."

What happened, the committee explained, was that a hotel guest "with a distorted idea of humor appeared with a prisoner of war insignia on his back and legs."

The Papago Park report was the first made this year by the committee under instructions from the house to keep a close check on the prisoner camps and on conditions in army hospitals.

Birger Gangster, Killer of Mayor, Asks Clemency

Conrad [Connie] Ritter, southern Illinois ganster, who was sentenced in 1930 to life imprisonment for the murder of Joseph Adams, mayor of West City, in 1926, is mang 42 convicts whose petitions for executive clemency will be heard Wednesday by the state pardon board. Ritter is in the southern Illinois penitentiary at Chester. His gang chief, Charlie Birger, was hanged for the Adams murder.

Huge Wave Damages Tribune Ship

TRIBUNE SHIP IS DAMAGED IN STORMY LAKE

Giant Wave Smashes Windows and Cabins

The motor ship Chicago Tribune has arrived in Chicago with her superstructure damaged as the result of an encounter with a giant wave in the northern part of Lake Michigan.

On Wednesday, when Chicago was lashed by a 40 to 45 mile an hour gale, the Tribune was plowing thru a rough lake, shipping some water but making fair progress. She was carrying paper consigned to THE TRIBUNE from the mill of the Ontario Paper Company, Ltd., at Thorold, Ont.

Worst Lake Storm

Suddenly, a single great wave estimated at 30 to 35 feet high loomed in front of the ship. There was no time to slacken speed. The Tribune hit full force and water roared over the deck and the observation room and the wheelhouse.

"It was the worst sea I've seen at this time of the year," said the Tribune's mate, Jules LeMay, of Thorold, who was in the wheelhouse at the time. Thomas Atkins of Merritton, Ont., who was holding the wheel, said that all he could see was blue water. He was cut by flying glass when windows of the wheelhouse were shattered.

Cabin Also Damaged

Four portholes in the observation room, directly under the wheel house also had been bashed in and the water had wreaked havoc in the cabin. Wall boards had been wrenched loose and the entire place had been severely battered. A wood rail in front of the wheelhouse was splintered.

So great was the impact of the enormous wall of water that struck the ship that a steel plate under the bridge was badly bent.

The Tribune, one of the fleet of paper carriers operated by the Quebec and Ontario Transportation Co., Ltd., which, like the Ontario Paper company is a Tribune subsidiary, was brought into Chicago on this trip by Capt. R. J. Brown of Montreal, Canada. The regular captain, Fred McIntyre of Toronto was home on leave and joined the ship later by rail.

CANADA DRAFT POLICY STIRS NEW ATTACK

OTTAWA, Ont., April 7 (AP).—The Canadian government's conscription policy was attacked today as opposition members centered a parliamentary offensive against the fact that there are 18,000 troops absent wtihout leave in Canada.

The Progressive Conservative opposition members, charging that the government of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King had not provided "equality of sacrifice" in its man power policies, emphasized government figures showing a higher percentage of absentees from French speaking Quebec than from other provinces.

Debate was fiery in last night's session as John Diefenbaker, spearheading the opposition fight, stressed that more than 50 per cent of troops drafted from Quebec went absent without leave as they were about to be sent overseas, compared with 25 per cent from the western prairie provinces, 10 per cent from the eastern maritimes, 9 per cent from the Pacific coast, and 8.6 per cent from Ontario. He accused the government of not trying seriously to round up absentees and deserters.

Douglas Abbott, parliamentary secretary to Defense Minister A. G. L. McNaughton, said Canada, with an army of 600,000 to 700,000, had no higher percentage of men absent without leave than other allied countries.

SAILOR FACES NEW QUIZ ON KIDNAPED GIRL

Nick Martini, 17, of 1220 S. Lawndale av., a merchant marine sailor who last Wednesday reported the abduction by three Negroes of his girl companion whom he had met five hours before and knew only as Connie, will be questioned again before his leave ends, Capt. Joseph Graney of the Des Plaines st. police said.

Martini, who is scheduled to return to Philadelphia prior to going to sea again, will be questioned tomorrow morning, Capt. Graney said, in a further effort to learn the identity of the girl. He told police he had met the girl in the Chicago theater and during their conversation had learned only her first name and that she was a telephone operator.

Efforts to trace her identity failed and police surmised she refrained from reporting the abduction in fear of publicity. Also futile were police efforts to trace the three kidnapers, who Martini said threatened him with a knife as he and the girl stood in a doorway near Washington blvd. and Green st. A watchman later was found who reported seeing two men in a car driven by a third struggling with another occupant at Wood and Walnut sts. that morning.

LABOR OF NAZI PRISONERS NETS U. S. BIG PROFIT

More than Earn Their Keep at Many Jobs

(Here is another article in a series by a Tribune reporter who recently visited five large German prisoners of war camps in this country.)

BY CARL WEIGMAN

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

"No work, no eat," is the rule at the camps for prisoners of war in this country.

This policy has been so successful that more than 25 million dollars has been paid into the United States treasury by private contractors who used prisoners as laborers. The contractors pay the government the prevailing rate for free civilian labor, but the prisoners get only 80 cents a day. The difference goes to the treasury.

Army Camps Also Gain

In addition, thousands of German prisoners are employed at army camps, performing skilled and unskilled tasks for which each man is paid 80 cents a day. Work done by prisoners at army installations last year was valued at 88 million dollars.

Under the Geneva convention for treatment of prisoners of war, ratified by both Germany and the United States, the labor of enlisted men prisoners may be utilized by the detaining power.

The Germans are using American prisoners of war for work. The war department believes it is not only the right, but the duty, of Americans to likewise work the Germans, and to use them, wherever possible, to relieve the man power shortage.

Wide Range of Occupations

Any visitor to a prisoner of war camp is quickly convinced that the prisoners more than earn their keep. They work as auto mechanics, carpenters, electricians, painters, plumbers, roofers, welders, sheet metal workers, masons, electric motor experts, pipe fitters, chemists, tractor operators, and at dozens of other jobs normally filled by civilians.

They are especially useful in repairing equipment and salvaging material which, in the present tight labor market, probably would have to be wasted.

At Camp Shelby, Miss., one of the largest army posts, 850 typewriters, adding machines, and duplicators piled up in a warehouse, awaiting repairs. The arm could find only one elderly civilian repairman and he couldn't make a dent in the mountain of machines. Paper work of the post began to be handicapped.

The job was turned over to prisoners of war, who cleaned up the backlog in a few weeks. The shop, which employs 21 men, now handles about 250 machines a month.

The shoe shop at the same camp employs 42 prisoners, who repair 4,000 pairs of shoes a month. The post bakery uses 50 prisoners as dough mixers, dividers, oven tenders, and miscellaneous labor to bake 26,000 pounds of bread daily.

Prisoners work in the ice plant, cold storage plant, sewage disposal plant, coal yard, and even run a watch repair shop for the camp post exchange. Jobs are never assigned to prisoners unless the war man power commission certifies that no free labor is available to fill them.

The work program at Camp Shelby is duplicated at many other camps and now is being extended to army hospitals and air force bases. At the Percy Jones General and Convalescent hospital, Battle Creek, Mich., German prisoners of war carry the trays of food for wounded American soldiers.

No Strife with Yanks

The army hesitated for months before it began to use prisoners in close contact with wounded Americans, fearing that the veterans would be angered or disturbed by the sight of the enemy. This fear proved to be groundless.

Recently Northington General hospital in Tuscaloosa, Ala., arranged to get 250 prisoners for general labor. The hospital commander, Brig. Gen. William R. Dear, summoned ambulatory patients to the auditorium, explained the plan, and asked if any veteran had any objection to working the prisoners in the hospital.

"No, sir," shouted a wounded sergeant. "I say work the —— ——!"

The general said he intended to do just that. His audience cheered.

At all the prisoner of war camps efforts are made to employ men in the jobs for which they are best fitted. Since there is always a shortage of skilled men, classes have been conducted to train prisoners for certain tasks.

Army Saves $5,000 Daily

For example, at Fort Custer, Mich., a crew was trained to rebuild storage batteries for army vehicles. This crew is saving the army $5,000 a day.

Some prisoners with special skills have proved extremely useful in emergencies. At Fort Custer a large supply of generators was tied up for lack of certain small brass fittings. Factories told the camp the fittings could not be supplied for months.

A prisoner machinist was asked if he could make one of them. He produced one quickly, to the surprise of the camp commander, who asked the man if he could make 6,000. "Yah," said the prisoner, who rigged up a machine that did the job in three days.

The first German prisoners to arrive in this country in 1943 apparently were determined to conceal their skills to avoid helping the United States.

All "Farmers" to Start

"We were surprised to see so many of them listing their occupations as farmers," said Col. C. P. Evers, commander of the camp at Camp Ellis, Ill. "Then we gradually sorted them out, and the skilled men were glad to use their talents to avoid working on the dirty, menial jobs."

At Camp Shelby, Miss., the prisoner of war compound is situated on hilly ground that offers a difficult drainage problem. A middle aged, mustached prisoner volunteered to fix the ditches that carry off rain water. He picked his helpers and put them to work lining the ditches with saplings and sod. American engineers who watched the makeshift procedure predicted it wouldn't work, but the ditches have stood up thru a year of heavy Mississippi rainfall.

This German drainage ditch boss permits no loafing on his crew, said the camp commander, Col. T. B. Birdsong.

At the army service forces department, Memphis, Tenn., a German civil engineer, directed by the post engineer, is building barracks to house more prisoners. The same German engineer helped build a swimming pool for American personnel at the depot. During the construction, he came to the camp commander, Maj. D. S. Waldrep, asking that his concrete pouring crew be permitted to eat supper at 4 p. m. so they could return to the job and keep the concrete from spoiling. Permission was granted and the crew worked till 10 p. m. to finish the job.

BILL TO REVAMP STATE PREPARED BY 2 DEMOCRATS

A bill providing for a reapportionment of Illinois congressional districts to give Cook county 13 seats and downstate 13 seats will be introduced in the general assembly Tuesday, Sen. Daley [D., Chicago] and Rep. McCabe [D., Chicago], authors of the bill, announced yesterday.

Under the 1901 law Cook county has 10 seats, downstate 15, and the 26th congressman is elected at large.

In their bill the authors propose that the Chicago district elect 11 of the 13 Cook county congressmen and the suburbs two.

Within Chicago the new plan calls for districts made up as far as possible of groupings of entire wards. Thirty-eight of the 50 wards lie entirely within congressional districts.

Already pending in the house of the assembly is a reapportionment bill drawn by Rep. Virkus [R., La Grange] and backed by Gov. Green. Its policy is the same as the one prepared by the two Democrats.

In support of their plan, Daley and McCabe point out that population of Cook county is 4,063,342, while the total downstate population is 3,833,899.

Extra Fuel Oil for Heating Water to Be Given by OPA

The office of price administration will grant extra fuel oil rations again this summer for heating water. Householders and business establishments will be eligible for supplementary allotments beginning April 11, the agency announced yesterday. All applicants must show they do not have sufficient regular coupons to provide for summer hot water needs.

FRAUD FUGITIVE TO BE RETURNED TO PENITENTIARY

Government officials in Chicago said yesterday that Edward J. Ader, 65, former Chicago attorney who was captured in New York Friday by the federal bureau of investigation after a search of 22 years, will be returned to Leavenworth prison from which he escaped in 1923. Ader fled from his guards shortly after he had begun his prison sentence while he was en route to Chicago to testify in the government's effort to discover assets of the defunct Consumers' Packing company. Ader had been sentenced to seven years for defrauding investors in the company of more than a half million dollars.

A FEW UNBUSTED TRUSTS.

Congress has voted to extend the life of the Commodity Credit corporation for another year and to increase its borrowing power from 3 billion dollars to 4.75 billion dollars. The principal functions of the CCC are to buy up farm surpluses and to pay off federal subsidies to agriculture. The corporation is chartered under the laws of Delaware and originally had a capital structure consisting of 30,000 shares of the par value of $100 each, but the stock was subsequently increased to 100 million dollars. The CCC is one of 55 government corporations organized under state laws with outstanding securities in the par amount of almost 13 billion dollars and with assets of about 30 billion dollars.

Probably it will be news to most citizens that the New Deal is acting as trustee in their behalf in the ownership of such widely varying corporations as the Warrior River Terminal company of Alabama; the Virgin Islands company; Prencinradio, Inc.; Tennessee Valley Associated Coöperatives, Inc.; Colonial Mica corporation of New Jersey; Puerto Rico Cement corporation; Textile Foundation, Inc.; War Hemp Industries, Inc., and War Emergency Pipe Lines, Inc.

At the time of the utilities holding companies "death sentence" legislation there was much talk of the corporate pyramid built up by the late Harry Hopson of Associated Gas and Electric corporation. Mr. Roosevelt's New Deal makes his holding company look like a piker. But, as evidenced by the congressional vote on the CCC, there is no present disposition to impose any death sentence upon the federal corporate structure, altho Sen. Butler of Nebraska has observed that some "have engaged in questionable activities."

The CCC may be considered typical and presents a case study which will illustrate the workings of all the other corporations. A peculiar feature of the CCC is the cloudy legislative title which gives it the right to existence. It came into being thru one of Mr. Roosevelt's executive orders, signed Oct. 16, 1933, "under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by the national industrial recovery act of June 16, 1933." Altho the NIRA act limited its own life and that of any corporation or agency organized pursuant to its authority to two years, the articles of organization filed with the state of Delaware specified that the CCC should have perpetual existence.

That was sufficiently odd in itself, but something much stranger was to materialize May 27, 1935. On that day the Supreme court declared the NRA unconstitutional. This, it might be thought, would have knocked out the basis for the existence of the CCC, and that impression might be considered enforced by an executive order which Mr. Roosevelt declared effective as of Jan. 1, 1936, terminating the NRA and all of the activities authorized pursuant to the basic act.

But, no. Altho the authority for the original creation of the CCC was dead, the CCC itself continues merrily on its way. Congress shut its eyes and, by an act approved Jan. 1, 1935, continued the corporation for two more years, altho Stanley Reed, then general counsel of the RFC and now a Supreme court justice, expressed serious doubts at the time that the origins of the agency rested on any firm foundation. Since then nobody in congress has challenged the legal existence of the corporation effectively, for many members are beholden to farm voters for their seats, and the agency serves as agricultural grand almoner.

The ambiguity of the corporation's title to existence was heightened further when Mr. Roosevelt, by executive order of Oct. 3, 1942, decreed that the agency should be given additional wide powers to purchase surpluses and pay subsidies. The notable thing about this order was that Mr. Roosevelt invoked as his authority for these acts his role as "President of the United States and commander in chief of the army and navy." Thus he asserted that a federal agency organized as a corporation under state laws, but which rested upon a murky legal base, needed no better sanction than the fact that he was commander in chief, not over any civil sphere, but over the army and navy. The attitude seemed to be that if the authority could not be found in one place, it could be found in another.

It is so completely impossible to follow the financial manipulations of this corporation that it is being used as a horrible example by various members of congress, who are demanding that all government corporations be made subject to the accounting laws of the United States, as is not now done with reference to any of them. At present, they are all entirely under executive control and the treasury makes good their losses out of general funds, without any specific appropriations by congress. The CCC simply pays off farm sudsidies with checks bearing the printed signature of the head of the CCC. The amounts are fixed and filled in by AAA committeemen in the field. Thus hundreds of millions flow out of the treasury without specific appropriation or even the knowledge of congress.

The abuses in operation of these corporations are many, and among them, as recited by the joint congressional economy committee, is that they frequently compete with private business. They are being used to siphon away huge sums in tax dollars without any direction or control by congress. An investigation cannot be long deferred into their operations, their reckless spending, and, above all, the necessity for most of them to exist.

THEY WERE PAIRED

On March 28 The Tribune printed a story that 26 Republican congressmen had been absent and not paired the day before when the house approved the conference report on the man power bill, 167 to 160. An editorial the following day censured the Republicans who apparently had shirked a vote on the measure.

Inspection of the Congressional Record shows that three of the 26 Republicans named in the story had specific pairs against the bill, and that 20 others had general pairs. The latter were not made known until the Record was printed the following day. Under a general pair, a Republican and a Democrat agree that thruout the session one will not vote on a party bill if the other is absent. Majority Leader Martin, Mrs. Luce, Rep. Dirksen, and Rep. Eaton, who were specifically mentioned in the editorial, all had general pairs. Mr. Martin was absent because of illness. Our editorial criticism was based on a misapprehension of the facts.

LOPEZ WAS CRAZY, TOO

The Nazi power is in process of being smashed, yet there is some ground for belief that Hitler and his fanatics may retire to the mountains and conduct a guerrilla warfare until the last of them has been hunted down. Goebbels still appeals to the German people to resist to the last man.

That happened once in modern times, and in the new world, not the old. A nation of more than a million people fought until there was scarcely an able bodied man left. The man who led it to destruction was possessed by the same megalomania, the same fanatical cruelty and, in the end, the same insanity that possesses Hitler. He was Francisco Solano Lopez, the dictator of Paraguay.

Paraguay, when it threw off Spanish rule in 1811, was populated almost exclusively by Guarani Indians, a strong, brave, but submissive race. For two generations the nation was ruled successively by Lopez' great-uncle and his father, cruel dictators but men of considerable ability. They barred intercourse with other nations, raised living standards measurably, fostered intense patriotism, and left Lopez, when he succeeded his father in 1862, the best army in South America, some 80,000 well trained and well armed men.

Lopez had been educated in Paris, where he had been taken in by the imperial pretensions of Napoleon the Little. He ordered a reproduction of Napoleon's crown, but never received it. The Argentines seized it and still have it in Buenos Aires. He had a fabulous mistress, a Mme. Eliza Lynch of Irish-French descent, who returned with him from Paris, followed his campaigns, bore him four sons, and remained at his side until he was killed. He sought the hand in marriage of the daughter of Dom Pedro, the Portuguese emperor of Brazil. Dom Pedro didn't deign to answer his proposal.

Whether it was because of this affront or his desire for lebensraum and an outlet to the Atlantic thru Brazilian territory, Lopez involved himself in 1865 in a war with Brazil and the Argentine, the two most powerful nations in South America, and his small neighbor, Uruguay. The war lasted five years.

Lopez won the early victories, but at great cost of Paraguayan man power. He insisted that his troops never retreat, whatever the odds, and on one occasion he ordered half the officers and a tenth of the men executed in a force that had been defeated. By the time the war had run two years every able bodied male between 16 and 60 had been incorporated in the Paraguayan army, in addition to thousands of women, who were the burden bearers for the troops.

Eventually the superior resources of his enemies, who had allied themselves in a compact not to make a separate peace, began to tell. Lopez resorted to greater and greater cruelty to keep his subjects fighting. He organized a predecessor of the Gestapo which denounced the faint hearted. Soldiers were executed for merely speaking of the great losses suffered by the army. When Lopez discovered a conspiracy to depose him and make peace he killed the participants, who included his brother and brother-in-law, and tortured his own mother.

When his capital, Asuncion, was captured, he retreated to a new one in the wilderness. When that was captured he led the ragged remnant of his army into the northern forests, where he continued to wage guerrilla warfare. On March 1, 1870, Lopez, whose force had been reduced to 400 men, was encamped by a muddy little river called the Aquidaban. Mme. Lynch and their four sons were with him. An allied force made a surprise attack, and the Paraguayans fled in panic. A historian tells Lopez' end:

"Lopez made a desperate effort for safety by forcing his horse into the swamp formed by the Aquibadan, but the animal could make no headway in the soft mud. The dictator was summoned to surrender by a corporal. His reply was a revolver shot. Then a lance thrust caused him to fall from his horse, and he died a few minutes later. He was given Christian burial."

In 1863, the year after López came into power, the Paraguayan census showed a population of 1,337,489. The year after his death the returns showed 221,079 persons—106,254 women, 86,079 children, and 28,746 men.

The allies had sworn to make Paraguay pay the whole cost of the war. They occupied the country for three years, set up a constitutional government, but never collected the indemnity.

Filling out one of those innumerable government questionnaires, a retailer was asked to list his "fastest moving items." Without hesitation he wrote "employes."—Elgin [Ia.] Echo.

HISTORY OF EUROPE

[Following is an address delivered last night by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Tribune, and broadcast on the Chicago Theater of the Air over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system.]

BY COL. ROBERT R. McCORMICK.

The monarchies of the old world looked upon our young Republic with hostility. They found in it not only a military challenge to the old scheme of empire in the western hemisphere, but a philosophical challenge to royal and class rule by might and prerogative in its precept that "all governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed."

Not then or later did this country try to extend its influence in Europe by proselyting, by diplomacy, or by force, but the example it furnished was irresistible. Neither censorships nor calumnies could conceal from the world that in America conditions were far superior for the mass of mankind than they were in Europe.

Naturally the Revolution had an immediate effect in France. In the course of the war a French army had spent months in America and had marched from Rhode Island to Virginia. Its soldiers had seen how much better off Americans were than Frenchmen. Lafayette had held important commands in the war and had since become a leader of French thought. Therefore, when the monarchy of France became bankrupt in 1789, it was natural to convoke the estates general which had remained dormant for hundreds of years.

Franklin had hoped that the French could immediately advance as far as Great Britain along the road to self-government, but the road which had taken the English several hundred years and several civil wars to traverse was not to be taken by France.

The nation was without political experience and as a monarchy was cleft into classes. Below the king was an hierarchical nobility, arrogant and accustomed to privileges. In the cities had grown up a bourgeoisie which, unable to surmount the social barrier of noble birth, was the more insistent upon all of the power and luxury that wealth could give. Looked down upon by the nobles, it assumed a contemptuous attitude toward the workers. In the cities a property-less proletariat, hopeless or indifferent to securing property of their own, were easily swayed to destroy the property of others.

When King Louis XVI. refused to act the role of a constitutional monarch, he was backed by the aristocracy. The third estate perforce constituted itself into a government, and adopted the American doctrines as to the rights of man. It first tried to combine both legislative and executive functions, and later formed an executive of five directors.

It repelled invading armies of the kingdoms of Europe and, taking the offensive, spread the principles of freedom far and wide in Europe.

The government, however, was constantly under threat from the Paris mobs and, finding it necessary to call in the military for its protection, at length succumbed to a coup d'etat by Napoleon Bonaparte. After his defeat, the victorious monarchists forced a Bourbon king, in the person of Louis XVIII., back on the throne, who issued a constitution similar to that in force in England. This king was compelled to give way to Charles X. and he, in turn, to Louis Philippe. When another revolution unseated this king, a second republic was established.

In order to make the executive stronger, an elective president was provided to serve for one four-year term.

It was too strong an executive for France, for the first president, Louis Napoleon Bonaparte, seized the entire government by a coup d'etat and made himself emperor. When he was defeated in the Franco-German war, a third republic was set up in 1875 with an elective president to exercise the powers and duties of the British king, a senate, and house of representatives, from whom the executives should be chosen by the house in an effort to avoid the anarchy of a plural executive and the danger of an elective president. This republic lasted 65 years.

The seeds of its dissolution were in the provision that the senate and house, meeting together, could change the constitution, which it did in 1940 when it named Gen. Petain dictator.

As we know, Gen. De Gaulle is acting dictator under protection of the allied armies.

After Waterloo the kingdom of the Netherlands was established by the victorious monarchs, with a written constitution modeled after the English constitution as it then was.

Belgium at that time was compelled to submit to this rule. She revolted in 1831 and adopted her own constitution beginning with a bill of rights taken almost directly from the American Bill of Rights.

The Holy Alliance, which had conquered Naples and Spain, proposed to conquer and restore her to her Dutch monarch. By this time Great Britain did not want a strong Netherlands across the channel and, joining with France, prevailed upon the Holy Alliance not only to permit the freedom of Belgium, but to have the Prussian army coerce the Netherlands into consenting to the separation. This ended the Holy Alliance.

The revolutions of 1848 in Europe increased the number of constitutional governments.

Czar Alexander II., in consequence of our abolition movement, emancipated the serfs in Russia.

In 1905 the duma was organized as a partial acceptance of our doctrine of popular government. With the abdication of the czar, the duma tried to organize a republic. What the course of history might have been if the Germans had not smuggled Lenin into Russia, no one can tell, and no one can tell when its present terrible oriental dictatorship will end.

Norway has proceeded farther than any other country in Europe in developing a popular constitution. As early as 1814 it adopted a constitution modeled upon ours and in 1821 abolished titles of nobility.

The victors over Napoleon gave Norway to Sweden as compensation for Finland, taken away from her by Russia in 1809.

In 1905 Norway declared her independence of Sweden, but finding it too dangerous to become a republic in the face of all the European kingdoms, elected the son-in-law of King Edward VII. of England [who had said a republic would be very unfortunate].

Sweden had taken preliminary steps toward constitutionalism in 1809. In 1844 the right to suppress newspapers was abrogated. In 1865 the four estates were abolished and two elective chambers were established. A plural executive was responsible to the legislature. Belgium, Norway, and Sweden are the most advanced constitutional monarchies in Europe.

There was a movement in Germany in imitation of the United States, but it was short lived. Berlin set up a revolutionary government in 1848, but it was suppressed shortly afterwards by the army. The army then in three successive victorious wars, undertaken without the consent of a feeble parliament that had been created by the king of Prussia, established the German empire in 1871.

There were certain legislative powers in the German kingdom and in the empire, but the real rule lay in the army.

Even the framers of the Weimar constitution in 1919 were more afraid of the public than they were of usurpation for they gave the president the power to rule by decree in case of emergency and the German courts held that he was judge of the emergency. They gave the two houses of parliament the power to amend the constitution by a two-thirds vote. Under this provision the Hitler dictatorship was formed.

It would be a bold man who would try to prophesy what the future holds for the countries of Europe. We can hope that they can learn from our strength and our stability to accept our institutions and create a republic of the United States of Europe.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

A LONG LIFE WITH LOW BLOOD PRESSURE.

MOST of us appreciate the significance of high blood pressure but our attitude concerning the opposite situation may be vague. The low blood pressure sufferer is rather perplexed, not knowing whether he is classified as normal or a semi-invalid.

It can be stated categorically that the condition may exist both in health and in disease. There are many men and women who live, work, and play without being disturbed by its presence. In others—border line cases—the level fluctuates, depending upon the degree of activity. Needless to say, it may be observed in victims of one malady or another.

Readings vary during any 24 hour period and adjustments are made according to the needs of the body. These include changes in posture, digestion, breathing, and nervous reactions. Most of us, unfortunately, are perplexed by these modifications.

Dr. J. H. Barach cites the case of a noted columnist who described the story of his visit to a doctor one morning. He was told that he had low blood pressure. This worried him so much that later in the day he sought the advice of another physician who, after examining him, said: "The trouble with you is that your pressure is too high." Whereupon the poor man said to himself: "A plague on both your houses." On the following day he filled his newspaper column with his opinion about patients, doctors, and blood pressure recordings. He should have been told that nervousness and anxiety produce such changes in one day; that it is nature's business to do so, else we would soon be in hot water.

Low pressure in a healthy individual may be just as much a part of his constitution as his body build, weight, nervous system, the shape of the nose, and the twinkle in his eyes. Many are not capable of expending as much energy as others. This is not necessarily the fault of the pressure, as this finding may be only one of many. Symptoms may be encountered, especially when turmoil exists. The most common complaint is early fatigue and exhaustion. Apprehension, fears, inability to concentrate, and sleeplessness are not unusual. Tingling, or a feeling as if the arms and legs are going to sleep, may be observed, particularly after constipation, or overindulgence in eating, drinking, or smoking.

The typical patient is slender, undernourished, and nonathletic. The shoulders may droop and the narrow chest is covered with weak or relaxed muscles. There may be evidence of obstruction in the nasal passages. Breathing may be shallow and irregular. That the respiratory apparatus may have some bearing on the low pressure is suggested by its appearance in those who are recuperating from infections of the nose, throat, or chest.

The outlook is good. After middle life, those with subnormal levels live longer than victims of high tension, as there is less wear and tear on the system. They learn not to throw themselves into the fray of life or expose themselves to excesses.

If a physical examination rules out disease, the subject should learn to adapt himself to the confines of his strength. Stress and strain should be minimized. If there are no symptoms, treatment is unnecessary. Physiotherapy will benefit those who lack a sensation of well being and vitality. Massage, with properly controled exercise, will increase muscle tone and growth to a surprising degree. A course in simple hygiene, in which good food, adequate rest, exercise, healthy posture, and avoidance of conditions which may disturb normal respiration are emphasized, is advised.

DYSPEPTIC.

Mrs. M. writes: Everything my husband eats gives him indigestion. Could this be caused by ulcer?

REPLY

Yes, but there are scores of other causes, including dietary errors. He needs a thoro examination. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this symptom.

KIDNEY DISORDER.

R. S. writes: At what age does Bright's disease usually occur?

REPLY

This disorder of the kidneys may appear at any age, but is more common in children. Strep infections — sore throat, scarlet fever, etc.—are more frequent at this time of life.

DRAINING CANAL

M. M. writes: Is there any cure for rectal fistula other than surgery?

REPLY

Local treatment may be of value, but a permanent cure requires the removal of the entire tract and its branches.

NO DANGER

M. R. writes: What percentage, if any, of polio cases are left with the mind affected?

REPLY

None—except in rare instances when complications develop.

IDENTICAL

Mrs. J. writes: Is lues the same as syphilis?

REPLY

Yes.

SEVERAL FACTORS

Mrs. H. P. writes: When a child of 3½ continues to drool, should his adenoids be looked after?

REPLY

This is a possibility, but teething and the mental state of the tot should also be considered.

MAYBE WE ARE CRAZY

Oak Park, Ill., March 31—A great civilization seems to carry in itself the seeds of its own destruction—it seems to give birth to and nourish a suicidal impulse. Our country is sick, not necessarily fatally, but so seriously ill that recovery becomes momently more difficult. This is indicated by the quality of our leisure class, the result of inherited wealth, as exemplified by numerous fascist minded gentry in Washington; and also by the symptoms listed below.

After 12 years of broken promises and complete failure in every field of government, we reëlect our national socialist and economic isolationist New Deal.

We swallow whole the myth of New Deal foreign policy.

We listen with straight faces to the bumbling buffooneries of Henry Wallace, instead of laughing him out of public life, as earlier, heartier generations of Americans would have done.

We believe manifest absurdities about Russia, the while telling ourselves solemnly it is a great experiment, and things are getting better; but we ignore men who know the subject, like Max Eastman, W. L. White, and David Dallin.

We take to ourselves the great American guilt complex, which absurdly seeks to fasten the blame for everything that goes wrong anywhere on us.

Even those of us who have never heard of French assignats, or the Mississippi bubble, or the Dutch tulip craze have seen, since World War I., the drab picture of misery painted by chronically unbalanced budgets, but we think we can become prosperous by going always deeper into debt.

We allow Socialists to tell us their nostrum means peace, when we know this war started when socialist Russia joined socialist Germany to attack Poland.

We listen to the same stuff that Hitler and Stalin put out about "full employment" when all history teaches us that the effort to attain it thru political means results in slavery or war; or, as in the cases of Germany and Russia, in both.

Now that our system of private enterprise capital has proved its superiority in the most spectacular manner possible, by winning a great war and simultaneously outproducing our enemies plus our allies, we actually listen to crackpots who want to destroy that system.

Worse than that, we allow them to proceed under cover of high sounding nothings to try to wreck that system.

We allow communist professors to teach in our colleges and universities.

With horrible examples of what a determined minority can do [Russia, where a small clique in the Communist party rules with iron ruthlessness; Germany, ditto; Italy; Japan, and many smaller countries] we allow the CIO-PAC to propagandize and organize to change our entire economic and political system to one abhorrent to the great majority.

We believe we can pay the highest wages in the world, for disgracefully slowed down production, and at the same time keep prices down and control the cost of living.

We believe we can subsidize farmers, raise wages, export 2 billion dollars a year, and to top it off, we think we are a creditor nation, hence we must have an excess of imports.

The American people have not been dummies. We built a prosperity such as the world never saw before, but we did it by hard work, saving, and managerial genius with a system that encouraged capital and growth. We know perfectly well, if we merely stop to think, that none of the absurdities listed above will help our country, or any one in it, except the selfish minority that will constitute our omnipotent government. Why, then, do we stand for this stuff, if we are not suffering from some serious malady?

One of our self-styled "liberals," which is the current tag adopted by anti-liberal Socialists, wrote a book several years ago called "It Is Later Than You Think." He was right then, and righter now. H. E. S.

THE HERD INSTINCT

Chicago, March 20—In regard to hooking up a string of "muzzle loading" street cars for the convenience of the public, I would venture to say that 99 out of 100 passengers would pack the first car, disregarding the four or five cars hooked to the first. This would leave the last cars isolated, as is usual. It is beyond me why the public scramble like mad to get on the already groaning lead car, to be packed against one another like so many sardines, when two or three other cars can be seen in the distance and the harassed conductor on the first car pleads with the waiting passengers, assuring them that the cars coming after him are practically empty. Conny.

ADVICE TO AN ENGLISHMAN

Fort Atkinson, Wis., April 3—Like the Englishman from Madison, Wis., I, too, am compelled to write to you and like the Englishman, I, too, get hotter and hotter under the collar every day, but not from glancing thru your "wretched newspaper."

If the English aren't being fed well enough, what is wrong with buying some of the surplus Canadian beef we've been reading about? Perhaps I can answer my own question—they would have to pay for it.

R. C. Harrington.

South Milwaukee, Wis., April 2—The Tribune, at long last, is to be really congratulated, since Mr. Wardle, who styles himself an Englishman visiting our friendly shores, has urged The Tribune to come to England and take part in that touching ceremony which for want of a better name I would call "The Sharing of the Solitary Orange." Many people have been admitted to this ceremony, where in the humblest of homes the American brother, yea, even the humble second lieutenant and lowly private who chance to be quartered near-by, shares with the brave family the first orange to enter that home in four years. Presumably Mr. Wardle is the advance man who selects the candidates for the degree, because he is surely here in the interest of winning the war. Let no reader ask further.

This reader is troubled, however. Mr. Wardle's letter reads: ". . . your allies, who are also fighting this war like hell like you are?" Wouldn't it read better stated "who are also fighting this war [like hell?] like you are."

Veteran.

Kalamazoo, Mich., April 2 — Mr. Wardle's letter would have been more effective only if you had printed it on the same page with our casualty lists.

Bruce A. Lane.

Appleton, Wis., April 2—I wonder why that Englishman, who says he is visiting our friendly country and gets hot under the collar when he glances thru our "wretched newspaper," happens to be visiting here at a time like this. Is it to spread English propaganda, or is he a British inspector, inspecting our plants to see that the products we produce are good enough to give to them? Elmer Lemke.

Cleveland, O., April 2—I wonder if this itinerant ever gave such advice about food to his brother Englishmen for the benefit of the Hindus, the untouchables, and other impoverished Indians, who have been starving by the tens of thousands for years on end?

This Mr. Wardle could do the allied cause immeasurable good by urging his own government to release the food they have obtained under lend-lease to the liberated countries instead of using it as a bargaining wedge to re-create the British balance of power, the same balance of power method that Stalin is using, also with our lend-lease.

G. T. writes: "I would like to enlist in some branch of service where I could receive some training in bacteriology, immunology, and other related subjects. I will be 18 shortly. Can you tell me of anything open now?"

The hospital corps training of the navy is presently open for enlistment for young men up to 18 years of age. You could try for qualification as a sanitarian and receive training in advanced bacteriology and immunology, epidemiology, vital statistics, parasitology and entomology, sanitary engineering, and other courses which would make you a fully qualified sanitarian. Further information may be had from the nearest navy recruiting office.

S. T. A. writes: "My husband died of nonservice connected causes after being discharged from the army. I was told that I would not receive a pension if my income exceeded $1,000. Does the $1,000 include payments of national service life insurance?"

Insurance benefit payments would not be included in the $1,000 limitation.

BLACK MARKET

Western Springs, Ill., April 2—Why all this fuss about black markets? Only the poor are rationed. Any one with $3.50 for a meal can pick out a double T-bone and needs no red stamps. If he can't afford to eat in restaurants and private clubs but must buy meat raw and take it home that way, without stamps, he is guilty of patronizing the "black market." Why may one have better meat, point free and with the blessing of the New Deal, while the other gets a poor grade and is condemned?

When we all surrender red points at the same rate for all meat, cooked or raw, and not until then, will I be concerned about a so-called "black market." Winnifrede H. Pickens.

SOME WORK AT DODGE CHICAGO

Chicago, March 31—I am just finishing my second year of work at Dodge Chicago plant and I mean work. In two years there has never been a day or a moment that I had nothing to do. All of the boys of my department have always been busy. Yet we never complain or think of striking.

It seems the loafers who have nothing to do are not patriotic enough to say, "Give me work or I'll quit." They seem contented to go from day to day loafing, and because idle hands and mind breed mischief, they are the first to be convinced it would be a diversion to strike. Believe it or not, most of them are getting paid more than we are.

Hearing and reading all the stories about Dodge Chicago, this may seem strange. Yet, when all is said and done, those who really worked at Dodge will be given no more consideration than those loafers who actually admit they don't work. You must understand that some one is turning out the motors that make possible the wonderful job these B-29s are doing on the Japs. P. B.

NO CHORE FOR US

Chicago, April 2—Why, O, why will a free America permit "a million" of our men to patrol the impregnable southern mountain fastnesses of Germany while its neighbors have a free hand in the more accessible regions? France should take over Uncle Sam's stint. Holland, Belgium, Russia, and other neighbors who know how to deal with Germany are the ones to take it, not us. We will have to finance Europe to get it back on its feet to fight in 25 years. We'll need these men at home, both to prepare and to father a generation of young men to fight in Europe in the next war to "free" something or other.

This government should tell Europe we have "freed" whatever it is, and it's up to them to keep it "free"—also to finance the next war's preparations. If they have to go it alone, the usual hundred years between completely devastating wars might have to elapse again, alas. Annoyed Woman.

IT'S CONFUSING

Chicago, April 2—I am a bit confused as to how the peace conference works. We read that only peace loving nations are permitted to sit at the conference table. Yet in order to be admitted a nation must first get into the war. Are Ireland, Sweden, Switzerland, and Spain not peace loving nations because they don't declare war?

Paula Jagemann.

QUARTERLY GARBAGE COLLECTIONS

Chicago, March 29—May I offer this suggestion: instead of having Chicago's yearly quota of four garbage collections concentrated in the four weeks preceding city elections, distribute them thruout the year, with at least one during the intense heat of the summer months. M. S.

TREE ON BOUNDARY

Oak Park, Ill., April 5—There is a giant elm, half on my lot and half on my neighbor's. It leans his way but the roots extend under the cement floor of my garage. Have I the legal right to cut off the roots? L. A.

The article on Adjoining Landowners in Corpus Juris, vol. 1, p. 1233, says: "If the trunk of a tree is wholly or in part upon the line dividing the land of adjoining owners, it is the common property of both, whether marked as a boundary or not, and it has been held that the property interest of each owner is identical as to extent with that portion of the tree which is upon his land. In some jurisdictions this doctrine is expressly prescribed by statute.

"Injury to or Destruction of—In General. Where a tree is thus owned in common, each owner may require that the owner of the other portion shall so use his part as not unreasonably to injure or destroy the whole, and neither may cut or otherwise injure it without the consent of the other, or compel the other to cut or destroy it."

A CORSAGE FOR EVERY CHICKEN

or how luncheon became a social affair

YESTERDAY—Chicken pot pie served with a nosegay on top! That's how lunching out became a social affair—that's how our tea rooms began! Chicago's fine ladies began their shopping at 7 a. m. At 12 they climbed in their coaches and went home for lunch—it just wasn't nice to lunch out, and besides, the horses had to be fed! But it was just about then that we discovered Mrs. Hering. She squeezed five dining tables into Fifth Floor millinery. She stayed up all night cooking chicken pot pies from her grandmother's recipe—and decorated each pie with a tiny nosegay from her garden. Then she climbed aboard the trolley car and rode to Marshall Field & Company—balancing her tray of chicken pies on her lap. At the store, Chicago's fine ladies spied the gay little pies and said: "I just could do with a bit of lunch, my dear!" Overnight, lunching out became a social affair. Five tables, tucked away in millinery, grew to fifty—

TODAY—look at our Seventh Floor. Five tea rooms, over 1,000 tables. Why, we've served 13,155 persons in a single day (it's the day after Thanksgiving that is always our biggest!) The bakeries bake 516 pies, 280 cakes, 460 dozen rolls every day. Thirty-two thousand pounds of chicken every month—because chicken pot pie is still a famous recipe, a famous dish. It's still a social affair to lunch at Marshall Field & Company—one of the largest department store tea rooms in the world!

TOMORROW—holds our promise! We've answered your needs in the '90's—in a difficult today—and we'll try to have the answers in the complicated postwar world ahead! That's our job, our responsibility, our promise—to you who made us what we are today. (Chapter I of the story "Marshall Field & Company and Early Chicago.")

FEAR NEW MOVE TO SCRAP FLEET AT FRISCO TALKS

Sentiment Grows Against Limitations on U. S.

BY WALTER TROHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 7—With the San Francisco conference less than three weeks off, the problem of maintaining the United States as the world's greatest naval power in the post-war world is receiving increasing attention in congressional and military circles.

There is mounting sentiment against any repetition of the greatest act of national self-abnegation the world has ever witnessed, which took place at the Washington arms conference of 1921-'22 when the United States voluntarily scrapped the most powerful navy in the world in course of construction.

The renunciation of prospective mastery of the seven seas came with the acceptance of Great Britain's proposition of parity of British and American naval power, under which the United States permitted itself to be maneuvered into a naval limitation agreement which perpetuated British superiority in capital ships until 1943.

World's Mightiest Fleet

Now that the delegation to San Francisco is assembling, concern has been voiced that the United States may be drawn into naval disarmament commitments on the west coast which might lead to the scrapping of the mightiest fleet the world has known—1,167 combat vessels.

In administration circles such concern is dismissed as premature on the ground that questions of armament and disarmament will not be raised except in the most general terms at San Francisco.

The Dumbarton Oaks agreement leaves disarmament to the general assembly in which, according to present plans, Great Britain will have six votes, Russia three votes, and the United States one. It states: "The general assembly should have the right to consider the general principles of coöperation in the maintenance of international peace and security, including the principles governing disarmament and the regulations of armaments."

Military Staff Committee.

The agreement also states that a military staff committee, composed of the chiefs of staff of permanent members of the security council or their representatives — Britain, France, Russia, China, and the United States to date—shall assist the council on questions of armament and disarmament.

Under Dumbarton Oaks it is provided that the security council can call upon members for aid in dealing with aggressors. Under this section the American navy could be asked to contribute men and ships to bring a transgressing nation to terms.

As the American navy stands today it is believed to be larger than the combined fleets of all the other nations of the world, because of the heavy losses suffered by the German, Jap, French, and Italian navies. Its strength approaches the total of 1,600 ships of the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France, Italy, German, and Russia as of the outbreak of the war in 1939.

How the Navy Grew.

The strength of the American fleet in 1939, the vessels built from 1941 thru 1944, and the best available estimate of the fleet as of Jan. 1, 1945, is shown in the following table:

Type	1939	War construction	1945
Battleships	15	10	24
Aircraft carriers	5	25	25
Escort carriers	..	102	100
Battle cruisers	..	2	2
Heavy cruisers	18	6	18
Light cruisers	16	27	38
Destroyers	219	309	350
Destroyer escorts	..	503	390
Submarines	95	178	220
Totals	368	1,162	1,167

Not all of the difference between the ships on hand in 1939, the ships built and the ships in the fleet today can be laid to losses in action. Transfer of vessels to other nations accounts for much of the difference, especially in destroyers and destroyer escorts.

British Lose Position

The British fleet, once the world's most powerful, is now less than half the strength of the American fleet. The British navy numbers about 500 ships.

War security restrictions prevent publication of up to the minute figures on the British navy. However, the following estimate is authoritative, altho it underestimates the 1945 strength of the navy by some fifty or more ships.

Type	1939	1945
Battleships	17	19
Carriers	7	8
Escort carriers	0	41
Cruisers	61	58
Destroyers	222	257
Submarines	52	66
Totals	359	449

The American navy has a wide variety of noncombat ships. The total number of ships in the navy as of Jan. 1, 1945, was 1,167 combat vessels, 1,853 patrol and mine craft, 1,348 auxiliaries, 54,206 landing craft, and 2,471 district craft.

Tonnage of Vessels.

The tonnage of the combatant vessels totaled 3,893,000 and that of the others 7,814,000, or a grand total of 11,707,000 tons. The new ships built by the navy from 1941 thru 1944 totaled 5,457,490 tons.

The British construction program has lagged behind the American. The British completed 722 major war vessels of 1,333,961 tons, 1,386 mosquito craft of 132,796 tons, and 3,636 other naval vessels of 440,320 tons from Sept. 1, 1939 thru June 30, 1944.

REPORT FRENCH LOATH TO YIELD COLONIAL RULE

PARIS, April 7 (AP)—French delegates to the proposed Big Five conference on colonial trusteeship have been instructed to oppose any suggestion for placing all colonies under international control, circles close to the foreign office indicated today.

The position was reported clearly stated in a communication sent by the council of ministers to Paul Emile Naggiar, France's alternate delegate to the San Francisco world security conference.

The United States suggested this week that representatives of the United States, Britain, Russia, China, and France meet at Washington two weeks before the April 25 San Francisco meeting to work out an agreement on mandates.

Marshalls an Example

There is widespread belief here that the Washington session may produce American proposals to establish an international administration for colonial empires. Presumably the conference will confine itself to a discussion of the former league of nation's mandates and questions of supervising factories wrested from the Nazis. An example of the mandate problem is that posed by the Marshall Islands in the Pacific.

The French see no difficulties on such points.

But they seem worried over the possibility that the proposed trustee system might be extended to include colonies, especially in the orient, which belonged to France, Holland, and Britain and have since been overrun by the Japanese.

Handed Over by Vichy

French Indo-China is the focal point of this disquiet.

Vichy virtually handed over this big colony to Japan three months before Pearl Harbor, granting Tokyo permission to station a large army there and providing full military and naval facilities. Later Japan announced Indo-China had been incorporated formally into the Japanese southeast Asia sphere.

The remainder of that sphere included the Philippines, Malaya, Burma, and the Netherlands East Indies—physically conquered and occupied. The situation respecting Indo-China is different in that it technically was enemy country from the beginning of the war in the Pacific.

Gen. De Gaulle's government never has recognized either the agreement that permitted Japan to make a military base of Indo-China or Tokyo's alteration of that country's status.

'DON'T LET OUR SONG HITS DIE,' SOLDIER PLEADS

Among the things returning service men want to come back to are the song hits of their own day, not the unfamiliar tunes of the latest hit parade, complained Pvt. Tony Swarek, 23, of Harvey, who spent the first week of his 45 day furlough hunting in vain for "I've Got Spurs That Jingle Jangle Jingle."

Swarek, an army photographer, went overseas in September, 1942. After three years hopping from island to island in the Pacific, he returned home and to the first orchestra he found put in his request for his favorite song—a song he admits is also the sentimental favorite of his wife, who is now in California.

"When I asked orchestras to play my song they just ignored me," he said. "I've looked thru the lists of a hundred juke boxes and can't find it. All the songs they sing now don't mean anything to fellows who haven't heard a juke box for two or three years.

"It's not only for myself but for the hundreds of other boys who also have some favorite song they want to hear when they get back home. Why can't we have a few of them? 'Accentuate the Positive' doesn't mean a thing to a returning G.I., but that old song he heard on his wedding night or on some other important occasion means a lot."

LT. GEN. KNUDSEN TO RESUME WAR DEPARTMENT JOB

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Knudsen will resume his duties as the war department's director of production on May 1, the army announced today.

Knudsen has completed a special assignment to organize the air technical service command of the army air forces, the department said. Last summer he was assigned a special mission to consolidate the material command and the air service command of the AAF into one organization. He acted as director of the command during its organization and initial stages of operation.

The department's announcement was in contrast to reports current some time ago that the veteran industrial expert would resign his military post and return to the automobile industry.

Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, who was Knudsen's assistant director, will become commander of the air technical service.

POLES BLOCKED IN ATTEMPT TO FORM COALITION

Lose Hope of Taking Part in Parley; Reds Blamed

LONDON, April 7 (AP)—Hopes for Polish participation in the San Francisco world security conference just about vanished today as it was learned that attempts to establish a coalition government had run into a stone wall.

A spokesman for the exiled Polish government said that "lack of good faith" on the part of Russia and the soviet sponsored Warsaw administration was blocking formation of the proposed provisional regime.

Report 15 Leaders Vanish.

Earlier the Polish telegraph agency—voice of the London Poles—said that 15 Polish political leaders had disappeared after presenting themselves to soviet authorities in accepting an invitation to fly to London.

Despite a statement last night by United States Secretary of State Stettinius that it was highly important that a provisional government be established by the Poles in time for the San Francisco meeting later this month, it was learned authoritatively that no progress in that direction had been made recently.

Meanwhile the United States and Britain remained firm in their decision that Poland could be represented at the conference only by the creation of a provisional government of national unity as agreed upon at the Yalta conference.

Russia Equally Firm.

This stand was adopted in the face of equally firm Russian insistence that an invitation be extended to the Warsaw group if the Polish coalition cannot be established before the conference opening on April 25.

The spokesman for the London Poles once again contended that the rival regime had no intention of coöperating in the formation of a new government, and again maintained it was "not representative of a fraction" of the Polish population.

Belgian Substitute Named.

BRUSSELS, April 7 (AP)—Auguste de Schryver, former deputy prime minister in the Pierlot government, will go to the world security conference in San Francisco in the Belgian delegation in the place of Franz van Cauwelaert, president of the chamber of deputies, it was announced today.

Van Cauwelaert declined the San Francisco trip because, he said, he felt his presence more essential in the Belgian chamber.

DEAL ON LEAGUE VOTES SURPRISE TO ME: MacLEISH

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP)—Assistant State Secretary MacLeish tonight said he was as surprised as the public to learn about the Yalta agreement between Russia and the United States whereby each would ask for three votes in the proposed world assembly.

MacLeish was speaking on a state department radio program. A month ago on a similar program he had discussed the point that each member of the world organization should have one vote according to the plan outlined at Dumbarton Oaks.

"It came as a complete surprise to a good many of us," MacLeish said. "However, there were reasons, as the secretary has stated in a recent press release, for withholding the announcement. It was felt that the result of the conversations at this point should be communicated first to the American delegation, since the question of whether the United States would ask for additional assembly votes for itself was left open at Yalta. But that didn't make it any easier for those of us with an information program to worry about."

Secretary Stettinius has announced that President Roosevelt had decided not to ask for three votes for the United States.

DULLES' APPOINTMENT PROTESTED AS SLAP AT JEWS, CATHOLICS

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP)—Appointment of John Foster Dulles as an adviser to the allied nations conference is "a state department slap" at Jewish and Catholic faiths, Rep. O'Toole [D., N. Y.] said today. Dulles accepted the appointment yesterday.

O'Toole declared he had not had "the courtesy of a reply" from a letter he sent State Secretary Stettinius March 20, in which he urged that all faiths be represented at the conference.

"I protested to the secretary," O'Toole said, "that it was only American and democratic that if the Protestant denominations were to be represented that the Catholic and Jewish faiths, both representing a great segment of our people, should likewise have a spokesman or so-called 'adviser' at the scene."

Dulles, who counseled Gov. Dewey on international affairs during last fall's Presidential campaign, headed a committee on a just and durable peace for the Federal Council of Churches.

Describing Dulles as the representative of the council, O'Toole said it was "repugnant" to him "and to millions of my fellow citizens to know that the exclusion of the spiritual spokesmen of so many Americans has been brought about thru the action of the state department.

"This action is a direct slap at two great faiths."

SCHEME TO GIVE AWAY MERCHANT FLEET CHARGED

New York, April 7 (AP)—Basil Harris, president of the United States lines, said in a statement today that "forces are appearing on the scene with a misguided, if not sinister, drive to take the United States off the merchant sea lanes."

It is a move, said Harris, "that would have us scrap or give away to foreign nations the best part of the tremendous merchant fleet which we built up during the war and which has played such an important part in our drive toward victory."

Harris named Lewis W. Douglas, president of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, former federal director of the budget, as one of the leading proponents of the "give-away" move, citing what he said were recent writings of Douglas as "urging us to dispose of most of our fleet." Douglas served for a time as deputy administrator of war shipping.

3 HELP IDENTIFY MURDER VICTIM FOUND IN SEWER

The mysterious disappearance 14 months ago of Onofrio Vitale, 50, of 7 157th st., Calumet City, was solved yesterday in the county morgue with the identification of a battered and trussed body which was found Thursday in a sewer at Ohio st. and Union av.

Identification was made by Dr. George H. Carberry of Gary, a dentist, who said a gold crown was one he had made for Vitale in 1930. Vitale's daughter, Ann, 26, and his sister, Mrs. Vivian Loduca of 6 157th st., Calumet City, also identified several articles of clothing.

Vitale, a salesman for the Grande Cheese company, formerly at 134 N. La Salle st., died of a fractured skull, the same manner in which his friend, Vincenzo [James] De Angelo, 42, was slain. De Angelo's body was found stuffed in his wife's automobile on March 11, 1944, in front of 1526 N. La Salle st. De Angelo disappeared Feb. 24, 1944 and Vitale on Feb. 25.

Lt. Phil Breitzke, head of the homicide squad, said Vitale had no Chicago police record and that little was known of his activities.

Both De Angelo and Vitale apparently were tortured before they were killed.

An inquest into Vitale's death will be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

MARINE NAMES MASKED PIANIST; WINS $25 BOND

Carl Wienold, marine corps private first class, of 8137 S. Marshfield av., last night won a $25 war bond as the prize for selecting the name, Sandra Starr, for the attractive brunette pianist in Le Bal Masque at the Continental hotel.

Miss Starr wore a half mask for the last three weeks, the time the contest ran. The marine's selection was chosen from 1,000 entries.

Wienold, a veteran of the battles in the Marshall Islands, Tinian, and Saipan, and three of his buddies at Great Lakes Naval Training center hospital, were week-end guests of the Continental hotel. The marine is hospitalized for injuries received while at Saipan. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wienold.

REPORTS WALLET LOST

Benjamin Orloff, 931 Winona st., told police yesterday that he had lost his pocketbook containing papers and cards on the street.

GAMBLERS' GUNS BLAMED IN DEATH OF ZUKIE'S PAL

The shotgun death early yesterday of Willie Tarsch, 45, alias Willie Galatz of 1855 Komensky av., who was lured from a card game in a vacant store at 3712 Roosevelt rd., was believed by police to be an aftermath of the slaying a year ago of Ben [Little Zukie] Zuckerman.

Zuckerman was the czar of gambling in the 24th ward and Tarsch reputedly held a minor lieutenancy under him. Since Zuckerman's death, police said, Tarsch had been gaining power in gaming activities in the ward. Some west side gamblers, they added, may have opposed his leadership.

Police disclosed that Hyman Portugais, 616 Rush st., whom they described as a hoodlum, had been taken to Bridewell hospital early yesterday for treatment for a severed artery in his leg, which Portugais said was received when he fell thru a window at 3724 Roosevelt rd. The shooting of Tarsch occurred in a passageway between 3710 and 3712 Roosevelt rd.

Police also questioned the owners of the Lawndale restaurant, 3712 Roosevelt rd., Joe and Nathan Tardasch. Nathan said that he had received the telephone call for Tarsch and had gone next door to the vacant store to notify him. After he had gone back into the restaurant, he said, he heard two or three gunshots.

U. S. TO DEMAND G. I. SERVE 10 YRS. FOR F. D. R. INSULT

Yank Freed by One Court, Convicted by Another

Atlanta, Ga., April 7 [Special]—United States Atty. M. Neil Andrews said here today he will take steps to return Hugh Callan, 39, a former soldier, to custody as soon as he receives a mandate from the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals, which yesterday in New Orleans affirmed Callan's court martial conviction for speaking disrepectfully of President Roosevelt.

Callan was serving a 10 year sentence in Atlanta federal prison when he won freedom last September thru habeas corpus proceedings in the federal District court for northern Georgia. The decision of the Appellate court yesterday overrules the District court finding and has the effect of reinstating the court martial sentence.

Free Since September

Andrews said that Callan, who lives in New York City, has been at liberty since September on a $500 bond signed by himself. The Appellate court's mandate is expected in 20 days, Andrews said, and upon receiving it he will notify Callan to surrender.

Callan was court martialed at Camp Blanding, Fla., in 1942 on charges of violating the 62d and 96th articles of war by speaking disrepectfully of the President and making seditious utterances. He was given a 20 year sentence which the President reduced to 10 years.

Callan's habeas corpus petition was based on a contention that he had never taken the soldier's oath of allegiance and was consequently not subject to court martial jurisdiction. The District court agreed with him, holding the government had failed to prove administration of the oath.

Holds Oath Was Given

The Appellate court, in reversing this finding, asserted Callan, after being inducted at Camp Upton, N. Y., in March, 1942, had received his uniform and drawn army pay. He drilled with other draftees at Camp Blanding, the court said, adding, "We are of the opinion that when the oath was administered the petitioner was present and such oath was administered to him."

Disrespectful remarks made by Callan concerning the President, according to the Appellate court, were:

"The President of the United States is a dirty politician, whose only interest is gaining power as a politician. President Roosevelt and his capitalistic mongers are enslaving the world by their actions in Europe and Asia, by their system of exploiting."

In his Federal court hearing, Callan, a native Irishman, testified that "to ask an Irishman to go out and fight and risk his life to protect British interests would be like asking a Jew to go out and fight to protect Hitler's interests."

Other remarks attributed to Callan by the court were that "Japan and Germany were justified in their war against the United States," that Hitler's plan was "one of necessity thru moral truth," that "the people of America are vulnerable saps," and that he would not fight in Asia, Europe, or Africa.

Opera Star Weds

LICIA ALBANESE

Manhasset, N. Y., April 7(AP) — Licia Albanese, 31, soprano star of the Metropolitan Opera company, was married today to Joseph A. Gimma, stockbroker and her business representative. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Sharp at St. Mary's rectory. Miss Albanese met Gimma when she came to the United States in 1940 with a letter of introduction from Gimma's sister, Ida. Both Gimma and Miss Albanese are natives of Bari, Italy. She made her Metropolitan debut in 1940 as Cho-Cho-San in "Madame Butterfly."

W. FRECKELTON, SCHOOL DIVORCE FIGURE, IS WED

William J. Freckelton, 9121 S. Oakley av., a teacher in the Chicago Vocational school, and Mrs. Pauline Collins, 6625 Morgan st., were married yesterday in the Brainerd Community church, 8805 Throop st.

Freckelton was granted a divorce last June on the ground of desertion from Jeanet Nicol Freckelton, former dean of girls in Lindblom High school.

In January, 1944, Mrs. Jeanet Freckelton appeared in Woman's court for hearings on charges of adultery and disorderly conduct against her and Porter Craig, Harvey, a bus driver. Both were acquitted, and were married last Aug. 6 in Bloomington, Ill.

WOUNDED YANK SAYS STRIKERS ARE 'DESERTERS'

News of strikes at home has stirred soldiers overseas to intense resentment and bitterness, Corp. Robert W. Elliott, 23, a wounded infantryman, wrote in a letter received yesterday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Elliott, 637 N. Grove av., Oak Park. Corp. Elliott, who was wounded Feb. 14, four days after he landed in France, is now in a base hospital in England.

"These damned strikes back home," he wrote, "are causing a lot of bitterness over here. Every day in our Stars and Stripes [army newspaper] we see a brief notice of some more 'patriotic Americans' stopping work making artillery shells, bomber parts, etc.

Causing U. S. Casualties

"If these deserters on the rear eschelon home front were exposed to some of my convalescing friends and neighbors, I'm certain there'd be bloodshed, or the home slackers would be working on a 24 hour a day schedule for a week or so.

"My God, don't they realize they are causing American casualties just as surely as if one of our battalions were to quit and withdraw, leaving a gap for the Jerry to exploit "

Citing the critical need of the Yanks for more of the bullets, shells, and bombs. Corp. Elliott emphasized the need of infantrymen for superior fire power.

Must Keep Jerry Down

"By that," the letter continued, "I mean it is necessary to have the ammunition to shoot several times at him [the Jerry] for every time he shoots at you, thereby making him afraid and keeping him down in his hole, too occupied with dodging bullets to have the time to shoot back at us."

Corp. Elliott left Northwestern university, where he was a medical student with one semester left to get his degree, to enter the service in January, 1944. He also had attended Cornell college at Mount Vernon, Ia.

3 CHICAGO AREA CIVIL WAR VETS FETED AT DINNER

Three veterans of the Civil war were the special guests last night of the Cook county banquet association of the Sons and Daughters of Union Veterans at a dinner and reception in the St. Clair hotel marking the 79th anniversary of the founding of the Grand Army of the Republic. They were William P. Lockwood, 98, of Kankakee; James Crugom, 95, of 7229 Rogers av., and James Harvey, Negro, 99, of Blue Island.

Lockwood, state department commander of the G. A. R., enlisted in the Union army in 1864 and fought in Kentucky with the 132d Illinois infantry. Crugom enlisted at the age of 11 and was a drummer boy in the 1st Wisconsin infantry regiment.

Principal speaker at the dinner was Capt. James Vander Graff, army chaplain at Vaughan General hospital, a veteran of nine months of service in the Southwest Pacific. "The grave danger before us is the glorification of the horrors of war," Capt. Vander Graff, a Madison, Wis., Methodist clergyman, said. "The sacrifices of American men must be remembered with dignity and not with pomp and ornate ceremony."

Adm. Carpender, 9th Navy C. O., Is Vice Admiral Now

A three star flag was raised at noon yesterday over 9th naval district headquarters, when Rear Adm. Arthur S. Carpender, commandant of the 9th naval district, officially became vice admiral.

CIO SLOWDOWN CUTS OUTPUT OF MILL 17,000 TONS

A production loss of approximately 17,000 tons of sheet tin and steel plate was caused last week by a slowdown by 50 workers on the continuous pickling line in the sheet and tin mills of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation in Gary, officials said yesterday. Only one of four pickling lines was in operation yesterday and more than 900 persons were idle in the 42 and 80 inch hot strip mills and the coal reduction plant. The dispute by members of the United Steel Workers union [CIO] began March 11 over a new work schedule. The metal is used for shell casings and G. I. ration containers.

Diseases of Women
Diagnosed and Competently Treated at United Medical Service

Of the many major disease problems confronting women today there are scarcely any which cannot be solved by timely medical attention and care. Notwithstanding, however, there is deplorable widespread failure to use this great pool of medical knowledge early enough to accomplish these happy results. Too many women fail to heed the warning signs that indicate beginning disease. If this were not so, heart disease, tuberculosis, cancer, kidney trouble, diabetes, arthritis, and other disabling diseases would be greatly reduced. This is true particularly in regard to cancer. According to medical authority the number of cancer cases has increased steadily during the past ten years. Yet 80 to 90 per cent cures have been reported in early cases of cancer of the skin, lip, mouth, throat, cervix, and 10 to 20 per cent cures in advanced cases. Cancer in women develops most frequently in the breasts and cervix where it can be readily diagnosed by proper medical examinations. Cancer is rarely allowed to develop on a woman's face because she seeks medical attention at the first sign of a skin blemish that mars her appearance. By practicing the same degree of caution at the first sign of disturbances in the female organs, disability and untimely death may be prevented. Here are a few signs and symptoms which should receive prompt medical attention. Any strange growths under the skin, lumps in the breasts, moles, old scars, warts or birthmarks that change in color or size, swellings, sores that refuse to heal, persistent stomach or rectal disturbances or abnormal discharge. Don't wait until you feel pain. There is rarely any pain in the early stages when cancer is curable. Women past 40 years of age, regardless of symptoms, should have a complete physical examination at least once a year. Thousands of women have been examined and successfully treated in our gynecological department during the past 12 years. Competent and experienced physicians are in attendance, supported by complete X-ray, medical laboratory and other scientific facilities. The fees are moderate and the same to all.

((A regional examination, including the use of the Colposcope, Schiller's test, microscopic study of secretions and discharges, urinalysis and blood tests, is only .... $4.50))

Skin Disease

Only persons who have suffered from a skin disorder at some period in their lives can fully appreciate the pain and suffering involved. Many afflictions of the skin are only temporary conditions which proper medical care will quickly heal. Others, however, require the most expert medical knowledge and skill to bring under control. Therefore, if you have a skin disorder it should be accurately diagnosed and competently treated. Competent skin therapy is available here by physicians who have adequate knowledge and experience and the support of complete treatment facilities. Examination includes urinalysis, blood and serological tests. The fee is $4.50

Teeth X-rayed
Under Medical Direction

When the teeth start to decay there is grave danger to health unless they are treated promptly. An X-ray of all the teeth at regular intervals will disclose their condition before serious damage has occurred. It is the only way to save your teeth and protect your health. Highly trained technicians, unexcelled facilities, insure good service and accurate interpretations. Full mouth X-ray, 14 films and a report, are only $2.50

Pre-Marriage Examinations

An X-ray of the heart and lungs........$4.50
X-ray picture of the sinuses (2 views)...$3.50
An X-ray of all the teeth (14 films) and report, only.................$2.50
A basal metabolism test is.............$4.50
Electrocardiogram of the heart is........$3.50

Syphilis and Gonorrhea treated in strict privacy under conditions that do not call attention to these ailments.

Stomach Complaints

The stomach is often a source of considerable disability and ill health. While many stomach complaints are the result of abuse and wrong eating habits, persistent cases often indicate a more serious condition. The stomach often produces the first symptoms of beginning heart disease, kidney and liver complaints, gall bladder trouble, and other serious ailments, including cancer. Therefore never neglect a persistent stomach ailment, particularly if you are past 40 years of age. Diagnosis requires a special gastrointestinal examination, including a physical check-up by trained physicians, blood pressure, urinalysis, a blood examination and serological tests. The fee is $4.50

A fluoroscopic examination of the stomach and small bowel following a barium meal, and an X-ray film of the abdomen when necessary, is $8.50

A fluoroscopic examination of the colon following a barium enema, including two 14"x17" X-ray films, one of barium-filled colon and one after evacuation $8.50

A laboratory examination of the gastric contents and stool is.... $5.50

An X-ray examination of the gall bladder is $6.50

Rectal Ailments
Diagnosed and Treated Without Pain or Loss of Time from Work

Rectal disorders are more dangerous than the average individual thinks possible. Medical authorities consider them a major disease problem. The most common or beginning type of rectal disorders are small blood tumors or varicose veins, called piles or hemorrhoids. Unless properly and promptly treated they will increase in size and become extremely painful and very dangerous. If neglected a simple hemorrhoid or pile can develop into a

Fistula or Rectal Abscess

When this occurs the physician's problem becomes more difficult and the patient's condition more serious. As soon as the abscess is opened by the physician most of the pain will cease. If it is delayed too long, however, pus may burrow into surrounding tissue causing more abscesses and fistula tracts to form. Proper medical attention can prevent this constant menace to health. Examinations made here include the services of a competent and experienced physician as well as urinalysis, blood and serological tests. The examining fee is......................... $4.50

Diseases of Older Men

In older men such symptoms as fear, nervousness, frequent or painful urination, blood in the urine, discharges, or pain and discomfort of any kind call for a thorough physical check-up. To be fully protective, the clinical examination by the physician must include microscopic examination of all secretions and discharges, blood and serological tests. Examining fee is $4.50

Protective Examinations

This group of medical procedures will disclose hidden infection or beginning disease in its earliest stages when treatment is most effective. A complete physical check-up by the physician, an X-ray of the chest showing condition of heart and lungs, and electrocardiogram of heart, blood pressure, a basal metabolism test, a full mouth X-ray of the teeth (14 films), a urological or gynecological examination, and laboratory tests of the blood, urine and other secretions. These combined services $18.50

Open Evenings for Those Who Work

Ear—Nose Throat

These three organs are so closely related through connecting sinuses that one is rarely affected without involving all three. That is why severe colds will cause sore throat, inflammation, and infection in tonsils, adenoids, discharge from ears and other serious conditions. Lowered body resistance may account for recurring colds or they may be the result of more serious acute or chronic ailments. Our ear, nose, and throat physicians have the medical knowledge, experience, and facilities to diagnose and successfully treat these conditions. The examination will include tests for hearing, urinalysis and blood tests. The fee is.. $4.50

Glasses Fitted Eyes Examined
Under Medical Direction

Such symptoms as persistent headache, dizzy spells, nervousness, etc., should call for a medical examination of the eyes without delay. These symptoms can be due to disease in the eyes or to ailments in other parts of the body. In any case treatment should begin at once. When vision is impaired and glasses are needed it is especially important to have them fitted correctly. Improperly fitted glasses can cause serious damage. Glasses fitted under medical direction provide greater protection to your eyes. This protective optical service is available here. In addition you can make your selection from beautifully engraved ful-vue, gold filled mountings with excellent quality lenses for near and far vision. Exceptional values are available for as low as....... $8.00

A Complete Medical Examination of the eyes is $4.50

NEW U. S. PARTY URGED TO REPEL 'DICTATOR' TREND

United Stand to Uphold Constitution Asked

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Wilmington, N. C., April 7—Formation of a third party to save the republic by upholding the constitution against ideologies boring from within present political alignments and leading toward dictatorship was urged here tonight by Bryce Metcalf, president general of the Society of the Cincinnati.

Bryce Metcalf

Metcalf spoke at a meeting of the North Carolina chapter of the organization which was founded by officers who served under George Washington in the Revolutionary war and who returned to their plows like Cincinnatus after saving the country. Eldest sons of eldest sons descended from these officers, who pledged themselves to return to arms if the republic were in danger, are eligible to membership in the society.

Dictator Trend Cited.

In making his plea for a party dedicated to preservation of constitutional government, Metcalf said the time has come to recognize that America has departed far from the fundamental principles which made this nation great and is drifting toward an ideology which, thruout history, has been the forerunner of dictatorship and the destroyer of individual liberty.

"The general welfare clause of the Constitution has been twisted to provide for the special welfare of pressure groups," he said.

"Propagandists who know not the American way of life are trying to make progress by legislation, while real American progress is individualistic, not legislative.

"From repeated blows during the past generation our Constitution is tottering, but it still stands, waiting for a united, intelligent, and patriotic rally to make it secure. This must come from a united American party, overriding our present political aligments. Our founders met similar situations, and principle won over political affiliations."

BRACELET, RING TAKEN

Mrs. Anna Ellison, 10017 Carpenter st., yesterday told police that a bracelet and a ring, both valued at $55, were stolen from her home.

FOUR CHILDREN ARE KILLED IN TRUCK MISHAPS

Richard Ptacin, 5, of 1703 S. Ruble st., was killed yesterday when he was struck by a truck at 1720 S. Ruble st. Joe Brown, 30, of 722 W. 21st pl., driver, told police that the child had darted into the street in front of the truck and that he did not have time to stop.

Lawrence Laszczeuski, 3, was injured fatally yesterday when he was hit by the rear wheels of a truck passing in front of his home at 2809 S. Union av. Alvin Carter, 44, of 207 N. Karlov av., was the driver of the truck.

Fatalities Up in March.

A report released yesterday by the Chicago park district showed an increase of five fatalities and 11 injuries in traffic mishaps in the park district during March over the corresponding month last year. Comparative fatality figures were eight for last March and three for March, 1944; 235 injuries last month, and 244 for March of last year.

Cynthia Danjanow, 4, of 2003 W. 21st st., was killed instantly by a truck that struck her in the street in front of her home. The driver, Ted Reichel, 26, of 2045 N. Honore st., told Marquette police the child ran in front of the truck. He said he swerved the front wheels enough to miss her but was unable to avoid hitting her with a rear wheel. Her father, Robert, is a war worker.

Truck Driver Killed

Garnet McPherson, 37, of 3446 Carroll av., a driver for the Templeton Lime company, 1011 N. Homan av., died last night in Garfield Park hospital of injuries received yesterday when his truck struck a pole in front of 3849 W. Grand av., when McPherson swerved suddenly to avoid striking a pedestrian. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mabel McPherson, and a sister, Ila.

Richard Madden, 9, of 1906 N. Rutherford av., died in the West Suburban hospital yesterday from injuries suffered Friday when he was crushed against a wall by a coal truck that backed into the yard of the Sayre elementary school, 1850 N. Newland av., where he was playing. Richard's father, Edward, is a department manager of Montgomery Ward & Co.

HUNT PACIFIC VET WHOSE SON, 2, IS FACING DEATH

Savanna, Ill., April 7 (AP)—Mayor R. B. Law of Savanna tonight issued a plea for financial aid to help keep alive Walter Whitney, 2, lymphatic leukemia victim, until his father, Welcome W. Whitney, a Seabee, can be returned from the Pacific war theater.

The Savanna Red Cross chapter reported it has been unable to reach him thus far thru the navy personnel bureau.

Walter already had lost use of his legs due to the blood disease which destroys the red corpuscles. Physicians at a Clinton, Ia., hospital advised Mrs. Whitney the condition of her son was "hopeless." Law estimated $1,000 would be needed in the next month to pay for transfusions and hospital expenses to keep the boy alive.

NORTH SIDERS DROP 2D GAME TO CINCINNATI

Conquer Louisville in Opener

BY EDWARD BURNS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

(Box Scores on Page 3, Sports)

Louisville, Ky., April 7—The Cubs this afternoon engaged in four hours and seven minutes of what was billed as exhibition baseball. They won the first game of a double header, conquering the Louisville Colonels, 9 to 6, in 10 innings, but faltered a bit in the afterpiece, which they lost to the Reds, 19 to 4, in nine full innings.

The loss was the second for the Cubs in away from base competition but the Chicagoans basked in the knowledge that when Paul Derringer left after five innings of pitching, the Cubs were in a 4 to 4 tie with the 1944 National league third placers. The torture work was the ill fortune of George Hennessey, one of seven more or less ablebodied pitchers signed and on hand for labor. The others on the pre-training roster are either holdouts, are lame, have been transferred to the Los Angeles club, or are absent in mystery.

Johnson's Error Hurts.

Scoring in the second game got under way in the second inning after Steve Mesner had opened up against Derringer with a single to center. Woody Williams also singled to center and Walt Flager walked, loading the bases. Al Lakeman was called out on strikes, then Don Johnson failed to come up with Fox's grounder, Mesner and Williams scoring and Flager reaching third. Dain Clay bounced to Stan Hack and Flager was sunk at the plate on Stan's throw to Mickey Livingston.

Eric Tipton singled to center, Fox scoring, Clay reaching third, and Tipton reaching second on the throw to the plate. Roy Hughes threw out Al Libke. A homer by Johnson was the first Chicago hit, a shot over the left field wall, just inside the foul pole, with two out in the second inning. The Cubs produced another run in the third inning, on a pass to Stan Hack and Eddie Sauer's double to left.

Reds Keep Going

The Reds took a 4 to 2 lead in the fifth. Frank McCormick doubled and went to third while Johnny Ostrowski, who had replaced Hack at third, was making a nice play to get Mesner at first. In attempting to nab McCormick rounding third, Cavarretta threw into the dugout, McCormick trotting home.

In the fifth the Cubs tied the score at 4 all, singles by Roy Hughes Sauer and Secory and an error by Williams being elements.

Hennessey got action shortly after he replaced Derringer at the start of the sixth. Flager singled to center and scored on Joe Just's pinch homer over the left field wall.

All Was Well for a While

The first two Reds in the seventh were retired easily but after that things weren't so good for Hennessey. A double by Mesner, a single by Williams, two walks, and a single by Walters with the bases loaded contributing to a cluster of three runs. The eighth gave the Reds their 10th run. Tipton got home after leading off with a double.

Just opened the ninth with a double. Dick Sipek batted for Walters and doubled to right, scoring Just. Clay walked and Tipton knocked a double off the scoreboard, scoring Sipek and Clay. Libke walked, then singles by McCormick and Mesner provided two more runs. Williams walked, loading the bases with no one out. The hammering went on and on and when the inning finally ended the Reds had nine runs for the session.

Pitching Is Fair.

Len Merullo opened the victorious 10th inning of the first game with a single and scored on Cavarretta's second successive triple off Si Simonds. Cavarretta scored on Secory's third extra base hit, a double [he previously had bashed a double and a triple] and Frank scored on a single by Paul Gillespie to round out the Cubs' nine run total.

The Cub pitching was done by Hank Wyse and Bob Chipman, each of whom did some fine work except that each had one three run inning.

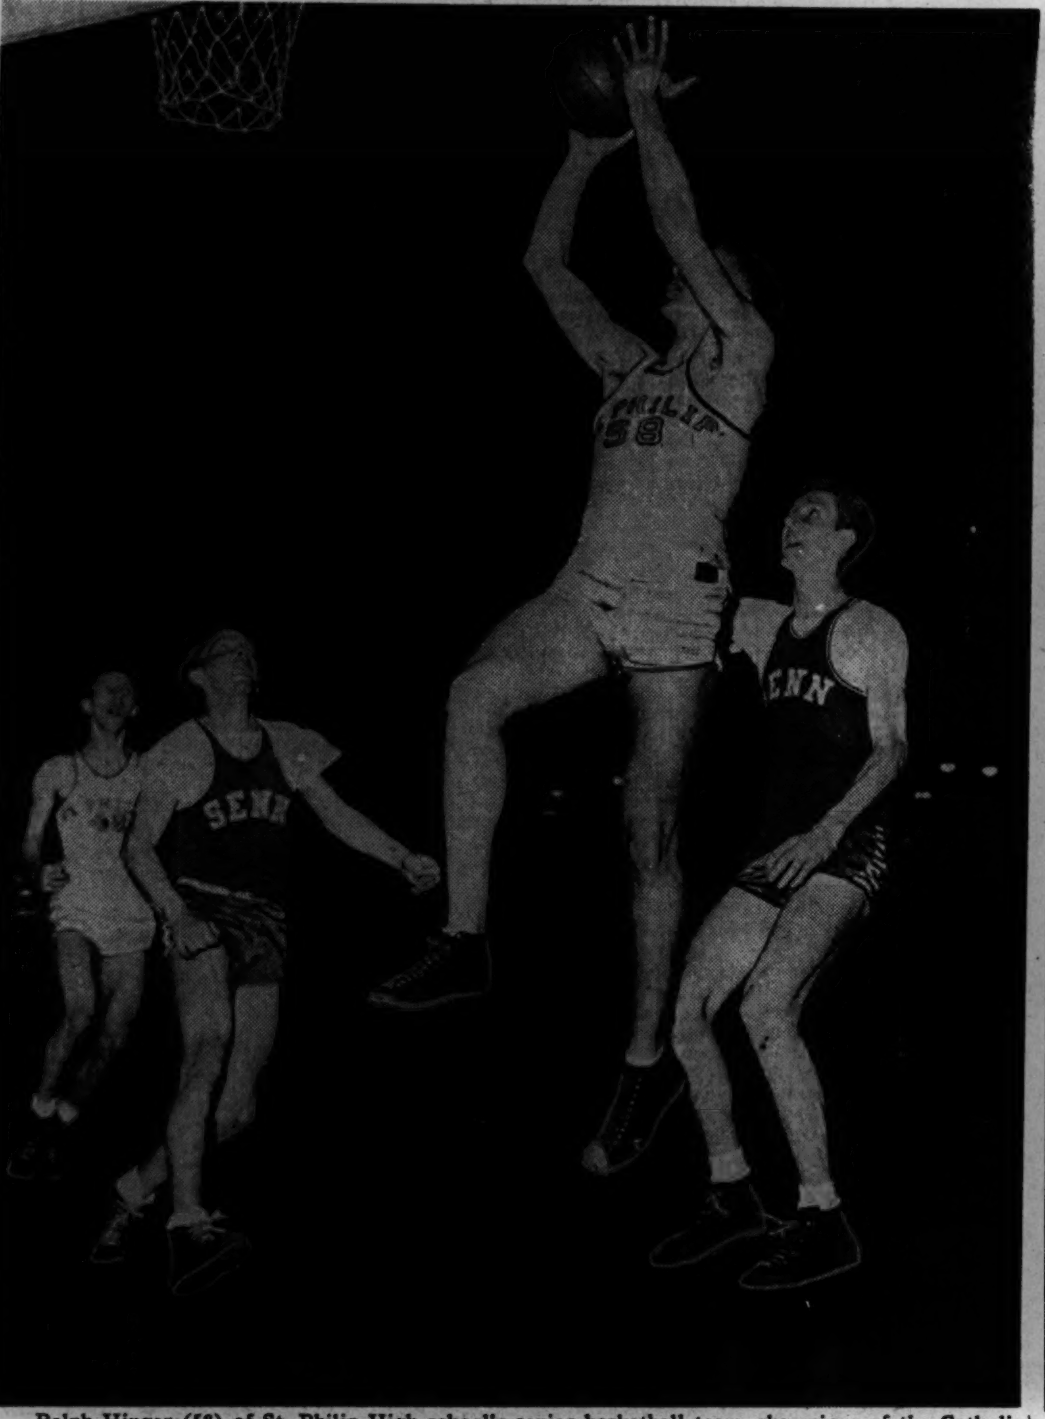
Wyse didn't allow a runner to reach base in the first three innings, but went away after three runs in the fourth. Chipman's only bad inning was the eighth when the Colonels tied the score at 6 to 6.

IT'S BEAUTIFUL OPENING DAY AT QUIET JAMAICA

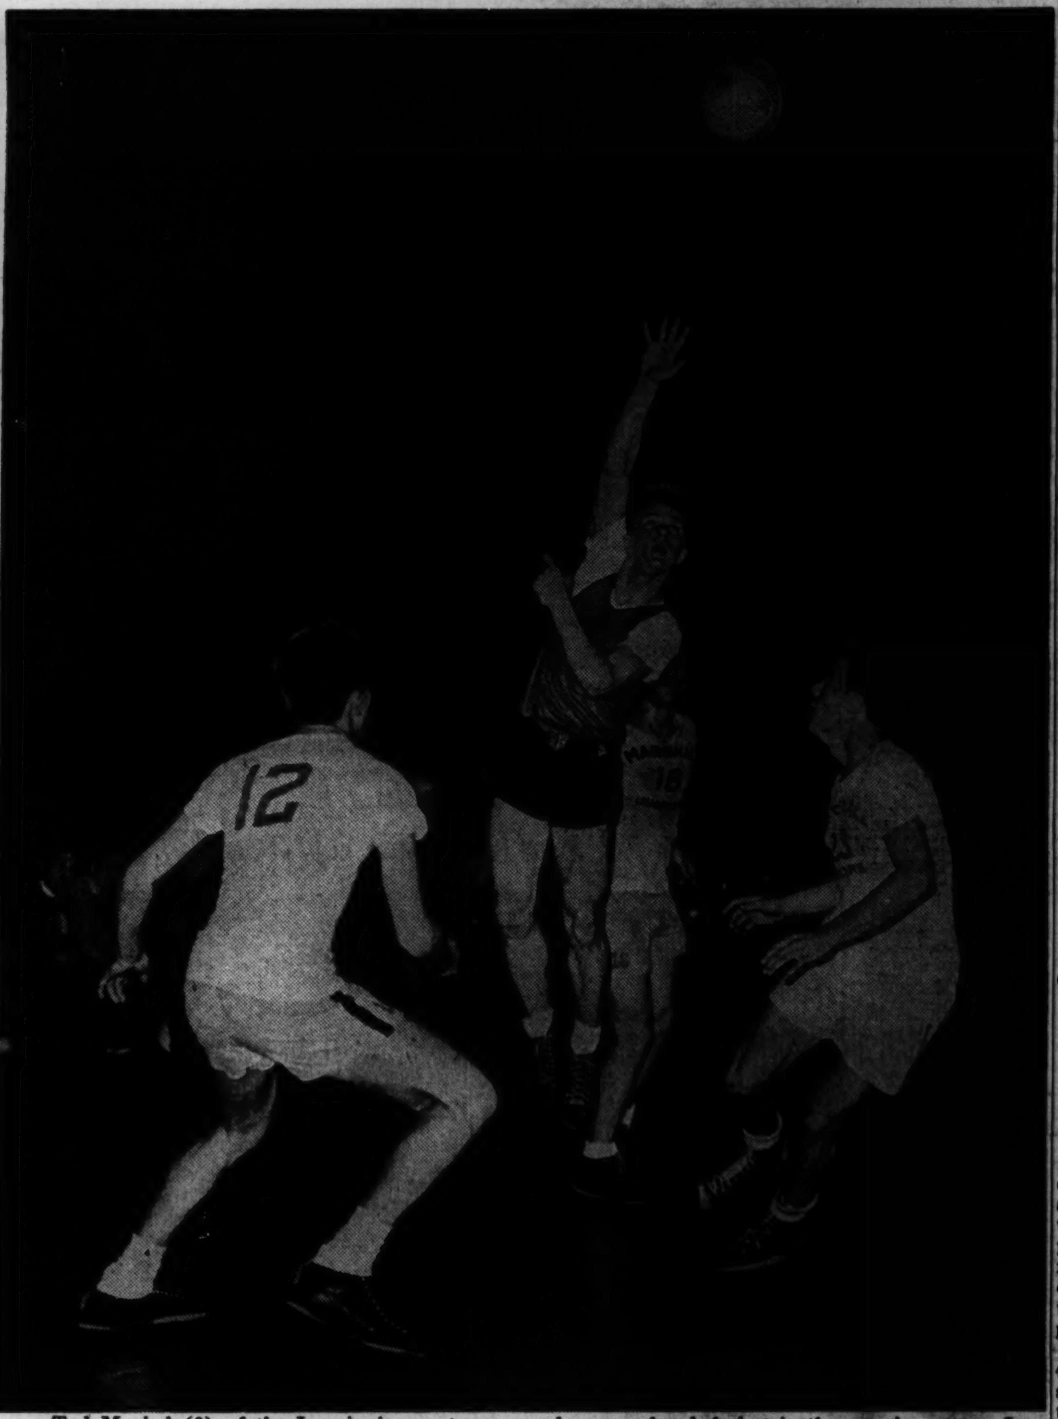
New York, April 7 (AP).—A year ago 45,796 persons jammed the Jamaica race track to bet $2,601,836 as the thorobreds made their first northern appearance of the 1944 campaign.

Today, nominal date for the opening of the 1945 season, there wasn't a soul in the Jamaica amphitheater because of the racing blackout. Brilliant sunshine, a soft breeze, and a temperature of 56 at noon with promises that the mercury would climb to 70 by mid-afternoon, made it an ideal opening day.

CHICAGO'S FINEST DO THEIR BIT FOR WORTHY CAUSE



Ralph Hinger (58) of St. Philip High school's senior basketball team, champions of the Catholic league, goes high in the air to take a rebound in last night's all-city title game with Senn, Public School league champions, in the Chicago Stadium. St. Philip won, 62 to 48, before 14,500. No. 48 of the winners is Dick Flando. Senn players on hand are Frank Walters (left) and Jack Wulf.



Ted Moskal (3) of the Leo juniors gets away a long one-handed shot in the opening game. Leo whipped Marshall, 34 to 26, in this one to capture junior city honors. Marshall players are Jerry Berman (12), Sheldon Cherney (16), Al Rappaport (23). Proceeds from the program, the third such sponsored by Mayor Kelly, will be given to Chicago service men's centers.

Thornton Lee Yields 2 Hits in 1st 5 Innings Against Tigers

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Terre Haute, Ind., April 7—The White Sox did a little fancy spring training today, using as their means of exercise none other than Detroit's Tigers, 1943 American league pennant candidates. The James Dykes boys performed their act so well before about 2,000 cash patrons that the Tigers succumbed by 6 to 4 in the opener of a four game series nere. The Sox also are the possessors of an 8 to 0 decision over the same batch of athletes as the result of a meeting several days ago.

Heading the Dykes' feature artists was the 37 year old Thornton Lee who was supposed to be slightly indisposed by a bronchial irritation. The giant southpaw to all appearances, was making a serious bid for the opening day assignment April 17. To this end he yielded only two hits in five innings, one lap more than he had planned in advance. He took the extra inning because, as he put it, he "felt good." The rest of the pitching was done by John Johnson and things didn't proceed quite as smoothly.

Sox Guilty of Four Errors

Because Hal Newhouser had worked a half hour in batting practice yesterday the 29 game winner didn't appear as advertised so Frank Overmire, also a lefty, was put to work and the Sox weren't at all sorry about the alteration. The diminutive southpaw went the route, along which he was jarred by a dozen Sox wallops, three by Tony Cuccinello. One of the three was a trick homer. Overmire also gave himself a thoro shaking with a wild heave which led the Chicagoans to a batch of three runs in the second inning.

The Sox were guilty of four errors, all while Johnson was pitching, but nevertheless had their choice moments on defense. Stops by Cass Michaels and Bill Nagel, the temporary first baseman, and running catches by Oris Hockett and Johnny Dickshot helped Lee in his two hit performance. Cuccinello also assisted on defense at least in one spot. He speared a line drive for a double play in the ninth when the Tigers had the bases filled with none out.

Three Score on Error

Cuccinello singled to center to open the second inning and altho this was the only ball hit out of the infield it didn't take long for three runs to accumulate. Nagel fanned after which Michaels scratched a single past Overmire. Tresh also tapped to the southpaw who held this one but quickly regretted he hadn't allowed it to escape. He tried for a force play at second but gave the ball such a robust heave that it sailed deep into the outfield, Cuccinello, Michaels, and Tresh scoring.

Runs—Detroit: Richards, Webb, Mayo, Walker. Chicago: Cuccinello [2], Michaels, Tresh, Hackett, Dickshot. Runs batted in—Dickshot, Schalk, Cuccinello, Outlaw. Errors—Overmire, Schalk [2], Moses, Nagel. Two base hit—Dickshot. Home run—Cuccinello. Double plays—Lee to Schalk to Nagel; Ross to Mayo to York; Michaels to Schalk to Nagel; Richards to Mayo; Cuccinello to Nagel. Left on bases—Detroit, 6; Chicago, 5. Struck out—Lee, 1; Johnson, 1; Overmire, 4. Bases on balls—Johnson, 4. Hits—Off Lee, 2 in 5 innings; Johnson, 3 in 4. Hit by pitcher—Overmire [Hockett]. Winning pitcher—Lee. Time—1:40. Umpires—Passarella and Rue.

The Sox didn't require the assistance of Tiger blunders to register their pair in the third inning. Hockett led off with a single and went for home on a double to left by Dickshot. Dickshot scored later on a single by Schalk. The Sox offense wasn't heard from again until two out in the fifth when Cuccinello slapped a legitimate single to left. But the ball took an unexpected hop past Left Fielder Maier and while the latter was pursuing it to the distant fence Cuccinello was pedaling his way to a homer.

Schalk's Generosity Aids Tigers

As soon as Johnson took over the mound job in the sixth he walked Richards and soon thereafter Schalk succumbed to his streak of generosity. Overmire fanned and Webb singled, after which came a tap to Schalk by Mayo. Schalk heaved it wild past first base, Richards scoring and Webb taking third, when he scored on a single by Outlaw. The third run counted when Schalk drop kicked York's roller into center field.

Two passes off Johnson and Moses' drop of a fly ball caused the ninth inning base line congestion with none out. Cuccinello's spearing act of Richards' liner came next. Then Cuccinello heaved out Dizzy Trout who batted for Overmire but Nagel dropped the ball, Hub Waker scoring the lone run of the inning.

NELSON TAKES 7 STROKE LEAD IN ATLANTA PLAY

Atlanta, Ga., April 7 (AP)—Byron Nelson carded a 65 today in the $10,000 iron lung golf tournament and goes into the final round tomorrow with a seven stroke lead over his nearest competitor, Sammy Byrd of Redford, Mich.

Byrd finished the third round ahead of Nelson and posted a 66 for a total of 205, but the Texan rounded the turn with a 33 and then came down the back nine with a 32 for his 65 and a total of 198 for the 54 holes.

Nelson Perils Wood's Record

With his three first rounds in the 60s, Nelson was conceded a good chance to crack the record 264 for a 72 hole tournament set some years ago by Craig Wood.

Nelson garnered six birdies in the round and went over par on two holes. Once he drove more than 300 yards on No. 7 and the ball came to rest in a ditch. He one putted eight greens.

Joe Kirkwood, of Philadelphia, was by himself in third place tonight at 209 with one under par 68 round for today.

Snead in Fourth Place

Sammy Snead, winner of six winter tournaments to seven for Nelson, finally cracked par with a 68 and was in the fourth spot with 210.

CULVER DEFEATS LOYOLA'S TRACK TEAM, 68 TO 41

The Culver Military academy track team defeated Loyola, 68 to 41, yesterday in the Culver fieldhouse. The cadets' victory resulted from eight first places and the scoring of at least one man in all 12 events.

Bob Firstberger led Culver, winning the broad jump and 40 yard dash, and sharing a three way tie for first in the pole vault, for a total of 13 points.

National Pro League Weighs Expansion to Twelve Teams

BY EDWARD PRELL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, April 7—Expansion of the National Football league to 12 teams, the new member to be Los Angeles, was being seriously considered tonight by the assembled club owners and Commissioner Elmer Layden.

It was learned that work had started on the 1945 schedule calling for a dozen teams. This development, if it goes thru, will eliminate the Brooklyn Tigers' demand for Yankee stadium as a new operating base. All day long the league considered this problem, with growing reports that the New York football Giants were hostile to giving up their pro football monopoly in this city. The 12 team plan may have been caused by the seeming impasse between the Tigers and Giants.

Viewed as Logical Move

The transfer of Brooklyn's franchise to Los Angeles was viewed as the logical move in the 12 team setup. Capt. Dan Topping of the marines, owner of the Brooklyn Tigers, has expressed a desire in the past to operate in Los Angeles. Whether he still holds this view after having become part owner of the New York Yankees is not known.

With Brooklyn going to the coast, it is speculated that Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn baseball Dodgers may obtain a franchise for Ebbets field. It is known that Rickey plans to enter professional football when the time is opportune.

In talking of a Los Angeles team, the National league is showing confidence in an imminent end to the war in Europe and, incidentally, a lessening of travel restrictions. The league also would gain the advantage of establishing a bridgehead on the west coast before the All-America conference begins operating. The All-America has teams in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Two Recesses Declared

Many former National league football players, including Bill Fisk of the Detroit Lions, are playing pro football in the Pacific Coast league. It is probable that some of these could be enrolled in the Los Angeles team.

Earlier in the evening, Tom Gallery, general manager of the Brooklyn team, said that little headway had been made in gaining the New York Giants' permission for the transfer to Yankee Stadium. Gallery met with Tim Mara and Jack Mara of the Giants, this morning, after which the entire league started consideration of the proposal. Recesses were taken in the afternoon and early in the evening.

It had been rumored that the Giants would not budge from their stand that their property was too valuable to allow a rival to operate in nearby Yankee stadium, and that at one stage of the meeting Gallery was invited to go thru with his oft-repeated threat of withdrawing from the league. Steve Owen, veteran coach of the Giants, has been against the surrender of territorial rights from the beginning.

Pittsburgh to Train at Home.

The owners hoped to get started on the weary, nerve racking tussle with the playing schedule some time this evening. With the Brooklyn-Boston merger, there will be five teams in each division. Each team will play 10 games, the pattern since 1943.

The Pittsburgh Steelers plan to train next summer in that town. Bert Bell, co-owner, said that nearly all his players will be war workers. Practice will be held in the early evening, he said.

The Cardinals' coach, Phil Handler, said that Eugene Meeks, half back from Kentucky who played last year with the March Field eleven, is touted as the fastest back in the country. He runs 100 yards in 9.6 seconds. The Cards, after drawing Charles Trippi of Georgia as their No. 1 player in yesterday's draft, then selected for the present. Their next four choices are available. They are Paul Collins, half back from Missouri; Walter Watt, half back from the University of Miami; Robert Dobelstein, guard from Tennessee, and Floyd Chronister, end from Texas Christian.

Select Available Players

Likewise the Bears, who have lost more stars than any other pro eleven since the war started, sought to build up their depleted ranks by selecting players who may be available. They have a chance to obtain this year the first eight chosen on their list of 30. These are Don Lund, Michigan half back; C. D. Allen, Southern Methodist end; Forest Masterson, Iowa center; Wayne Shaw, Southern Methodist half back; Glen Burgeis, Tulsa tackle; Pat O'Brien, Purdue tackle; William Mayther, Oregon center, and William Poe, Clemson half back.

Umpire Rudolph Joins American Association

Columbus, O., April 7 (AP)—President George M. Trautman of the American association announced today the addition of Harry Rudolph of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., to the league's staff of umpires. Rudolph was bought from the Eastern league, where he worked the last three seasons. Previously he served in the Canadian-American league.

RIS BEATS FORD IN A. A. U. SWIM 100 YARD RACE

New York, April 7 (AP) — Alan Ford, holder of the world record of 49.7 seconds for the 100 yard free style, suffered a stunning defeat in the century tonight when he finished second to Walter Ris of Bainbridge Naval, in the National A. A. U. indoor swimming meet.

Ris set a new record of 5.13 seconds for the 75 foot New York A. C. pool in coming from behind to nip Ford by less than half the length of his lunging arm. Ford, former Yale star now at the Columbia midshipmen school, was timed in 51.5.

Breaks Jaretz Record

The previous pool mark of 51.4 was set in 1941 by Otto Jaretz of Chicago.

Another Bainbridge triumph was chalked up when defending champion Ensign Adolph Kiefer of Bainbridge, who also is world record holder in the event, won the 150 yard back stroke title for the ninth time in 1:33.5.

Ohio State's Keo Nakama, the National A. A. U. outdoor 400, 880, and 1,500 meters champion who was barred from last week's N. C. A. A. meet because he is a post-graduate student, easily took the 440 yard free style event. Nakama, a Hawaiian veteran, was clocked in 4:44.5.

Ford's defeat was his first since he lost to Teammate Bruce McFadden in a Yale-Princeton dual meet in 1943.

McGuigan Bests Buckeyes.

The Bainbridge naval training center team from Maryland easily won the team title with 46 points. Ohio State N. C. A. A. champions, had 25 and Saginaw Junior Board of Commerce, 20.

Bainbridge closed the meet by earning 10 points as its 300 yard medley relay team of Kiefer, Joe Verdeur, and Walter Ris, won by 18 feet from Columbia Midshipmen.

Navy Chief Specialist Frank McGuigan, stationed at Treasure Island, San Francisco, and competing unattached, came from behind to beat out Ohio State's Hobie Billingsley.

100 YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Walter Ris, Bainbridge N. T. C.; second, Alan Ford, Columbia midshipmen; third, Richard Weinberg, Saginaw, Mich.; fourth, Ted Hobert, Bainbridge N. T. C. Time, :51.3.

150 YARD BACK STROKE—Won by Ensign Adolph Kiefer, Bainbridge N. T. C.; second, Howard Patterson, Saginaw; third, Jack Weeden, Oakland, Cal., S. C.; fourth, Floyd Aglietti, N. Y. A. C. Time, 1:33.5.

440 YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Keo Nakama, Ohio State; second, Gene Rogers, Columbia; third, Seymour Schlanger, Ohio State; fourth, Tom Gastineau, Riviera club, Indianapolis. Time, 4:44.5.

3 METER DIVE—Won by Frank McGuigan, unattached [San Francisco], 136.13; second, Hobie Billingsley, Ohio State, 130.67; third, Bernard Kelly, Sampson N. T. C., 120.30; fourth, Joseph La Harder, N. Y. A. C., 114.16.

300 YARD MEDLEY RELAY—Won by Bainbridge N. T. C. [Kiefer, Joe Verdeur, Ris]; second, Columbia Midshipmen; third, Saginaw; fourth, N. Y. A. C. Time, 2:55.7.

15,500 CHEER PREP FIVES IN STADIUM DUEL

Leo Juniors Defeat Marshall, 34-26

BY DAVID CONDON.

A cheering crowd of 15,500 sat in Chicago Stadium last night as the 1945 high school basketball season closed with St. Philip and Leo High schools, of the Catholic league, scoring impressive victories over public school opponents in the third annual inter-league play-off sponsored by Mayor Kelly.

In continuing the Catholic league dominance of the annual charity event, the Gaels from St. Philip turned back a determined rally by the Senn High school Bulldogs to defeat the City league senior champions, 62 to 48.

Marshall High school's Commandos, who gave the City leagu its only victory in the series by defeating Mount Carmel's Junior team in the 1943 contest, suffered its third defeat in 118 games at the season for the Commandos, who had amassed a string of 19 straight going into last night's game.

Leo Fights Back

Senn, which won the University of Chicago holiday tournament and went undefeated in capturing the City league title, played without the services of its captain, Bob David, who is recovering from an illness. The Bulldogs dropped behind, 10 to 6, early in the first period after holding a momentary 3 to 2 lead, and the Gaels had no trouble in running up a 19 to 10 margin as the first quarter ended. In the second period, Senn started a raly that had cut St. Philip's margin to three points, 28 to 25 at half time.

At the start of the third quarter, the Bulldogs went ahead, 29 to 28, on quick baskets by Frank Murphy and Frank Walters. Senn built up this lead to 38 to 33 midway in the period before Bob Luksta scored a field goal to begin a St. Philip drive that passed Senn with less than a minute remaining in the period.

Starting the last period with a 41 to 38 lead, St. Philip moved steadily to the front and had little trouble in the closing minutes.

Dick Kluck, ace forward, paced the Gael's offense with 18 points. Murphy was high for Senn with 12.

Gales Hit Their Stride

Marshall, pre-game favorite over its Catholic league opponent, started off with a smooth working offense that quickly ran up a 7 to 2 lead. This advantage lasted until slightly more than a minute remained in the opening period, when Gene Flaherty scored to tie it up at 8 all. Boy Kozlowski followed with a field goal, putting Leo in front, 10 to 8, just as the quarter ended.

Slow play marked the start of the second period, and the score was 11 to 9 in Leo's favor, after half of it had passed. Marshall called time, and shortly thereafter, without no scoring marking the play, Leon took time. Coming back from this rest, Flaherty flipped a shot over his head to inaugurate a drive that pushed Leo ahead 19 to 13, at half time. Marshall moved up to 19 to 15 on Howie Doman's setup shot, but trailed by 10 points as the third quarter closed with the score 30 to 20.

Marshall Rallies Too Late

The final eight minutes were highlighted by a belated Marshall drive that scarcely troubles the Lions, who declined eight free throws in the closing moments to bring the ball into play from the sidelines. The Commandos at one time drew within six points, 32 to 26, but Flaherty ended the game scoring with a basket that gave the Lions their eight point triumph.

Kozlowski, a guard, scored six field goals and one free shot to top the scorers. Jerry Berman, Commando center, got 12 points. Lineup:

WISCONSIN NIPS IOWA RALLY TO TRIUMPH, 4-3

Badgers Win 2d in Row Over Hawkeyes

Iowa City, Ia., April 7 [Special]—For the second straight afternoon, Iowa went into the ninth inning trailing by three runs, counted two but left the tying one standing on base as Wisconsin gained a 4 to 3 victory in the opening Western conference baseball series of the season today. Wisconsin also won yesterday, 4 to 3.

This puts the Badgers on top in the Big Nine standings and practically eliminates the Hawkeyes from title consideration, for they have only six conference games remaining on their schedule.

Badgers Gain Lead

Wisconsin moved out in front in the first inning when a walk to Orvell Zimmerman and singles by Jim Ackeret and Eric Kitzman produced a run. The Badgers added another in the third on an error by Henry Quinn, Hawkeye shortstop, of Zimmerman's sharply hit ground ball. The fleet Wisconsin second baseman stole second and Kitzman's second successive safety made the score, 2 to 0.

Iowa scored in the fifth inning on Jack Spencer's single and a double by Paul Greiwe.

Zimmerman, who drove in three runs in yesterday's game, continued to stand out in the series by accounting for the Badgers' final ones today. He opened the seventh with a double. Two successive errors by Quinn permitted him to score. One inning later Dan Murphy led off with a single, moved to second on a passed ball, and was driven across the plate by the gifted Mr. Zimmerman.

Hoffman Starts Rally

Gene Hoffman, who pitched seven innings of yesterday's game, started the Hawkeyes' ninth inning rally when he batted for George Knack and singled. Bill Anderson fanned, but after Bill Ochs had got on base on Zimmerman's error, Spencer lined a single over second for two runs. Greiwe then fouled out to Kitzman. Score:

Wisconsin ....101 000 110—4 11 3
Iowa ....000 010 002—3 10 5
Batteries—Pearson and Murphy; Smith and Spencer.

HOOSIERS BEAT SPARTANS

Bloomington, Ind., April 7 [Special]—Outfielder Ted Kluszewski's home run in the last half of the ninth inning with one man on base gave Indiana a 7 to 5 victory today over Michigan State and a sweep of its two game series with the Spartans. The Hoosiers won, 15 to 4, yesterday.

Kluszewski, a freshman from Argo, Ill., came to bat in the last of the ninth with two out after First Baseman Kralowvansky had got on base thru Dick Minweaster's error. Kluszewski lined the first pitch out of Jordan field.

The winning pitcher was Willard Kops, freshman, who replaced Dearmond on the mound in the seventh inning with the bases loaded and two men out. He struck out the batter to retire the side. Page went the full route for Michigan State. Score:

Michigan State......004 100 000—5 8 3
Indiana ......103 001 002—7 9 0
Batteries—Page and Brown; Dearmond, Kops and Cohen.

WILDCAT NINE READY

Northwestern university's baseball team wound up three weeks of practice yesterday with a five inning intra-squad game in which the Purple beat the Whites, 3 to 2. The Wildcats will open their season with a two game series with Chicago's Maroons next Friday and Saturday.

John Remks, a freshman from Evanston, pitched the full five innings for the Purple and held the opposition to two hits. Dick Bokelman, a navy trainee, and Harold Schulz, another Evanston freshman, shared the mound duties for the White team, and yielded six hits between them. Remke will pitch the opener against Chicago Friday.

Coach West Fry faces his second season as coach of the Wildcats with only two players with previous varsity experience. The veterans are Bruno Gargas, catcher, and Dolph Pagan, second base. Ernie Benger, a reserve last year, has an edge on the third base assignment.

The right side of the infield consists of Jim Farrar, first base, and Ted Weil, second, two freshmen from Cleveland who entered school at the start of the spring quarter. A pair of V-12 trainees, Andy Anderson and Clarence Malewski, also seek infield spots. Leading outfield candidates are Bill Tennison, a navy transfer from Notre Dame; Dewi Jones, another navy trainee who lettered at Cornell last year, and Hal Marienthal from Hawaii. Other outfielders include Bob Tornquist and Ed Killgallon, 1944 reserves; Walter Berkdahl of New York, and Don Gordon, a transfer from Central Michigan college.

ILLINOIS LOSES, 3 TO 1.

Champaign, Ill., April 7 [Special]—Lockbourne air field evened its series with Illinois today with a 3 to 1 triumph. Illinois won the first game of the series Friday, 4 to 1.

Illinois scored in the second on three walks and an infield error. Lockbourne counted in the same inning on a walk, single, wild pitch, and passed ball. In the Lockbourne sixth John Minski doubled N. S. Cranford home from second and Minski went the rest of the way home on a wild pitch and passed ball. Score:

Lockbourne Army..........010 002 000—3
Illinois ....010 000 000—1
Batteries—Cornelius, Digman and Harden; Judson and Wakefield, Johns.

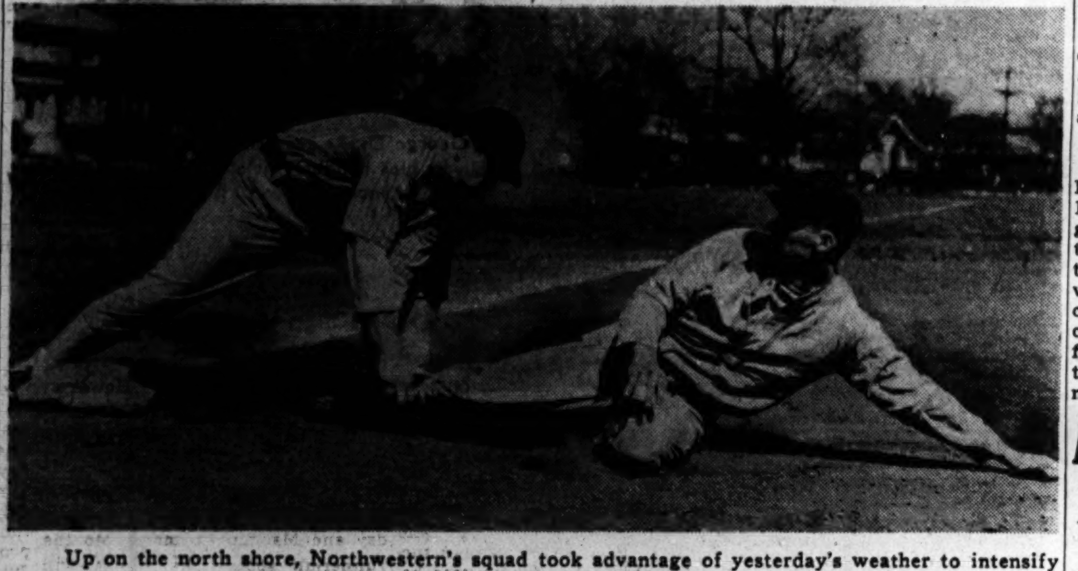
TECHAWKS ROUT MAROONS.

The Illinois Tech baseball team put on an 11 run barrage in the last three innings in winning, 18 to 2, over the University of Chicago nine on Greenwood field yesterday. The Maroons were charged with eight errors and were able to collect but four hits off two Techawk hurlers. Score:

Illinois Tech ......132 010 515—18 29 1
Chicago ....001 000 001— 2 4 8
Batteries — Evers, Kravolech, and Stidham, Lichtman; Knapp, Hauck, Staughton, and Vaughan.

BASEBALL'S BACK IN TOWN

Beating the Cubs and Sox by almost a week, baseball returned to Chicago yesterday as the University of Chicago nine battled Illinois Tech on the Midway diamond. George Steele almost was the third Maroon to score but is tagged out at the plate by Tech catcher, Jim Stidham. Umpire Cibulka makes the decision. Illinois Tech won, 18 to 2. [TRIBUNE Photos]



Up on the north shore, Northwestern's squad took advantage of yesterday's weather to intensify its drill. There is no victory involved, but Ernest Benger, third baseman, tags out Ted Weil, second baseman, with world series zeal. Benger is a sophomore and Weil a freshman.

Cyclones Win in Triangular Track Meet

Iowa City, Ia., April 7 [Special]—A final leap in the broad jump by Mel Larson, which moved him from a tie for fourth to first place, and victory in the mile relay gave Iowa State a triangular track triumph over the Iowa Seahawks and Missouri today.

Pre-Flight Finishes Second

The Cyclones, who finished strong to capture the final five events, scored 52 points to beat out the Pre-Flight representatives, who finished second with 49 while Missouri trailed with 29.

The ranking shot put distance of the indoor campaign was contributed by Missouri's Bill Bangert, who tossed the 16 pound iron ball 52 feet 2 inches to better his Purdue relays title throw by an inch. Vic Schleich of the Seahawks furnished a surprise touch to the event when he threw 50 feet, 4½ inches to tie Missouri's Ed Quirk for second while establishing a new all-time Pre-Flight record.

Win Six of 12 Events

Iowa State, which won six of the 12 events while the other two teams were dividing the rest, was led by Bill Arlen, who captured the mile and ran second to his teammate, Mike Deane, in the two mile, and Ted Moorman, who took the low hurdles after finishing third in the high barrier event and then ran a leg on the winning relay team. Summaries:

MILE RUN—Won by Arlen, Iowa State; Quinn, Missouri, second; Batchelder, Seahawks, third; Weed, Seahawks, fourth. Time, 4 minutes 34.8 seconds.

Spotting the Pins

BY ROBERT BEACH

IT IS of more than passing interest, this remarkable record of consistent bowling which the Mario Restaurant women's team is piling up.

The Marios have, to date, run their consecutive winning streak in the Bowling Lanes Ladies Major league to 26 and have advanced to a spot in second place only two games behind the leading Pepsi-Colas.

As defending champions of the Congress Ladies Classic wheel, they have a record almost as impressive in that circuit. They have won 21 of their last 27 contests and now are a single game removed from the lead, held jointly by the Pepsi-Colas and the Logan Square Buicks.

The Marios own a team average of 889 and their scores of 2,909, 2,903, and 2,888 rank third, fifth, and seventh respectively in the national standings and their single game of 1,062 is second.

Dr. Corcoran Paces North Side Branch of Dentists' League

CHATTER—Dr. Wilfred Corcoran leads the averages in the north side branch of the Chicago Dental Association league at Bowling Lanes with 180. His high game was 278. . . . The Railway Express Q Terminal league at Roosevelt Bowl has completed its season and here's the way they finished: Chicos, Kuschs, Farinas, Martins, Hurleys and Koppes. The leaders had a two game edge at the finish. The Kuschs won season's team honors with a 2,231 series and game with 771. Their captain, Clarence Kusch, had a 544 series and 219 game for individual highs. . . . This corner offers its sympathy to Dan Gullickson upon the death Thursday evening of his mother, Mrs. Nellie Gullickson. . . . The Pabst Blue Ribbon Girls will journey to Joliet Thursday where they'll give an exhibition for the war workers in the Elwood Ordnance plant. . . . The American Bowling congress, at its recent directors meeting, voted to replace all medals, rings, and other trophies it had presented to its members in service and which have been lost by them while in action.

Dayton Girl, 15, Bowls 1,809 for Nine Tournament Games

A 15 year old girl, Patty Streibeck of Dayton, O., rolled 1,809 for her nine games in the Central States women's tournament. . . . The Phillies of the Lafayette council won the championship in the Royal league which bowled on the Novotny alleys, 1414 S. Pulaski rd. . . . Bernice Goetz shot a 582 series which included a 244 game in pacing the Wednesday Night Ladies league at Schalk's. . . . Betty Gabor set a 520 pace, with a 230 game in the Hawthorne Ladies major and Fred Harvey and Isabel Erxleben topped efforts in the Schalk mixed with respective scores of 603 and 533. . . . Eva Reddick, bowling at Faetz's, shot a 261 series one week and came right back the following week with another 261 and her games were the same and in the same order—79, 97, and 85. Her average is 93. . . . Funny, but Esther LaPierre did the same thing up in Manitowoc, Wis., when she had two 398 series in successive weeks with identical counts of 137, 149, and 112.

Illinois Tech Wins 3-Way Track Meet

Illinois Tech yesterday defeated Lawrence college of Appleton, Wis., and Morton Junior college in a triangular track meet in the University of Chicago fieldhouse.

Illinois Tech scored 69½ points, Lawrence 46½, and Morton 14.

Two Techawk school records fell as Norm Hankins, co-captain of the Illinois Tech squad, won the 60 yard dash in 6.4 seconds, breaking the old record of 6.5 and the Tech relay team won the 880 yard relay event in 1:35.2, bettering the old mark of 1:37.4.

Hankins and John Clark of Lawrence shared scoring honors. Hankins won the 60 yard dash and high jump, tied for third in the pole vault, and ran the anchor position on the winning relay team. Clark scored firsts in both hurdle events, took third in the broad jump and ran on the relay team which placed second. Summaries:

ELGIN CAPTURES STATE JUNIOR 'Y' SWIMMING TITLE

The Elgin team yesterday won the annual state junior Y. M. C. A. indoor swimming meet in the Elgin "Y" pool, piling up 71 points to nine for the runners-up, Irving Park of Chicago. Hyde Park, Chicago, was third with six, and Aurora fourth with five.

Gordon Mullin of the winning team was the day's outstanding performer and leading point scorer. He established one of the two new meet records and had a part in establishing the other.

He negotiated the 20 yard backstroke in 12.3 seconds, clipping 1.1 seconds off the previous record. He also anchored the winning 80 yard relay team which swam the distance in 40.1 seconds, eclipsing the former mark by .3 second. In addition Mullin placed first in the 20 yard breast stroke, accounting for 12 points altogether.

BOMAR, FLESCH TAKE 446 LEAD OVER ERIE DUO

Buddy Bomar and Bill Flesch of Chicago, national two man match game bowling champions, stepped off to a 446 pin lead over Jimmy Allburn and Lud Olson, Erie, Pa., last night in the first five game block of their 15 game match for a $1,000 purse in Faetz recreation, 5961 N. Ridge rd.

Averaging 238 plus, Bomar turned in an 1,191 total for the five games. Olson led the visitors with a 923 total. Scores:

WINGS STRIVE TO SQUARE HOCKEY SERIES TONIGHT

Detroit, Mich., April 7 (AP)—Still hopeful of winning hockey's most prized trophy for the fourth time, the Detroit Red Wings planned to produce a strong attack on the Toronto goal from the outset in tomorrow night's second game of the Stanley Cup finals.

To even the series at one game each before the teams shift the scene to Toronto, the Wings must find some way of cracking an alert Maple Leaf defense that blocked them off from the danger zone in Friday night's opener.

One Score in Game

In 10 games of the regular season Detroit players drove 44 goals into the Maple Leaf nets, but they drew a complete blank Friday as the Toronto defenders gave Goalie Frank McCool almost perfect protection. Dave Schriner's 10 foot shot in the first period was the only score of the game.

There'll be no waiting, or feeling out in Sunday's game, Earl Seibert of the Wings promised today. "We'll attack," he said. "We'll pen them in their end and keep them there all evening."

Third Game in Toronto

No overconfidence pervaded the Leafs' camp. They recall that the Boston Bruins took the first two games of the semi-final series from the Red Wings on Detroit ice, only to have the Wings come back to win in seven games. Also, they recall their own comeback in the 1942 cup finals when Detroit won the first three games and the Leafs turned the tables by taking the next four contests.

Early Run of White Bass Anticipated

BY BOB BECKER

Fishermen may be taking white bass [also called striped or silver bass] from Wisconsin's Wolf river this year earlier than in other seasons. On the basis of reports which we have received from residents on that famous fishing stream in the vicinity of Fremont and Weyauwega, the white bass are bound to be ahead of their usual migration schedule because of an early spring.

As a rule, the walleye pike run in southern Wisconsin is in early April. This run occurs during such cool weather that the white bass aren't on the move. Then, in May, the stripers get busy. This year fishermen are predicting that they may be hooking white bass as early as the 15th of April.

Lucky are veteran fishermen who have good bait casting reels and steel or bamboo rods this spring because such items are anything but plentiful in the shops.

Tackle Prices High

We made a little survey of a few of the tackle shops several days ago. Here is what we found: a few fly rod reels on hand but rather highly priced. One aluminum alloy job was priced at $17.95 and a smaller one at $14.95.

There are a few fly rods coming thru from an eastern firm at around $28 each, and strictly war time materials have been used in their manufacture. Casting lines are fairly plentiful.

Army Also Is Denied.

A few weeks ago we wrote the United States Army Special Services division to ask them to try to buy casting outfits for wounded war veterans now in rehabilitation hospitals. [We've been getting requests from these men.] Maj. John H. Morris, chief, althletic branch, advises us that the army recognizes the demand for fishing tackle and is doing all it can to procure it.

LIDMAN HURDLES TO 14.4 RECORD IN 110 METER RACE

Davisville, R. I., April 7 (AP) — Haakan Lidman, famed Swedish hurdler who accompanied Gunder Hagg to this country, tonight established a new world indoor record for the 110 meter high hurdles when he was clocked in 14.4 before 4,000 navy personnel on Camp Endicott's new indoor board track.

Second went to Ed Dugger of Ohio was eight yards back of the fleet Swedish timber topper at the finish. John Morris of the New York A. C., was third with Bill Flemming of La Salle academy of Providence fourth.

All four in the race broke the previous world record of 15.8 with the young Providence schoolboy clocked in 15.3.

75 YARD INVITATION DASH—Won by Herbert Thompson, Coast Guard; second, Rudy Nedd, Pioneer A. C.; third, Herbert Douglas, Pittsburgh. Time, 0:7.5.

70 YARD HIGH HURDLE—Won by Haakon Lidman, Sweden; second, John Morris, N. Y. A. C.; third, Bill Fleming, La Salle academy. Time, 0:8.5.

100 DASH FOR WOMEN—Won by Stella Walsh, Polish Olympic Women's A. C.; second, Nancy Cowperthwaite, German-American A. C.; third, Eleanor Millheiser, German-American A. C. Time, 0:11.4.

500 YARD RUN—Won by Elmore Harris, Shore A. C.; second, James Grans, Boston college; third, Herbert McKinley. Time, 0:57.8.

130 YARD DASH—Won by Herbert Douglas, Pittsburgh; second, Thompson, Coast Guard; third, Eulace Peacock, Coast Guard. Time, 0:12.7 [New indoor American record].

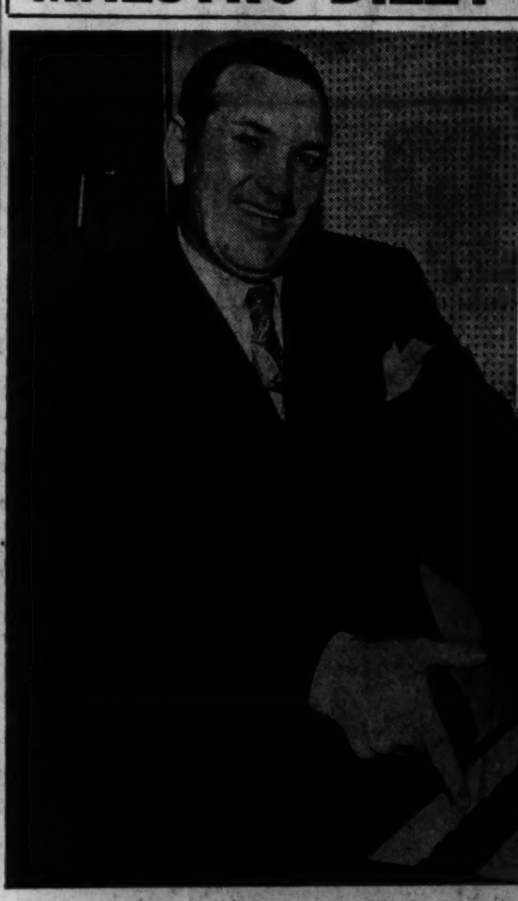
110 METER HIGH HURDLES—Won by Haaken Lidman, Sweden; second, Ed Dugger, Ohio; third, John Morris, New York A. C. Time, 0:14.4 [New world indoor record].

HOW'D HE KEEP IT SO QUIET? DIZ'S BEEN IN CHICAGO

Jerome [Dizzy] Dean, former St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs pitching star, flew back to Dallas, Tex., last night, after a week's stay in the city. He had been making transcriptions with Louise and Curt Massey and the Westerners, for his radio program originating in Dallas.

The former pitching star is now dividing his time between his ranch at Lancaster, a suburb of Dallas, and working on his radio show. Dizzy reports he is bothered every year about this time with a yearning to return to baseball in some capacity. Dean enjoyed a short visit with his brother, Sgt. Paul, who was home on furlough from Fort Riley, Kas. Dean and Gene Autry have been giving shows at army hospitals in the southwest.

MAESTRO DIZZY DEAN



Dizzy Dean, former Cardinal and Cub pitcher, brings his strong right arm into play on the organ keyboard, with unreported, results. He was in Chicago yesterday, preparing for an army hospital tour.

2 NEGRO ROOKIES FAIL IN TRYOUT WITH DODGERS

Bear Mountain, N. Y., April 7 (AP)—Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, watched two candidates from the Negro National league work out today and said he definitely was not interested in one and said he had at least three rookies better than the other.

Rickey said he "could not be interested in First Baseman Dave Thomas if he were 24 years old instead of 34." Pitcher Terris McDuffie, 32 years old, drilled at the same time as did Claude Crocker, a rookie with Montreal, and Rickey declared in a statement after the tryout that "Crocker had more speed, better changes of pace, and far greater prospective ability for the major leagues." Crocker is 19 years old.

Vic Lombardi and Frank Wurm also were rated above McDuffie by Rickey and Coach Red Corriden.

TEXAS CAPTURES TEAM HONORS IN OWN RELAYS

Austin, Tex., April 7 (AP)—The University of Texas edged out the Corpus Christie, Tex., naval air training base for top honors in the Texas relays today as five records were shattered under the onslaught of more than 600 athletes. Only one of the new marks was hung up in the college-university service division. High school stars broke four.

A crowd of 5,000 watched little Andy Shurr capture the 100 yard dash and spark the Longhorns to victory in the 440 yard sprint medley and 880 yard relays.

Texas won five relays and in one of them—the 440 yard shuttle football relay set a new record of 43 seconds flat, one and two-tenths seconds better than the record Texas set last year.

While team championships are not awarded in the relays, Texas had 28 points, Corpus Christi 27, Texas A. and M. was third with 19. The only double individual winner was Ted Haese, who took the high and broad jumps. Summaries:

SHOT PUT—Won by Stokes, Norman, Okla., naval air technical training center; second, Tassos, Texas A. & M.; third, Pendleton, Corpus Christi naval air training base; fourth, Raborn, Texas. Distance, 46 feet 6¼ inches.

Helis Says He Has Surprise Derby Winner

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

Kentucky Derby conversation, which has been as lifeless as Cambric tea until James F. Byrnes recently promised lifting of the ban on racing as soon as the allied armies have the situation under control in Germany, is perking up.

William Helis, biggest buyer of yearlings in recent years, talking with a group of newspaper men recently, said he believes he has a good chance of winning the 71st running of the Churchill Downs event.

One of the boys asked, "Then you still believe that Pericles will develop into a high class horse?"

Wasn't Thinking of Pericles

"I wasn't even thinking of Pericles," the Greek-American sportsman retorted. "He never has started a race and, while I believe he will win his share, I would be more inclined to look upon some of my other 3 year olds as possibly Derby winners."

Naturally those present thought he was referring to Ricks Raft, the winner of the Walden stakes at Pimlico last fall.

"No," Helis said, "leave out Pericles and Ricks Raft and I still believe I would have a chance."

Then Pindus, Spartan Noble, Greek Warrior, and Adonis were mentioned. "Yes," said Helis, "I'd be willing to make a sporting wager that I could win with one of those four."

Has 35 Horses in Training

Helis has 35 horses in training and, among them, many expensive yearlings he purchased last August. It is obvious to any one who talks with him, however, that he has far more interest in the breeding end than he has in racing. At the moment he has more than 50 mares of his own at Helis farms, formerly the Rancocas farm at Jobstown, N. J.

"It is my intention eventually to have as many as 200 mares at my farm," Helis stated. "We believe we can turn out stakes winners as they did on the same grounds years ago." Helis says he plans to retire his young horses, those that make good on the turf, within the next year or so. "I now have Attention, Valdina Orphan, and Rounders in stud, but I plan to return the last two to the races this year, he said."

SPRING SOFTBALL MEET

The United States Major softball league will hold its second annual spring tournament in Chicago in May. Early entries include Beecher, Ill.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Downers Grove, Ill.; the Oak Park Merchants, Blue Island, Ill.; and Match Corporation of America, Chicago metropolitan champions who finished as runner-up to Fort Wayne, Ind., in the 1944 spring meet.

BROWNS RALLY TWICE TO BEAT CARDINALS, 3-2

Stephens Wins Game in Eighth with Homer

St. Louis, Mo., April 7 (AP)—Powered by home runs by Vernon Stephens and Len Schulte, the American league champion St. Louis Browns came from behind today to win the first game of the city series from the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, 3 to 2.

Schulte, rookie third baseman, twice pulled the Browns back into the ball game by doubling home the tying run in the fourth inning and then homering to tie the score again in the seventh after the Cardinals took a brief lead.

Stephens' home run won the game in the eighth inning. Walker Cooper hit a single, double, and triple in four attempts, driving in both Cardinal runs. Jack Creel was the losing pitcher, Tex Shirley the winner.

ARMY BLANKS DODGERS, 4-0.

West Point, N. Y., April 7 (AP)—West Point's baseball team repeated its previous victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers today but added insult to injury by blanking the major leaguers, 4 to 0, on a four hit pitching job by Dick Kinney and John Tulley.

Hal Gregg, who pitched the first six innings for the Dodgers, was solved for a home run by Johnny Nance.

GIANTS GET 5 HITS—WIN

Camp Kilmer, N. J., April 7 (AP)—The New York Giants collected only five hits off Jack Shope and Ray Tellier but seven bases on balls and four errors enabled them to beat the Jersey City International leaguers, 4 to 2, before 5,000 soldiers today.

With the score 2 to 2, Nap Reyes doubled in the seventh and completed the journey home on two infield outs. Dan Gardella walked in the ninth advancing two bases on a steal and wild pitch and scoring on a hit by Steve Filipowicz.

PIRATES WIN, 28-0.

Muncie, Ind., April 7 (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates went on a batting rampage today, shutting out a Gas City, Ind., semi-pro outfit, 28-0.

Fourteen of the 23 hits made by the Pirates were for extra bases. These included home runs by Frankie Gustine, Lloyd Waner, and Tommy O'Brien, and six triples and five doubles.

The Pirates meet the Muncie team tomorrow.

INDIANS' LEFTYS BATTLE

Lafayette, Ind., April 7 (AP)—Al Smith, chubby 36 year old veteran, may have to "make way for youth" in the battle for two left handed hurling posts on the Cleveland Indians' mound staff.

Manager Lou Boudreau said he plans to keep two southpaws on the roster. Youthful Earl Henry and Hal Kleine have shown promise in spring exhibitions.

Henry is making a spirited challenge for Smith's job and has unusually good control for a port-sider, Boudreau reported, while Kleine will be given plenty of opportunity to prove his ability.

SCHANZ JOINS PHILLIES

Wilmington, Del., April 7 (AP) Bespectacled Charlie Schanz, who pitched 241 innings and won 13 games for the Philadelphia Phillies last season, engaged in his first workout in camp today. General Manager Herb Pennock said Schanz, who has been holding out for more money, finally agreed to sign at Phils' terms.

BEAGLES TO RUN RABBITS FOR G. I. ENTERTAINMENT

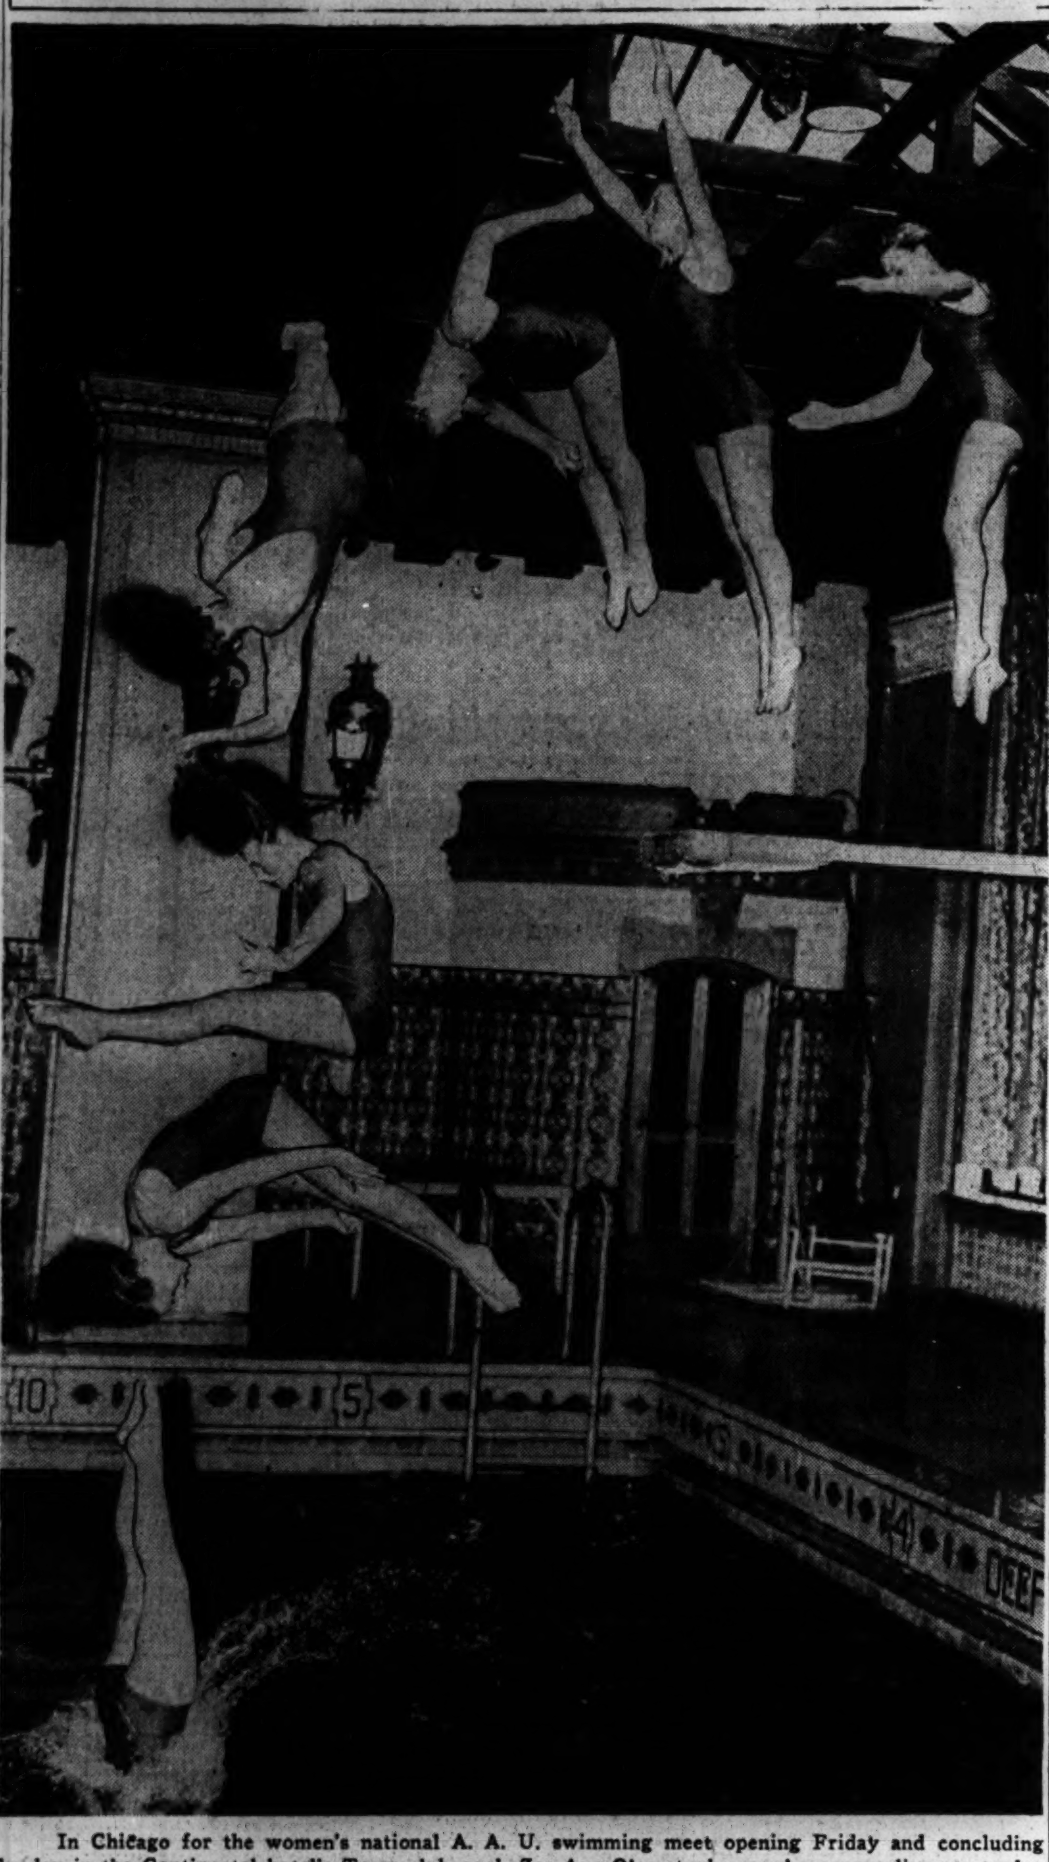
A beagle field trial becomes G. I. entertainment at Camp Ellis, Ill., Sunday, April 22, thru the courtesy of Col. John S. Sullivan, commander of the camp. It will be sponsored by the Central Illinois Beagle Club of Peoria in coöperation with the Western Illinois Association of Beagle Clubs. Owners of beagles are invited to enter their dogs in the trial and civilians, who wish to watch the hounds be tested on rabbits, also will be welcome at the trial.

The use of beagles to run rabbits for the enjoyment and exercise of wounded soldiers was first introduced to army convalescent training at the Camp Ellis station hospital. The field trial will start at 8 a. m. and continue thru the day.

New York Skaters Defeat Chicago, 14-11; Tie Series

The New York roller derby team defeated Chicago, 14 to 11, in the Coliseum last night to effect a 171 to 171 tie in the total points standing of their match. Jack Walker, New York, led the boys' scoring with eight points, five coming on a single jam. Capt. Evelyn Karron of New York, paced the girls with four points.

PREPARES FOR A. A. U. TITLE BID



In Chicago for the women's national A. A. U. swimming meet opening Friday and concluding Sunday in the Continental hotel's Town club pool, Zoe Ann Olsen took enough warmup dives yesterday to convince spectators that this year she's not fooling. For the last two seasons, Miss Olsen, who represents the Athens club, Oakland, Cal., has been runner up for the crown. The camera caught her in the various stages of the full twisting 1½ somersault during yesterday's practice session. At top right she takes a preparatory spring to gain added momentum. Then she's off on her whirling trip to the pool. In the third position she starts her twist and somersault. Then she completes her twist, continues somersault, and starts to straighten for a graceful exit from view. [TRIBUNE Photos]

SOX, DESPITE 4 ERRORS, DEFEAT DETROIT, 6 TO 4

nounced that he wil go nine innings if there are no objections.

Floyd Baker, infielder obtained from the Browns during the winter, will leave the Sox Monday for a trip to Youngstown, O., where he will undergo his draft reëxamination.

Boss Dykes swung the knife for the first time this evening and seven or his squad went other places. Infielder Victor Austin, Catcher John Nadvornick, George Gray, the 17 year old pitcher, and Howard Roberts, a kid outfielder who was merely here for a free look, were optioned to Little Rock. Outright releases were handed to Infielder Bob Dalrymple, Pitcher Ogden Wise and Pitcher Ralph Sterm, all three of them mere children with no pro experience.

RATE TIGERS FIRST

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Terre Haute, Ind., April 7—As long as Uncle Sam has some free picking to do it undoubtedly is somewhat on the silly side for a baseball writer to inform his constituents just which team or individual is going to win what.

We speak now only of the impending American league race which is an eight team affair and nobody knows for sure just where Uncle Sam is going to hit the hardest, but at the moment it probably is safe to string along with those, who even at long distance, are already proclaiming the Detroit Tigers are going to be the next junior circuit champions.

They came close to landing that title last year but on the final day were sidetracked from a possible one game play-off with the St. Louis Browns by the fancy manipulations of Emil [Dutch] Leonard, the Washington Senators' knuckle ball hurler.

No Ersatz Material Here!

At this time the Tigers are well outfitted and do not have to plan on doing their season's work with whatever doubtful assistance a few semi-pros might lend. From an overall viewpoint they have a complete team of men who can be termed major leaguers in these days of paucity. They also have more than a little beyond the war time grade. They have Rudy York, a pretty good county fair batter, and at least two pitchers, named Paul Trout and Hal Newhouser.

Even if Newhouser or Trout slips, the Tigers have Frank Overmire, who won 11 games in 1944, and also Al Benton, who was fairly reliable before he went into the navy, from which he recently was discharged.

The Tigers have lost Pinky Higgins from third base and while he will be missed, either Joe Hoover or the versatile Don Ross can take over that spot, leaving Skeeter Webb for short, Rudy York for first base, and Ed Mayo or Ross for second base.

Another thing about the Tigers is that despite the return of Bob Wakefield to service they have a competent outfield layout, topped by Roger Cramer.

WIN HANDBALL TITLE

Trip Gentile, left, and George Di Re teamed together yesterday to win the Central A. A. U. doubles handball title in the Town club. For Di Re it was a repeat performance. He won last year with Dick Martin, who did not compete in this year's tourney.

The Home Front

BY WILLIAM BAYLISS

OFFICIALS of the Industrial Amateur Golf association at a meeting Thursday night made plans for the third season of their organization, which they are not at all backward in forecasting will be its most successful. Tho last year's setup of preliminary and final meets was an unqualified success, the tournament committee believes it has drawn up a schedule for this year which will be even more inviting.

One of the chief differences is that this year there will be one warmup tourney each month, instead of two, giving the member teams more time for interplant competition. Also, the team championship event, which last year was the grand climax, will be followed this summer by an individual medal play event, with competition limited to the low scorers in the earlier team competition.

Billiard Stars Entertain Indiana Harbor Employes

The Inland Steel Co.'s Indiana Harbor works last night provided another example of the diversified recreation programs which large industrial plants are offering for their employes these days. This was a billiards exhibition in which there appeared three cut experts, two of them known wherever the game is played, and the third the plant's own champion. The exhibition was in the Whiting, Ind., community center gymnasium, with Willie Hoppe, greatest competitor in the history of the sport, and Charley Peterson, the trick shot expert, as the visiting stars. Hoppe and Nich Michel, the Inland Athletic association's billiards champion five times in the last nine years, played an exhibition match, while Peterson presented his program of shots which appear impossible, even tho you see them executed.

Ye Olde Bombers Win Original Industrial Pin Meet

Competition was completed in the Original Industrial Bowling association's 22d tournament last week after another event which will go in the records as a highlight in the 1945 industrial sports program. Top honors in the class A team division went to Ye Olde Bombers from the Chrysler Corp., whose total of 2,900, made early in the meet, withstood all attacks. The Northern Trust Co. No. 1 team took the honors in class B on a 2,687 total.

In the doubles the top scores were turned in by J. Burke and C. Lannon of Milwaukee Road in class A, and K. Stahr-L. Papenbrok of North Western Railway in class B, both pairs having identical scores of 1,207. J. Fliger of Western Electric won the class A singles with 649, while J. Lash of American Forge rolled 659 in class B. Top all-events aggregate was the 1,797 turned in by R. Budd.

Bowling Championships Decided in Two Leagues

CHAMPIONSHIPS were decided last week in two Chicagoland industrial bowling leagues, with Thompson Elevator and Electric winning in the Association of Commerce league and the Thordarson Flashtrons taking the top spot in the Division St. Y. M. C. A. circuit. Both teams are repeaters.

Neither league has completed its schedule as yet, tho the Association of Commerce circuit's race was so close that it seemed that it would not be settled until the final session Thursday of this week. However, in last week's games the Thompsons rolled into the title when Railway Express Agency, their chief rival, dropped three straight to Otis & Lee. That enabled Pyott Foundry and Machine to move into the runner-up spot. The league will finish its schedule Thursday with a sweepstakes program.

The Division St. Y. M. C. A. league has two more weeks of bowling but the Flashtrons sewed up the championship Tuesday night by sweeping their series with Redmer Sons, Inc., giving them a lead of eight games with six to go. The race now is for second place, with Ekco Products, present holders of the spot, threatened by Milwaukee Av. National Bank, and Elcor, Inc.

Recreation News Makes Bow as Monthly Publication

Recreation News, published by the Chicago Recreation commission, is a newcomer in the literary end of industrial recreation. The April issue, just received, is No. 1 for this monthly publication, which is edited by James W. Gilman, assistant executive secretary of the commission. It covers a wide variety of activities which come under the supervision of this organization.

From the Industrial Recreation association comes a unique and timely contribution, The I. R. A. Sportfolder for Industrial Golfers, complete with definitions, diagrams, and notes on etiquet. It well might be added to the library of every golfer. It is available in quantities at cost to members of the I. R. A. Any one else wishing a copy will have to take the matter up with Executive Secy. Jack Fulton at 1 N. La Salle st.

Still another sports publication which is receiving a hearty welcome from industrial sports leaders and should be of value to any one working with sports groups is the United States Sports Rule Book, published by Crewdson & Custer of Chicago. It contains condensed rules of 22 popular American sports and, while it may not go into all the technicalities, should be a help in settling a lot of questions which are certain to come up in any athletic department program.

CALUMET CLUB GETS VICTORY GOLF TOURNEYS

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

The Calumet Country club, one of the oldest and best conditioned golf courses in the Chicago area, will be the site of the 1945 Chicago Victory National tournaments from June 27 thru July 1. Selection of Calumet, located at 175th st. and Western av., was announced yesterday by officials of the Chicago District Golf association, originator of the big show, and co-sponsor again with the Cook county council of the American Legion and the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

Proceeds of the tournaments again will go toward recreational facilities, not provided by government budgets, for hospitalized veterans of World War II.

C. D. G. A. Contributes $46,205

Since the war began, the Chicago District Golf association has contributed $46,205.17 to this work. The Hale America National event at Ridgemoor in 1942 produced the sum of $22,522.38, divided equally between the Navy Relief society and the United Service Organizations. The first Victory National meet, conducted in 1943 at Beverly, raised $6,500 for the veterans, and last year's show at Edgewater resulted in $17,182.79 for the same beneficiaries.

The competitive pattern of the Victory National tournament will be a replica of its predecessors. This is no come-all-ye contest, being limited to approximately 40 of the nation's top flight champions, all of whom are invited on the basis of proved playing merit. These 40 will play 18 holes on Friday, June 29; 18 more on Saturday, June 30, and the final 36 on Sunday, July 1. The Chicago Victory National pro-amateur, pro-lady, and pro-senior tourneys will be held on June 27 and 28, with 18 holes scheduled for each day.

Calumet Easily Accessible

In selecting Calumet as the coöperating stage for the tournament, President Larry Rutherford of the C. D. G. A. and his associates were mindful of adhering to the office of defense transportation directive, inasmuch as the club is within two blocks of the Illinois Central electric station, and therefore is easily accessible.

The tournament will be the first major competition held at Calumet since 1924, when Bill Mehlhorn's 293 ran away with the Western Open title by eight strokes. The south side club has an energetic executive board which includes Gilbert A. Roll, president; H. M. Sidler, vice president; J. C. Holland, treasurer; A. T. Brainerd, secretary, and Directors E. L. Claussen, E. H. Gardner, W. V. Kennedy, L. L. Passmore, M. T. Sodetz, and H. R. Warner.

Thru funds raised in the 1943 and 1944 Victory National tournaments, putting clocks have been installed at Hines and Downey hospitals.

FLUKE TRIPLE HELPS SENATORS BEAT BRAVES, 5-4

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP)—An ordinary single to right field by Catcher Al Evans took a bad hop and went for a triple today, giving the Washington Senators a 5 to 4 victory in ten innings over the Boston Braves.

Gil Torres opened the Senators' half of the inning with his fourth straight single. He was forced at second on Fred Vaughn's attempted sacrifice. Evans' hit then skipped away from Carden Gillenwater and Vaughn scored the winning run.

Giant John Hutchings of the Braves and Mickey Haefner, Senator southpaw, engaged in a tight pitching duel until Hutchings grew wild and was removed as the Senators tied the score at 4-all with three runs in the eighth inning. Haefner gave way to a pinch hitter in that rally. Tommy Holmes of the Braves blasted a 430 foot home run inside the park.

With the Senators leading the Braves by three victories to two, their six game spring series will be concluded Sunday in Griffith stadium.

RED SOX BEAT YANKS

Pleasantville, N. J., April 7 (AP)—Rookie Catcher Fred Walters got four hits in as many trips to the plate today as the Boston Red Sox beat the Yankees, 15 to 13, for their fourth victory in seven games with the New York club.

Joe Cronin, Boston manager playing third base, was forced to retire in the fourth inning when struck on the wrist by a drive off the bat of George Stirnweiss.

Joe Buzas, the Yankees' rookie shortstop, drove in four runs, three with a home run. Score:

ATHLETICS LOSE, 12-4

Curtis Bay, Md., April 7 (AP). —Playing errorless ball, the Curtis Bay coast guard team today defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 12 to 4.

It was the Guardsmen's third victory over the A's in four games. Curtis Bay got to Don Black for 10 hits and a dozen runs in his six inning appearance. Philadelphia's Carl Scheib finished the game, giving up only one hit.

Four of Curtis Bay's tallies came on a home run with the bases full by slugging Lou Klein. Hank Majeski punched out another four-baser.

Vikings Meet Swedes Today for Peel Cup

BY OFFSIDE

The long awaited soccer battle between the Vikings and Swedish Americans is to take place today.

No other game of the 1945 season has created such intense interest, for this is no meeting of ordinary teams. The Vikings, winners of 25 straight games, are the kings of Chicagoland soccer. The Swedish Americans, building gradually but constantly, now are a formidable outfit—an outfit that may be capable of realizing its ambition to unseat the champions and ascend the throne.

Peel Cup Is Prize

A big crowd, no doubt, would witness this battle for supremacy were it to be played on an open field and with no title at stake. But today's game, which will get under way at 2:30 p. m. in Hanson park stadium, Central and Fullerton avs., is for the Peel cup and the Illinois state championship, of which it is emblematic.

Indications that the Vikings are not invincible became apparent last Sunday when the champions were extended to the limit in defeating the Hakoahs by the thin margin of 2 to 1.

P. J. Peel May Make Award

Realizing the importance of today's battle, Managers Jock Johanasen of the Vikings and Carl Peterson of the Swedish Americans have put their charges thru extra drills this week. Commissioner Fred Netto has appointed Robert Jones to referee the match and Peter J. Peel may be present to make the presentation, on behalf of the Chicago Historical society, of the Peel cup to the winning team.

Juniors who are to represent Chicago against St. Louis will be tested by the Viking Reserves at 11:30 a. m. in Hanson park.

PREPARE PLANS FOR START OF RECONVERSION

Seek to Make Best Use of Materials

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP)—The "committee on period one" expects to complete within two or three weeks a plan of industrial reconversion to follow V-E day, a war production board spokesman reported tonight. CPO is charged with preparing the step by step time table under which WPB will revoke its 500 orders limiting civilian goods manufacture and relax its war time controls over materials during "period one"—the phase of the war in which Japan is the sole enemy.

Chairman Krug announced the full membership for CPO, which is headed by J. D. Small, WPB executive officer. Small is a former Chicagoan who was in the commercial alcohol business.

Best Use Is Sought

CPO, meeting almost daily, is occupied with the policy question of how to make best use of the steel and other materials remaining after the imperative needs of railroads, public utilities, farm machinery, and other so-called "starved programs" are met.

Some officials contend that early releases of material should be used primarily to reduce unemployment caused by war contract cancellations; in other words, that steel should be channeled where it will produce the most jobs per ton.

Others hold that it should be devoted to building up supplies of the most urgently needed civilian goods.

Lists Civilian Essentials

As a guide in meeting the most severe shortages first, WPB has drawn up a new "list of relative essentiality" showing which products are in shortest supply and causing the most civilian hardship. This list has not yet been made public. It replaces one prepared last summer.

PLAN TO PROBE CARTELS' EFFECT ON WORLD'S OIL

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP)—Chairman O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] of the special senate committee investigating petroleum resources today said the group will investigate cartels in their relation to world oil trade in hearings to start about May 1.

A progress report of the committee showed the cartel inquiry will involve such matters as restrictions on production, transportation, and marketing, as well as the question of immunity under anti-trust laws when the oil companies follow recommendations approved in advance by the government.

Other subjects to come under committee scrutiny include new sources of oil in the United States, the relationship of the independent company to the integrated company, post-war disposal of pipe lines, refineries and tankers, domestic petroleum requirements and American oil interests in foreign countries.

PREDICTS GAINS IN SELF-SERVICE MERCHANDISING

A trend toward self service in both independent and chain grocery stores after the war, with quick frozen foods attaining a new importance, was predicted yesterday at a meeting of the National Food Brokers' association in the Stevens hotel.

H. Wayne Clark, president, said if grocers are to provide as much food and continue to make a profit, dry groceries will have to be sold almost entirely on a self service basis. He predicted a large number of new products, including unusual foods introduced to soldiers thruout the world.

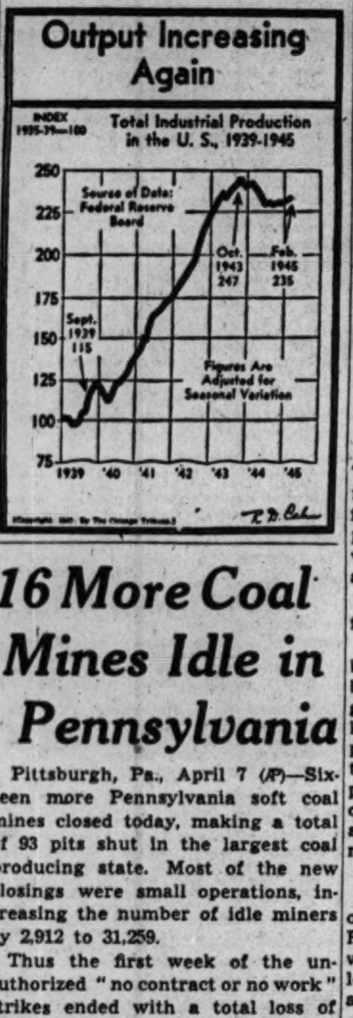
Output Increasing Again



16 More Coal Mines Idle in Pennsylvania

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 7 (AP)—Sixteen more Pennsylvania soft coal mines closed today, making a total of 93 pits shut in the largest coal producing state. Most of the new closings were small operations, increasing the number of idle miners by 2,912 to 31,259.

Thus the first week of the unauthorized "no contract or no work" strikes ended with a total loss of more than a million tons of soft coal in Pennsylvania alone, the solid fuels administration reported.

Whether production would pick up Monday, as some United Mine Workers' officials forecast, was unpredictable here, however. A number of union locals scheduled back to work votes for today and Sunday.

Two mills of the National Tube company, United States Steel subsidiary, closed, and in all the big steel corporation was losing 10,000 tons of steel daily in this area with 37 open hearth furnaces and six Bessemer converters down.

CHICAGO SITUATION

Chicago area companies which operate with small coal stockpiles, getting their fuel by rail direct from the mines on a day to day basis, are beginning to feel the effects of the wildcat mine strikes, company officials said yesterday. However, most companies in the district have substantial stockpiles.

Chicago area plants of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation operate from big stockpiles of eastern coals brought from lake ports during the navigation season. For this reason they do not face the difficulties encountered by United States Steel plants in the Pittsburgh area which get their coal direct from the mines on a day to day basis.

Reports Situation Serious

The coal situation at the plants of the Inland Steel company was reported serious because miners at the company's mines at Wheelwright, Ky., idled.

"We are on dangerous grounds," an Inland vice president said. "Our miners produced nothing on Monday and Tuesday, only 20 per cent were on the job Wednesday, 30 per cent on Thursday, and 40 per cent on Friday and yesterday.

"We have been told that all the savings in coal thru the brownout and curfew have been more than offset by the wildcat strikes."

SEC Approves Utility's Preferred Exchange Plan

The securities and exchange commission yesterday approved a proposal of the Carolina Power and Light company to retire $7 and $6 preferred stock by offering holders the right to exchange holdings share for share for new $5 preferred. Unexchanged shares will be redeemed with treasury funds at $110 and acrued dividends.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

Aaron Colnon was elected chairman of Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company to succeed Dr. Walter G. McGuire, resigned, the company announced yesterday. Colnon has been a director since 1935. William P. Feeley was elected president to succeed Edward M. Markham, who resigned both as president and director. Feeley had been executive vice president since 1941. He joined the company in 1907 and became a vice president in 1925. Eugene K. Lydon, a vice president since 1938, was elevated to executive vice president. Charles E. Trout, New York office manager, and Martin H. Brennan, Buffalo office manager, were elected vice presidents.

Aaron Colnon

Joseph F. O'Donnell, of O'Donnell Foods, was elected president of the Associated Food Dealers.

C. A. Furgason, metallurigst of Ladish Drop Forge company, Cudahy, Wis., will talk on the prevention of metal failures in forgings before the Chicago chapter of the American Society for Metals at a dinner meeting Thursday at 29 S. La Salle st.

Frank L. McCloskey was appointed steamship passenger department agent in Chicago of the Canadian Pacific railway.

Robert F. Elrick of the Quaker Oats company will discuss the selection and pre-testing of advertising premiums at the American Marketing association luncheon Tuesday in Harding's grill in the Fair store.

F. A. Frankenfield was appointed vice president in charge of production of American Maize Products company to succeed Raymond E. Daly, resigned, said Theodore Sander Jr., president. Daly will remain a director.

Richard N. Jones, western manager for Architectural Forum, will speak on "Tomorrow's Houses" before the Chicago Furniture Manufacturers' association Thursday evening in the Furniture Mart.

RFC BROADENS LOAN POLICY ON SMALL FIRMS

Takes Bigger Part of Bank's Risk

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP)—The Reconstruction Finance corporation today set in motion a twofold program which it believes will provide small business enterprises with all the post-war financial assistance they will need.

The agency outlined the plan as follows:

1. The RFC will participate in bank loans to industry whenever a bank requests it. In effect, it will guarantee up to 75 per cent of the loan, and will actually put up 75 per cent of the money any time the bank calls for it. The RFC participation occurs automatically on request of the bank. The total amount of the loan must be no more than $250,000.

RFC to Loan Direct

2. If a business enterprise cannot obtain a bank loan it may come to RFC and, if considered deserving, will be granted a loan direct. Such loans will include money to be used as working capital.

RFC announced recently it would participate in loans made by credit pools set up regionally by groups of banks. This program now has been extended to include loans made by individual banks. The arrangement goes further than RFC has gone before in loan sharing, and its purpose is "to encourage maximum employment," the agency said.

The RFC board of directors believes that the program makes unnecessary the various proposals for post-war action by other government agencies to help finance small business. RFC has one advantage: It does not have to seek permission of congress.

Expects Welcome for Plan

The RFC believes most individual banks—especially the "country banks" which serve small enterprises—will welcome the program and use it. Here is the way it could work for an individual bank:

A business man comes in and asks for a $200,000 loan. The bank considers his prospects and decides it would be willing to risk $50,000 but no more. It may grant the loan of $200,000 and the RFC will assume the risk on $150,000 of it.

The bank may not charge more than 4 per cent interest on the $150,000 portion, nor more than 6 per cent on the $50,000. A participation charge must be paid by the bank to RFC. If RFC participation is more than 50 per cent of the loan, as in the foregoing case, the charge is 0.75 per cent. If participation is less than 50 per cent, the charge is 0.5 per cent.

At any time, the bank may ask RFC to furnish in cash its portion of the loan; that is, the $150,000. If this is done, RFC instead of the bank receives the interest on the $150,000.

5 MORE NATIONS TO ATTEND AERO PARLEY IN CUBA

HAVANA, Cuba, April 7 (AP)—Commercial air lines of Australia, Brazil, Denmark, Scotland, and France today accepted invitations to send delegates to the first international air transporters conference in Havana April 16 to 21, increasing to 26 the number of nations which will be represented. Planned during the international air conference in Chicago last November, the Havana meeting will complete organization of an international air transport association representing commercial air lines in post-war operations.

Stock Market Climbs Again in Quiet Trade

New York, April 7 (AP)—Selected rails, utilities, and industrials led another rise in the stock market today and favorites finished a week of general advances, with gains of fractions to a point. Trading again was slow.

Investment demand remained based partly on the growing belief that victories in Europe and the Pacific had been discounted in the market and peace time prosperity would more than offset business transition problems. Dividends, earnings, and discussion of more stock splits again aided individual favorites.

Advances Far in Majority

Further price improvement appeared at the start of the two hour session, and 418 advances were made against 112 declines and 179 issues unchanged. The Associated Press 60 stock composite rose 0.3 to 60.7 for an advance of 0.8 during the week. Transfers of 370,000 shares compared with 320,000 a week ago. The week's total of 3,560,000 shares was the smallest since the week ended last Sept. 23.

Among rising issues were Great Northern, buoyed by expectations of a larger dividend, and American Water Works, at a 1945 peak.

Grumann Aircraft, long a climber, dipped ¾ on profit cashing after a relatively pleasing earnings report.

RAIL LOANS EXTEND GAIN

New York, April 7 (AP)—Rail loans today continued their irregular advance and the Associated Press carrier average rose 0.1 to 99.7. Other departments showed narrow price changes. Milwaukee road issues were generally strong, with advances running to 1⅛ points.

Loans of Argentina and Australia showed moderate improvement in the foreign department.

CHICAGO STOCKS GAIN

Prices rose yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange in an 11,000 share turnover. More active issues included Belmont Radio and Commonwealth Edison, each up ⅜; Chicago corporation common, unchanged, and Central and South West Utilities, down ⅛. Consumers company preferred closed at a 1945 high of 39½, up 1½.

RISE OF 12 PCT. IN SPRING PIG CROP FORECAST

Preliminary reports of private surveys of live stock farms released at the Chicago stock yards yesterday showed a probable increase of about 12 per cent in the 1945 spring pig crop over the 1944 season, but a decrease of 16 per cent compared with the 1943 all-time high. The department of agriculture December survey showed that farm intentions at the time were to reduce the spring crop 7 per cent.

The private surveys placed the probable spring pig crop about 10 million head above the department of agriculture December estimate. An official survey will be made by the department in June at the same time that breeding intentions for the fall pig crop are investigated.

On the basis of the 12 per cent increase forecast by the private surveys, the 1945 spring crop will be slightly more than 62 million pigs, the largest on record except for 1943 when the crop totaled 74,034,000.

NEW MORTGAGE PLAN BROADENS LOAN SECURITY

Montpelier, Vt., April 7 [Special]—An innovation in home financing in the form of "packaged mortgage" loans—to include as part of real estate loan security certain household equipment—was announced today by L. Douglas Meredith, vice president of National Life Insurance company.

Meredith said new gas or electric appliances such as ranges and refrigerators, for which reasonable values are included in the appraisal at the time the loan application is submitted, will be considered by the company as part of the real estate security for loans. The plan will make it easier to acquire a completely equipped house, it was said.

Illinois Wool Group Forms State-Wide Market Pool

Plans for a 1945 state-wide cooperative wool marketing pool were announced yesterday by the Illinois Wool Marketing association, under which the Commodity Credit corporation will purchase the entire 1945 clip. Farmers coöperating will deliver their wool to county pools, under direction of county farm bureaus. Cash advances will be made at rates of 35 cents a pound for clear medium, 25 cents for fine and fed, and 20 cents for rejects, and final settlement will be made when the wool is sold by the National Wool Marketing corporation, Boston.

ENGLAND SHUNS FAST ACTION ON MONEY SCHEME

Expects Stiff Fight in Parliament

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, April 7—Britain's decision on the Bretton Woods proposals of a world bank and monetary fund may be shelved until after the general election, scheduled soon after Germany is defeated, it was indicated today. Some financial observers believed the delay might imperil the whole international project.

News that the United States congress had refused to be rushed into endorsing the plan before the allied security meeting opens in San Francisco April 25 helped stiffen British parliamentary opposition. It was said the program would be strongly criticized in the house of commons.

"No Commitment"—Eden

Foreign Minister Eden promised the house emphatically before the Easter vacation that the government would not commit itself to the plan until parliament debated it. He said that if it were brought up at San Francisco he would refuse to discuss the question.

Eden's position was interpreted by the Financial News to mean there was no possibility of a decision on the plan before or during the San Francisco talks.

Further indications were that Britain would not be committed on Bretton Woods before victory in Europe and that political considerations might stall off a decision longer.

Politics Termed Barrier

Germany's defeat will be followed by a breakup of the coalition government and formation by Prime Minister Churchill of a "caretaker" administration to carry on until the general election.

The possibility of the "caretaker" government pressing the Bretton Woods plan appeared remote, it was said, because the Conservative leaders would avoid letting Labor party opposition make political capital in the election of the unpopularity of the gold standard.

The Financial News suggested that the new government would have more difficulty than the present administration in gaining approval for the plan, because newly elected members of parliament "would be in a better position to take an independent line."

CHICAGO OFFICE OF RFC SELLS 14 SURPLUS PLANES

Peter I. Bukowski, manager of the Reconstruction Finance corporation disposing loan agency in Chicago, yesterday announced the sale of 14 surplus training planes at two RFC sales centers. Ten planes sold in Lansing, Ill., were valued at $13,390, and sales were made at Des Moines, Ia., of four planes valued at $4,100.

Bukowski said the sales would continue thru 23 RFC offices until all surplus training planes in the country were disposed of, and urged dealers and individuals to participate. The area served by the Chicago office includes Iowa, northern Illinois, northern Indiana, and southern Wisconsin.

Great Northern Reports Larger Profit for 1944

Great Northern railway yesterday reported net income in 1944 was $23,396,966, or $8.03 a share, compared with $19,590,548, or $7.84 a share in 1943 on a smaller number of shares outstanding.

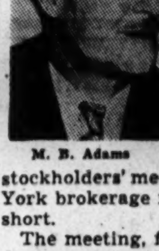
Strike Cases in Hands of Conciliators

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP)—The United States conciliation service today listed 23 strikes which it was handling as of 6 p. m. yesterday. Incomplete tabulations showed 5,300 workers involved. Other strikes, some handled solely by the war labor board, were not included. None was listed in Iowa. The nine shown for the midwest, unions involved, and the number of workers affected were:

ILLINOIS — International Shoe company, Hartford, AFL leather workers, 6. INDIANA—Carnegie-Illinois Steel company, Gary, CIO steel workers, 60. WISCONSIN—Sivyer Steel Casting company, Milwaukee, CIO auto workers, 330; Geuder, Paeschke & Frey, Milwaukee, AFL Federal Labor union, 850; American Skein and Foundry company, Racine, AFL machinists, number of workers unknown. MICHIGAN—Timken-Detroit Axle company, Detroit, CIO auto workers, 1,000; Gear Grinding Machine company, plants No. 1 and 2, Detroit, CIO auto workers, 440; Draper Motor company, Detroit, CIO auto workers, 37; Ford Motor company, Willow Run plant, Ypsilanti, CIO auto workers, 10.

Struggle for Rail's Control Causes Clash Over Shares

St. Louis, Mo., April 7 (AP)—Marvin B. Adams of Miami, Fla., president of a stockholders' protective committee of Florida business men seeking a change in management of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas [Katy] railroad, said today his group has lost 30,000 proxy votes at the annual stockholders' meeting because a New York brokerage firm sold Katy stock short.



M. B. Adams

Mathew Sloan

The meeting, first recessed yesterday, was put over to Monday to permit completion of checking proxy votes before balloting on the committee motion to cut the directorate from 15 members to nine in its fight for control. Atty. Charles Morehead, another member of the group, charged that names of proxy holders favorable to it had been supplied to solicitors for the management. Mathew Sloan, president of the road, immediately denied the charge.

"Unfortunately Caught Short"

Adams, who said he owns 11,600 shares affected, recounted he was informed by telephone by a partner in the New York firm, later identified as Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane, that "You know there has been a large 'short position' in the stock for some time and our firm was just 'caught short' at the record date [for voting of stock]."

"The committee learned it had received proxies totalling only 14,425 shares from the firm instead of over 60,000, of which some of the committee members had advised me they were beneficial owners," said Adams. "They told me they purchased the stock prior to the record date and that the stock still was registered in the firm's name."

The firm's spokesman expressed sympathy and termed the situation "an unfortunate thing," he said.

Merrill Lynch Issues Denial

Branding it "one of the greatest injustices to owners of securities" and a violation and denial of property rights, he said he was sending a copy of his statement to the securities and exchange commission.

In New York Merrill Lynch issued a statement asserting: "The alleged statement attributed to one of our partners is incorrect and untrue. Our firm has no position either long or short. Our books are open to the SEC and the interstate commerce commission.

"Our firm gave proxies to the management and to the opposition committee in accordance with the authorization of our customers. . . . Exactly according to the wishes of our clients. . . . We have followed our long established policy of being entirely neutral."

WRINGING OUT "WATER"

Intangible assets, such as good will, trade marks, and patents, are often of great value to stockholders. Nevertheless, the modern corporate practice of eliminating such items from fixed property accounts, where they formerly were included in many instances at undisclosed valuations, is generally regarded as desirable. Such assets are now frequently written off entirely or else shown in separate entries.

Some of the important industrial combinations of the late 1890s and early 1900s are still "wringing out water" thru charges to accumulated surplus or otherwise. In that era original common stock issues were in some cases largely, perhaps entirely, represented by intangibles.

In its recent annual report, National Biscuit company, which previously had been gradually amortizing intangibles, showed a lump sum charge of $14,369,630 to write off such assets. American Smelting and Refining's 1944 report disclosed a $5,285,064 write-off, reducing intangibles to $19,513.

Some utilities, pursuant to orders from regulatory bodies, have either written off the excess of book cost over original outlay or segregated it. A late example is the pro forma balance sheet of Laclede Gas Light company, St. Louis, as of Dec. 31, 1944, listing its plants and equipment at an estimated original cost of $35,816,420, compared with $46,372,056 previously, in addition to $6,099,915 intangibles now eliminated.

Under a general order of the securities and exchange commission, corporations, in making financial reports to it, are required to set up a separate schedule of any intangible assets, if practicable.

United States Steel corporation, thru 1938, had reduced all intangibles in its consolidated balance sheet to $1, as determined by the directors, by write-offs totaling $768,671,021. Nevertheless, the common stock book value at the close of 1944 was figured at more than $146 a share. American Can in one year wrote off good will, trade marks, and other intangibles previously included at $44,593,881.

This bookkeeping trend is wholesome, giving investors a more accurate picture of original costs. Today's values or replacement costs, however, may be larger or less than the original outlays. The historical information is of especial interest in the case of operating public utilities, in view of the trend of some regulatory authorities to give chief weight to the original [prudent] investment in determining the rate base. In the case of industrial companies, book values often have little relationship to market values, which are determined to a greater extent by earnings, prospects, and dividend paying ability.

Large Sales of Can Goods Slash Supply

Canned vegetables and fruits, despite ration values ranging as high as 80 points a can, are moving out of retail stores so rapidly it is highly likely supplies of fruits in particular will be exhausted before new packs are ready for sale, Chicago food sources said yesterday.

The cause is not so much active buying as short supplies, said spokesmen for canners, wholesalers, and grocery chains. They said that canned berries, peaches, pineapple, grapefruit juice, catsup, tomato paste and puree, all high in point value, are sold as quickly as grocers receive them. Pineapple, peaches, and berries move with particular rapidity because supplies are small and no dealer has many to sell.

Apricots, prunes, peas, tomatoes, and nearly all other vegetables move more slowly, food dealers said. A spokesman for a large grocery chain said housewives balk at the high point values of these foods and that many had stocked adequate supplies before point values were restored or raised in December.

Home canned foods have reduced demand for commercially packed fruits and vegetables to some extent, dealers said, but the better grades of canned goods remain inadequate to meet demands. Cheaper grades are in good supply, but in some cases have become slow moving.

Large purchases by the government also have affected civilian supplies, canners said, and 80 per cent of output of some products is sold to government agencies.

FIRST TEST VOTE ON WATER PACT DUE TOMORROW

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP)—Senate leaders notified absentee members today that a test vote on the controversial United States-Mexican water treaty is scheduled for Monday. The treaty provides for a division of Colorado river and Rio Grande waters.

Under immediate consideration is an amendment by Sen. Downey [D., Cal.] to increase from two to six the membership on the international boundary commission, which would administer the treaty. Each country would retain equal representation. Downey believes that as the treaty now stands "vast and dictatorial" powers are given the two boundary commissioners.

Bring in 26 New Oil Wells in Illinois Fields in Week

Centralia, Ill., April 7 (AP)—The Midwest Oil Journal said today 26 new wells in Illinois fields had been completed during the week ended Thursday.

RYE ADVANCES MORE DESPITE PROFIT CASHING

Rise in Other Grain Runs to 1¾ Cents

The rye market extended its recent large advance yesterday. The May future reached $1.33 a bushel in early trading, up 3⅜ cents for a rise of 18⅛ cents from the preceding week. Profit taking and caution over possible week-end developments brought a reaction, but net gains of 1⅝ to 2⅜ cents were retained at the close. All deliveries touched peaks.

Reports that the Commodity Credit corporation had purchased 10 million bushels of spring wheat helped futures rise ⅜ to 1⅝ cents with May at a new peak. Corn rose ⅜ to ¾ cents, oats ⅜ to ⅝, and barley ¾ to 1⅜. Strength in corn, oats, and barley was largely in sympathy with rye.

Reported "Advised" to Sell

A leading professional trader sold May rye freely on the advance, with some reports that the selling had been suggested by the business conduct committee of the exchange to curb a runaway market. Shipments of rye by lake last week totaled 1,059,000 bushels.

Part of the May rye sales were offset by purchases of July futures. Buying of July also was done against sales of September and December. Trade in rye futures for the week ended Friday as reported by the compliance branch of the war food administration aggregated at 123⅛ million bushels, compared with only 30 million bushels a year earlier.

Minneapolis Buying Large

Minneapolis elevator interests bought an estimated 6 million bushels of wheat at ceiling prices last week for deferred shipment from the country when box cars are available. Much of the business was said to represent sales to government agencies. May wheat sold at Minneapolis at $1.68⅜, or within 1 cent of the ceiling price. Additional sales of flour to government agencies were reported.

Low temperatures last week are reported to have cause damage to winter wheat in areas where the plants has reached the jointing stage.

U. S. GETS ASSETS OF ARMS PLANT TO SETTLE SUIT

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP)—The government will receive virtually all assets of Antonelli Fireworks company of Spencerport, N. Y., under a settlement of civil suits announced today by Atty. Gen. Biddle.

"Under terms of the settlement the government receives more than $200,000 in cash and title to all machinery, jigs, tools, and fixtures used in munitions production," the announcement said. "The United States also is granted unrestricted use of the entire production plant and the leased land on which it stands for the duration of the war."

The civil actions followed criminal prosecution of the company and several of its officers and employes who were charged in June, 1943, with conspiring to defraud the government in connection with army contracts for incendiary munitions.

LAKE POLLUTION ACTION NAMES 21 INDIANA PLANTS

State Negotiating to Curb Dumping of Wastes

Twenty-one industrial firms of East Chicago, Gary, and Whiting were made parties to the lake pollution action of the State of Illinois against the State of Indiana and four Indiana cities in an amended complaint filed yesterday by Atty. Gen. Barrett before the United States Supreme court in Washington, D. C.

Atty. Gen. Barrett.

Negotiations already have been instituted with some of the firms, Barrett said, to correct the dumping of raw sewage and industrial wastes into Lake Michigan. The amended complaint is to make any agreements reached with these industries a matter of court record and to insure execution of the agreements.

Wastes Affect Drinking Water

Since filing the original complaint in October, 1943, Barrett reported, agreements have been reached with the four cities of Hammond, Gary, East Chicago, and Whiting, providing for treatment of all sewage from these cities as soon as plants can be completed.

But additional sewage and industrial wastes come from the large industrial plants at the foot of Lake Michigan, Barrett said. He declared that oil waste discharged from Indiana refineries which collected during the winter under the lake ice had affected the drinking water of Chicago south side.

Of the 21 companies named in the amended complaint, 14 are in East Chicago, five in Gary, and two in Whiting. The East Chicago companies include E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Shell Oil company, Cudahy Packing company, Inland Steel company, the Texas company, Youngstown Sheet & Tube company, United States Gypsum company, Socony-Vacuum Oil company, U. S. S. Lead Refining, Inc., Cities Service Oil company, Bates Expanded Steel corporation, Rogers Galvanizing company, Sinclair Refining company, and the Fruit Growers Express company.

Pact with Hammond Firm

The Gary companies are Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, American Bridge company, Universal Atlas Cement company, National Tube company, and Elgin, Joliet & Eastern Railway company, all subsidiaries of United States Steel corporation. The Whiting companies are Standard Oil company and Carbon and Carbide Chemicals corporation.

Barrett said an agreement has been reached with the American Maize Products company of Hammond for installation of equipment costing half a million dollars for treatment of industrial wastes.

The attorney general reported the five Gary industries have submitted a plan for piping sewage and industrial waste to the Gary city sewage plant.

The City of East Chicago has just started operation of its new sewage plant, Barrett said, and efforts will be made for treatment of sewage and wastes from the 14 major industrial plants in it.

CHARGE MOTHER KILLED CHILD, 7; 'MANGLED BODY'

New Orleans, La., April 7 (UP)—Mrs. Ernestine Bonneval, 26, was charged with murder tonight, Police Sgt. W. M. Dwyer said, after she admitted the fatal beating of her daughter Clementine, 7, with "a homemade cat o' nine tails fashioned from a length of rubber hose."

Mrs. Bonneval also was charged with beating two other children, Eal, 6, and Genevieve, 4, Dwyer said, and other charges included "contributing to the delinquency of juveniles, and cruelty."

Dwyer said Mrs. Bonneval admitted she had "been beating the three children for several days because they had been stealing money from a neighbor." Dwyer said Clementine's body was "badly bruished and mangled, even to her toenails, which were partly torn off."

OBITUARIES

Roy Mitchell Wolvin

TORONT, Ont., April 7 (AP)—Roy Mitchell Wolvin, 66, Montreal shipbuild, died today. Born in St. Clair, Mich., Wolvin was educated there and came to Canada 40 years ago. He was chairman of the executive board of Canadian Vickers and president of Kingston Shipbuilding Co., Ltd., Collingwood Shipyards, Ltd.; Port Arthur Shipbuilding Co., Ltd.; Midland Ship Yards, Ltd., and the Canadian Shipping and Engineering company. His widow is the former Geraldine Faro of Chicago.

William Henry Horwood

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, April 7 (AP)—William Henry Horwood, 82, chief justice of Newfoundland since 1902 and administrator in the governor's absence, died here today. He was elected to the assembly in 1894, 1897, and 1900. In 1894-'95 he served as colonial secretary. Horwood became acting attorney general in 1897 and in 1900 and 1902 was minister of justice and attorney general for Newfoundland.

William N. Weaver

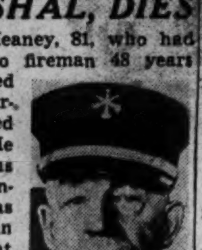
Services for William N. Weaver, 67, of 6745 Paxton av., retired manager of the Northwest Barbed Wire company of Sterling, Whiteside county, will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at 2434 E. 79th st. He died Friday of a heart attack when shopping with his wife. He also is survived by three sons, Dr. Ralph N., 7561 S. Coles av.; David E., 8112 Oglesby av., and Staff Sgt. William Jr., stationed in Alaska.

Walter Beaupre Townley

LONDON, April 7—The death of Walter Beaupre Townley, 82, whose long career in the British diplomatic service covered posts almost all over the globe, was announced today. He was charge d' affaires in Washington, D. C., in 1906.

C. H. HEANEY, 81, RETIRED FIRE MARSHAL, DIES

Charles N. Heaney, 81, who had been a Chicago fireman 48 years when he retired as division marshal in 1936, died yesterday. He held numerous honorable mentions, but was best known in the department as an administrator. When he commanded the 6th division, on the northwest side, he governed it so ably it was known as "Chief Heaney's fire department."



Charles N. Heaney

Associates said his ability to handle men was demonstrated when he first commanded an engine company. He was assigned to engine company 42 and was directed to initiate the discharge of every man for inefficiency. Instead he called the company together, gave them a talk and kept them in service. Within a few years every one of the seven men had risen in rank.

Heaney was born at Randolph and Wells streets and was a volunteer fireman in the old town of Jefferson when he was 17. He was a captain at the time of the Iroquois theater fire and his company was one of the first to respond. He retired Jan. 1, 1936, under the law requiring retirement of all firemen after 63. He is survived by his widow, Millie. They lived at 2838 Shakespeare av.

Services will be held at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday from the chapel, 2166 N. California av., to St. Sylvester's church.

FLIGHT TEACHER FALLS OUT OF PLANE TO DEATH

Second Lt. Theodore H. Fisher, a flight instructor at the Glenview Naval Air Training station, was killed yesterday when he fell from a plane near Palatine. He was commissioned March 11, 1944, after attending Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, Pa., and was assigned to Glenview last November. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Fisher, Somerset, Pa., and his widow, Mrs. Peggy Bender Fisher of Somerset.

CUT SENTENCES OF CIRCUS MEN IN FIRE DISASTER

Hartford, Conn., April 7 (AP)—Superior Judge William Shea today cut the prison sentences of three of the six officials and employes of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey circus who pleaded no contest last February to a charge of involuntary manslaughter arising from the big top fire which cost 168 lives.

After three days of arguments on a defense request that he suspend the sentences, the jurist ordered the sentences of two to seven years of George W. Smith, general manager, and Leonard S. Aylesworth, boss canvasman, be changed to one year and a day to five years.

The sentence of James A. Haley, vice president, was changed from one to five years to one year and a day to five years, which would make him eligible for parole sooner because no time off for good behavior is permitted by the minimum one year sentence while it is allowed for terms of more than a year.

HAGNER—Gustav E. Hagner. In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, who left us away two years ago today.
Deep in our hearts, the memory
Of our loved one, gone to rest.
Gratefully we bow humbly
To the will of God. He knows best.
LOVING MOTHER, DAD, BROTHER, SISTER.

LUNDEN—Augusta S. Lunden. In loving memory of my grandmother, who passed away five years ago today.
Just when her life was brightest,
Just when her life was best
She was called from this world of sorrow
To a home of eternal rest.
Yet I cannot say and will not say
That she is dead—she is just away.
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand
She has wandered into the unknown land
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be since she lingers there.
LOVING GRANDSON CARL.

Florida

FLORIDA RANCH
Choice Tract of Land

One of the most valuable tracts of land in the state of Florida—ideally situated on the coast in tropical south Florida right in the midst of the best hunting and fishing area. Fine location for a townsite as it fronts on one of the main highways and on popular fishing waters, has railroad station on tract, is well drained, has beautifully wooded areas and grassed grazing sections, fertile garden spots, citrus lands, sugar cane lands, wonderful potato or gladiolus land—in fact, a perfect set-up for a large agricultural project combined with a resort development. This desirable 90,000 acre body of land is now used as a successful cattle ranch with over 60 miles of fencing, 60 miles of canals, and 10 large flowing wells, commissary, filling station, postoffice, living quarters for employes, owner's bungalow, utility buildings and operating equipment. Just now there are approximately 12,000 head of cattle of Brahma strain. For a limited time this improved tract with fifteen miles of waterfront is available as a whole at $15 per acre. The cattle may be purchased. For further particulars regarding this prize offering contact the

SEEK TO ANSWER QUERY 'WHEN CAN I BUILD A HOME?'

Call Parley, Ask Nonwar Housing Priorities

BY AL CHASE
[Real Estate Editor.]

"When will the ordinary Chicago citizen be able to build a home?" is a question asked so often that the Chicago Metropolitan Home Builders association has called a dinner meeting Wednesday evening in the Hotel Sherman to seek the answer.

Charles Huggett
[TRIBUNE Photo]

Mayor Kelly, heads of government bureaus, realty boards, mortgage banking groups, and union officials have been invited to discuss the question with home builders, Charles Huggett, executive secretary of the builders association, announced yesterday.

Hold Hope for Priorities

Some builders are optimistic that William K. Divers, regional director of the national housing agency, may announce at the meeting that priorities for a sizable H-2 program [civilian nonwar workers' homes] will be allocated to this area soon.

The recent allotment of priorities for 5,000 H-2 units in Detroit brought a request to Divers that Chicago's urgent need for nonwar housing be eased with a similar or larger quota. Divers said then that NHA action was contingent on approval of the allotment by the area production urgency committee.

Since then the committee has been studying the Chicago situation and builders hope it has given Divers its approval. If so, he may make an announcement which will be at least part of the answer to the "When can I build?" query.

Urgent Chicago Need Told

"The fact that Detroit recently was awarded a quota of 5,000 units of housing under an H-2 program has irked Chicago builders because it is believed that the need for housing in Chicago is greater than in Detroit," said Huggett.

"With a 99.9 per cent occupancy of housing and a vacancy of less than the number of units declared to be unfit for human habitation, household goods and families doubled and trebled in single housing units, the need of Chicago is axiomatic. And undoubtedly the shortage is offering considerable hindrance to the war effort by discouraging workers from coming into the city for war jobs."

Many Speakers Listed

John Cummings Lindop, president of the home builders group, will preside at the meeting. Among the guest speakers will be Joseph B. Ford, president of the Chicago Real Estate board; William K. Nelson, president of the Chicago Mortgage Bankers association; Patrick J. Sullivan, president of the Chicago Building Trades council, and Edward J. Kelly, Illinois FHA director.

Other speakers will be John Goodridge, chairman of the builders' association advisory council and president of the Illinois Brick company; Leonard McDonald, director of the Chicago war housing center, and Divers.

"The object of the meeting is to build a complete and convincing case for immediate privately financed housing with unrestricted occupancy, affording an opportunity to supply to a limited extent the housing for which the need is so acute," said Huggett.

W. SIDE REALTY BOARD TO HOLD OLD TIMERS' DAY

With an estimated 2,000 years of west side real estate experience on hand, "Old Timers' day" will be celebrated by the West Side Real Estate board tomorrow in the Graemere hotel. All who have observed silver and golden anniversaries in the real estate business or as owners of west side property are invited to attend by Chairman Albert F. Keeney and his committee, F. C. Pilgrim, John F. Butler, Fred W. George, and Arnold Marks.

FLOYD G. DANA NAMED TO HEAD REALTY BOARD

Floyd G. Dana of Floyd G. Dana & Co. has been nominated for president of the Chicago Real Estate board, the monthly meeting was told. If elected, and no other ticket is in the field, he will succeed Joseph B. Ford. The election will be held May 2 and returns announced at the annual banquet in the Stevens hotel that evening. Other officers nominated were: Vice president, Harry H. Harper; secretary, Hugh C. Michels treasurer, Charles E. Fox.

Start Palatine Project with 71 War Homes

Construction has begun on 71 brick war homes on a 200 acre development in Palatine, Arthur T. McIntosh & Co. announced yesterday. Work on others of the 400 houses planned for the site will start as soon as priorities can be obtained.

Three of the 71 homes are to be ready for occupancy by May 1, 18 by June 1, and the remainder during August, September, and October. Two-thirds of the homes will be sold for $6,250 each and the others rented for $50 per month.

Occupancy will be restricted to war workers, most of them expected to be employes of the Douglas Aircraft company plant near Park Ridge.

The home sites are located in the area bounded by Northwest highway, Rohlwing rd., and Colfax st. All utilities are in, sidewalks installed, and streets will be paved soon, it was said. The tract, named Palanois Park, also has 25 year elms.

Occupying lots of 60 by 188 feet, the homes will have two bedrooms, full basements, and furnace heat. Bertram A. Weber and Vitzthum & Burns are the architects.

Financed with federal housing administration 15 year loans negotiated thru the Percy Wilson Mortgage and Finance corporation, the $6,250 homes require an $850 down payment with monthly payments of $40.

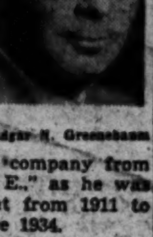
GREENEBAUM CO. CELEBRATES ITS 90TH BIRTHDAY

The Greenebaum Investment company today will observe its 90th anniversary, Edgar N. Greenebaum, grandson of Elias Greenebaum, who founded the company in 1855, said yesterday. During its existence only three men have headed the business: Elias, his son Moses E., and Edgar. The founder headed the company from 1855 to 1911. "M. E.," as he was called, was president from 1911 to 1934 and Edgar since 1934.



Edgar N. Greenebaum

Other officers are Percy Cowan, executive vice president; R. G. Mueller, G. E. Berlin, Herbert H. Kant, and Frank A. Rakouska, vice presidents; and Robert E. Parks, secretary and treasurer.

The company was originally known as Greenebaum Brothers and then as Greenebaum Sons. It started business in the Metropolitan block at Randolph and La Salle sts. Later it moved to a Clark st. location where it was burned out in the Chicago fire of 1871. Two days later, however, the company opened for business in a residence on Wabash av., south of Harrison st. For the last five years the company has been at the northeast corner of La Salle and Monroe sts.

Realty Miscellany

Fighting front experiences will be related by two combat men at the annual spring meeting of the Chicago Mortgage Bankers association Thursday evening in the Palmer House. The speakers will be presented by Lt. M. F. Lanphar of the navy, Detroit mortgage banker and officer in charge of the Chicago district industrial incentive office. Harold A. Moore, vice president of Chicago Title & Trust company, will be toastmaster. William G. Nelson, president of the association, will preside.

Landau & Perlman, for 11 years at 105 W. Adams st., will open larger quarters tomorrow in the Westminster building, 110 S. Dearborn st. The firm specializes in selling, managing, leasing, and developing retail business property. Its members are Howard M. Landau, Elias R. Perlman, Milton J. Wohl, and Herbert H. Heyman. Wohl has charge of investment property sales, hotels, and mortgage financing.

Steel Products Company Buys Plant on South Side

Hamilton Steel Products, Inc., yesterday bought for $435,000 the plant it is now occupying under lease and adjoining buildings and land at 1711-1901 W. 74th st., containing 325,000 square feet. Harry E. Hobbs of Hobbs & Grubb, Inc., was sole broker. The buyer also has a plant in North Chicago.

GRAPHIC SECTION Chicago Sunday Tribune THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER APRIL 8, 1945

THE Colors THAT COMPLIMENT YOU!

WHAT colors are most popular for spring and summer costumes of 1945? What colors will complement your hair, eyes, complexion? What colors are most flattering, or which should you avoid, if you are a blonde, brunet, redhead—or if your hair is turning gray?

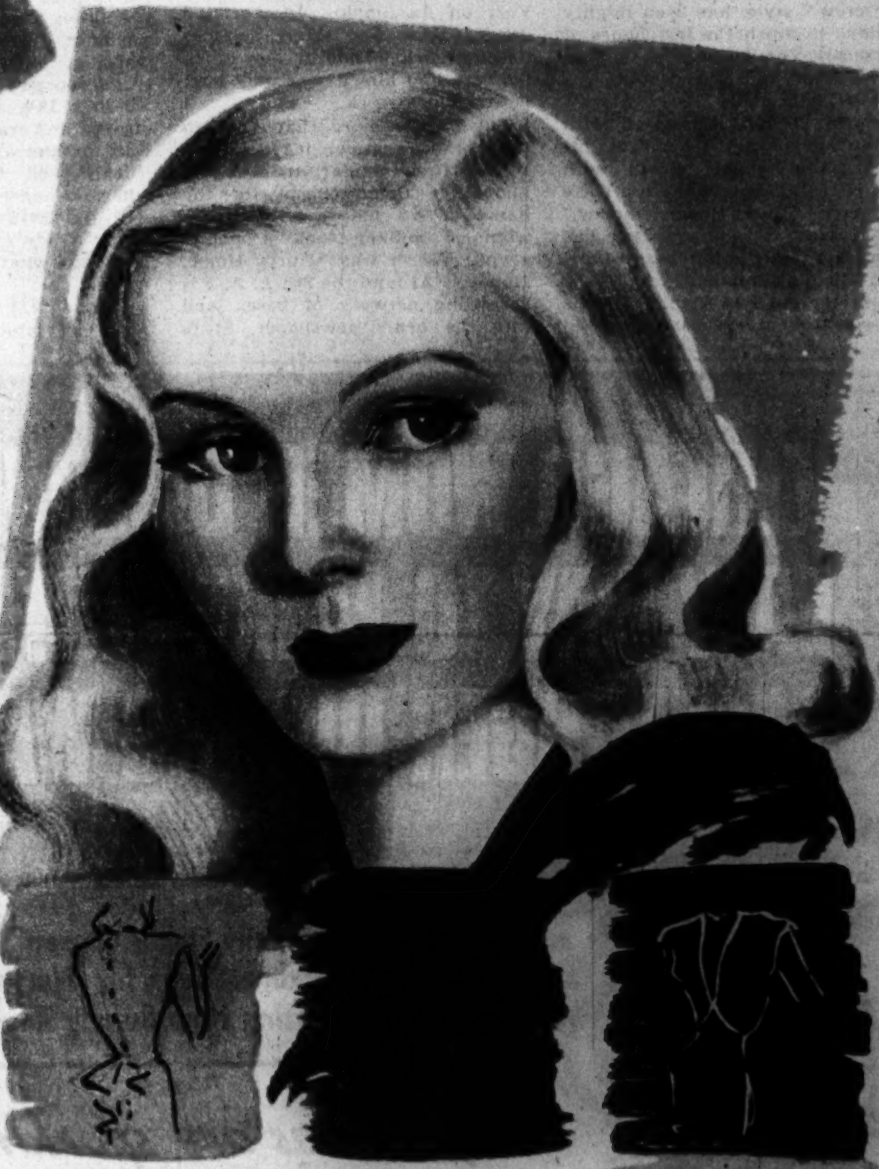
Mrs. Grace Pickering, one of America's foremost authorities in the fashion world and director of The Chicago Tribune's annual American Fashions contests, answers on this page some of these all-important questions every well dressed woman asks as she begins selecting a new wardrobe. Her comments will be found with the sketches illustrating the four color types.

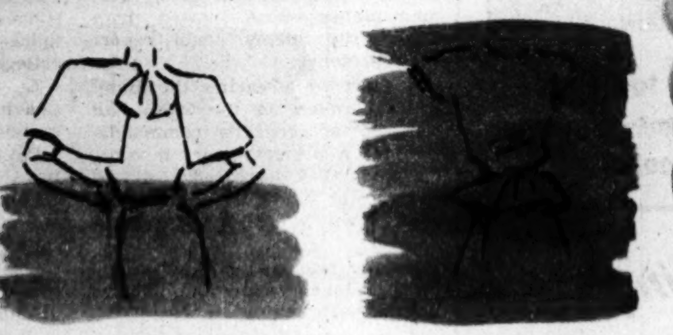
"THE OLD SAYING that redheads should never wear red is a fallacy. Both red and pink [see illustration at left above] are among the colors most flattering to auburn-haired beauties. Mme. Lanvin, one of the great couturieres of Paris, whose understanding of color is recognized all over the world, often dressed her mannequins in certain shades of red and pink.

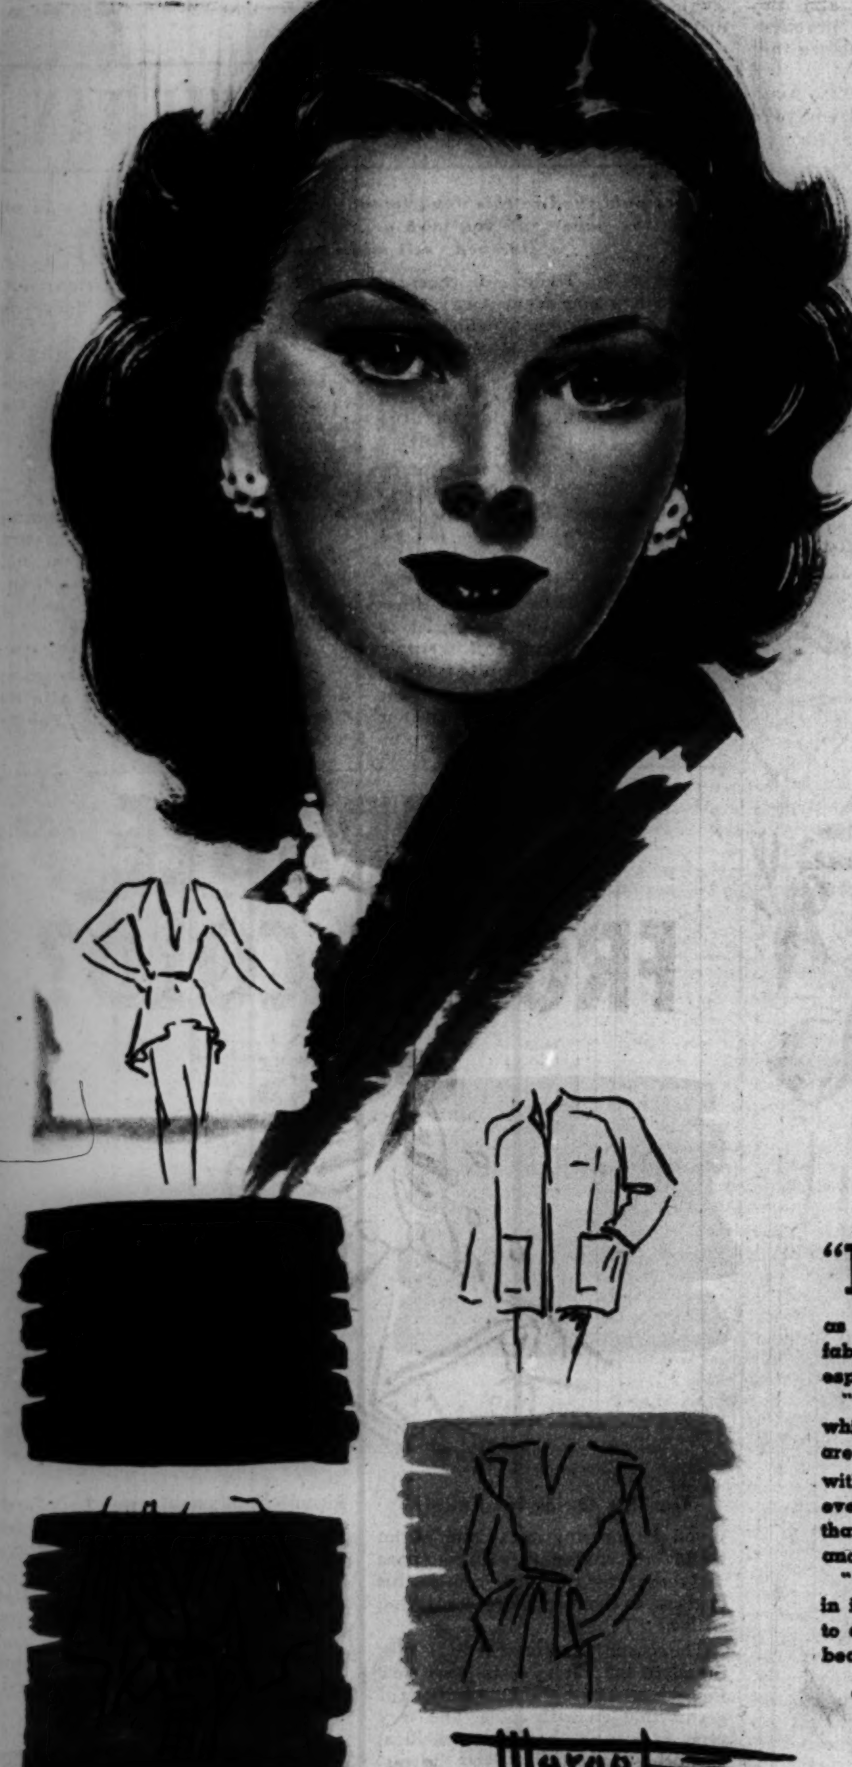
"Technicolor also has brought us some of Hollywood's most glamorous titian-haired stars in exquisite and becoming red and pink shades.

"The 'limelight green' launched by American designers is a flattering but rather obvious shade for redheads. I recommend, too, almost any shade of gray, as well as the three classics, black, navy blue, and white.

"As a case in proof, the $2,000 prize in last year's Chicago Tribune American Fashions contest went to the designer of a gray dress shown on a titian-haired model."







"THE FASHIONABLE choice for blondes this year will be navy blue and the very popular air force blue. Some tones of yellow also are excellent, especially when combined with gray. This combination always has been a great favorite of one of our prominent American designers. At night, I suggest, a blonde is at her best in either white or black, or in one of the many pastel shades now so fashionable."

"THE BRUNET [above left] is lucky in being able to wear a wide choice of colors—yellow, gold, and nearly all shades of red. In previous Chicago Tribune Fashion shows a white dinner or evening gown has been shown often on raven-haired models, which has always proved very effective. Other excellent evening shades are emerald green and ruby red. In fact, most of the richer jewel colors are becoming to this type."

"PROBABLY never in history have hairdressers created such effective styles for the white-haired woman as in this year of 1945. Furthermore, fabrics have been designed and dyed especially for her. [Illustration at right.]

"Black, blue, and a certain dark green which is being used extensively this year are among the more sober colors popular with the white-haired woman, but for evening I would suggest a color scheme that includes gayer shades such as red and turquoise.

"The one color to be avoided is beige in its many variations, as this color tends to detract from rather than emphasize the beauty of white hair."

SHEPHERD OF THE SKY!

At right: Maj. Richard A. Peterson, Alexandria, Minn., the shepherd of the sky, who named his plane for his sweetheart's favorite expression in their letters.

Lt. Harold O. Hand, right, with his crew chief, who serviced Hand's Mustang while in the 357th fighter group.

This is the last of a series of two articles telling about the adventures of the 357th fighter group of the 8th air force—a group made up largely of Chicagoland boys. Last week the author told how the 357th, under Lt. Col. Irwin H. Dregne, "mousetrapped" a group of German fighters for a record kill.

By JAMES E. SLOAN

An 8th Air Force Fighter Base Somewhere in England.

UP HERE at the home field of the crack 357th fighter group they have two legends. One was born in the bullet filled skies over the Berlin area when Lt. Col. Irwin H. Dregne of Viroqua, Wis., led his Mustang sharpshooters to a 57½ to 3 victory over the Nazi air force on Jan. 14 to set a new 8th air force group record for planes destroyed on one mission.

The other legend has as its principal character Maj. Richard A. Peterson of 1110 Douglas st., Alexandria, Minn., whose girl friend rates an "assist" on his fame. She's Elaine Bjorkland of Minneapolis. "Pete," a husky Minnesotan whose blond hair is cropped in "crew" style, has been mighty anxious to finish the last hours of his second combat tour so he can hurry home and marry her.

Practically daily Pete gets an endearing letter, illustrated with her own graphic sketches, from his fair Elaine which closes with "H. H. H." That is their private code for "hurry home, honey," which is the novel name Pete has painted on the lethal nose of his trim Mustang fighter.

And therein lies a tale. It was those sentimental words that saved the life of a Fortress crew recently!

This crew was making its first mission over Germany. Flak near the target in the Frankfurt area ripped their bomber almost to shreds, wounded several of them, knocked out the plane's instruments, and wrecked its navigation devices. To the scared, hurt airmen it looked like the end and they were preparing to bail out to an uncertain fate in German hands when a Mustang pulled up alongside them.

Calmly its pilot signaled to them that he would lead them home—and like a mother hen he did just that. First on the right, then on the left, now above, then below, he shepherded the battered Fort on its limping way around danger areas and safely back to its home field. Then he flew on to his base. To him it was only part of the day's work.

But it was more than that to the bomber's crew; it was their lives. Their Samaritan was unknown to them, except for the name of his plane, of which a wounded gunner took a photograph. Yes, it was "Hurry Home, Honey." Around the 8th A. A. F.'s sprawling network of bases, and into the army newspaper, Stars and Stripes, went a call, a call for the pilot of "Hurry Home, Honey."

Pete got that call, and when he went to the hospital where the wounded crewmen were recovering he received their undying gratitude, undying only because he had seen a friend in need and had done something about it.

On another occasion, when a novice Mustang pilot came in to land with only one wheel down, Pete didn't trust the control tower's radioed instructions to him on the correct landing procedure in such dire circumstances. He leaped into his own plane and with "Hurry Home, Honey" playing an unusual role showed the other pilot just how to land safely. He's also frequently brought home lost planes when the ceiling was absolutely "zero" and in pilots' parlance "even the birds were walking," but only if they definitely had to go somewhere.

Pete's 19½ German planes destroyed and crafty flying skill have won for him a new job. Now he's "dean" of "Clobber college," where he teaches the new arrivals with the 357th all the tricks of the deadly trade of "clobbering"—destroying—what's left of the Luftwaffe.

Colonel Dregne's oustanding array of pilots, who number 45 aces in their illustrious roster, include several dauntless Chicagolanders like Pete.

One is Lt. Thomas W. Martinek of R. R. 1, Chicago, whom the boys of the 357th were mighty sorry to see complete his combat tour. They like lads with his spirit—the spirit that led him into single-handed battle against more than 100 German planes. This is his version of how he scored his fourth kill in 48 hours back in October:

"When my P-51 refused to percolate smoothly, I headed home over the channel, but then discovered only a minor engine adjustment was necessary, so I turned around. Intending to rejoin my group, I headed toward Leipzig. Near there, still flying alone, I saw a beehive formation of 100-plus enemy fighters preparing to attack some of our bombers.

"I called for help, stepped on the gas, and climbed onto the tail of a Focke-Wulf at 26,000 feet. Opening fire at 500 yards, I had to chase him down to 6,000 feet before he spun into the ground in flames. Then I tangled with another F-W. After a long burst he went into some funny contortions and I almost crashed myself as I watched him explode on the ground. As the other 98 Nazis began to edge in a bit too closely for my comfort, other Mustangs roared up to take care of them."

Martinek made it safely home.

Air combat isn't the only forte of Colonel Dregne's boys. Last July they made a mission to France and shot down all four of the German planes which spotted them before the enemy could report their presence.

A short while earlier the many Chicagolanders in the 357th had received a general's commendation for a perfect escort mission, on which they destroyed 22 of the day's total of 48 German planes shot down without losing a bomber.

Having prepped on that assignment, Colonel Dregne and his boys helped write more air corps history on the second Russian shuttle raid. They flew a 5,000 mile triangle from England to Russia, Italy, and return without losing either a bomber or a fighter, and bagged seven Nazis en route.

These are some of the Chicagoans who have been here long enough to help hang up the 357th's amazing total of 585½ German planes destroyed in less than a year:

Capt. Mark H. Stepelton, 6442 S. Union av., whose plane, "Lady Julie," named for his wife, the former Juliet Reiter, 10534 S. Avenue J, has destroyed six German craft.

Capt. Robert D. Brown, 5830 W. Washington st., son of the William R. Browns, who escaped from the Germans after his plane, "Chicago Gun Moll," was shot down after two air victories.

Lt. John S. Skrha, 2816 S. Tripp av., whose energetic 5 foot stature won for the son of Steve and Elisabeth Skrha and his plane the apt appellation "Doodle Bug."

Lt. George G. George, 143 E. 157th st., Harvey, who named his plane "Blackpool Bat" in unusual honor of the Blackpool, England, girl he married. Born in Chicago Heights, the son of Gust and Antonia, George got some practice with a flying club there before the war.

Lt. Harold O. Hand, 10120 Avenue M, who has shot down two planes for his wife, the former Sophie Pokrajac. Harold, 22, is the son of Sidney Hand, R. R. 4, Canton, Ill.

Lt. Howard B. Egeland, 4222 N. Ridgeway av., son of the Ben Egelands and former Wright Junior college student.

Lt. Norbert G. Fisher, 957 N. Leavitt st., whose main game is ground targets.

Capt. Keehn Landis, son of Col. Reed G. and Marion Landis, and grandson of the late Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

Lt. John B. Schlossberg, 20, 5000 Cornell av., Terre Haute born son of Max and Ione, who formerly attended Purdue university.

Lt. Robert G. Goldsworthy, 24, 941 Greenview av., Des Plaines, son of William and Myrtle and former Northwestern university student.

Some of these airmen have finished their combat tours and returned home on leave, while several have been reassigned.

Two Chicagolanders of the 357th whose relatives are anxiously awaiting word of their rescue after being reported "missing in action" are Lt. Warren J. Doranski, 3017 N. Kimball av., whose wife is the former Virginia Tocha, and Lt. John K. Childs, 27, 717 Salem rd., Mount Vernon, Ill., who was born in Hinsdale, the son of John and Myra Childs.

Capt. Mark H. Stepelton, Chicago, with plane named for his wife, the former Juliet Reiter, also of Chicago.

There are several Chicagoans among the tireless ground personnel who helped make possible the high scoring perfection of the 357th and the excellent condition of its planes, which flew eight consecutive hours in support of the Normandy invasion last June and from 14 to 18 hours the first day of the fighting. These nonflying heroes include:

Tech. Sgt. Renaldo C. Freda, 29, of 743 Kedzie av., chief of the radio maintenance work on the group's Mustangs, whose wife, Loretta, lives at 1112 Taylor st. Sergeant Freda, strangely, was born in Italy, the son of Joseph and Anna, then of Rivisondoli.

Corp. Arthur E. Swanson, 23, 1164 N. Dearborn st., pre-war accountant who now is an armorer.

Pvt. Sidney H. Becker, 23, 5929 N. St. Louis av., signal company clerk. Private Becker is the son of the Max Beckers and husband of Faye.

Pvt. Walter S. Feret, 24, 2715 W. Potomac av., who helps post guard over this base, where some early German flying bombs paid close calls. Son of the Charles Ferets, Private Feret once played minor league baseball with the Wausau (Wis.) Lumberjacks.

Tech. Sgt. George A. Fischer, 29, whose wife, Lenschen, lives at 1210 Winnemac av. Before the war Sergeant Fischer, who now is on the medical administration staff was a stenographer for a Chicago magazine firm.

VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Miss Tinée: I recently saw "Since You Went Away," and I would like to know who played the part of Harold E. Smith, the sailor. Could you find a little corner in your wonderful column in which you could put his picture?

TERSE.

A number of people seem to be interested in that sailor, judging from the mail. His name is Guy Madison. Sorry, no room for his picture today.

Dear Miss Tinée: Lots of times I've had a question I wanted to ask, and then I put off writing. But my husband is quite violent about this, so please settle it for us. I say Dickie Moore, former child star, is old enough now to be in the army. Probably is married, even. He says Dickie Moore is about 10 years old!

MR. AND MRS.

You win. Dickie Moore was born in Los Angeles, Sept. 12, 1925. He is now in service.

Dear Mae Tinée: I have just seen "Sweet and Low Down." Would you please tell me the name of the actor who played the part of Johnny Birck and give me his address? I read your column every Sunday faithfully, and I thank you for your trouble.

SUSIE.

James Cardwell played the role, and you can reach him in care of Twentieth Century-Fox. You're welcome, Susie.

MISERABLE FROM A COLD?

Do This Quick for Relief!

If you are sneezing and snuffling from a cold ... all stuffed-up, with your nose and throat raw and sore—combat this distress, as thousands do, by gargling with new Pepsodent Antiseptic.

The reason it's recommended is this: Standard laboratory tests prove new Pepsodent Antiseptic kills millions of germs that go with colds. The very type of germs that many medical authorities say often heighten the misery and prolong the effects of a cold.

Isn't it only common sense then, to gargle with new Pepsodent Antiseptic at first sign of a cold! What better way to combat millions of germs that swarm on mouth and throat surfaces as far back as you can reach ... back where illness often strikes first!

So treat a cold this sensible way: Get plenty of rest, avoid exposure, dress warmly, drink plenty of liquids ... and gargle frequently with new Pepsodent Antiseptic. See if you don't relieve discomfort almost at once!

LOOKING AT HOLLYWOOD WITH HEDDA HOPPER

Arthur Landau plucked 30 grand out of thin air and a hunch with "The Canterville Ghost." (Margaret O'Brien and Charles Laughton.)

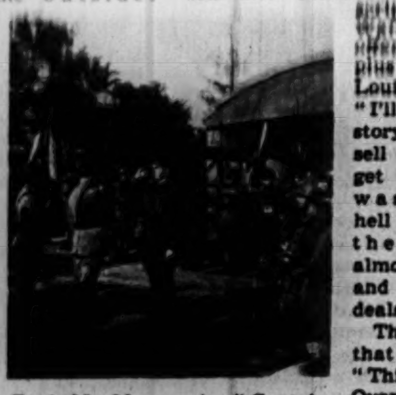
(Copyright: 1945: The Chicago Tribune.)

Hollywood.

ARTHUR LANDAU (no, you never heard of him, but he's a little guy with big ideas, and he once managed Marie Dressler and Jean Harlow) punctures one of our pet notions. He says the outworn idea that movies suffer from a dearth of story material suited to the screen is ridiculous and preposterous.

That's going to bring a hail of sharp cracks about Arthur's ears, because he's stepping on tender toes. "I know I'm sticking my neck out," he insists, "but there it is. I've proved my contention by too many personal experiences not to know what I'm talking about."

The pulling and hauling that goes on behind scenes when there's a hot property going around is something that the outsider wouldn't believe. Let's let Arthur take us behind the scenes for a bit of case history. He is, incidentally, chief production associate for Ben Bogeaus, and had a finger in three Bogeaus ventures—"Dark Waters," "Captain Kidd," and "There Goes Lona Henry."



Fred MacMurray in "Captain Eddie," story of Rickenbacker.

Few, even insiders, know that it was Landau who channeled "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo," one of the great stories of this war, to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

He was put in contact with Captain (now Major) Ted Lawson by a well known Hollywood insider who, being a former flyer himself, has lots of buddies among airmen.

Landau perceived immediately that Lawson had something in the story of the Shangri-la flyers and their bombing of Tokyo. At the time it was a deep military secret, altho Lawson had sold his personal yarn to Collier's with Bob Considine as his collaborator. Paramount had first crack at it. Y. Frank Freeman was busy and told Arthur to send the idea thru Bill Dozier, story editor. Arthur said, "Nothing doing!" and went to see Eddie Mannix at Metro. That's how Paramount lost out.

Meanwhile he had confided in Jerry Wald, writer-producer at Warners', swearing him to secrecy. Wald wanted to run to Jack Warner immediately, and when Landau nixed that he let the word trickle thru to Jake Wilk, Warners' story head in New York. Trouble stemmed from that leak.

Lawson offered Landau a contract. "You're an army officer," said Arthur. "If your word isn't any good, your signature isn't, either." Lawson said, "How much can you get me?" Landau said he didn't know—maybe $5, maybe $10,000, maybe nothing.

"Ten thousand!" Lawson exclaimed. "Whew!" And flew back to Washington.

Metro held the script overnight, sent for Landau, and offered him $100,000 for it. Arthur said the author was holding out for $150,000 and got Lawson on the phone to prove it. He told him about the $100,000 offer. While Lawson was recovering from his swoon, Landau hung up, shaking his head. "Sorry, no soap," he said. "This fellow is holding out for $150,000."

So they compromised for $125,000 and Lawson sent Landau a telegram authorizing him to sell the script.

Warners' wasn't to let go so easily. Jake Wilk pipelined himself into Collier's and read the script, too. Jack Warner promptly offered [illegible] plus a percentage. Louis Mayer said, "I'll have that story if I have to sell the studio to get it." There was so much hell to pay that the government almost stepped in and crabbed all deals.

The point is that the story of "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo" was flying around for months before Hollywood was even aware of its existence.

Landau was chinning with Eddie Cantor in Eddie's library one evening and happened to thumb thru a volume of stories by Oscar Wilde. One he liked. He bought a copy of the volume and had a transcript made of the story. Harry Rapf met him at Metro and said he was looking for a yarn. Landau strung him along with an enthusiastic build-up and meanwhile ascertained that the American rights were in the public domain. Rapf snapped up the property.

The story was "The Canterville Ghost," which was made into a picture for Charles Laughton. Metro gladly settled with the British heirs to the Wilde estate. Landau plucked 30 grand out of thin air and a hunch.

Here's a free tip right out of the Landau feed box:

He caught a newspaper story recently about W. H. Donald, the mysterious Australian who has been Chiang Kai-shek's personal adviser for many years. Donald was held captive in Manila by the Japs, who were looking everywhere for him at the time, not knowing they had him right under their thumbs.

"There's another Lawrence of Arabia story in Captain Donald for any one who can get him to talk," says Landau. "A big studio could well afford to spend $50,000 just to tie him up. That's where you find the germs of good stories—right on the front pages of your newspapers."

He is sold on the idea that the only way for an independent producer to get by is to keep off the beaten track of what's fashionable at the moment in screen production. If the biggies are making musicals, lay off, he advises. If the fad of the moment is murder mysteries, give 'em something different. There's more to production than merely getting the right story. You've got to consider the product as a whole, from the point of view of story, who's the writer best fitted to do the script, what group of players to cast, which director can turn in the best job.

He points to the large number of flops made that had great figures of American history as their heroes. It's a long list, headed by numerous films that dealt with Abraham Lincoln. Then, reversing himself, he tells you about a mildewed volume in this possession, the letters of Theodore Roosevelt to his children. There's a screen story that he's crazy to make—the humanness of the man, the greatness of the statesman, pointed up against the dramatic background of the building of the Panama canal.

ARTHUR LANDAU

"Disraeli and the Suez canal made a picture," he says. "The human quality was lacking. Teddy Roosevelt was a greater man than Disraeli. We never could have fought two wars at once without the Panama canal. Tie that into the story and see what Teddy, the canal, and World War II. add up to. I'll make that picture some day."

A big studio like Metro, Twentieth Century-Fox, or Paramount has to go into competition with itself in chasing down story material, and that's what makes the going tough. Metro, for example, still owns a pain in the neck called "The Great Laughter," by Fannie Hurst, for which they paid $110,000. Irving Thalberg and Kate Corbaley figured out a treatment for it before the purchase was made, and both died without revealing the secret to any one.

Out of Landau's observations, based on more than 20 years experience, comes one inescapable conclusion, which is that the much-discussed stupidity of producers is no dream but a regrettable fact. It's the easiest thing in the world to talk generalities about the lack of story material and the insuperable difficulties of finding filmable stuff, according to him. But Zanuck pointed the way when he was guiding Warner productions years ago to the front pages as illimitable sources of stories. Warners cleaned up. Zanuck left Warners, but his policy survived him; look at "Casablanca," "Air Force," and "Action in the North Atlantic." All grabbed hot off the news griddle. And Zanuck's still doing the same thing at Twentieth-Fox, as witness "Winged Victory," "Captain Eddie" (about Rickenbacker), and so on; while Paramount, RKO-Radio, and the other studios have had their share, too, of film stuff out of the headlines.

"I'll venture," says Arthur, "that there are more good stories in the public domain than Hollywood has ever made. Right here in our own company we bought 'There Goes Lona Henry' from RKO, which owned it for years. No one wanted to play in it. We had a new script written, and I give you my word some of the most sought-after feminine stars in town have expressed an eagerness to do it."

"Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo" flew around Hollywood for months before Landau made killing on it. (Spencer Tracy, Phyllis Thaxter, Van Johnson.)

EGGS A LA KING

By MARY MEADE

HERE'S a perfect luncheon or light dinner dish for spring time entertaining. Eggs a la king topped with crispy cereal flakes and baked in individual casseroles is a delicious way to glorify eggs and a sure way to please your guests.

EGGS A LA KING
(Serves four)

4 tablespoons margarine
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup diced cooked celery
½ cup cooked peas
1 pimiento, cut into strips
5 hard-cooked eggs, quartered

Melt margarine in top of double boiler. Blend in flour, add milk, and stir until thickened. Cook for three minutes. Add salt, pepper, celery, peas, pimiento, and eggs. Taste and add more seasonings if necessary. Place mixture in four individual greased casseroles, sprinkle with the following topping, and bake at 350 degrees until heated thru and topping is golden brown:

CEREAL TOPPING

2 tablespoons margarine
1 cup lightly crushed cereal flakes, crisp rice cereal, or shredded wheat biscuits
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Melt margarine and add to the crushed flakes. Season with salt and Worcestershire sauce. Mix thoroly and sprinkle over egg mixture. This unusual topping is also delicious on vegetable, meat, and fish casserole dishes.

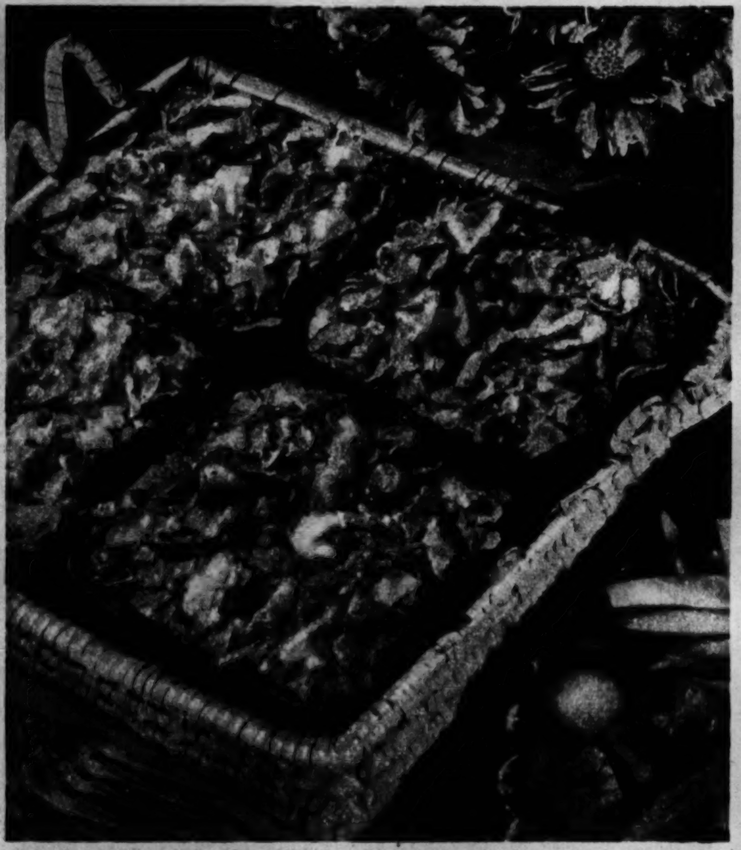
For another tempting main dish serve vegetable luncheon rings to your next noonday guests. This is an interesting and unusual way to serve that old standby, macaroni and cheese. To prepare the dish in an amazingly small amount of time you can use the packaged product. If you'd go all out for a short-cut meal you could also serve corn muffins from ready-made mix. With a salad bowl of tossed vegetables and a featherweight fruit dessert, the meal is complete.

VEGETABLE LUNCHEON RINGS
(Serves four)

2 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup hot milk
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper
2 cups cooked peas
8 small cooked onions
1 package macaroni and cheese

Melt margarine in top of double boiler. Blend in flour, add milk gradually, and cook over boiling water until thickened and smooth, stirring constantly. Add seasonings, onions, and peas. Prepare macaroni and cheese as directed on package, pack it into four greased 4-inch individual ring molds, allow to stand a few minutes, then unmold on a large plate. Fill the centers with creamed vegetables and garnish with parsley.



Crisp crushed corn flakes flavored with Worcestershire sauce make an unusual topping for eggs a la king.

Here's what to serve when you're pressed for time—creamed vegetables in rings made from packaged macaroni and cheese.

YOUTH ON THE CAMPUS

Sun bathers on the gulf pier watch two classmates surfboat riding in wake of speedboat.

Gulfport, Miss.

By ELEANOR NANGLE

IT'S EASY to understand why Gulf Park, a junior college with a division that embraces the last two years of high school, has been an institution of magnetic lure for "Yankee" girls almost since its opening in 1921. It is a southern school, certainly, both in setting and in emphasis on the fine old fashioned virtues of culture, refinement, and dignity in a woman—but it does not drowse sleepily in the sun, and neither do its students.

Here the students do the usual junior college work, either preparing for entrance to a senior college or contenting themselves with a diploma at the end of two years. But while they work they enjoy, at Gulf Park, unusual opportunities for the kind of outdoor life northern girls love. More strictly supervised and more confined to the campus than they would be at most northern schools, their campus is a small world of sports activity and gracious social life. And, incidentally, one of great physical charm.

The college lies on the gulf between Pass Christian and Gulfport, with only a road and a sea wall separating the green campus from the turquoise water. Flowers bloom in breath-taking profusion all year around, and the buildings—all Spanish mission style—are nestled among a wide variety of trees—pecan, magnolia, pine, holly, persimmon, and live oak.

One of the latter, known as "Friendship oak," which stands close by the entrance to the campus, is of such size and symmetry that it is nationally famous. Well over a century old, its gigantic limbs have a spread of 117 feet. The college has built a sturdy and surprisingly spacious platform, reached by a spiral staircase, into this tree; years ago Vachel Lindsay, the Illinois poet, set a Gulf Park precedent by holding poetry classes in this leafy, lofty retreat.

Mrs. Richard G. Cox, wife of the president, is dean of residence for the 250 students. It is she who directs their social life and shapes their manners. On and off campus Gulf Park girls are expected to be a credit to their school, distinguished by good manners and good grooming—and this observer would say that they are.

Many of Gulf Park's social highlights, such as chaperoned expeditions to near-by New Orleans for the Mardi Gras and some of the balls, tours of the Evangeline country, and pilgrimages to Natchez and Mobile, are war casualties, but life is full and admirably gracious on the campus. The United States merchant marine academy at Pass Christian, a few miles west, is a great source of "tall, tanned, and terrific" partners for beautiful formal exchange dances thruout the year, and men stationed at Keesler field in Biloxi or the Gulfport army and navy bases have the courtesy of the campus on Sundays if they are known to the girls' parents and presented to Mrs. Cox.

Gulf Park girls may dine out with approved beaux at approved places, but they must be back on campus by 8 p. m. unless the circumstances of a date are unusual or they are with visiting parents.

The campus, however, is never a dull place, and it is geared to a great extent for life in the beautiful outdoors. Water sports rank first in popularity. There is a tremendous open swimming pool that can be utilized almost every day. And there is, of course, the blue gulf, into which the college has a private pier extending 1,200 feet, with a pavilion and sun bathing platforms at the end. Instruction is given in sailing, and the interclass races, utilizing the college's little fleet of 14-foot sloops, are a source of tremendous excitement. Those who qualify may fly thru the water on an aquaplane behind the college speedboat, and of course there are water ballets each spring.

Riding is almost as popular as aquatic sports; the Bit and Spur club gives a horse show each year, and almost daily the girls and instructors may ride along the sea wall or along trails in back of the campus. Only in exceptionally cool weather are the physical education classes held indoors.

Gulf Park has arrived at an admirable solution of the problem of blue Monday. Here Saturday is a regular school day and Sunday and Monday are the holidays—days on which the campus is full of uniformed beaux, swimming, playing tennis, bicycle riding with the girls. Sunday and Monday are days, too, on which the girls may go out to the college's country lodge, Huckleberry Hill, a rambling house utilized for week-end parties or one day jaunts, set in the loveliest tangled kind of semi-tropical wilderness thru which a shimmering bayou winds lazily. Here they fish, row, hike, and ever and always, in the way of school girls, eat and sing and pick exquisite flowers to tuck in their shining hair.

College life at Gulf Park is not like college life in the north, where girls so often insist on their freedom to follow their own tastes in dress and in manner, but it most emphatically has charms. Its Yankee students, many of them from Chicago and its suburbs, are among the most enthusiastic boosters for its way of life.

COMMUNISM'S GRIP ON AUSTRALIA

By CHARLES PURVIS

COMMUNISM'S startling rise to power in Australia during the war—a sinister ascension comparable in many respects with events taking place in the United States—is disclosed in a recently published booklet by John T. Lang, member of the New South Wales parliament and former premier of that leading Australian state.

Three years ago the Communist party in Australia was little more than a skulking underground skeleton. Today it dominates the commonwealth government in a lamentable example of democracy in reverse, Lang writes in his report entitled "Communism in Australia."

A value not apparent in many criticisms of communism is given Lang's writing by his long career as a fearless champion of labor in highly unionized Australia, as an outstanding labor legislator, and a leader for years of the official labor party in New South Wales.

The booklet is characteristic of the author's aggressive and confident personality and his extreme nationalism. It is blunt, simply stated and to the point; a "complete exposure," as he terms it, of what Communists have done and are continuing to do to his country. It is a detailed account, listing names and figures and pulling no punches, by a man who knows communism from having fought it at close grips for 20 years.

Lang warns Australians they must make up their minds how they are going to meet the threat of communist conquest, for it has now become the chief menace to their way of life and no longer can be dismissed merely as a political bogey to be trotted out at election time.

Prime Minister Curtin

Tho the Communist party now has only about 20,000 members in the commonwealth, Lang notes, its membership has increased 500 per cent in five years and its power is far out of proportion to its numbers. He gives these salient points of its already astounding successes:

The Communist party is the wealthiest political organization in Australia. In proportion to its numbers, it has more paid officials than any other political organization in that or any other part of the world. It is spending about $600,000 a year on propaganda in Australia.

In Sydney it is housed in a four story building in a high rental district. It has five newspapers and its own publishing plant from which pours a never ending stream of books and pamphlets. Unlike other political organizations in Australia the Communist party not only has a permanent general staff but employs a standing army of organizers to carry on its work on the political front and in trade unions.

Communists control the trade union machinery in Australia. This relatively small but well organized group has captured control of about 500,000 Australian trade unionists and has access to trade union income of approximately $4,000,000 a year. In New South Wales alone, Communists already control trade unions with a membership of 162,789 and an income of more than one million dollars.

Armed with this control of trade unions, communist opportunism reached its peak in Australia, Lang writes, in its relations with the government of Prime Minister Curtin. Applying the Trojan horse tactic at its highest level, the Communist party virtually moved into the inner sanctum of the government of the commonwealth after it had infiltrated and elbowed its way into the official labor party.

The Curtin government took office in October, 1941, and a year later became involved in a life or death struggle over its introduction of conscription for overseas service. Needing support, the government lifted the ban that had sent the Communists into hiding the year before and accepted them as allies for their pro-conscription aid, Lang relates.

"But the Communists were not satisfied with the lifting of the ban; they wanted recognition and a place in the Curtin sun," Lang explains. "So within a few months leading communist trade union leaders were appointed to important positions, working in conjunction with Curtin ministers. The Trojan horse was right inside the hub of government. . . .

"If the Curtin government thought it could use the Communist party and then discard it when it had served its purpose, it was sadly mistaken. The Communists drove a hard bargain. They proved themselves astute political horse traders. In every case they insisted that the government should deliver the consideration prior to any attempt on their part to carry out the bargain. . . .

"It was not the Communists who were gullible. . . . The tragedy of the Curtin government is that it believed it could purchase immunity from the Communists. . . . They have exploited the passion of the Curtin government for a policy of appeasement. . . . So the Curtin government and the official labor party, instead of taking the gloves off to the Communist party, have compromised with them. . . .

"The Curtin government was destined to pay dearly for that pact of mutual assistance with the Communist party. More and more it had to rely upon communist support. The price of that support soared in proportion to the government's dependence upon it. . . .

"In June, 1943, a unity celebration was held in Sydney town hall by the Communist party to celebrate its victory at the conference (of the New South Wales labor party which indorsed the Communists' central slogan) and its success in reducing the Curtin government to a condition of abject subjection."

The Communists' gains during the depression years of the early thirties provided the springboard for their wholesale invasion of the Australian trades union movement and their ultimate alliance with the government. With their almost unlimited finances, Lang relates, they concentrated on the capture of the labor party as the quickest means of establishing a bridgehead to control the government of Australia.

Union after union quickly fell victim to communist strategy and the campaign still goes on with the number of noncommunist unions fast dwindling, Lang writes. It is not that the rank and file members of the trade unions have any sympathy for the Communist party, he explains, but rather that their apathy in union affairs is no match for communist fanaticism. In many unions, he adds, Communists get their policies put into operation tho they are not in control, their method being to gain support of communist resolutions by subterfuge and other devious means.

While concentrating on the labor movement, the Communists have not overlooked other groups, Lang observes.

"It will be noted to what extreme lengths they go in their attempt to capture the pseudo-intellectuals. For this type, membership of such movements gives them the satisfaction of an artistic pose. But the Communists regard them as very useful, especially in the propaganda field. . . .

"They discovered early in their work of international sabotage that the so-called intelligentsia fall readily for Marxism. Its obscurantism gives them scope for intellectual snobbishness. Many of these book Communists are cheap poseurs. Yet they are dupes for the general staff. They might well prove more dangerous than dupes recruited amongst worker malcontents."

Lang declares that the history of the Communist party in Australia during the war has been one of blackest treachery to that country whenever the demands of Russian nationalism happened to be in conflict with the needs of Australian security.

And therein he points out the basis for the major threat of communism to Australia or any other country into which it has eaten its way. The communist international is not actually an international. It is governed by the needs of Russian nationalism. Communism, therefore, is geared to soviet Russia's home needs and no Communist in any other country "can have a fatherland in Asia and still be loyal to the country in which he lives."

As happened in the United States, the communist policy in Australia somersaulted repeatedly and without explanation during the days Stalin was switching about in his dealings with Hitler. But finally settling on the tack that the fighting was "a holy war to save Russia," Communists began screaming for a second front. When Australia was threatened with invasion, Lang notes, there was no cry from the same source for a second Pacific front.

Since 1942, he says, the Communists have been specializing in propaganda among Australia's armed forces. They seized upon the army educational service as providing special opportunities. Their aim, Lang declares, is "every platoon, every ship, every air unit —a cell of communism."

"Surely no political party possessing such a black record of duplicity and treachery deserves to survive," the author warns.

BARE LEG DAYS NEAR

THAT RAYON-SHEDDING day you've been awaiting isn't around the corner. It's here! But all of you aren't ready yet to shed your heavy service hose. You await a warmer breeze for the bare-legged debut. While you're waiting we would suggest that you give your legs a critical going over now, especially for superfluous hair. Get that surface cleared of the unprepossessing and unnecessary growth.

Back of last year's bare, bald exposure was disappointment with leg makeup preparations, the time they took for application, their unevenness, their blotchiness and spottiness. That's what the women said, anyway. In more cases than you'd believe it was simply the easiest way out.

First, before you go into the most becoming, most efficient, and most smoothly applicable leg makeup, there is that matter of clearing the surface so that it is as satin smooth as the skin on the face. Scout around among good name hair removal agents, choose your own, use it, and don't be concerned if you have to repeat this skin-clearing operation with fair frequency. It's a grooming detail. This season, we are assured by the trade, the new and improved leg makeup products will go on as quickly and neatly as a pair of stockings. They won't splotch or spot in the rain, and the shades to choose from also are greatly improved in tone.

If you're going to inflict bare toes on your public, let them be a thing of beauty, too. High colors for toenails, we think, are youth's prerogative. They are ludicrous on oldish toes. A friend laughingly reports her recent observance of a woman in her plus-forties appearing stockingless with two great, vividly painted large toes extending "yards," as our friend related, beyond the shoe tips. Keep those toes back of the front line.

Also there's the heelless back, which too often ruins a woman's walk. You know with toes and heels out she's gripping like mad to keep the things on; consequently her walk is woodeny, awkward, anything but young and snappy. If there isn't flexibility and lightness close to the ground, there's little youth in the walk.

"CRIME, Inc."

3 Murder follows murder, and the police are baffled. Jim Riley (Tom Neal), ace crime reporter, works with the law enforcement agents to run down the cause of the slayings.

4 Bugs Kelly gives Riley the lowdown on the higher ups of "Crime, Inc." Riley is called before the grand jury but refuses to divulge the sources of his information.

1 A henchman for an opposing gang overhears Tony Marlow (Leo Carrillo), "fingerman" of the crime syndicate, order the execution of Bugs Kelly, rival gang leader.

5 At left: A prisoner (Stanley Price), sentenced for perjured evidence, sings, revealing the inner workings of the criminal syndicate.

2 The henchman rushes with the news to Kelly, and gangland guns roar thruout the city.

At left:
6 Triggermen, on orders from the syndicate, prepare to take Riley and his fiancee (Martha Tilton), for a ride, but are thwarted.

7 The killers get bolder and slayings become common occurrences. This particular shooting occurred on the courthouse steps.

8 Thru the efforts of Riley the leaders of the crime syndicate are finally brought to justice.

9 Again called before the grand jury, Riley and his fiancee are told they were ordered there this time to give the members a chance to thank them for their help.

10 At right: With gangland guns silenced, Riley and his bride start on their honeymoon.

. . . Multiple Vitamins for my family. He said that many big ills begin with minor ailments and that often vitamin deficiencies are responsible. He told me vitamins are a must for everyone who wants to enjoy full buoyant health. He explained that most diets are inadequate in vitamins because of faulty eating habits and vitamin losses in foods. He advised me to take Multiple Vitamins regularly to help replace these losses and to purchase any well-known, well-established brand. We have found it pays to follow his advice.

A Day with a Hero

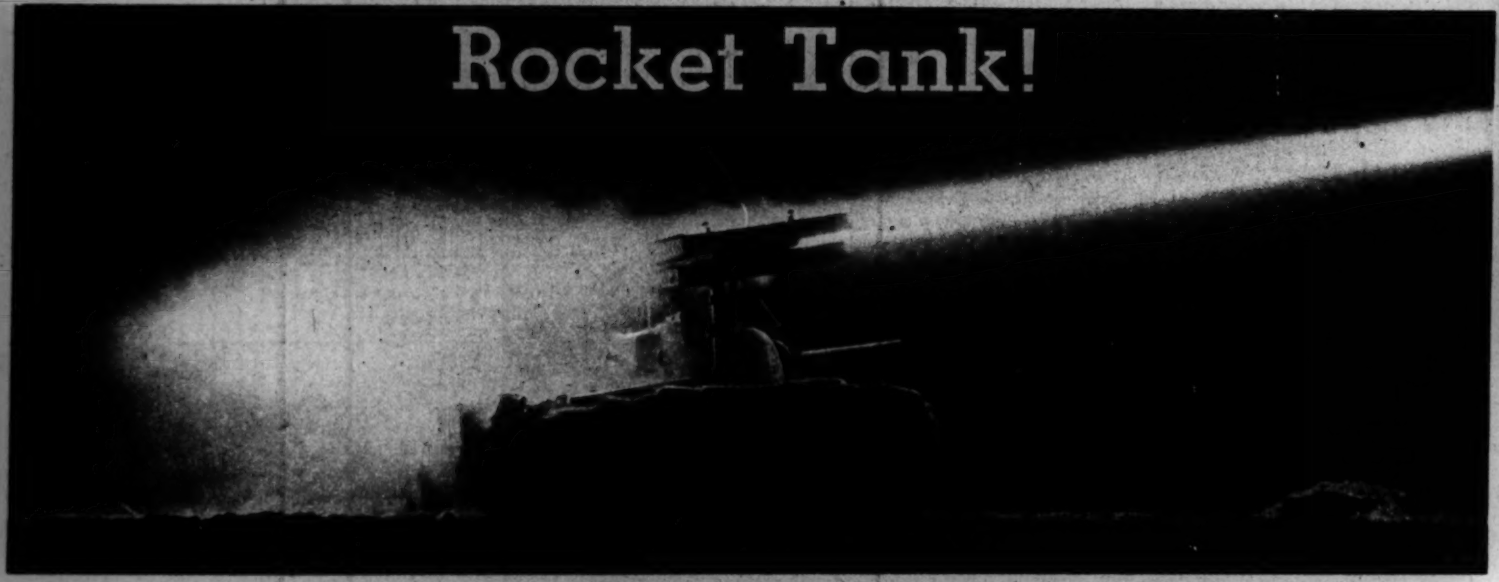
When Lt. Alexander Vraciu, navy ace, walked up the gangplank of a warship off Luzon after having bailed out of his stricken plane, and later having served with guerrilla fighters on the island, he was on his way home to his recent bride. This is the picture story of a day of their belated "honeymoon." The lieutenant and Mrs. Vraciu have breakfast in their Chicago hotel room.

They go window shopping on the avenue.

Mayor Kelly greets them in his office. They are old friends.

At left: The day closes back at the hotel with dinner and dancing in the Pump room. With the Vracius are their host and hostess, James Hart, hotel manager, and Mrs. Hart.

Rocket Tank!



Rocket-firing Sherman tank in action at night on the German front. (Planet News photos.)

IN ACTION against the Germans on the western front are American Sherman tanks equipped with multibarreled rocket launchers which are capable of delivering a devastating fire. The barrels or tubes of the rocket launcher, 60 in number, are mounted upon a rack that rides upon supports above the turret of the tank. The rack is supported in such a manner as to turn in either direction with the turning of the turret, and, as shown in photographs, it apparently can be elevated by the elevation of the turret's 75 millimeter gun, the barrel of the gun being connected by a hinged arm with the rocket launcher rack.

By means of the 60 launching tubes, arranged in the rack in four tiers, rockets can be fired in salvos or separately, depending upon the volume of fire desired against any given target. Ignition of the rocket propellant is accomplished by means of an electric spark.

The rocket itself is 4.5 inches in diameter, and the inside diameter of the launching tube is one-sixteenth of an inch greater. The length of the rocket, which is provided with directional vanes at the rear, is 33.19 inches, and the weight is 38 pounds. Provided with a fuse in its nose and carrying a charge of high explosive, the rocket is said to produce an explosion as powerful in effect as that of a shell of a 105 millimeter howitzer.

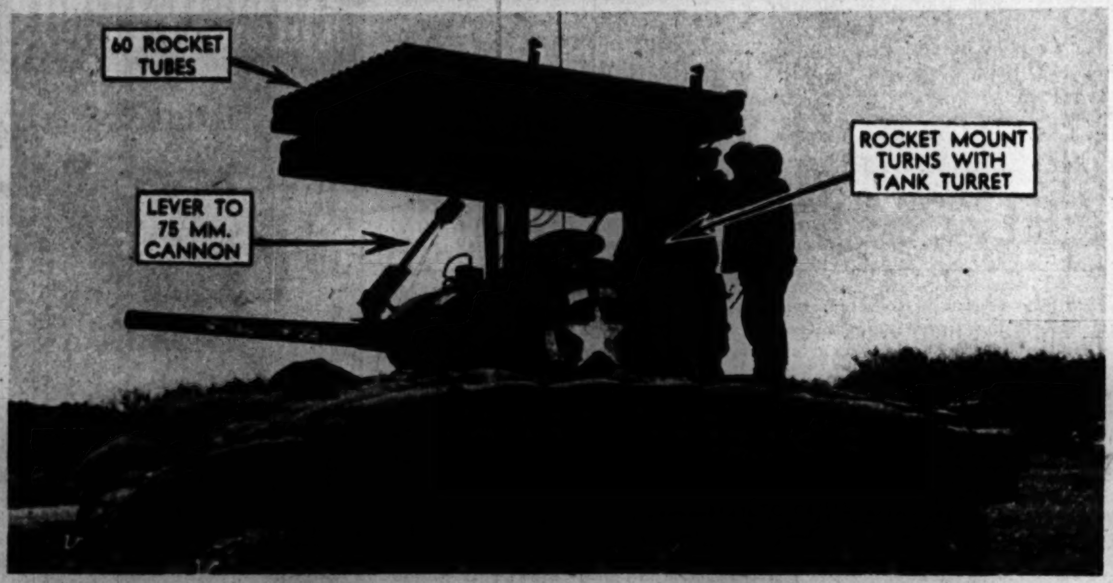
The new tank rocket launcher, it is reported, is being used with effect in giving close support to allied bridge-building engineers on the western front. It also is said to be dealing effectively with encircled German rear guards.

Like the bazooka, the tubes of the tank rocket launcher are loaded at the rear and the rocket's jet exhausts out the rear of the tube.

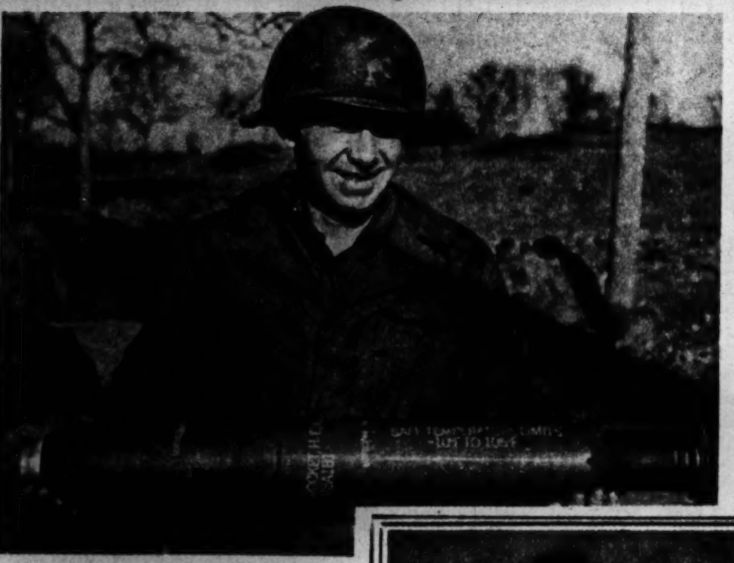
When a tank which is in action in a hotly contested sector uses up its supply of rockets the launcher rack with its tubes can be jettisoned. Since the rack rides several feet above the tank turret and thus makes a high silhouette and an easily spotted target, it is advantageous to get rid of it when the rocket supply is exhausted.

First mention of the tank rocket launcher in The Tribune was on March 12 in the following dispatch from London:

"The multibarreled rocket launcher recently credited with adding a heavy punch to the allies' Sherman tank was rejected by the British war office when supply ministry experts first presented it, the Sunday Dispatch charged today [March 11]. It is said only the insistence of Canadian army authorities saved the weapon from an official pigeonhole."



View of the rocket tank, showing 60 tubes mounted on turret, with lever attaching the mount to barrel of 75-mm. gun, apparently for purpose of elevating tubes.



A soldier indicates size of the 4.5-in. rockets fired by the new weapon.

Don't Let Man Power Shortage Change Date Rules

By SHEILA JOHN DALY

(Copyright: 1945: The Chicago Tribune.)

"A GOOD MAN these days is hard to find," and fellows know it. A smart boy knows that come next Friday night he can have a date with the smooth blonde who sits next to him in history class, the girl he hasn't called for four weeks, or any of six other gals, ready and waiting.

The man power shortage has hit the dating field, and the odds are for him. Girls are more attentive to him because he happens to be one of the few fellows still around. He's a big deal, something special, a fine hunk of heartbreak who can pick and choose his dates. If he picks a different girl each week, or if he doesn't choose to call for a date till the last minute—well, if they don't like it, there are a lot more girls where those came from.

The whole social system has been upset. Girls are friendly, and under the rules of etiquet that's as far as they can go. It is still up to a fellow to ask for the date.

Here's a typical letter from a girl, speaking for a group of 10 who are a bit baffled by the boys' new hard-to-get routine. They're singing the blues loud and low, and the story gives out in this pitch:

"I am a sophomore in a girls' school, and there is little opportunity to meet fellows there. I go around in a crowd of 10 girls, and most of us have the same problem—no dates. If one of us gives a party, we ask the same group of fellows, and they come. What's more, they seem to have as much fun as we do.

Give the boys the idea you're having fun without them. Let them get curious about what you ARE doing on the nights you used to give parties.

"But comes the problem—these boys never ask us out in return for our invitations. We don't like to keep inviting them, as it makes us feel that we are chasing them. But if we don't invite them we don't have a good time, because there are no fellows there. I don't know whether they date other girls or not, but they probably do. We see them at basketball games and around the drug store, and they are always nice to us. The only catch is that they never ask us out. Are we right in not asking them to any more parties, or should we continue to ask them?"

Perhaps the Joes in question are shy and haven't yet worked up the necessary courage to ask girls out individually, even tho they feel safe and have fun when they are all together at a home party. Fellows feel secure in a group and are often leary about a solo flight.

They may really like to be with your group as long as there are enough girls to go around, but they don't have to go around with any one girl. If you are sure that's the case, include them in your fun. When the shyness wears off they'll probably offer exchange invitations.

But if the boys do go out with girls, if they like you just for your parties and the refreshments you serve, it's time to do something about it. All boys know the courtesy of exchanging a date for a date. Drop the boys.

Have all-girl parties, all-girl evenings bowling, at the movies, at home — boycott the boys. Give them the idea that you're having fun without them. Let them get curious about what you are doing on those nights you used to give parties, and as soon as they begin to think you hard to get—listen to those telephones ring! And if this method doesn't work, you will still have your pride and nothing to lose—those telephones weren't ringing anyway.

The second query is a khaki-colored complaint from a gal who is tired of being female V-mail with no appreciation in return. Goes this way:

"I went with a fellow for about three months before he left for the army. We didn't go steady, but we did have dates every weekend, and I liked him more than any boy I have ever known. I went to the station with him the morning he left, and he told me he'd miss me and that he hoped I'd write whenever I could.

"I wrote to him every second day, and tho I heard from him only once every two weeks, I took it for granted he was busy. I like to bake, so I sent him cookies frequently and several times made up packages of cheese and crackers and that sort of thing.

"He forgot my birthday, but I thought that was because he was busy, too. Then two weeks ago he came home on furlough. He came over to see me one afternoon after school, and we just sat and talked. That was the only time I saw him during the seven days he was home.

"Just as soon as he arrived back at camp he wrote me, saying he had been happy to see me and hoped I would continue to write as often as before and would keep up the packages, as I was a great 'morale builder.' All this is fine, but how about my morale? With that letter it hit rock bottom."

Even a G. I. has social responsibilities. You are a good morale builder because your stream of mail makes your "friend" seem popular with the fellows at camp, a great guy with the gals back home. And those cookies and packages—what soldier wouldn't like them?

But there is a "thank you" attitude that goes with such thoughtfulness. Taper off your letters and your boxes; let the soldier realize what a morale builder you really were. If he picks up his end of the correspondence, hold tight to your end, too. But if he just lets the whole thing slip—well, it's been slipping for some time, hasn't it?

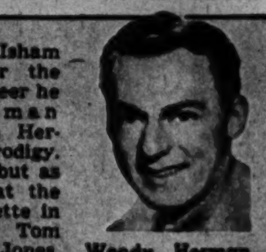
HATS OFF TO HERMAN, AND THE HORN IS BACK

REMEMBER Isham Jones? Near the end of his career he had a sax-clarinet man named Woodrow Wilson Herman who was by way of being a child prodigy. Mr. Herman had made his professional debut as a hoofing instrumentalist in vaudeville at the age of 10. After graduation from Marquette in home-town Milwaukee he played with Tom Gerun, Harry Sosnik, and others besides Jones. Then Isham retired, and the band went coöperative, with Herman at the helm. Woody is no front. He's a superior blues singer and an excellent musician. He has a firm belief that commercial music can still be good jazz, and is proving it nightly at the Hotel Sherman here in Chicago.



Woody Herman . . . happy over the blues.

In Woody's music there is subtlety and there is drive, there is impeccable unity and there is free rein for the virtuosity of his sidemen. Woody right now is excited over his new contract with COLUMBIA. I must confess I can't get too excited over his debut feature under the red seal—"Laura." It isn't my favorite tune, and Woody wanders far afield in it—his wonderful blues voice lost in the soupy ballad. The music seems lost, too. The backer-up, however, is superb. In "I Wonder" Woody sings elegantly in his best slow blues style, and there is wonderful brass and reed work. Woody's last DECCA recording is out, too, and it is a honey. "Saturday Night" has that elegant sax and Frances Wayne's neat vocal. "I Didn't Know About You" has Woody singing again, and a wandering sax solo you'll love.

Who said Harry James had lost touch with jazz? 'Tain't so! Listen to his two new COLUMBIA recordings and you'll understand. "Confessin'"—"When Your Lover Has Gone" is as wonderful a duo as Harry has done. His blistering trumpet dominates both, with a wonderfully raggy interlude in the first number. "Guess I'll Hang My Tears Out to Dry," with Kitty Kallen singing, is good standard James, and "I Don't Care Who Knows It," again featuring Kitty and The Horn, is notable for its humor and its piano rag.

A bow to Dr. S. I. Hayakawa for his sympathetic and excellent history of jazz delivered recently at the Arts club with the help of immortal Jimmy Yancey and the Richard M. Jones Trio.—W. D.

"Hit Hard, Hit Fast, Hit Often!"

These words, the battle cry of Adm. William F. Halsey Jr., commander of the United States 3d fleet in the Pacific, appear today for the first time in the upper right corner of the main news section of The Tribune. They will appear there for several weeks as a slogan for patriotic Americans.

"HIT HARD, HIT FAST, HIT OFTEN!"

The foregoing are fighting words. They were adopted as his battle cry by Adm. William F. Halsey Jr. of the United States navy when he was given the task of helping to defeat and destroy the Japanese fleet in the Pacific.

Upon all the vessels under his command this famous battle cry has been memorized by officers and crews. Ever since Halsey went into action against the Japs he has been hitting them hard, fast, and often, according to his personal formula, which goes like this:

"Kill Japs, kill Japs, kill more Japs; sink ships, sink ships, and sink more ships."

Halsey, who definitely is a hater of the Japanese, whom he calls "those bandy-legged little monkeys," began carrying his war to the enemy soon after their attack on Pearl Harbor. In January, 1942, he took a naval unit under his command deep into Japanese waters to strike at the Marshall and Gilbert Islands. This was the first big naval offensive of the war. He carried out the first raid on Wake Island after the enemy had conquered the little marine garrison there. He commanded the naval force which took the aircraft carrier Hornet close to Japan's shores so that army bombers under Lt. Col. (now Lt. Gen.) Jimmy Doolittle could take off to bomb Tokyo.

Admiral Halsey

On Oct. 18, 1942, Halsey was made commander in chief of naval forces in the South Pacific. Not long after assuming this command his forces defeated the Japanese in the battle of Santa Cruz. In mid-November he scored a smashing victory over a vast enemy armada at Guadalcanal in the Solomon Islands. It was right after this that he was promoted from vice admiral to full admiral. The Japanese lost command of the sea in the lower Solomons as a result of Halsey's victory in that decisive three day action, and about a year later they lost control of the upper Solomons during a cruiser engagement off Bougainville.

By hitting hard, fast, and often Halsey thus had worked himself out of a job—that of clearing the Japanese out of the South Pacific. Another and more important job was awaiting him, however, the job of helping to carry the war into Japan's home waters. On June 17, 1944, Admiral Halsey was designated officially as commander of the United States 3d fleet.

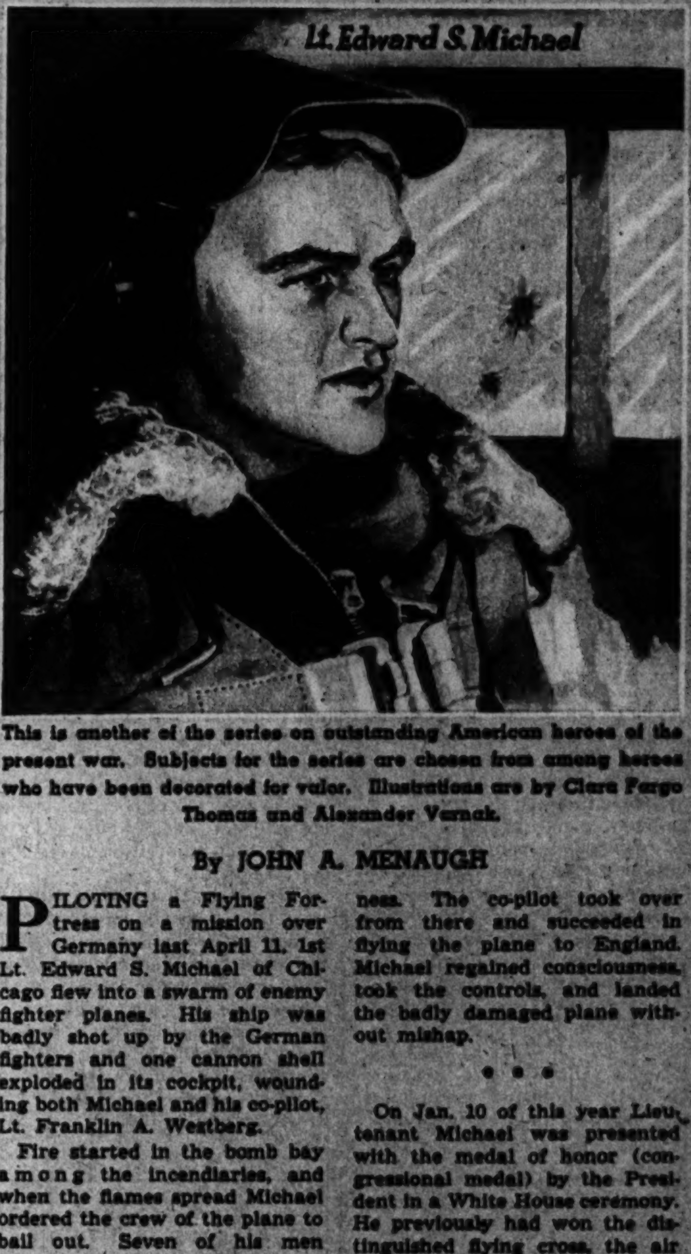
In the five months which came to an end in January of this year Halsey's 3d fleet inflicted upon the Japanese greater destruction than any other fleet in history had caused to an enemy. It materially aided the reconquest of the Philippines by the vicious blows it struck the enemy in the waters there. In five months it sank 89 Japanese warships, with an estimated 241,000 tonnage, and 536 merchant and support ships estimated at a total of 776,000 tons. It destroyed 4,370 enemy aircraft, of which 1,904 were shot down in aerial combat and 2,466 burned or wrecked on the ground. In addition it bombed, strafed, and rocketed numerous Japanese naval bases, military installations, and industrial areas.

AMERICAN HEROES OF WORLD WAR II.



This is another of the series on outstanding American heroes of the present war. Subjects for the series are chosen from among heroes who have been decorated for valor. Illustrations are by Clara Fargo Thomas and Alexander Vernak.

By JOHN A. MENAUGH

PILOTING a Flying Fortress on a mission over Germany last April 11, 1st Lt. Edward S. Michael of Chicago flew into a swarm of enemy fighter planes. His ship was badly shot up by the German fighters and one cannon shell exploded in its cockpit, wounding both Michael and his co-pilot, Lt. Franklin A. Westberg.

Fire started in the bomb bay among the incendiaries, and when the flames spread Michael ordered the crew of the plane to bail out. Seven of his men jumped, but the bombardier, Lt. John L. Lieber, was unable to bail out. His parachute had been riddled by shell fragments.

Michael decided to try to fly home to save the bombardier. He flew until, exhausted from loss of blood, he lost consciousness. The co-pilot took over from there and succeeded in flying the plane to England. Michael regained consciousness, took the controls, and landed the badly damaged plane without mishap.

On Jan. 10 of this year Lieutenant Michael was presented with the medal of honor (congressional medal) by the President in a White House ceremony. He previously had won the distinguished flying cross, the air medal with three oak leaf clusters, the Purple Heart, and a group citation. Attending the Washington ceremony of the awarding of the medal of honor were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Michael; his wife, and his co-pilot and bombardier.

Watch for this series of sketches and stories every Sunday.

MOSTLY ABOUT DOGS

By BOB BECKER

ALL DOGS that live in the northern tier of states must welcome the arrival of spring and warmer weather as much as do their owners. But we're pretty sure that the pets would greet spring with greater pleasure if they were assured of adequate attention to their coats.

When warm weather prevails we can doff overcoats and adjust our protective clothing to the temperature. Dogs with long and dense coats can't make that change so quickly. Their winter protection is a heavy coat of hair which is shed slowly, so they welcome some help from their owners about this time of the year. This is especially true of spaniels which have received little attention to their coats all winter. Many of these dogs were forced to carry around far too much coat during the winter, for they were spending most of their time in a warm house.

We saw one spaniel the other day that had hair enough for two dogs. The hair around its toes was more than three inches long, and its body was so well furred that it was leaving long hairs all over the house. If this dog isn't given a hair trim now he'll spend most of his time scratching and the owner is bound to devote most of her time to running a vacuum cleaner to collect dog hair from the rugs.

Wire-haired terriers, Airedales, Scotties, Kerry Blues, springer spaniels, cocker spaniels, and other breeds should have some attention to their coats 12 months of the year. But the time they require the most thoro brushing and combing (and perhaps a hair trim) is during the spring months so they will shed their old coats fast. This means more comfort for the pet and also improves its looks about 100 per cent.

If the owner has been bathing the dog too frequently during the winter months, while neglecting the very important job of brushing and combing, the dog's skin is dry. That is another contributing factor to the animal's discomfort during the spring months.

If you own a Scotty, wire-haired terrier, Airedale, Kerry Blue, Sealyham, cairn, Welsh, or other wiry-coated dog, the biggest treat you can give your pet is real barber shop treatment at this time of the year. All of these breeds need special shaping of their coats. When the old, dead hair is removed they need the expert touch of a handler who knows how to take down a terrier's coat with a stripping knife, remove the old, dead hair, and shape up the new incoming coat.

Some owners (who have the time and patience for this work) learn how to do the job themselves. But we do not advise the owner to try to take down the coat of his dog without the benefit of some lessons from a professional groomer or handler, because there are a number of tricks to be learned in grooming wiry-haired dogs.

Smooth-haired dogs like Boston terriers, smooth dachshunde, bull terriers, Manchester terriers, and pointers do not, of course, require the care of coat and the expert grooming that we must give our wiry-coated breeds. But they do need to be brushed and rubbed several times a week. Another word for rubbing is what the handler sometimes calls gloving, probably due to the fact that there is a special glove or mitten made for grooming short-haired dogs. One may rub a dog with a piece of flannel, but one of these gloves, which slips on your hand like a big winter mitt, is much easier to handle. If a short-haired dog seems to have a very dry skin, due to being kept indoors in heated rooms all winter or because of excessive bathing, it's a good idea to give the animal an occasional oil treatment. Coconut oil is good for this. Rub it into the coat thoroly and then rub it out again with a towel. To finish the treatment use either the big glove (sometimes called hound glove) or a flannel cloth for a rubdown.

Discovery by Noted Veterinarian

STOPS DOG-ITCH

For years, veterinarians were baffled by a common skin disease that caused untold agony to dogs and cats. Starting as a burning itch, it soon develops dandruff-like scales and brownish edged sores with a mouldy odor in ears, on paws, under-body, back or around tail. Treatments for mange, fleas, allergy or faulty diet result only in costly care or actual loss. Now, noted veterinarian, Dr. A. C. Merrick, has positively identified this disease as a fungus infection comparable to "Athlete's Foot." He has named it "Fungitch" and has also developed SULFADENE, a treatment proved amazingly effective in thousands of clinical cases. Applied externally, Dr. Merrick's SULFADENE stops the itch in a few minutes—scales and sores vanish in a few days. Buy today where you get pet foods or remedies—or send $1.00 for generous treatment; money back if it fails to give complete satisfaction. Address Brookfield Laboratories, Dept. D-125 Brookfield, Ill.

Opera Ballerina

MARINA SVETLOVA, prima ballerina of the Metropolitan Opera association, was born in Paris of Russian parents 22 years ago. Her father was an ace in World War I., and she began to fly almost as soon as she began to dance. At the age of 12 she won top honors in an international dancing contest, and at 16 she received her flying license. In between times she learned to be an expert skier, skater, swimmer, and tennis player. She came to this country with the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, and also has appeared in Chicago with the Metropolitan Opera and with the local ballet repertory company, creating Leonide Massine's Chopin ballet, "Fantasie Poetique," with Andre Eglevsky, Rosella Hightower, and George Zoritch. A few years ago she began appearing with Alexis Dolinoff as her partner, and the two will play some concert bookings after the spring tour of the Metropolitan.

FROM Jane Foster's NOTEBOOK

For Fine Flavor, High Food Value . . .

Use beans, peas, peanuts and lentils often. They cost less, contain more food value than many other foods. Use them often in soups, casseroles, as meat stretchers, in breads and desserts.

Soy beans are more valuable than other beans as their protein more nearly resembles that of meat. Tangy in flavor, too.

Fresh soy beans or limas 'specially good in a vegetable plate. Serve with Harvard beets, apple fritters and buttered cauliflower.

For unusual flavor serve lemon cream filling in peanut butter pie crust shells. Substitute peanut butter for ½ of the fat.

One of my favorites! Try adding crisply cooked bacon to peanut butter as a sandwich spread. Thin with orange juice, sweeten with honey.

BOSTON BAKED BEANS

2 cups dried navy beans
¼ lb. salt pork, sliced
1 tsp. salt
¼ cup brown sugar
2 tbsps. molasses
½ tsp. mustard
2 tbsps. catsup
1 small onion, quartered (if desired)

Wash beans; cover with 2 qts. cold water and soak overnight. Cook slowly in water in which they were soaked until skins are ready to burst or until tender (30 to 40 minutes). Drain, saving cooking water. Place half the beans in an earthenware pot or casserole; add onion and half of the salt pork. Add remaining beans. Combine salt, sugar, molasses, mustard, catsup and 3 cups of the cooking water; pour over beans in pot. Top with remaining salt pork, leaving rind exposed. Cover and bake in slow oven (250° F.) for 7 to 8 hours. Add more of the cooking water when necessary. Uncover beans the last hour to brown. Serve with brown bread slices. (Serves 6 to 8).

STEAMED BROWN BREAD

1 cup rye flour*
1 cup cornmeal
1 cup whole wheat flour
1½ tsps. soda
1 cup raisins
1 tsp. salt
⅓ cup brown sugar
2 cups buttermilk or sour milk
½ cup molasses

Mix rye, cornmeal, whole wheat flour, soda, salt and brown sugar together. Combine molasses and buttermilk and stir into flour mixture. Blend thoroughly. Add raisins and mix well. Fill greased molds or 3 number 2 cans ⅔ full. Cover with greased tight fitting covers or tie 3 thicknesses of waxed paper securely over the tops of molds. Place in steamer or set on wire rack in kettle containing boiling water. Cover tightly and steam 2 to 2½ hours. Dry out in oven for about 5 minutes before serving. Brown bread may be baked instead of steamed. Bake in 275° F. oven for 2 to 2½ hours. (Servings 8 to 10 slices per loaf if number 2 can is used.)

*All-purpose flour may be substituted for rye flour.

in these rich valleys grow these finer oranges

Ever wonder why you get navel oranges from only California and Arizona? The secret is in a few protected foothill valleys where you find just the right combination of rich mineral soil, sparkling mountain water, warm, sunny days and clear, cool nights. This is what gives navel oranges their brilliant color and their finer-flavored juice with its extra wealth of health-giving vitamins.

From natural color photographs

YOU CAN SEE THE DIFFERENCE!—You can tell a navel orange in a jiffy by its bright, clean skin and its deep golden juice. And these finer oranges not only look better. That naturally richer color means more health and enjoyment.

YOU CAN TASTE THE DIFFERENCE!—California navels have a far more delicious flavor, too . . . brisk, lively and full-bodied . . . full of zest and tang for sunny juice at breakfast time . . . sweet and refreshing for wonderful eating any time!

SCIENCE PROVES THE VITAMIN DIFFERENCE!—For extra vitamins serve California navel orange juice. Six years of independent scientific tests prove this juice gives you more vitamin C – a vitamin every good breakfast should supply. It's richer in vitamin A and calcium, too, and helps with B_1, B_2, and other needed minerals.

The navel means NO SEEDS!

Easier to Use! California navels are truly seedless and easy to peel, slice and section. With their brilliant color and delicious flavor, they are perfect for fresh salads and desserts, for lunch boxes and between-meal snacks.

Mothers*—*you keep up on the new knowledge of food. It's time to take a modern look at candy—as a food. Here is the scientific definition in

THE NUTRITIONAL PLATFORM OF CANDY

1 Candies in general supply high caloric value in small bulk.

2 Sugar supplied by candy requires little digestive effort to yield available energy.

3 Those candies, in the manufacture of which milk, butter, eggs, fruits, nuts, or peanuts are used, to this extent also—

a) provide biologically adequate proteins and fats rich in the unsaturated fatty acids;

b) present appreciable amounts of the important minerals calcium, phosphorus, and iron;

c) contribute the niacin and the small amounts of thiamine and riboflavin contained in these ingredients.

4 Candies are of high satiety value; eaten after meals, they contribute to the sense of satisfaction and well-being a meal should bring; eaten in moderation between meals, they stave off hunger.

5 Candy is more than a mere source of nutriment . . . it is a morale builder, a contribution to the joy of living.

6 Candy is unique among all foods in that it shows relatively less tendency to undergo spoilage, chemical or bacterial.

Bring Romance to your Table every Night

WITH THIS SMOOTH WELL-ROUNDED Burgundy

What rapturous memories the thought of Burgundy revives! A dinner at an exclusive club—a cruise under southern skies—a wedding party, probably your own.

Burgundy has long been one of the world's most favored table wines—and the choice flavor of Valliant California Burgundy will meet your highest expectations.

From vineyard cuttings imported from Europe almost a century ago comes the authentic character of Valliant Burgundy. From a kindly soil and climate come its deep red color and fine fruity flavor. And from conscientious blending and developing come its delightful smoothness and well-rounded body. A Burgundy so fine is of course bottled by the winery in California.

As you will recall, Burgundy is a dry (not sweet) wine. The zestful, pleasantly tart flavor of Valliant Burgundy blends with food so perfectly that you can serve it with any dish—night after night—and always be sure it is good taste. It is a wine especially relished by masculine appetites.

Also try the Valliant California appetizer and dessert wines: Valliant Dry Sherry, Valliant Sherry, Valliant Port, Valliant Muscatel. Sole distributors for U. S. A., W. A. Taylor & Company, New York City.

GOOD TASTE WITH ANY FOOD

Few households keep an assortment of table wines. Many choose Burgundy because they like its flavor best. So—forget the "do's and dont's" you've heard about serving wine and just remember that "Valliant Burgundy is good taste with any food."

A "peach" of a way to protect your good health...

...thanks to the protection of the modern tin can

- Everyone loves juicy, sun-ripened fruits—picked at the very peak of their tempting goodness—fairly bursting with fine flavors and precious health-values. And, thanks to the modern steel-and-tin can, you can enjoy such fruits all the year round—no matter where you live.

You see, most canning processes require only a few hours' time. This means fruits need not be picked till they're "just right" for canning—they can ripen in nature's own way. And, because the can gives lasting protection against the spoilage effects of air, light, heat, cold, and contamination of all kinds—these fine fruits reach you with their natural flavors, colors, and healthful wholesomeness sealed in!

This same priceless protection also applies, of course, to all sorts of good things to eat—vegetables, juices, meats, milk, to name but a few—as well as to hundreds of other items that make up the more than 2,500 products normally packed in cans by over 135 different industries.

And cans are both economical and convenient. Because they are easy to make, fill, ship, and handle, more of your money goes for what's in the cans. They're easy to carry, easy to store, easy to open and to dispose of—and they don't break, crack, chip, tear, or leak! So look for it in cans—for no other container combines all these advantages!

WARTIME NEEDS restrict the civilian use of cans for certain products. But stocks on dealers' shelves are yours to buy freely. And remember, foods packed in cans come to you with their vitamins, minerals, and nutritional values sealed in.

No other container protects like the CAN

Local Business Man Retires Because of Lost Hearing

EDWARD D. WILK after short retirement again enters business field.

Edward D. Wilk, well-known sales promotional executive, was compelled to retire from an active business career because of a progressive hearing loss, and remained in retirement for some time.

Today, Mr. Wilk finds himself again an active, energetic, driving executive as of former years. Recently in a talk before a group of prominent Chicago business men, Mr. Wilk said in substance: "Through the miracle of modern science I have regained an amazing part of my life that I thought was utterly lost to me, lost to me for so long a time that I had actually forgotten how much it meant to me. You who are listening to me tonight cannot possibly imagine what a tremendous effect on one's whole well-being, on one's very personality, deafness or even a partial hearing loss can mean.

"When I realized fully that I was becoming progressively deaf, I tried everything in a frantic attempt to regain my hearing—all to no avail. People with normal hearing do not realize how easily they can offend the deafened . . . and often are unintentionally cruel, cutting short their conversation. It is then that the deafened individual usually gives up the effort to listen.

"I found myself making embarrassing or ridiculous comments because I misunderstood others, and felt that I was a kill-joy in a group. I had a tendency to back out smiling, nodding, and pretending.

"A blind person makes no pretense at seeing, yet the deaf are always pretending that they hear and usually grumble at people, saying that all people mumble. Poems and music have been written about the blind, but only 'funny' stories have been told about the deaf. I felt that I had no friend to unlock the door of escape from the soundproof cell of silence. In other words, my whole life was changing; I began to lose interest in business, friends, and even my own family.

"Then, just as I thought that everything was lost, through the help of a dear friend, science came to my assistance. My eyes widened in startled, joyful amazement, then filled with tears, for the first note of a new horizon of hearing burst on my consciousness and I realized with a sweep of emotional ecstasy that I could hear again, and was the Ed Wilk of old. With this realization came a decision to aid the many millions of those who, like myself, have been on the brink of despair, that they might rehabilitate themselves as I did and again be useful to society."

Mr. Wilk has not only regained his lost hearing, but has edited a booklet which he calls HE WHO HATH EARS LET HIM HEAR. This booklet is dedicated to the hard-of-hearing and brings them inspiration and hope. It is free; it will be sent in a plain wrapper to any one addressing E. D. Wilk, Suite 1602, 6 North Michigan avenue, Chicago.

OXYDOL WASHES SO CLEAN your biggest wash comes WHITE
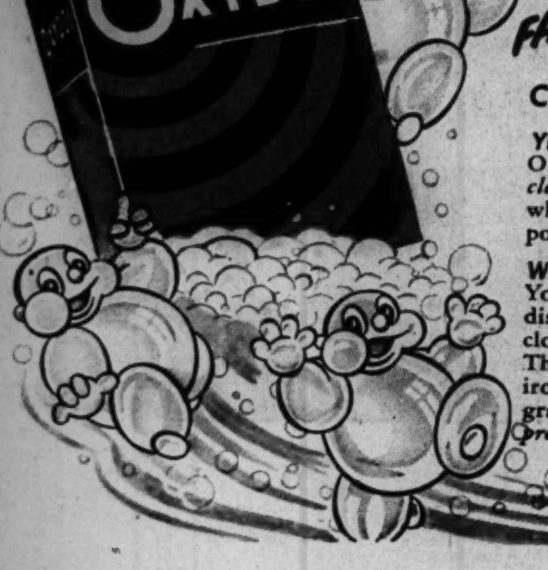
WITHOUT BLEACHING



MY, WHAT A SNOWY WASH! WHY THAT SHIRT IS SPARKLING WHITE! DID YOU BLEACH IT?
NO, INDEED! OXYDOL'S LIVELY SUDS LIFT DIRT OUT! EVEN MY GRIMIEST PIECES COME WHITE WITHOUT BLEACHING!

FAR AHEAD of Most Soaps in preventing "Dirty Grayness"!

Tests Prove Oxydol Washes Clothes CLEANER and WHITER!

YES, WHITER! In wash test after wash test—Oxydol proved that it washes clothes cleaner and whiter than many other soaps which, unlike Oxydol, fail to get out that last possible trace of stubborn dirt and grime!

WHITE AND BRIGHT WASH AFTER WASH! You know, soaps often leave behind tiny discoloring particles caused by dirt in the clothes and the "hardness" of the water. These impurities turn gray or yellow under ironing heat. But Oxydol combats "dirty-grayness" in an unusual way. It actually helps prevent grayness particles from forming!

NEW "HUSTLE-BUBBLE" SUDS LIFT DIRT OUT! Oxydol's new "Hustle-Bubble" suds are so active they lift dirt out. And they work longer, too—long after other suds that still look good have quit! Yes, with Oxydol all your white things—except for unusual stains—come so clean they're White Without Bleaching. Sparkling white!

SO SAFE FOR COLORS, TOO! Yes, Oxydol is so safe for wash colors, rayons and your own precious hands. Its rich, safe suds wash your colored clothes so clean they fairly sparkle!

Won't you prove this yourself? Next wash-day use Oxydol—and enjoy a wash so clean it's White Without Bleaching!

AVOID SOAP WASTE! Soap is made of vital war materials, so soap waste is war waste. Make your Oxydol go farther!

A PROBLEM CHILD

THE egg which had been left in the Teenie Weenie village and which had hatched out a young chicken under the care of the little folks had become quite a problem. At first the young chicken ate within Teenie Weenie reasonableness, but as it grew older its appetite became a serious matter, for it was eating at one meal more than would have been necessary to feed the entire Teenie Weenie tribe for a week. By the time the chicken was 2 weeks old it was eating six or seven thimblefuls of cooked corn or wheat each day and as much Teenie Weenie leftover food as it could find in the garbage thimble.

At first it was fun to feed the little chicken. The Teenie Weenie Cook didn't mind cooking a thimbleful of corn, but when the chicken began eating several thimblefuls a day he began to grumble, for it was quite a task in itself to keep the hungry Teenie Weenies satisfied without the added feeding of a growing chicken.

"This chicken is going to eat us out of house and home," the Cook complained to the General. "It ought to be rationed."

"It's too young to look after itself and we'll have to feed it until it can find its own food," answered the General. "It won't be long now until it can take care of itself."

The weather grew warmer and the young chicken began to pick up a few bugs. It pecked at the young blades of grass, too, and, as the General had said, it began to look after its own hungry needs. One afternoon the chicken wandered up to the kitchen door of the shoe house and peered in. The Cook had gone to the smoke house to cut a few slices of frog ham for supper. The Lady of Fashion was puttering about the kitchen, while the General napped in the sitting room above. The chicken spotted a lima bean which lay in a metal, bottle-top baking pan that the Cook had taken from the stove and set on the kitchen table. The chicken popped its head thru the kitchen door and grabbed the bean. The Lady of Fashion screamed, and the General came bounding down the stairs just as the chicken pulled the baking pan off the table. The pan fell, upside down, smearing bean gravy all over the floor. The chicken wiggled its head out thru the tiny door and ate the bean on the back porch, while the General gave it a sound scolding.

It was too late to bake another bean for supper, and so the Teenie Weenies had nothing but frog ham and a scrap of leftover hominy which the Cook fried in a Teenie Weenie skillet.

SEEK $150,000 FOR GLENVIEW CHURCH EDIFICE

Hope for Early Start on Construction

Rev. R. A. Edgar

To relieve inadequate church accommodations in Glenview, caused by a mushroom growth in population during the last 15 years, and to provide a gathering place for young people, members of Glenview Community church tomorrow will open a two week campaign to obtain funds for a new church building and adjacent community house.

Minimum goal in the survey is $150,000, which will finance the first unit of the building. Plans provide for a later addition costing $50,000. Two acres at Glenview rd. and Elm st. were purchased two years ago by the church and members hope priorities will be obtained so that construction can begin within the year.

Colonial Type Building

Blue prints specify a two story red brick colonial structure of 28 rooms. The auditorium will seat 350 and the church school will accommodate 500 young people. The basement will be fitted out as a youth center with a stage, dressing rooms, kitchen, snack bar, space for dancing and games, and a juke box.

Heading the survey is Joe Hibben, assisted by Howard Barber, Hal Cunliff, Clinton Haskell, George Lemon, Horace McKay, Gordon Mills, Hubert Nelson, Mandus Nelson, Arthur Palmgren, Mel Pokorney, E. A. Schneider, and Jacob Simonsen.

Tell Population Increase

The population of Glenview has grown from 1,800 in 1930 to 5,700 in 1945, about 1,500 of which are children under 15. The Rev. Robert A. Edgar, pastor of the Community church since May, 1941, believes the increase is due to a desire of Chicagoans to live in the suburbs where they can own property and provide more space for their children. Approximately 90 per cent of the residents own homes, he said.

The Rev. Mr. Edgar pointed out that no attempt has been made to increase church accommodations since 1930, altho public school facilities have been enlarged once with a nine room addition and because these facilities still are inadequate, 12 acres have been bought for erection of a new school.

The three Protestant churches within the city limits seat a total of 550 persons, altho 77 per cent of Glenview is Protestant, the pastor said. The Community church, organized in September, 1941, when the Glenview Congregational church was dissolved, holds church services in the 45 year old Congregational church. Church membership has grown from 50 to 579 in four years and the organization serves an additional 423 adults. About 750 young people are members of church groups.

Variety of Meeting Places

For the last two years church school classes have met in sheds, store rooms, garages, kitchens, or whatever space is available. The church office is in a vacant tailor shop. To accommodate the Easter attendance of 600, services were held in the school gymnasium, the largest auditorium in Glenview, and even that was crowded, the Rev. Mr. Edgar declared.

The Community church, which keeps its Congregational affiliation, was organized when members realized that several hundred new families were of denominations not represented by organized churches.

SET UP BUREAU ON INFORMATION FOR GARDENERS

Center in Library to Open Saturday

With the return of spring and its sunshine, the amateur gardener is haunted by visions of bumper crops and luxurious flowers. To help him achieve this goal a garden center with advisory staff will be opened in the Randolph st. hall of the Chicago library at 2:30 Saturday.

Sponsored by the newly revived Chicago Horticultural society in cooperation with the Garden Club of Illinois and the Men's Garden Club of Illinois, the center will be conducted by Frank F. Balthis, until recently assistant chief horticulturist of the Chicago park district.

Chicago Without Center

Altho garden centers have been active in many other metropolitan centers, Chicago has been without such an institution. The center will be open daily to the public for general gardening information. It will be stocked with a wide collection of garden books and magazines together with practically all publications from the war garden department of OCD, University of Illinois, United States department of agriculture, and other agencies.

The society hopes to stimulate popular interest in gardening, not only during war time but after peace comes. To this end community chairmen have been named to several north shore districts and suburbs.

Name Division Chairman.

Mrs. Herman C. Lammers has been named north side division chairman with Miss Hazel Metcalf, chairman of Central Uptown district; George Hemesath, chairman, Uptown-Clark; Edward E. Eichengreen, chairman of the near north side. Suburban areas of Deerfield and Waukegan will be headed by Richard Harvey and Fred Helgren.

Other aims of the society are to foster activity in every field of horticulture; to provide a common ground of horticultural advancement thru combined efforts of amateur and professional gardeners; to conduct garden demonstration courses; to conserve, protect, and extend public parks, conservatories, forest preserves, and parkways in Chicago and suburbs, and to direct gardening projects in schools.

Name Society Officers

The Chicago Horticultural society and garden center has Laurance Armour of Lake Forest as chairman of the board of directors and C. Eugene Pfister of Mundelein as president. Vice presidents are Paul L. Battey, Winnetka, and Robert N. Everly, superintendent of parks,

BOYS AND GIRLS WRITE CONDUCT CODE THRU POLL

Present 'Evans-Teens Speak' Thursday

An all-quiet ban will be placed upon discussions of the younger generation Thursday night when Olympian clubs of the Evanston Y. M. C. A. reveal results of a recent conduct and opinion poll taken at Evanston Township High school.

At 8 p. m. Thursday in the auditorium of Haven school, the Evans-Teens will highlight by sketches their ideas concerning dates, hours, dress, allowances, behavior in public, school, smoking, entertainment, and parents. They will disclose the kinds of actions which win the approval of sophomores and freshmen and those which are cold shouldered.

Parents, Friends to Attend

Parents and friends are invited to attend the revelation meeting, which will be opened by Paul Johnson, planner and worker on the booklet "Evans-Teens Speak," a compilation of survey results. Municipal Judge Corcoran of Evanston, to whom the book is dedicated, will be the speaker.

The poll was taken among 155 boys and 159 girls—all freshmen or sophomores between the ages of 13 and 16. A compilation shows 69 boys and 84 girls on the school honor roll, with seven boys and three girls failing. Eighty-one of the boys and 69 of the girls participate in school athletics. Tho 125 of the boys are members of boys' clubs, only 48 belonged to school organizations. There were 66 girl club members polled.

How to Be "Smooth"

What makes a person smooth? The top 10 attributes by which the boys rated the girls were headed by friendliness. Appearance came second, with a sense of humor taking third place. Figure, clothes, good sport, dancing, manners, crowd to which she belongs, and other boys and girls like her completed the tabulation.

The girls put manners first in their rating of boys. Next attributes for being smooth were friendliness, appearance, sense of humor, and a good sport. A new ingredient was added when the girls demanded a good talker, followed by: other boys like him, dancing, other girls like him, and the crowd in which he moves.

Manners, Not Muscles

Date demands for the lassies haven't changed so much since mother's time. They don't go in for the last minute calling technique, they prize manners above bulging muscles, and they vetoed, 8 to 1, the 55 boys who believed davenport wrestling makes the hero more popular with his girl.

If he's a "good guy," girls generally will let a boy hold their hand in the movies, and kiss them after the third and fourth date. The spirit of adventure prompted 57 girls to approve blind dating as compared with 37 boys.

The majority favored 8 or 8:30 p. m. for appearance at parties and dances with 1 to 1:30 a. m. favored as homing time. But woe to the parent who recites the exit line, "Remember to be home by such-and-such an hour!" The girls appreciate these last minute instructions being given before the arrival of their escorts.

Doubt Good of Smoking

Two-thirds of the interviewees did not smoke or drink. Three times as many fellows disapprove of puffing as approve, with one-third voicing no opinion one way or the other where men are concerned. Ninety-nine per cent of the boys dislike taking out what they termed a "fag bag."

The vote was 7 to 1 against drinking by fellows and 12 to 1 against the habit for girls. Three hundred and six of the 314 interviewed agreed that drinking does not make a boy more attractive to girls, while the answer was 309 no's in regard to girls increasing their popularity thru cocktailing.

Recreation centers near home proved to be the favored spots for the entire contingent, with a respect for public property a necessity near home.

List Club Workers

Interviewing in the poll was assisted by Northwestern university trained interviewers of the education school. This group also helped to phrase the questions and set up a system of tabulating the 12 sheets of questions answered by each student polled.

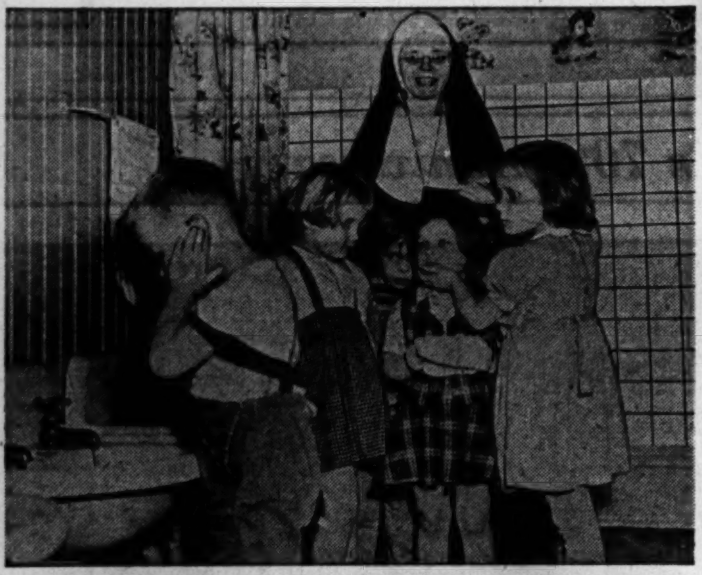
Remembers Ears Despite His Years



"Don't forget your ears," Sister Marie Carlotta, kindergarten teacher at St. Columbkille's Day nursery, 527 N. Paulina st., cautions Tommy Doras. Mary Lou Gorda is having her hair combed by Marion Smith while (in front of nun, left) are Diana Cowsky, and Sharon Norden. The children are among 75 youngsters of working mothers cared for daily at the nursery for which the St. Columbkille auxiliary will give a benefit party Friday night in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

LAUNCH BIBLE FUND DRIVE FOR MEN IN SERVICE

With the slogan, "Bibles, Not Bombs, for Tomorrow's World," the American Bible society this week will open a campaign to finance the purchase of 11,000,000 Bibles for service men of the united nations, prisoners of war of all nationalities, and residents of liberated areas. The national quota is $3,000,000. Chicago's goal is $250,000.

A dinner for workers and interested persons at 6:45 p. m. Tuesday in the Palmer House will open the drive in Chicago. Speakers will be Daniel Marsh, president of Boston university; Dr. Rome A. Betts, New York secretary of the society, and Dr. Robert T. Taylor, Chicago secretary.

Tell Work of Group.

Already five million Bibles and Testaments have been distributed among American service men and women alone, and more are wanted, members of the society said.

Altho organization for the drive is incomplete, the city has been divided into 20 districts, and three chairmen will be appointed in each.

North side districts, quotas, and chairmen include: Rogers Park, $2,500, the Rev. Allison A. McCracken of Rogers Park First Methodist church and the Rev. Royald V. Caldwell of St. James United Presbyterian church; Edgewater-Ravenswood, $4,800, the Rev. Steuart D. White of Epworth Methodist church, Milton Anderson, 5622 Wayne av., and Mrs. Harry Witthoft, 1267 Ardmore av.

List Lake View Quota.

Lake View, $6,000, the Rev. A. R. Kretzmann of St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran church, the Rev. Eskil Fredrickson of Gross Park Methodist church and the Rev. George Ericson of Swedish Baptist General Conference of America, 912 Belmont av., and Near North Side, $5,200, the Rev. R. W. Tenney of the Second Evangelical church.

Hospital Auxiliary

A benefit luncheon sponsored by the auxiliary of St. Elizabeth hospital, 1431 Claremont av., will be held Thursday at 10:30 a. m. at the Food Research Institute for Better Living, 32 W. Randolph st.

B. H. FISHLER JR. WINS A BRONZE STAR IN EUROPE

Capt. Bennett H. Fishler Jr., serving with the 4th armored division in the European theater, has been awarded the bronze star for meritorious service in combat.

On Dec. 10, Fishler, then a lieutenant, took command of company B of the 8th tank battalion. The company had been hard hit by tank and personnel casualties in the Saar campaign. By Dec. 23 Fishler had reorganized his group. Attached to the infantry it entered Chaumont. As the Yanks were about to outpost the town the enemy launched a fierce counter-attack. When his tank caught fire, Capt. Fishler directed the actions of his company on foot in the face of heavy small arms and direct tank fire.

A graduate of Amherst college and former student of Harvard law school, Fishler has been overseas a year. He participated in the drive across France and took part in the historic relieving of the 101st air borne division at Bastogne, France. His wife is the former Mary Shiverick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Shiverick, Glencoe.

Members of the North Shore Tri Delta alumnae will meet at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Leon F. Montague, Skokie, to make final arrangements for the sorority's war benefit party on Friday, April 20.

In keeping with its war time policy, the alumnae group will use proceeds to carry out programs at Fort Sheridan for China War Relief and for financing the Upsilon chapter alliance Red Cross unit.

The benefit will include a bridge luncheon at the chapter house, 625 University pl., Evanston, and lectures by Mrs. Horace Dawson and Mrs. D. G. Montgomery.

Seniors of Alpha Omicrom Pi active chapter at Northwestern university will be guests of the Chicago North Shore alumnae group at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday night at the home of Shirley Hammond, Winnetka. Pearl Boettcher of the Tribune editorial staff will speak at the dinner on "Facts About Old Mexico."

Officers for the 1945-'46 season will assume office when the Gamma Phi Beta alumnae group meets Wednesday afternoon at the chapter house on Northwestern university's campus.

Following the business session, tea will be served by Mrs. Young and Mrs. D. A. Buckmaster. Hostesses will be Mrs. Harold L. Brown, Mrs. Roger McCall, Mrs. Roscoe Nash, and Mrs. George S. Grant.

OLDEST N. SIDE HIGH SCHOOL TO MARK 70 YEARS

Waller Alumni to Hold Dinner Saturday

BY RUTH LOGAN

Golden rule days, with their joys and sorrows of readin', ritin', and 'rithmetic, sports trophies won, and school romances, will be recalled by some 600 alumni at a banquet Saturday night in the Morrison hotel to celebrate the 70th anniversary of Waller High school, oldest secondary school on the north side of Chicago.

Alumni of the school, which was organized in 1875 as North Division High school, from as far back as 1878 are expected to attend, as well as many service men and women at home on furlough. The program will pay tribute to the more than 1,000 Waller alumni in service. A prize will be given the fighter attending from the most distant war zone.

Pick Service Representatives

Five Waller girls, selected by student vote, will be presented as representatives of five branches of service. They are: Lois Rasmussen, 1944 Homecoming queen, army; Diane Zacharias, navy; Charlotte Fox, air forces; Denise Garon, coast guard, and Margaret Kauffman, marines. Beatrice Marie Thorpe, seaman 2d class assigned to the naval training station at 87th st. and Anthony av., will represent Waller women in service.

A soloist in civil life, Miss Thorpe will present a group of songs. Other vocalists who will appear are Ralph Niehaus, alumnus and concert tenor and music instructor in De Paul university, and Richard Wright, 428 Belden av., senior and a second place winner in the Chicago Music festival last August.

Many Will Speak.

Speakers will include: Maurice C. Lipman, principal; H. C. McKinsie, district superintendent; Mrs. William B. Walrath, an alumna and founder of the Cradle in Evanston, and Dr. R. S. Ziehn, president of Waller North Division Alumni association. James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, and Thomas H. Cannon, an attorney and alumnus, also have been invited to speak.

Cadet Col. Richard Kutz, highest ranking R. O. T. C. officer in Chicago, will lead the Waller R. O. T. C. in presentation of colors and salute to the flag. The anniversary committee is composed of Lipman, honorary chairman; Frederick J. Bertram, general chairman; Austin Waldron, school engineer, ticket chairman; John L. Finlayson, assistant principal; Miss Margaret Gallagher, music teacher; Coach William S. Kipp, and Halsey H. Matteson, retired teacher.

Center on War Today.

Assistants are Edwin Cooper, George Tess, Edward P. Saltiel, Mrs. Willis Schweichler, Edward W. Parlee Jr., and Mrs. Hazel Gronemann, alumni past presidents; Dr. Ziehn, Annette Kirschmer, Corinne Campbell, Mrs. Martha Griesser, Mrs. Gertrude Barkschat, Mrs. Marcella Reidy Alexander, Frank Miret, and Rosalie Loiacono, student representative.

Altho in the past sports have played an important part in student life, school activities today are geared to war. War bond and stamp drives, scrap and salvage campaigns, and Red Cross war fund drives receive ardent support from the approximately 2,500 students of 32 nationalities, many of whom enter military service on graduation or before.

One Secondary School.

From 1856, when Central High school was opened, to 1875, Chicago had one secondary school. In the latter year three division schools were opened, North Division with less 100 students being in the old Sheldon school building. The first class of four boys and 17 girls was graduated June 26, 1876. Only a two year course was offered at first and several elementary classes were held in the same building.

Francis Hanford was first principal. Henry Belfield succeeded him the next year, and in 1884 was followed by Oliver S. Westcott, for whom a junior high school on the south side was named.

Hold Exercises in German

In the '80s and '90s Germans and Swedes were predominant in the student body, with Germans in the ascendance, so much so that many of the graduation exercises were given in German.

A new building of 15 rooms was completed in 1881-'82 at Wells and Wendell sts. to relieve Sheldon school of secondary students. The building now houses Sexton shool. In 1900 the present building was erected at 2007 Orchard st. and the name of Robert A. Waller, at one time city controler, was given to the school.

Old Name Clings

However, the name North Division was not forgotten easily; sports letters won by team members and school banners were marked with the old name for several years, and the school song still carries it. A branch building was opened in 1933 at 223 Evergreen st. Fred Moehle is assistant principal in charge of the branch which houses freshman and sophomore classes. An addition to the Orchard st. structure was completed in 1937.

Shortly after the turn of the century Waller attained its greatest prowess in athletics. Most teams were captained by Walter Steffan, later a Superior court judge, and Waller athletes ran rough shod over those of other schools in the county for several years.

Win National Grid Title

Tackle on the football team was Joseph Paupa, 4017 N. Harding av., '05 alumnus. The squad defeated every other team in the Chicago Public High school league and went east to capture the national title by winning 75 to 0 over Brooklyn Boys' High school. The Waller team played three Big Ten teams—University of Chicago, Northwestern university, and University of Illinois—and held Chicago, the conference winner, to a scoreless tie. Paupa later became an outstanding coach himself.

Albert Weinberger, 3831 N. Mozart st., was another letter winner before he was graduated in 1903. Under his leadership as captain and coach, the basket ball team won the Cook county championship for two years. Weinberger also played football, baseball, and indoor baseball, and was a member of the track team.

Marine Mothers

The Marine Mothers club will meet at 8:15 p. m. Tuesday in the Skyline Athletic club.

WALKIE-TALKIES FOR ALL AFTER WAR, SAYS FCC

Jett Sees Many Uses in Peace Time

BY LARRY WOLTERS

Every one may have his own private walkie-talkie type radio transmitter after the war, E. K. Jett, commissioner of the federal communications commission said in a radio talk last week. This radio device, which makes any G. I. Joe his own radio station, will get every chance to make good in a multitude of peace time roles, Jett said. With this objective in view, the FCC has set aside the band from 460 to 470 megacycles for the private use of citizens who may need transmitters for their own short range communication, Jett said.

An immediate need for this sort of service in rural communities and small communities where wire services are not available was foreseen by Jett.

"In large cities it will be more convenient to use the available telephone facilities to communicate between fixed points," he said. "The reliable range of low power walkie-talkie will be limited in large urban areas due to buildings which obstruct the transmission path."

Open to Every One

Jett said the service would be "thrown wide open to any citizen after the war, whether he be an individual who may want a portable suitcase type set for his own purposes, or whether it is a department store, taxicab firm, farmer or anybody else."

Operator requirements will be simple, Jett said. The applicant will be required to certify that he has read the rules and regulations and understands them. That will probably be all he has to do to qualify for an operator's license and a station license. The licenses will run concurrently for five years. This service will be free—no charges being permitted for the transmission of messages.

Low Power and Range

Because of low power and limited range—from 2 to 15 miles, depending on terrain—the 50 available channels can be duplicated many times across the nation in thousands of communities.

Asked how people will be prevented from interfering with one another, Jett said the FCC already had thrown out some suggestions. Public spirited citizens in any community might get together and organize a group [a nonprofit organization] that would hold meetings and agree on the particular channels within the band that should be used by particular organizations or individuals within a given area, he said. Jett said that if the public takes to this citizens service that the FCC may allot additional bands for this purpose.

Not for Big Cities

The service range of walkie-talkie will not be sufficient for reliable two way service thruout a large metropolitan area, Mr. Jett said. In such places the police, transit companies, and similar organizations will use frequencies in a different portion of the spectrum and operate under more restrictive rules.

"This will tend to solve the interference problem in large cities," he said, "in that the citizens' band will be used only by those individuals or organizations which cannot procure privileges in other parts of the radio spectrum."

Salute Hirsch High on 'Citizens of Tomorrow'

Hirsch High school will be saluted on the Citizens of Tomorrow program over W-G-N at 10 a. m. next Saturday. Miss Marie A. McCahey, principal, will speak. Philip Maxwell, who conducts the program, will add two names to the honor roll: Gladys Conley, valedictorian of her class at Hirsch, and Lawrence C. Hastings, Kenosha, Wis. Jack Montalbano, accordionist, will be the student star entertainer. The Hirsch Choral club, directed by Helen Kane, will sing. Dorothy Katzmann will present interscholastic news.

Twins on W-G-N

Betty and Peggy Schoenbeck, twin "flagettes" on the Illinois Central's suburban trains will appear on the Quiz of Two Cities over W-G-N at 2 p. m. today. They are shown with Holland Engle, quizmaster.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, April 9

Keep the pot plants well watered. The flowering kinds like a sunny window, but some, like the saintpaulia or African violet, palms, ferns, certain begonias, and viney things like the English ivy, philodendron, pothos, asparagus fern, dumb cane [dieffenbachia], need light but not direct sunlight. Watch for insects.

There is yet time to sow many annuals indoors to get fine husky plants for the garden. Do not plant directly in outdoor beds. Place the pots or boxes of young in a not too sunny place for a few days so that the plants harden.

Tuesday, April 10

Garden twine can be made to last longer if it is placed in a solution of alum for a few days. Cucumber seeds can be sown in strawberry boxes or pots and the seedlings transplanted outdoors in late May.

Watch for the cucumber beetle for it eats the leaves. Use about 20 parts gypsum to one part calcium arsenate as a dust to cover the foliage.

Prunings from roses can be cut into pieces a foot long and placed in the ground on a semi-shady spot. They should root in a short time and can be transplanted.

Wednesday, April 11

If early vegetables are well above ground, make another sowing, but do not overplant. To prevent cutworms from chewing most members of the cabbage family and young tomato plants, place a collar 1½ inches deep and 1½ inches above the ground around them.

Be sure to grow only disease resistant tomato plants. Varieties like marglobe are of this type. To prevent blossom end rot on tomatoes keep the plants well watered during dry periods.

Thursday, April 12

Newer annuals are much in demand. Here are a few introduced within the last few years which grow well: Pearly gates morning glory, a beautiful white sort, cleome pink queen, phlox salmon glory; marigold yellow supreme, zinnia fantasy star dust, marigold limelight, and cornflower jubilee.

Friday, April 13

Keep the immediate area around newly planted trees and shrubs free from weeds. It is best to cultivate the soil, keeping it stirred, and the plants watered whenever necessary. A mulch will keep moisture in the soil over a considerable period; the soil can be watered thru the mulch.

Gardeners wishing a few choice flowers can fill a fair sized coldframe with fragrant violets. They will stand in the frame over winter and furnish innumerable flowers in spring time.

Saturday, April 14

Few plants will stand much sand but the following are suggested: Lobelia, flowering tobacco, pansies, and among the more tender plants, usually grown as pot plants, are begonia semperflorens in variety, fuchsia, and Zanbibar balsam.

The iris in variety, the sedum spectabile, columbine, campanula, meadow rue, hardy aster, garden chrysanthemum, coreopsis, plantain-lily, lily of the valley, and others among the perennials.

The spurge or pachasandra, trailing periwinkle, and lily of the valley are good for planting beneath trees that are barren of grass most of the time.

Owing to an acute MANPOWER SHORTAGE and an UNPRECEDENTED SEASONAL VOLUME, causing a serious congested condition in the Dry Cleaning Industry, we wish to give preferred service to our REGULAR customers as a matter of LOYALTY to them. Therefore:

1. We cannot accept goods for cleaning from any new or occasional customers at the present time.

2. Regular customers please limit your orders to two ladies' garments, or the equivalent, and two men's suits, or the equivalent, until further notice. We may, from time to time, be obliged to reduce the limit and even be unable to accept any goods for perhaps a day or so.

3. Those of our store customers who, in the past have been calling for their finished goods on Saturdays, have experienced rushes, especially from 4:00 p. m. to closing time, which are very trying on the customers and even more trying on our employees. Therefore, our customers are kindly requested to call for their finished goods regularly throughout the week to avoid these last minute Saturday rushes.

4. By all means please call for all finished goods you now have at any of our stores to alleviate the overcrowded condition.

Thanking you for your past patronage, we feel sure that you will give us your full co-operation.

EVEN PRINCIPAL WOULDN'T KNOW HIS SCHOOL NOW

Building Made Into Coke Bar

Youngsters in Thornton township finally have a place to meet, dance, and leisurely drink their cokes. After a winter of work, reconversion of the old Washington school building into a youth center has been completed.

Open house will be held at 3 p. m. today, climaxing the dedication and first party scheduled for last Friday and yesterday. In today's receiving line will be the boys and girls who are officers and committee chairmen at the center. Guests will include Vernon T. Johnson, president of Thornton Township Youth Activities, Inc.; Dr. William E. McVey, Thornton Township High school superintendent, and Arthur E. Turngren, mayor.

Time Brings Changes

The three rooms of the old school house have been converted into a ballroom, a library or clubroom, and a refreshment room with a semicircular coke bar. The center will serve youngsters of Harvey and surrounding villages.

Plans for the center were initiated early last winter after Joel Ketonen and Leonard Hirsch of the Rotary club of Harvey investigated the need. When the center was discussed with the young people, such enthusiasm was shown that search immediately was started to find a suitable building. Finally the old Washington school was settled upon and leased from the school board for $1 a year, with option to buy.

The youngsters did most of the alteration and repair work on the building, while their parents, led by Mrs. Harold F. Miller, Thornton High school PTA representative, met to discuss ways and means of raising funds. It was decided to organize the Thornton Township Youth Activities, Inc., and to seek a state charter.

Merchants Give Aid

Industries and merchants answered the call for funds by subscribing almost $1,200. Membership at the center was set at 50 cents monthly, and parents were asked to support the center by contributing $5. It is estimated that $2,000 still is needed to put the building in good condition. Some merchants also donated their time in helping fix the building, while still others gave articles of furniture.

To date the center has a radio, an old piano, chairs, divans, a public address system, a semi-circular coke bar, and is supplied with books and magazines. It is planned to have a paid supervisor in charge at all times, in addition to a parents chaperone committee supervising all parties.

List Officers, Directors

The board of directors includes Vernon T. Johnson, president; Mrs. A. W. Schiller and Paul J. Leleu, vice presidents; Eric J. Bradner, secretary-treasurer; the Rev. E. S. Ewing, Mrs. Doyle Sweet, Mrs. Wesley Churchill, Mrs. Ethyl Dredge, Mrs. Virginia Fraser, Benjamin Sachs, John Hoffman, Russell McKibbin, Arthur E. Turngren, Joseph B. Stephens, Leonard Hirsch, Mrs. F. D. Henderson, Mrs. Ray Lyons, Mrs. Betty Paulsen, Elmer Kich, Mrs. O. F. Thomas, and Mrs. Emil Woodstrup.

The youngsters have elected Joe Mezo, president; Jim Homan, Alma Gordon, Jim Bewley, and Stuart Richman, vice presidents; Betty McLaren, secretary, and Evelyn Weiss, treasurer. Committees include Ardel Adams, entertainment; Betty Kreps, refreshments; Ann Broderick, membership, and Jim Homan, maintenance.

Aquinas High Students to Model Clothes of Own Sewing at Style Show

Anne Stalder, Marion Sullivan, and Gabrielle Stalder (left to right) model the dresses they made themselves to wear in the annual spring fashion show at Aquinas Dominican High school, 72d st. at Clyde av. The show will be given before the Mothers club at 2 p. m. Friday. Marion lives at 1642 W. 33d pl., and the Stalder sisters at 7134 Yates av.

Patricia Maher, 7710 Paxton av., and Mary Bowlds, 2028 W. 35th st., both juniors, are among 60 girls participating in the show. Patricia will wear the black and white shepherd's check rayon taffeta dress and Mary will model the plaid taffeta and velveteen jumper.

With an eye toward the senior prom, Colleen Mahoney (left), 7129 Merrill av., and Anne Ochs, 7219 Lafayette av., tried their hands at making formals. Colleen's, a combination of three patterns, is aqua moire taffeta. Anne's is white eyelet pique with black velvet trim.

Aquinas High Girls to Model Own Fashions

BY JANET PECK

Girls at Aquinas Dominican High school may wear their trim green uniforms five days a week, but that doesn't hinder them from knowing and enjoying smart clothes as other girls do. Nor do the sisters at the school mean that it should.

Each year in sewing classes the girls are permitted to design or choose the pattern of the dress they hope to model in the annual spring fashion show. This year, the show will be given before the Mothers club at 2 p. m. Friday in the school auditorium, 72d st., and Clyde av. Approximately 60 girls will participate in the showing of formal, casual, lounge, and sports clothes as well as children's garments. The classes, which are voluntary, are conducted by Sister Marie Gilbert.

Many Do Own Designing

Some of the girls with a creative flair preferred to design their own clothes. Such was the case of Theresa Mitalo, 2004 E. 93d st. During the past 17 months, Theresa, a senior, has designed and completed at least two costumes, a blue net formal and a two piece wool suit. She will model both at the show.

Others used patterns but changed them to suit their individual tastes. Colleen Mahoney, 7129 Merrill av., a senior, had only seven months of instruction when she completed an aqua moiré formal which was a combination of three different patterns. She hopes to wear the dress to her graduation prom. Patricia Nevins, 1025 E. 62d st., made a suit of corduroy and wool. For the tan box jacket she used a pattern, but designed the skirt to suit herself.

Looks to Spring Prom

Senior Dorothy Keefe, 108 W. 81st st., had an eye for practicality when she made herself a brown wool jumper that can be worn with various styles of blouses, a couple of which she has made. Another girl anticipating the spring prom is Anne Ochs, 7219 Lafayette av., a senior. For this occasion Anne has made a princess style formal of white eyelet embroidered pique with black velvet trim.

Anne and Gabrielle Stalder, sisters, who live at 7134 Yates av., made dresses similar in style during their seven months of instruction. It would seem the girls inherited a little needlework talent from their mother judging from the chic flowered hat she created to go with Gabrielle's costume. Gabrielle is a senior and Anne a junior. Marion Sullivan, 1642 W. 33d pl., made a fuchsia colored shantung dress to accompany her navy accessories.

Makes Taffeta Jumper

One of the most attractive date dresses to be shown is the shepherd's check rayon taffeta made by Patricia Maher. Simple in design, it can be worn with a variety of accessories. Patricia, a junior, lives at 7710 Paxton av. Versatile might well be the term used to describe the taffeta and velveteen jumper made by Mary Bowlds, junior, of 2028 W. 35th st.

Sewing classes are conducted in a large sunny room which contains all the paraphernalia of the craft. According to Sister Marie Gilbert, classes were so large this year it was difficult to take care of all the girls and consequently they had to do more work on their own.

LITHS TO PLEAD FOR UPHOLDING OF SOVEREIGNTY

An appeal to the President, secretary of state, and members of the United States delegation to the San Francisco conference that the cause of small nations, especially that of Lithuania, be upheld as outlined in the Atlantic charter, will be read at the Lithuanian Chamber of Commerce annual banquet at 7 p. m. today at Darius-Gerenas Legion hall, 4416 S. Western av. The appeal will be signed by Municipal Judge Zuris, honorary president; Alexander G. Kumskis, president, and Dr. Kazimier Drangelis, secretary.

Cong. Kelly [3d] will speak on "Small Nations — Life or Death." Dr. Peter Dauzvardis, Lithuanian consul, has been invited. John Pachankis and Stanley Balzekas are co-chairmen of the banquet.

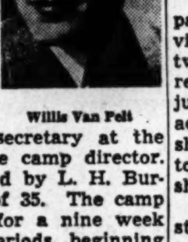
S. Side Church to Hear Missionary to China

The Rev. David L. Nikner, missionary to China 15 years, will speak on "China, Yesterday and Today," at 5 p. m. today at St. Luke's Lutheran church, 77th st. and Constance av. The program will be sponsored by the Woman's Missionary society of which Mrs. George Lotz, 5611 Cottage Grove av., is president.

Whiting Mothers Club to Hold 2 Day Book Fair

Clark-Franklin kindergarten mother club, Whiting, Ind., will stage a book fair at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow and at 1:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the Clark school. Mrs. Ruth Towz will speak at a tea at Tuesday's fair.

HYDE PARK Y TO OPEN CAMP JUNE 25; 106 S. SIDE BOYS REGISTER



Willis Van Pelt

One hundred and six south side boys have registered to go to the Hyde Park Y. M. C. A.'s Camp Martin Johnson this summer, according to Willis Van Pelt, 4829 Dorchester av., camp committee chairman. The camp is located in Manistee, National forest near Irons, Mich.

Clyde R. Seeley, boys' work secretary at the "Y," again will be camp director. He will be assisted by L. H. Burnett and a staff of 35. The camp will be operated for a nine week season of three periods, beginning June 25.

Assisting Van Pelt on committee are: Arthur Aagaard, 1360 E. 47th pl.; Lester C. Smith, 1136 E. 48th st.; Mrs. Viola Arends, 5487 Ridgewood ct.; Dr. W. C. Krathwohl, 6211 Kimbark av.; Oscar Lee, 5140 Kimbark av.; Herman Halperin, 8149 Evans av.; C. H. Marquis, 5521 University av., and Dr. S. J. Beck, 5236 Greenwood av.

Women Voters

Gale Johnson, OPA economist, will speak before the South Shore League of Women Voters at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday in Gardner hall of Bryn Mawr Community church, 7000 Jeffery av., on "The Bretton Woods Agreements."

SCRAP MARK SET BY VOCATIONAL SCHOOL PUPILS

Per Capita Average Highest in City

Chicago Vocational school collected 77,950 pounds of paper in a one day scrap drive March 23. Representing a total of 118 pounds of paper per student, this figure is the highest per capita average of any Chicago school. Amundsen was second with 109 pounds and Taft third with 90.

In recognition of this achievement Mayor Kelly will present a citation on behalf of the city to a representative of the school and directors, Warren E. Hill, James T. O'Connor, executive secretary of the salvage division, war production board, also will present a citation.

The school, located at 8023 Normal av., has students from all over the city. Some had to carry their bundles long distances. An assortment of cars, trucks, baby buggies, and even rented horse and wagons, were used to collect other bundles.

School Four Years Old

The drive was held under the auspices of the Student council. Mrs. Gregor J. Gentleman is sponsor.

Chicago Vocational school was organized four years ago at 87th and Anthony av. The navy took over the building a year later to establish an air techincal training center. During the past three years the vocational school has been located at its temporary address.

Altho most of the original equipment was transferred to the new school site, many new pieces have been added to the print shop, three machine shops, two wood shops, two electric shops, and aviation, auto mechanic, and welding departments. Four new shops have been completed recently.

Get Shop Training

The courses are designed to prepare students for trade and supervisory industrial positions. The first two years of the curriculum offer regular high school courses. The junior and senior years combine actual working experience in the shops, with classroom theory. A total of 1,200 hours are spent in shops over a two year period.

Until this semester, only transfer students in their second year were accepted. Next fall, however, graduates of grammer school will be accepted. Is is expected that the school eventually will return to its original building.

Disciples of Christ Church Women to Meet Tuesday

The Woman's club of the University Church of Disciples of Christ will meet at 2 p. m. Tuesday in the church house, 5655 University av. Mrs. B. Fred Wise, president will conduct the business meeting. A program had been arranged by Mrs. Roy G. Ross and Mrs. Ethel R. Van Schaik, entitled "Book Chat" in which Mrs. Harold E. Fey, Mrs. John Harms, and Mrs. Anna Spaulding will participate. Mrs. Winfred Ernest Garrison will be hostess.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About People You May Know

FIVE south side women have been appointed student aids at the University of Chicago, highest student honor. Selected on the basis of scholarship and leadership in student activities, those chosen will officiate for the student body in the conduct of all university ceremonies. They are Marie Borroff, 4818 Dorchester av.; Clara G. WAR MEETINGS OF 4 PAIRS OF BROTHERS TOLD

Hold Reunions Far from Homes

Perhaps there's something in the old saying "it's a small world." It probably wouldn't be doubted by at least four pairs of brothers from the south side who met recently on foreign soil.

One pair was the Ehrenreich brothers, sons of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Ehrenreich, 7113 Clyde av. Pvt. Melvin, laboratory technician aboard a ship, knew his brother, Corp. Jerry, a medical technician, was serving in a hospital in England. When his boat docked he decided to look for him. He found Jerry perched atop a stepladder in a hospital ward. "I never saw any one climb down a ladder so fast in his life," he wrote.

Cable Folks at Home

The boys sent a cablegram to their folks telling of the meeting. They had a few days together. Both are graduates of Hyde Park High school. Corp. Ehrenreich has been overseas 29 months.

The Anderson brothers met for the first time in over a year recently on the Hawaiian Islands. The visit was short, however, for each was slated to go into action on different fronts. Lt. [j. g.] Warren Anderson, a fighter pilot, has been overseas since December; his brother, Ronald, seaman 2d class, has been overseas since the last of January.

Lt. Anderson's wife, Barbara, resides at 6635 Yale av. The boys, sons of Mrs. Alma Anderson, 70 E. 68th st., attended Parker High school.

Wounded at Iwo Jima

Edward and William Farrell enlisted in the marines at about the same time over two years ago. Corp. Edward is in the 2d marine division and his brother, Pvt. William, is with the 4th division. While en route to Iwo Jima, the ship on which William was sailing stopped at a Pacific base. Knowing Edward was stationed on the island, William looked him up and the two had several hours together.

Latest word received by the boys' parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Farrell, 7641 Merrill av., states that William was wounded duing the Iwo Jima campaign. Hospitalized at same base where he met his brother, the two hope to see lots of each other while William recuperates. William's wife, Mary Rita, and small daughter, Linda, reside in Florida.

"Bawls Out" Brother

Corp. Frank Ross, stationed with a medical battalion in France, has met his brother, Pvt. Tony Ross, for the first time in almost a year. Corp. Ross was relieving men of their weapons as they entered an aid station. He noticed one man had passed him still carrying his rifle. He called sharply and when the soldier turned around, the Ross brothers found themselves face to face. Pvt. Ross is attached to a field artillery unit.

The boys had plenty to talk about, one thing being Tony's infant son, whom his father had never seen. The boys are the sons of Mrs. Caroline Ross, 9316 Manistee av. Pvt. Ross' wife and baby reside at 3218 W. 64th st., South Chicago. Both were employed by Wisconsin Steel prior to induction.

CITIZENS SHOW WILL PAY VISIT TO HIRSCH HIGH

Tribune Will Add Two to Honor Roll

Hirsch High school will be saluted on the Citizens of Tomorrow show over W-G-N from 10 to 10:30 a. m. Saturday. The program will be recorded at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the school auditorium, 7740 Ingleside av., before guests.

Miss Marie McCahey, principal, will be mistress of ceremonies. She will introduce Philip Maxwell who is in charge of the show. Interscholastic news will be read by Dorothy Katzmann, president of the drama class.

Two on Honor Roll

The names of two more students will be added to the honor roll: Lawrence C. Hastings of Bradford High school, Kenosha, Wis., and Gladys Conley of Hirsch, who will be interviewed by Maxwell.

Hastings is a member of his school's debating team and business manager of the student newspaper. He is president of the Wisconsin Student council, an organization of high school representatives thruout the state which meets annually to discuss student problems. Gladys is valedictorian of the June '45 graduating class and has been active in school civic clubs.

Tribute will be paid to William A. McHie, seaman 2d class, a former Hirsch student now serving in the navy. Bill did more than his share in his school days to help Hirsch place third in the ctiy metal salvage drive. When a check for $1,600 was presented to the army to purchase an ambulance, Bill was master of ceremonies at the dedication.

Accordionist to Entertain

Jack Montalbano will be the student star entertainer. He will play the Trieste overture on his accordion. The choral club of 140 voices, directed by Miss Helen Kane, will sing three numbers including "Onward Hirsch to Victory" composed by Bill Betken, a '41 graduate.

Taking part in the quiz will be Bruce Brown, Charles Godwin, Virginia Weston, Allen McPherson, Ruth Girard, and Dave McClurg. Color bearers will be Bob Crist, Dean Hemminger, Paul Francis, Paesler Cherne, and John McGee. The school cheer will be given by Gene Ballard, Phylis Gilkinson, Arlette Hooper, and Marilyn Schultz.

Brothers Meet

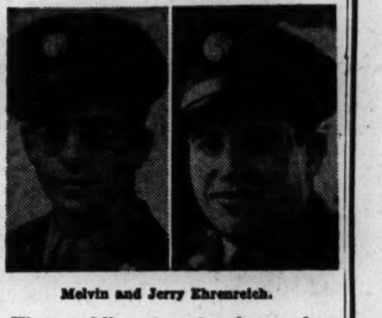
Edward and William Farrell.

Warren and Ronald Anderson.



Melvin and Jerry Ehrenreich.

The world's not such a large place after all . . . or so it would seem to these three sets of brothers who met recently on foreign soil. The Farrell boys were on an island in the South Pacific; Warren and Ronald discovered each other in Hawaii, and the Ehrenreich brothers met in an English hospital where Jerry was a technician.

STUDENT PANEL TO PROBE UNITY OF HEMISPHERE

Gene Tobin

"The Moral Basis of International Unity and the Americas" will be the theme of the all-day meeting of the Student Commission on Inter-American Action, to be held Saturday, Pan-American day, at St. Xavier college, 4900 Cottage Grove av. Students from 12 Catholic colleges in the Chicagoland area will participate.

Miss Gene Ann Tobin, 7159 East End av., a St. Xavier student, is recording secretary of the group.

The morning session will discuss whether there is unity in the Americas today. Jacqueline Lord, Rosary college; Kathleen Smith, St. Xavier, and Ethel Dignan, Mundelein, will lead the discussion. A discussion of Dumbarton Oaks proposals by Joseph Menz, Notre Dame university, will close this session.

Further aspects of hemispheric unity will be discussed by the afternoon speakers, with questions and discussion from the floor following. Resolutions will be formulated and voted on, and elections of officers held. Benediction by the Rev. Gregory J. Keegan in the school chapel will close this meeting.

The evening program will be devoted to an Inter-American dance in the college gym. Flags of 21 American republics will decorate the walls.

ACQUIRE GROUND FOR EXPANSION OF ST. BARNABAS

Convent Is First in Building Plans

Development plans calling for a new church, convent, and community center have been launched by St. Barnabas parish with the purchase of 556 feet of ground on the east side of Longwood dr. from 101st st. south beyond 101st pl. The parish now owns a 706 foot stretch on which the new buildings, a playground and a parking lot will be constructed.

Raise $100,000 Thus Far

Since the beginning of the finance drive for the buildings in December, $100,000 has been collected.

The Rev. Timothy J. Hurley, pastor, has been ill, and the drive is under the direction of the Rev. Frank D. Hayes, administrator, assisted by the Rev. E. Oliver Boyle and the men's committee of the parish. The committee is rotated yearly to give more parish members an opportunity to serve.

Build Convent First

The three story convent, to be erected as soon as priorities can be obtained, will be built at 101st pl. and Longwood dr., and will contain living quarters for the Dominican sisters who teach at St. Barnabas and music instruction rooms. Plans also have been completed for an additional classroom to the school by Gerald A. Barry and Fred D. Kay, architects.

The church was founded in 1924 by Father Hurley and now has 900 families. The combination church and school building was dedicated in 1925 and a kindergarten was added in 1939.

AQUINAS HIGH MOTHERS WILL SPONSOR PARTY

The Aquinas Dominican High school Mothers club will sponsor its annual spring party at 8 p. m. Friday in the school auditorium, 72d st. and Clyde av. Mrs. George J. DE PAUL ACTORS PLUCK PAGE FROM GAY '90S

Altho no gas footlights will flicker, all the other trimmings of the gay '90s, from ginghams to pretzels, will be in evidence when student actors at De Paul university present an old fashioned melodrama, "Fireman's Flame," today, tomorrow, and Tuesday in the auditorium, 2235 N. Sheffield av.

The production will be given thru the auspices of the student activity council, under the direction of the Rev. Thomas Connolly, faculty adviser.

The story of the melodrama concerns a feud between the leaders of two rival volunteer fire departments for the hand of the heroine. The part of Mose, one of the firemen, is played by Tom Collins, 7118 South Park av.

CALUMET CITY, 4 VILLAGES TO VOTE APRIL 17

Fire, Police Board Test Up in Lansing

Citizens of Lansing, Glenwood, South Chicago Heights, South Holland, and Calumet City will go to the polls April 17 to elect local officials.

Lansing residents also will decide if their village shall set up a board of fire and police commissioners.

Incumbents running on the Lansing Citizens' party ticket include George H. Jones, village president; Clarence E. Reynolds, police magistrate, and Kerwood L. Snyder, Raphael E. Kraay, and Edward Koehn, trustees. Dorothy Wernicke, Citizens' candidate for village clerk, has been secretary to the clerk for the last 15 years. During the last year she has served as acting clerk by appointment when the village clerk resigned. Because of the resignation of William E. Erfert, new Lansing postmaster, a fourth trustee, Reiner H. Bartman, will be elected to fill the unexpired term.

Two Glenwood Slates

Progressive party candidates are Fred W. Petersen for village president; Catherine O. Pallay, clerk; Conrad J. Borck, police magistrate, and Charles B. Gabriel, William F. Malo, and George A. Hawley, trustees. John W. Whitesett Jr. is a candidate for the unexpired trustee term.

Two parties will compete for offices in the village of Glenwood. Running on the People's party ticket are James A. Worthy [incumbent] for village president; Elsie Soderman [incumbent], clerk, and Anthony J. Carrara, John Gegert, and Jess Taylor, trustees. James Bonea and Willard E. Bollar also will run for trustees to fill the unexpired terms. Police magistrate is Willard A. Larcher.

On the Independent party slate Floyd E. Meekins seeks the village presidency; Stanley Zentera [incumbent], Robert K. Aykens, and Alfred Bakken, trustees, and U. H. Stallings and Carl Jung, trustees for the unexpired terms, and Lewis T. Patrick [incumbent], police magistrate.

Harry Rabe [incumbent], United party, will run against Dayton Strong on the People's party for village president at South Chicago Heights. John K. Grusdis [incumbent] will run unopposed on the United party ticket for clerk. For trustees, opposing candidates are: United party—Walter Neulieb [incumbent], Joseph Bartolini, and Alex Krause; People's party—Steve Phillips, Anthony Prisco, and Harry Lueder. Henry Reichert [incumbent], People's party, will oppose William E. Hering, United, for police magistrate.

Candidates at South Holland, all unopposed, are James Gouwens [incumbent], president; Raymond Gouwens, clerk, and Tuenis L. Santefort, George H. Voss, and Harold De Young [all incumbent], trustees.

Calumet City Contests

At Calumet City, candidates on the United Voters party include Frank L. Kaminski, for mayor; Steve J. Maciejewski [incumbent], clerk; Russell J. Cadman, city treasurer, and Julius Mayer, police magistrate. On the Progressive party ticket are John W. Jaranowski, mayor; Anton S. Skwiertz [present city treasurer], clerk; William J. Leinen, treasurer, and Charles F. Liesenfelt, police magistrate.

In the aldermanic race the following seek office: 1st ward—William P. Schramm, United Voters party, and Fred F. Lauerman [incumbent], Progressive party; 2d—Frank Magdziasz [incumbent], United Voters, and Walter A. Gralak, Progressive; 3d—Jacob Kunka Jr., United Voters; Paul J. Okraj, Progressive, and Joseph J. Wydrzynski, Independent; 4th—Frank J. Miller [incumbent], United Voters, and Herman C. Wiening, Progressive; 5th—Paul F. Probst [incumbent], United Voters, and John L. McKittrick, Progressive.

A SCHOOL CHILD'S HERO-COP WINS PARENTS, ALSO

Gratitude of Brainerd residents to a 6 foot policeman, who has watched over their children at 88th st. and Ashland av., was expressed recently by a $100 war bond awarded him at a luncheon.

M. J. Lenehan

This is not the first such award for Policeman Matthew J. Lenehan, 8737 S. Carpenter st., who recently retired after 39 years on the force. He treasurers a gold watch bearing the inscription: "With the love and admiration of the Felsenthal pupils to their friend." He received it in Mercy hospital while recovering from injuries suffered when he pushed three children from the path of a runaway horse pulling a peddler's wagon.

"Kids by the 50" Visited Him

"It was a brisk fall day in 1921," related Lenehan, "and papers flying around scared a peddler's horse which bolted directly toward three children playing in 41st st. near Calumet av." Lenehan, who at 63 says he can run "like a deer," not only saved the children and caught the horse but held onto the reins until he stopped the horse a quarter block away. "The kids came 50 at a time to see me in the hospital," chuckled Lenehan.

"Matt's efforts above and beyond the duties of a police officer, and his understanding manner and kindly protection of small children and elderly people have particularly endeared him to Brainerd residents," stated Albert Eleder, 8619 Loomis st., chairman of the group which presented the bond.

Born in Ireland

Lenehan, who was born in Ireland, joined the force Nov. 29, 1906, and made two arrests his first night on the job. The men, coming out of a drug store at 26th st. and Wentworth av. at 2 a. m., looked suspicious so Lenehan took them to the station. It developed that they had broken into the store. One of the men, who was armed, had a record "a foot long," says Lenehan. He met this man on a street car 15 years later and his ex-prisoner said he was going straight.

Another present of which Lenehan is proud is the $38 which children of St. Ethelreda's school presented him just before his retirement. "I heard the little ones asking each other if they'd brought their dime, but I never realized they were taking a collection for me," he said.

Son in Leo High

He has been stationed in the vicinity of the school for the last six years. Stations he has worked from are Wabash av., Stock Yards, and Gresham.

He and his wife, Sally, have been married 17 years. Their son, John, is a sophomore at Leo High school.

Lenehan, who says he always warned traffic violators at least once before giving them a summons, is also proud that "never during my 39 years on the force have I been called into the front office on a complaint."

Marries Soldier

MRS. JULIAN FOTRE.

Suzanne Kay Engh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Engh, 6941 Paxton av., was married recently to Lt. Julian Norman Fotre Jr. of Los Angeles, Cal. Mrs. Fotre attended the University of Wisconsin, and Lt. Fotre was a student at the University of Southern California. The couple now is living in Nevada, where the bridegroom is stationed with the air forces.

LADY OF PEACE GROUP WILL GIVE PARTY THURSDAY

Our Lady of Peace Sanctuary society will hold a party in Our Lady of Peace auditorium, 79th st. and Jeffery av., at 8 o'clock Thursday night. Mrs. J. W. McCarthy will be chairman and Mrs. J. A. Allely co-chairman. They will be assisted by Mrs. S. J. Mills, Mrs. W. H. Coulson, Mrs. W. V. McDonnell, Mrs. A. M. Vaughan, Mrs. J. B. Rollheiser, Mrs. M. B. O'Connell, Mrs. M. E. Grant, Mrs. J. P. Darlington, Mrs. W. C. Meister, Mrs. W. F. Cogan, Mrs. J. R. Cronin, and Mrs. W. J. Leahy. Mrs. A. A. O'Keefe is president.

DAVIS SQUARE TO HOLD WEEK OF OPEN HOUSE

Open House week will be observed tomorrow thru Friday at Davis Square park, 45th st. and Marshfield av. In addition to programs presented at 7:30 p. m. each evening an exhibit of artcraft projects will be placed in the lobby.

Programs of each evening are as follows: Monday, a boxing and wrestling demonstration; Tuesday, an amateur show; Wednesday, exhibition volleyball games; Thursday, basketball exhibition games, and on Friday a dance will be held.

Writers Club Will Hear How to Write for Radio

Woodlawn Writers club, sponsored by the Woodlawn Regional library, 6247 Kimbark av., will meet at 8 p. m. Wednesday. Speakers will be Raymond Chan and Mary Chan Quinn, who will talk on "Writing Radio Adaptation."

American Women at War

Lt. Ellen J. Richard, Gary, a flight nurse, recently was awarded an air medal for her meritorious achievement with a medical air evacuation squadron of the 10th air force in Burma. She was cited for participating in operational flights totaling more than 100 hours over Burma. The lieutenant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Richards, Gary, has been in the army for two years, six months of which were spent in the India-Burma theater. She is a graduate of Gary High school and St. Bernard's hospital.

'CAVALLERIA' IS NEXT OPERA ON THEATER OF AIR

Mascagni's popular opera "Cavalleria Rusticana" will be broadcast on the Chicago Theater of the Air hour over W-G-N and Mutual from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday from the Medinah Temple auditorium.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak.

Miss Marion Claire will sing the role of Santuzza, victim of Turiddu, the betrayer, to be sung by Richard Tucker. The part of Lola will be sung by Ruth Slater, and Alfio by Bruce Foote. Henry Weber will conduct the orchestra and chorus. The dramatic cast will include Laurette Fillbrandt, William Everett, Sondra Gair, John Barclay and Hope Summers. John Mallow will be the narrator.

EARL WILD IS SOLOIST WITH NBC ORCHESTRA

Earl Wild, pianist, will be soloist for the performance of Gershwin's Piano Concerto in F on the Symphony of the Air hour over WMAQ-NBC at 4 p. m. today. A presentation of Hans Spialek's Suite, "The Tall City" by the NBC Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Frank Black, also will be included in the program. Today's concert will be the first in the NBC Symphony orchestra's summer series, which will be conducted by Black.

Ernest Liegl Soloist with W-G-N Orchestra

Ernest Liegl, flutist, will be soloist when the W-G-N Symphony orchestra, directed by Henry Weber, presents Griffes' Poem for Flute day over W-G-N. Other selections: Schubert's Symphony No. 2 in B Flat Major and Rimsky-Korskow's "Capriccio Espagnole."

WALKIE-TALKIES FOR ALL AFTER WAR, SAYS FCC

Jett Sees Many Uses in Peace Time

BY LARRY WOLTERS

Every one may have his own private walkie-talkie type radio transmitter after the war, E. K. Jett, commissioner of the federal communications commission said in a radio talk last week. This radio device, which makes any G. I. Joe his own radio station, will get every chance to make good in a multitude of peace time roles, Jett said. With this objective in view, the FCC has set aside the band from 460 to 470 megacycles for the private use of citizens who may need transmitters for their own short range communication, Jett said.

An immediate need for this sort of service in rural communities and small communities where wire services are not available was foreseen by Jett.

"In large cities it will be more convenient to use the available telephone facilities to communicate between fixed points," he said. "The reliable range of low power walkie-talkie will be limited in large urban areas due to buildings which obstruct the transmission path."

Open to Every One

Jett said the service would be "thrown wide open to any citizen after the war, whether he be an individual who may want a portable suitcase type set for his own purposes, or whether it is a department store, taxicab firm, farmer or anybody else."

Operator requirements will be simple, Jett said. The applicant will be required to certify that he has read the rules and regulations and understands them. That will probably be all he has to do to qualify for an operator's license and a station license. The licenses will run concurrently for five years. This service will be free—no charges being permitted for the transmission of messages.

Low Power and Range

Because of low power and limited range—from 2 to 15 miles, depending on terrain—the 50 available channels can be duplicated many times across the nation in thousands of communities.

Asked how people will be prevented from interfering with one another, Jett said the FCC already had thrown out some suggestions. Public spirited citizens in any community might get together and organize a group [a nonprofit organization] that would hold meetings and agree on the particular channels within the band that should be used by particular organizations or individuals within a given area, he said. Jett said that if the public takes to this citizens service that the FCC may allot additional bands for this purpose.

Not for Big Cities

The service range of walkie-talkie will not be sufficient for reliable two way service thruout a large metropolitan area, Mr. Jett said. In such places the police, transit companies, and similar organizations will use frequencies in a different portion of the spectrum and operate under more restrictive rules.

"This will tend to solve the interference problem in large cities," he said, "in that the citizens' band will be used only by those individuals or organizations which cannot procure privileges in other parts of the radio spectrum."

Twins on W-G-N

Betty and Peggy Schoenbeck, twin "flagettes" on the Illinois Central's suburban trains will appear on the Quiz of Two Cities over W-G-N at 2 p. m. today. They are shown with Holland Engle, quizmaster.

PAINT ON BRICK SAVES FUEL AND BRIGHTENS HOME

Now Is Good Time to Wash Walls

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

At this time when fuel must be saved it may be that those who have old brick homes will want to take a step in the right direction and paint the exterior walls.

When mortar disintegrates between the bricks an invitation is extended to rain and moisture, and as a result such walls can become unnecessarily cold and clammy. Furthermore, if a light colored paint is used it not only will seal out moisture and help keep the house dry—and thus warmer in winter—but it also will reflect direct sunlight in the summer and thus keep the house cooler.

House Will Be No Colder

Because of the low degree of sunlight in winter the whiteness will have a negligible effect inasfar as the reflective factor is concerned and will not make the house colder.

Incidentally spring is a good time to give the outside of a house a thoro washing with soap and water if the walls are soiled and yet do not demand new coats of paint.

Test Paint First

First, the condition of the paint should be tested with a brush and soap and water. If results seem good one can start to wash at the bottom and move toward the top, using a scrubbing brush fastened to a long handle. After the washing is completed the hose can be used to rinse the walls.

If a chimney is badly soiled on the outside it can be scrubbed with a solution of trisodium phosphate [or commercial cleaner which contains trisodium]. Use three tablespoons of the trisodium phosphate to a bucket of water, but be careful this solution doesn't get on the house paint as it can soften paint.

Kate Smith's Guests

Brian Aherne, Shirley Booth, and Jackie [Homer Brown] Kelk of Aldrich family fame will be Kate Smith's guests on WBBM-CBS at 6 o'clock tonight.

Miss Langford on CBS

Frances Langford and the King Cole trio will join James Melton as guests on the Star Theater program over WBBM-CBS at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

SILVER WORKER DISCOVERS GOLD IN CHICAGO TOIL

Among the scores of immigrants pouring into the United States at the turn of the 19th century was a Russian lad scarcely 15 years old. Traveling alone, he had come to seek his fortune in the country about which he had heard fabulous tales of wealth and freedom. Thus began the career of Falwick Novick, silversmith of 828 E. 43d st.

As equipment in this new country he had his trade, learned by apprenticing himself at an early age in Russia. At first learning a trade was monotonous to the boy. Filled with youthful enthusiasm for color and romance, he looked forward to becoming a member of the czar's imperial army. However, the quote from his village was filled and there was nothing to do but to stick to his work.

"America, the Fabulous"

Because he was ambitious, America always had interested him. His imagination was stirred by the fantastic stories he heard. Therefore he felt the turning point in his life occurred when he received a letter from his uncle in New York offering passage.

Novick arrived in the teeming eastern city with high hopes of making a fine living at his craft, but he knew little of the language. He was confused for even at that early date people always were hurrying—were impatient with a greenhorn. In desperation he took a job as plumber's assistant at a salary of $4 a week.

Opportunity Beckons—in Coal

Two years in the plumbing business, however, without any sign of a raise in salary drove him to seek work in another line. Finally his uncle agreed to set him up in business . . . but selling coal. So artistic Novick became a coal dealer with offices and merchandise in the basement of an old building.

While the coal business languished over a three year period, its proprietor by meager living managed to save money enough to send for his brother and to purchase materials to make samples of his work. He learned that brass work so popular in Russia was outmoded by silver work in America.

In 1907, leaving his brother with the coal business, Novick packed his samples and moved to Chicago. Here he found his work was not wanted by dealers who could purchase machine made items at half the price. As a last resort he began selling his samples to earn eating money. Life looked very black indeed.

Establishes Own Business

Once again he was set up in business, and this time in his own line. His first shop was at 22d st. and Michigan av. He soon acquired a regular clientele. He was able to send for, and marry, the girl he had met while in New York who, like himself, but recently had arrived in America. For a time he even had two or three men working with him.

Later the Novicks moved to their present location where they have been 32 years.

CLUSTERS TO AIR MEDAL WON BY 5 OF SOUTH SIDE

Set Combat Records Against Nazis

A fifth oak leaf cluster to the air medal and a Presidential unit citation have been awarded Capt. De Wayne J. Maxwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Maxwell, 9215 Kingston av., 8th air force Mustang fighter pilot based in England.

Holder of the distinguished flying cross, he received the additional cluster for meritorious achievement during sustained combat operations against the enemy. The citation was awarded for a specific bomber escort mission to Brunswick, Germany, during which his group destroyed 27 enemy aircraft, probably destroyed two more, and damaged seven others against numerically superior odds.

Bags Two Planes in Air

Capt. Maxwell is credited with two enemy planes destroyed in the air. He was one of five south side air men who have been awarded additional clusters to the air medal recently.

The fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth clusters were awarded 1st Lt. Warren H. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper H. Williams, 1166 E. 61st st. He flies a Mustang fighter in the 8th air force based in England, the first group to destroy 700 Nazi planes. He also holds the distinguished flying cross.

Second Lt. Herbert J. Winter, 7352 Constance av., navigator of an 8th air force Flying Fortress based in England, has been awarded a fifth cluster. Overseas since last August, he has participated in 35 attacks. A graduate of Hyde Park High school and a former student at the Illinois Institute of Technology, he enlisted March 26, 1943.

Wins Four Clusters

Fourth clusters have been awarded 1st Lt. William T. Newport, 7059 Paxton av., and 1st Lt. Joseph C. Arzbecker, 8146 Oglesby av.

Bombardier on an 8th air force Liberator bomber based in England, Lt. Newport has completed 35 missions. On one flight two engines were knocked out and his plane was forced to drop out of formation and return by itself. On another mission one engine was knocked out and the bomber was forced to attack an alternate target. On neither mission were any of the crew injured.

Hyde Park Graduate

Lt. Newport was graduated from Hyde Park High school and attended Northwestern university. He was employed by the Chicago Federal Reserve bank when he enlisted Nov. 23, 1942.

Lt. Arzbecker is the pilot of an 8th air force Flying Fortress based in England. He has participated in attacks against Nazi war industries and flown in support of ground forces fighting in Germany. The son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Arzbecker of the Oglesby av. address, he was in the advertising department of a cigar firm prior to joining the army in May, 1941.

LITHS TO PLEAD FOR UPHOLDING OF SOVEREIGNTY

An appeal to the President, secretary of state, and members of the United States delegation to the San Francisco conference that the cause of small nations, especially that of Lithuania, be upheld as outlined in the Atlantic charter, will be read at the Lithuanian Chamber of Commerce annual banquet at 7 p. m. today at Darius-Gerenas Legion hall, 4416 S. Western av. The appeal will be signed by Municipal Judge Zuris, honorary president; Alexander G. Kumskis, president, and Dr. Kazimier Drangelis, secretary.

Cong. Kelly [3d] will speak on "Small Nations — Life or Death." Dr. Peter Dauzvardis, Lithuanian consul, has been invited. John Pachankis and Stanley Balzekas are co-chairmen of the banquet.

Englewood Club Leader Named 3d District Head

Mrs. Fred Bauchhenss, 8136 Evans av., recently was elected president of the 3d district women's clubs to succeed Mrs. Harold F. Wood, 10502 Seeley av. Mrs. Bauchhenss is retiring president of the Englewood Woman's club. Other new district officers recently elected are Mrs. George Dutton, 11100 Bell av., vice president, and Mrs. Charles R. Tanlyn, Palos Park, recording secretary.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, April 9

Keep the pot plants well watered. The flowering kinds like a sunny window, but some, like the saintpaulia or African violet, palms, ferns, certain begonias, and viney things like the English ivy, philodendron, pothos, asparagus fern, dumb cane [dieffenbachia], need light but not direct sunlight. Watch for insects.

There is yet time to sow many annuals indoors to get fine husky plants for the garden. Do not plant directly in outdoor beds. Place the pots or boxes of young in a not too sunny place for a few days so that the plants harden.

Tuesday, April 10

Garden twine can be made to last longer if it is placed in a solution of alum for a few days. Cucumber seeds can be sown in strawberry boxes or pots and the seedlings transplanted outdoors in late May.

Watch for the cucumber beetle for it eats the leaves. Use about 20 parts gypsum to one part calcium arsenate as a dust to cover the foliage.

Prunings from roses can be cut into pieces a foot long and placed in the ground on a semi-shady spot. They should root in a short time and can be transplanted.

Wednesday, April 11

If early vegetables are well above ground, make another sowing, but do not overplant. To prevent cutworms from chewing most members of the cabbage family and young tomato plants, place a collar 1½ inches deep and 1½ inches above the ground around them.

Be sure to grow only disease resistant tomato plants. Varieties like marglobe are of this type. To prevent blossom end rot on tomatoes keep the plants well watered during dry periods.

Thursday, April 12

Newer annuals are much in demand. Here are a few introduced within the last few years which grow well: Pearly gates morning glory, a beautiful white sort, cleome pink queen, phlox salmon glory; marigold yellow supreme, zinnia fantasy star dust, marigold limelight, and cornflower jubilee.

Friday, April 13

Keep the immediate area around newly planted trees and shrubs free from weeds. It is best to cultivate the soil, keeping it stirred, and the plants watered whenever necessary. A mulch will keep moisture in the soil over a considerable period; the soil can be watered thru the mulch.

Gardeners wishing a few choice flowers can fill a fair sized coldframe with fragrant violets. They will stand in the frame over winter and furnish innumerable flowers in spring time.

Saturday, April 14

Few plants will stand much sand but the following are suggested: Lobelia, flowering tobacco, pansies, and among the more tender plants, usually grown as pot plants, are begonia semperflorens in variety, fuchsia, and Zanbibar balsam.

The iris in variety, the sedum spectabile, columbine, campanula, meadow rue, hardy aster, garden chrysanthemum, coreopsis, plantain-lily, lily of the valley, and others among the perennials.

The spurge or pachasandra, trailing periwinkle, and lily of the valley are good for planting beneath trees that are barren of grass most of the time.

GROWING PAINS FIND OUTLET IN LAWNDALE CLUB

Boys' World Throbs to Lives of 900

A neighborhood rendezvous for boys which has completely usurped such traditional loitering places as street corners is the Lawndale Boys' club, 2801 S. Ridgeway av. Within its red brick walls are craft shops, game rooms, and gymnasiums, having ample facilities for basketball, boxing, wrestling, movies, and countless individual projects.

More than 900 boys, 6 to 16, belong to the club. The clubhouse stands in the midst of a little residential island surrounded by industrial plants.

Activities are planned largely by the boys themselves. They organize their own sports, their own hobby groups, and govern themselves by election of activity leaders.

Act as Advisory Group

Seven boys have been chosen as council members to act as an advisory group to Richard Downing, club director. They are responsible not only for providing program ideas, but also for seeing that projects are carried thru. They also may act somewhat as a congressional investigative committee, calling in staff members as well as boys when problems arise in various departments.

Among current activities of the council are the organization of bowling and softball teams, a review of boys' club membership requirements, and a community relations campaign designed to acquaint neighborhood residents with club activities.

List Council's Members

Members of the council are James Mockus, 16, 2641 S. Lawndale av., chairman; Nick Mariotti, 14, 3224 S. Avers av.; Vincent Kasprzak, 13, 2743 S. St. Louis av.; Richard Fialka, 17, 2445 S. Avers av.; Tom Mracek, 15, 2845 S. Komensky av.; Albert Panek, 16, 2849 S. Karlov av., and Joe Vizek Jr., 2846 S. Central Park av.

Maintenance of club equipment largely is handled by the boys. They build their own gym bleachers and cabinets for sports equipment. They also do their own painting and decorating thruout the building. The gym, most popular spot in the clubhouse, takes a terrific beating day in and day out, and consequently has to undergo a paint job at least three times a year. Recently, members of the basketball team gave up their chance to go to winter camp in order to stay and paint the gym.

Look Out! Commando

In organizing their sports program, the boys promote new activities on their own initiative. A commando course, for instance, was developed last month at the request of a group of lads who quickly got up two classes with 50 members in each. Twice a week the boys go thru commando techniques of climbing ropes, crawling under pseudo barbed wire, walking on beams, and traversing overhand ladders.

Mass activities, such as large gym classes that go thru stereotyped calisthenics, never are sponsored by the club. The emphasis, instead, is always on the individual boy and his relationship to a group—the improvement of a boy individually.

Pursue Own Interests

Club members are encouraged to follow their own inclinations as to hobby or sport. They are left free to participate in any activity in which their interest lies. If a boy, upon becoming a member, decides just to sit and watch other boys play, he is free to do so.

But the chances are he soon will be eagerly participating in some hobby that catches his fancy, or in some craft he always has wanted to learn but never had the chance to.

In shop work, a boy is encouraged to bring his own ideas and patterns of what he would like to make. Much interest prevails in aeronautics, and the youngsters have made squadron after squadron of B-24s, B-25s, Corsairs, Spitfires, and other war planes.

Have 100 Piece Band

Musically inclined boys find an outlet for their interest in the club's 100 piece band, which practices regularly in the auditorium. Directed by John Sovinec, the band has won first honors at the Chicago Music Festival of THE TRIBUNE for five successive years.

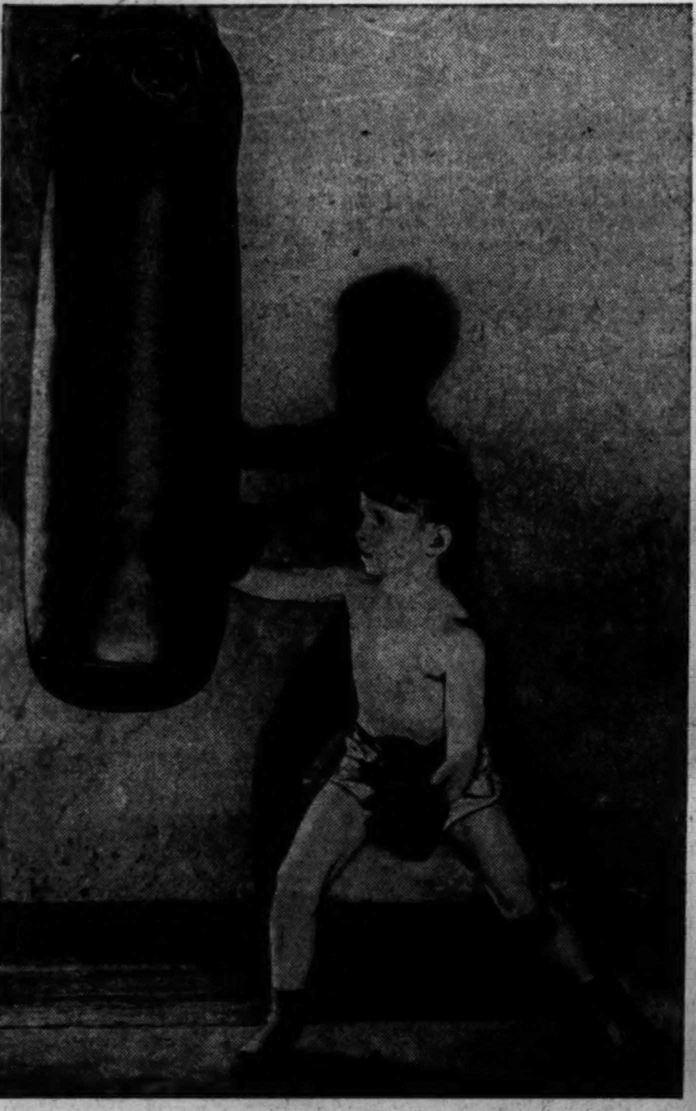
The Lawndale club is one of seven branch organizations sponsored by Chicago Boys Clubs, Inc. Built in congested areas of the city, the clubs have graduated approximately half a million lads from boyhood to mandhood during the last 45 years.

Staff members of the Lawndale club, in addition to Downing are Harold Kopta, games room leader and Scoutmaster; L. C. Noveroske, woodshop instructor; Edward Pecina, maintenance; George C. Richter, athletic director; Eleanor Rokos, librarian and club secretary; O. C. Schroeder, crafts instructor; John Sovinec, music director, and Donald Tetrey, games room leader.

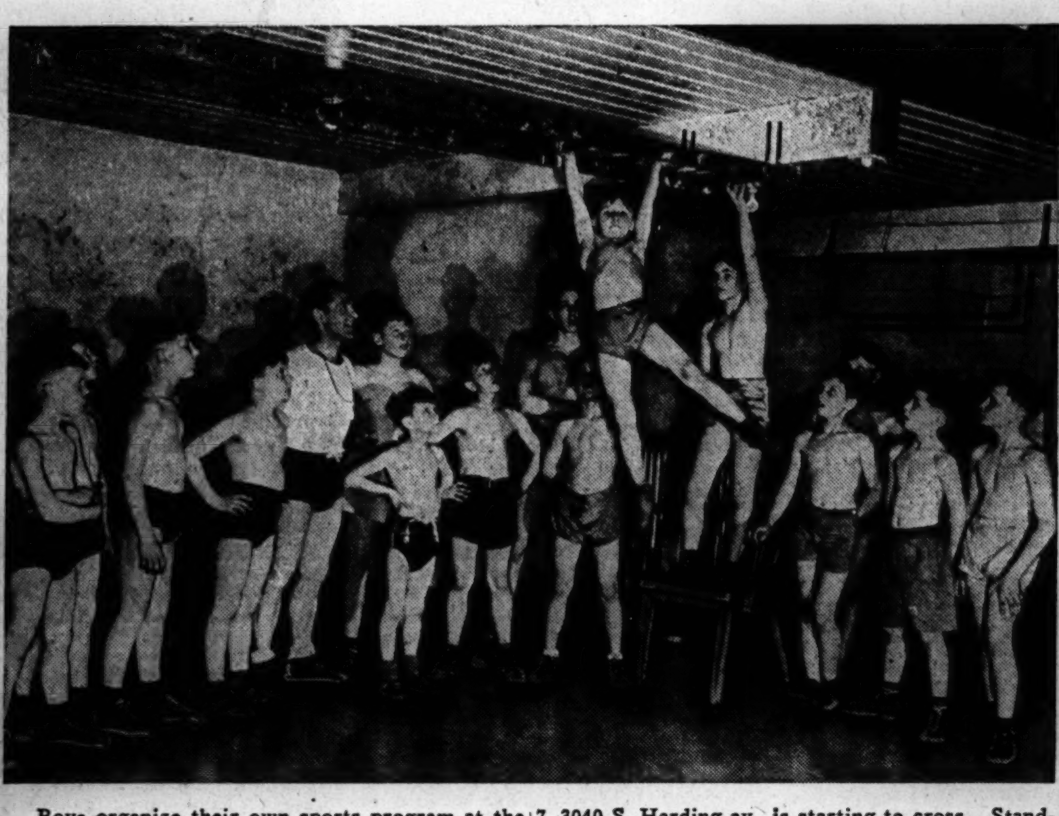
Three Suburbs to Elect School Board Saturday

Members of the Morton High school board, district 201, will be elected Saturday by Berwyn, Cicero and Stickney voters. Candidates are Richard Hoffman, incumbent president, Edward Kanta, and Joseph Mrizek. Because of a traditional agreement that Berwyn and Cicero candidates file at alternate elections, George Nemec, Berwyn, has withdrawn his candidacy.

Small but Mighty Men Throng Lawndale Boys Club



A small but mighty boxer is Paul Kroushl, 8, 3147 S. Millard av. He is testing his punching prowess in the gymnasium of the Lawndale Boys' club, 2801 S. Ridgeway av., which is a favorite meeting place for more than 900 lads from 6 to 16. Altho the training bag weighs 40 pounds and Paul 42, he rips into it like a veteran boxer.



Boys organize their own sports program at the Lawndale club. Recently they asked for a Commando course, and now two classes of 50 members each are in full swing. First phase of the obstacle course is the overhand ladder which Jack Kusera, 7, 3040 S. Harding av., is starting to cross. Standing on a chair waiting his turn is Donald Zenor, 11, 2827 S. Avers av. George Richter, athletics director is fifth from the left in the group of watchers.

Small craftsmen at work in the leather shop (left to right) are Allen Muelling, 9, 2616 S. Crawford av.; Dale Novak, 9, 3019 S. St. Louis av., and Ray Frankovich, 10, 3011 S. Kostner av. O. E. Schroeder, crafts instructor, is showing Dale how to fasten sides of a pencil case with leather lacings. Belts, billfolds, ration book cases, and sandals are among the articles made by the boys.

Requiring deft footwork to negotiate are football boxes, part of the obstacle series in the Commando course. Making their way gingerly down the runway are John Dickshinski (left), 8, 2738 S. Trumbull av., and John Blaha, 12, 2734 S. Avers av. The boxes, frequently used in training football players, strengthen leg muscles and develop knee action.

Forty boys can be accommodated at a time in the club's woodworking shop. Putting the final coat of shellac on an end table is Ronald Desantis, 8, 3258 S. Hamlin av. Watching is Joseph Bejsovec, 8, 3037 S. Central Park av. Directly behind Joseph is August Novotny, 12, 3006 S. Springfield av., working at a lathe. At right, Richard Blaha, 10, 2734 S. Avers av., is operating the jigsaw.

W. SIDE AIDMAN HELPS DELIVER BABY IN FRANCE

Another Wins Praise on Iwo Jima

Medical emergencies on two war fronts—the birth of a baby in France and a battle casualty on Iwo Jima—brought prompt service by Chicago men in the enlisted medical corps.

In France, Sgt. Ira E. Schlintz of 4705 Maypole av. and his buddy, Pvt. Earl C. Constanzer of Telford, Pa., claim to be the first medics to act as a team of aids to a midwife.

The soldiers and a midwife delivered an Alsatian baby before the arrival of a medical officer, who commended them later for their efficiency.

Serves in 7th Army

Sgt. Schlintz is the son of Mrs. Tena Schlintz. He joined the 36th division of the 7th army in May.

James W. Allen, hospital apprentice 1st class, performed an emergency amputation on a wounded marine tank driver on Iwo Jima. Seeing an enemy anti-tank gun make a direct hit on the tank, Allen ran to the scene and helped extricate the crew members, one of whom had a badly crushed arm.

Praised by Physician

Allen amputated the arm despite heavy fire, and during the operation a Jap shell exploded nearby, riddling his medical kit. A navy physician later termed the amputation a "professional job."

Allen also treated 50 other wounded marines in the first nine days of the battle for Iwo Jima. His home is at 438 S. Central Park av.

OAK PARK NAVIGATOR DROPS IN ON RUSSIA, COMES UP WITH VODKA

A direct flak hit on the gasoline tank of his B-24 led to an eventful visit behind Russian lines for Lt. William T. Brady of Oak Park, navigator stationed in Italy. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Allyn W. Brady, 540 Gunderson st., Oak Park.

Lt. W. T. Brady

The plane became a flying bomb when it was struck during a bomb run on Vienna railroad yards, and the pilot, Lt. William S. Taylor of Chester, Pa., flew toward Romania when return to his base became impossible. Crew members threw out ammunition and machine guns in order to gain speed, and then bailed out past the Russian lines.

Peasants guided the flyers to Russian army headquarters, where they were offered steak, chicken, and vodka, quartered in the best hotel rooms available, and given box seat tickets to a Hungarian operetta. Within a few days they were returned to their base. They successfully paid a visit to Vienna later.

Lt. Brady has been awarded the air medal and the distinguished unit badge with two oak leaf clusters.

PLAN VETERANS CLUBHOUSE FOR WEST SIDE MEN

Austin, Garfield Park to Seek $50,000

Plans for a campaign in the Austin and Garfield park communities to raise funds for a veterans' club as a World War II. memorial have been announced by Dr. W. M. Phon, commander of the Austin post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, under whose sponsorship the campaign is being organized.

The drive will start next Sunday. It is hoped that $50,000 will be raised during the two weeks' intensive campaign thruout the communities.

War I. Vets Urge Plan

Decision to provide a gathering place for veterans rather than to erect a monument or plaque as a community memorial was reached under the influence of those who served in the first World war. A great need of returning service men, they urged, will be a retreat of their own where they can relax and enjoy wholesome recreation and the companionship of their buddies.

Altho no site has been chosen, plans for the proposed clubhouse call for recreation rooms, showers, lounge, and library. There will also be a gymnasium and large auditorium, which will be made available for community gatherings.

Plaque to List War Dead

Names of Austin and Garfield park men and women who have entered service during the present war will be inscribed in the memorial room, and a plaque, to be set in the main entrance, will carry the names of those who have given their lives in combat.

The Madison Crawford National bank has been selected as the depository for the Austin-Garfield War Memorial fund. Business and civic leaders will lead the drive in both communities.

University Women

The Oak Park-River Forest branch of the American Association of University Women will have their spring luncheon at 1 p. m. Wednesday at the Carleton hotel in Oak Park. Mrs. Emma Boyd will read Modern Irish poetry.

Dog a Veteran of Shell Fire and 3 Tongues

BY AGNES LYNCH

Altho he makes no pretensions of being a quiz canine, Kraut, a dachshund belonging to Capt. Robert Moore, Villa Springs, understands three languages—Italian, German, and English. Kraut, home on leave with his master, joined the American forces almost two years ago in North Africa.

Capt. Moore's jeep driver found him running around after German and Italian prisoners at Mateur, Tunisia, in May, 1943. When the driver had an accident he asked Capt. Moore to look after the dog. Moore agreed to do so—and ever since the dog has been looking after him.

"Kraut used to sleep on my feet every night," Capt. Moore said. "He served a double purpose—kept my feet warm and gave me a feeling of security while I was sleeping. Kraut is right on the beam as a watch dog, and no one could come near the cot while he was there."

Was "Best" in Italian

At first Kraut responded only to Italian and the few phrases of German that some of the boys knew. In a remarkably short time, tho, he had picked up a working knowledge of English and is now completely familiar with the language.

"Kraut is a born mixer," Capt. Moore said recently. Kraut, sitting on the floor beside him, pricked up his ears and beamed, thumping his tail on the floor to show agreement with this analysis of his character. "He has an unerring ability to team up with the right people," says the captain, "and the first ones he gets acquainted with in any new outfit are the mess sergeants."

From Mateur Kraut traveled with Capt. Moore to Rabat, near Casablanca, then back to Oran, Algeria. From there he went to Naples, saw action at the Anzio beachhead, proceeded to Florence, and eventually to southern France.

Never Late for Chow

"No matter where we were my bedroll was home to Kraut," says the captain. "It was hearth and fireside and everything else. When I'd unroll it Kraut would sniff at it a bit, and might even curl up at the foot of it just to get the feel of it. Then he'd start off on one of his forays, investigating the countryside. But he'd always be back in time for his rations."

With his tank company of the 1st armored division Capt. Moore advanced toward the Rhine country and Kraut was with him all the way. They got as far as Strasbourg. But by that time Kraut was thoroly Americanized and maintained an aloof attitude toward his native country.

"Kraut has only one fault," says Capt. Moore. "He loves the sound of shellfire. If I didn't keep an eye on him he'd be in there challenging the enemy guns himself."

Wears Purple Heart

After 33 months overseas Capt. Moore returned to the United States March 9. "As the Italians say, it's 'multi bona' to get back," he declares. On his service ribbon he wears battle stars for participation in five major campaigns. He also has been awarded the Purple Heart for wounds received in combat in southern France last October.

"Kraut proved himself a good sailor on the way home," Capt. Moore says. "He wasn't seasick at all. Once, tho, he was nearly washed overboard. We hit some stormy weather and a huge wave washed over the bow where Kraut was standing. If he hadn't been tied he'd have been swept into the sea."

Capt. Moore is spending his 21 day leave with his wife and son, Donald, 2½, at their Villa Park home. His next stop will be the reassignment center at Miami Beach, Fla. Because of army regulations he will be unable to take his dog with him, so Kraut will remain with the captain's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Latus, 1160 S. Oak Park av., Oak Park.

Back in Civilian Groove

"Kraut already has made a good adjustment to civilian life," declares his master. "The only trouble is that we can't give him as much meat as he'd like to have. And he has a very strong suspicion of milk. During all the time we were in Europe he never got to taste it. The flavor is still too strange for him to relish it."

Bones, however, at which Kraut gnaws happily, have the same flavor in any country. But sometimes, as he thriftily buries his bones on the lawn of his new suburban home, he may pause and sniff the air a little uneasily. No doubt he is remembering the bones he has buried half way around the globe and will never have a chance to unearth—in Tunisia and Algiers, and in Strasbourg, fronting on the Rhine.

HOME SERVICE CORPS TO OPEN CLASS APRIL 17

Fifty women interested in counseling service men and their families and assisting with other war duties will be admitted to a home service volunteers class opening April 17 at 616 S. Michigan av., according to Mrs. Edwin Eisendrath, home service corps chairman. Applications may be made this week.

The west suburban office of the corps is in the Oak Park-River Forest branch headquarters, 128 S. Marion st., Oak Park, where volunteer workers handled 120 cases during March. At the midcity office, 1606 W. Adams st., and the central office, 7,181 cases were given attention.

Women who are between the ages of 22 and 60 and are American citizens are eligible. Approximately 37,000 cases, ranging from emergency furlough verifications to appeals for family budget aid, are brought to the seven home service offices monthly.

AUSTIN CHURCH STARTS GOLDEN JUBILEE TODAY

Lutherans to Hold 3 Week Festival

Golden jubilee services, beginning this morning and continuing thru April 22, will mark the 50th anniversary of the founding of Austin Messiah Lutheran church, Iowa and Waller sts. A former Messiah pastor, Dr. C. A. Lund of Gresham, Ore., president of Columbia Lutheran conference, will preach at the 10:45 a. m. worship service today. At 7:45 p. m., Harry Sauliner, superintendent of the Pacific Garden mission, will speak at the young people's service.

Service men's night, sponsored by the Messiah Brotherhood, will be held Wednesday. Warner Sallman, artist noted for his religious paintings, will speak.

College President to Speak

Four other services will be held during the jubilee. Friday night the Rev. T. L. Rydbeck, Messiah church, Marquette, Mich., will address the congregation. Next Sunday Dr. Conrad Bergendoff, president of Augustana college, Rock Island, Ill., will speak at the morning ceremonies, and the Rev. J. Vincent Nordgren, director of parish education of the Augustana synod, will preach at 4 p. m.

Mrs. George Anderson, Rock Island, former missionary to Africa, will speak at 8 p. m. April 18. On April 22 the Rev. Nels Lundgren, pastor of Austin Messiah church, will give the final sermon of the jubilee. An anniversary concert, under direction of Esther Arneson Dyrness, will be held in the evening.

Had Services in 1880

Altho the church was not formally organized until 1895, pastors as early as 1880 made occasional visits to the small and scattered Swedish colony in Austin. By 1894 semiweekly services were being held at the Norwegian Lutheran church of Moreland. At this church on April 19, 1895, 23 charter members organized the Swedish Evangelical Lutheran Messiah church.

Altho none of the charter members are now living, the following, who still reside in Austin, became members before 1898: Mrs. Gotthard Swanson, Mrs. Theodore Anderson, Mrs. Emil Carlson, August Sandberg, and Mrs. Charles Hallberg.

Build Church in 1895.

The first church, built at Huron st. and Lockwood av., was dedicated in December, 1895. At the first annual meeting the congregation numbered 46 adults and 26 children.

To serve the entire membership more effectively, the congregation was divided in 1898 into two parishes. The eastern group became St. Paul's and the western group retained the name Messiah.

On the present site a new Messiah church was dedicated in 1899. With the passage of years, a steadily increasing congregation necessitated a new structure. The present building was dedicated in 1934.

Head Arrangements

Members of the steering committee in charge of arrangements for the jubilee program are C. Walter Wolf, Forest Park, chairman; J. E. Bergquist, 1018 N. Harvey av., Oak Park; Mrs. J. B. Heid, 302 Washington blvd., Oak Park; Miss Lois Hendrickson, 1148 N. Mayfield av.; Miss Lillian Larson, 1900 W. Polk st.; Mrs. P. L. Larson, 205 Superior av., Oak Park; M. N. Ranseen, 5961 W. Erie st., and Walter S. Swanson, 5225 N. Mason av.

HEROISM OF 33 W. SIDE FLYERS WINS MEDALS

Describe Airmen's Feats in Citations

Heroism of 33 west side airmen has been rewarded recently with decorations of the army air forces.

Among those who have received the distinguished flying cross for extraordinary achievement against the enemy are two Berwyn men, Lt. Louis J. Pernicka, 2410 S. Clarence ave., and Capt. Arthur T. VanCura, 1806 East av.

Lt. Pernicka, who also holds the air medal with three oak leaf clusters, was awarded the D. F. C. for leading a flight of P-47s in an attack on a railroad yard at Monza, Italy. He has flown 82 missions since he went overseas last June 5. Capt. VanCura was cited for superior leadership in a bombing mission directed against enemy installations in Maribor, Yugoslavia. He has flown 50 missions, and has received the air medal with two clusters.

Sgt. Frank D. Valancius, 3422 S. Morgan st., was awarded the D. F. C. for his service as tail gunner during 40 missions against Jap bases in the central and western Pacific. The same award has been received by Corp. Robert W. Ager, 1316 Washington blvd., radio operator in a troop carrier squadron. Holder of the air medal with one oak leaf cluster, he has been in the India-Burma theater four months.

Lands Disabled Crafts

For twice landing disabled aircraft to save the lives of crew members, Lt. Joseph J. Alberti, 307 N. Kilbourn av., has received the D. F. C. Co-pilot on a C-47 with the troop carrier forces, he also wears the air medal and distinguished unit badge. Recently he participated in supplying the 101st air borne division trapped in the Bastogne pocket.

Lt. Richard M. Gustafson, 423 N. Waiola av., La Grange, received the award for his part as lead bombardier on a mission against the locomotive depot at Castelfranco, Italy. Veteran of 35 missions, he wears the air medal with three clusters.

Wins Medal in Texas

Flights in the North African and Mediterranean theaters won the D. F. C. for Lt. George B. DeMars, 1253 S. Kedvale av., navigator in the 15th air force. The award was made at Ellington field, Tex., where Lt. DeMars is attending graduate navigation school. Capt. Raymond D. Gunn, 212 N. Ridgeland av., Oak Park, received the award for making a second bombing run over Cherbourg to destroy his target, despite battle smoke, haze, and heavy flak fire. He also holds the air medal with two silver oak leaf clusters.

Another Oak Park man recently decorated is Lt. Bernard B. Gawne, 535 S. Lyman av., squadron bombardier, who received the D. F. C. in Italy. He also holds the air medal with one cluster, and is a member of a bomber group cited for an attack on the Regensburg-Prufening aircraft factory.

They Win Clusters

Two west side service men have received clusters to the distinguished flying cross. The first oak leaf cluster recently was awarded Lt. Michael E. Turek, 2131 S. Oak Park av., Berwyn, in the India-Burma theater. Pilot with a troop carrier squadron, he is credited with 140 missions and 590 hours of combat flying.

Maj. Roderick M. Stewart, 929 Summit st., Downers Grove, has received a second cluster for extraordinary achievement while leading bombing attacks on German military and industrial installations. He has flown more than 60 combat missions in the Pacific and European zones, and wears the silver star and an air medal with two clusters.

150 Hours of Flight

The air medal, for meritorious achievement in flight, has been awarded other Chicago flyers. Sgt. Raymond J. Clarke, 201 S. Whipple st., received the medal in Nashville, Tenn., for 150 hours of operational flight in transport aircraft over the Assam-China air routes. At a Mediterranean bomber base, Sgt. James J. McNichols, 1106 N. Mayfield av., received the same award for his service in missions in southern Europe, as engineer-gunner on a B-24.

Also a B-24 crew member, Lt. Leo L. Wacker, 3303 W. 15th st., a bombardier, received the air medal at a bomber base in Italy. He has been in service since Oct. 9, 1942. Other Liberator crew members who have recently been given this award are Lt. Anthony F. De Rose, 3424 Lexington st., Sgt. William Bingham, 2842 Pershing rd., and Flight Officer Karl E. Irvin Jr., 609 Spring rd., Elmhurst.

Bombs Southern Europe

Lt. De Rose received both the medal and one bronze cluster for his part in missions in southern Europe. He has seen action over Italy, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Poland, and Yugoslavia. Sgt. Bingham is radio operator and waist gunner with a bomber crew now in Italy. Flight Officer Irvin is with a bombardment unit dubbed the Long Rangers which has dealt blows at Rabaul, Truk, Yap, Palau, Balikpapan, and Borneo.

Seven of the men who have received the air medal are in Flying Fortress crews.

Cite Cicero Sergeant

Sgt. Robert D. Kopecky, 3204 53d av., Cicero, an aerial gunner, received the award for his conduct during bombing attacks on Nazi targets. Other air medal winners on B-17 crews in the 8th air force are Sgt. Richard A. Greete, 533 Le Claire av., engineer and top turret gunner; Sgt. Edward A. Hrack, 2831 Maple st., Berwyn, tail gunner, and Sgt. Fred J. Vecchione, 1358 S. Fairfield av., top turret gunner.

With the 15th air force in Italy are Sgt. John A. Pjenta, 2523 Eleanor st., ball turret gunner; Sgt. Edwin G. Pfursich Jr., 669 Riford rd., Glen Ellyn, tail gunner, and Sgt. Alexander Caripides, 760 S. Kedzie av., aerial engineer. All three received the air medal for their achievements in B-17 crews.

Others Win D. F. C

Others who recently have received the air medal are Lt. Elroy A. Hodoval, 5320 23d st., Cicero, a pilot in the Tiger Stripe Marauder group of the 9th air force; Lt. Charles D. Brook, 617 N. Pine av., who has completed more than 100 hours of flight over enemy held territory in the India-Burma theater; Sgt. William S. Throckmorton, 5917 West End av., aerial gunner with a night fighter group in the Mediterranean area, and Lt. Warren K. Buist, 1916 S. 2d av., Maywood, pilot of a P-38 in a unit which has spearheaded advances of allied ground forces against the Nazis.

Oak leaf clusters to the air medal for further achievement have been awarded five men. They are Sgt. William R. Goetz, 2126 W. 23d st., ball turret gunner on a B-17 with the 8th air force, first cluster; Sgt. Morris P. Silverstein, 1230 S. Central Park av., engineer and top turret gunner, 8th air force, second cluster; Sgt. Robert A. Rood, 5954 Lake st., B-17 waist gunner in the European theater, third cluster; Lt. Elmer Hayes, 3453 Jackson blvd., P-51 pilot flying from a base in Belgium, fourth cluster, and Sgt. Abraham I. Cohen, 3223 Douglas blvd., radio operator and gunner who has participated in 35 bombing attacks on German targets, fifth cluster.

Obeys Commands in 3 Languages

A dog that understands three languages, Italian, German, and English, is the dachshund, Kraut. Capt. Robert Moore of Villa Park found Kraut at Mateur, Tunisia, in May, 1943. Responding at first only to Italian and German, Kraut rapidly picked up a working knowledge of English. With Capt. Moore he took part in five major campaigns, advancing as far as Strasbourg. Thoroly "Americanized" by his association with allied troops, he showed no reaction at the sight of his native land.

Six Win Awards

Maj. R. M. Stewart. Capt. A. T. VanCura.
Sgt. F. D. Valancius. Lt. R. M. Gustafson.
Raymond D. Gunn. Raymond Clarke.

With 27 other west side service men, these six flyers recently received military awards for outstanding conduct overseas.

WEST SUBURBAN YOUNG PIANISTS WILL VIE TODAY

Seventy pianists of grammar school and high school age will compete today in the third annual contest sponsored by the Downers Grove Music club. Winners will be presented April 22 in a recital at Downers Grove High school.

Contest judges will be Miss Hazel Troegere and Miss Regina Hitchcock, La Grange, Mrs. Dorothy Johnson, Highland Park, and Mrs. Grace Fredenhagen, Naperville. All are music school graduates and have been active in suburban music activities.

Members of the committee in charge are Mrs. R. A. Kay, Mrs. E. G. Geissert, and Mrs. J. A. Keller. Mrs. Y. P. Haggarty is president of the club.

Post-War Forum

"American Post-War Periods—Record and Prospects" will be reviewed by a community group at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the Grand Crossing-Chatham Y. M. C. A.

MOTHER EDITS NEWSPAPER FOR SON AND BUDDIES

When Mrs. Annette Victorin answers the telephone in her Berwyn home and hears the inquiry, "Have you heard . . ." she knows the news to be relayed is not for her alone. Mrs. Victorin, in turn, is to send the information on to service men scattered thruout the world, and to their friends and parents from California to New York.

As editor of the mimeographed Victorin Flyer, a chatty newspaper addressed to her son overseas and his buddies, tiny, 105 pound Mrs. Victorin makes a unique and valuable contribution to the war. The newspaper has been published once or twice each month for two and a half years. The editor's husband, James Victorin Sr., is chief printer. The Victorins have a mimeograph in their home, and Mrs. Victorin cuts all the stencils.

Run Off 150 Copies

At least 150 copies are made of each issue, of which 110 go to service men. Among the Flyer's readers are many persons whom Mrs. Victorin has never seen—service men who have seen friends' copies and have asked to be added to the mailing list, and even parents of these boys, who have heard of the Flyer thru letters.

Originally the Flyer was intended for the group of 16 boys for whom there was perpetual open house at the Victorin home while Jimmy Victorin was a student at Morton High school and junior college. In a large game room in the basement the youths rehearsed their orchestra and did their home work. They came to regard Mrs. Victorin as mother to all.

Her Son in Europe

Jimmy is now Sgt. James R. Victorin Jr., 21, and in combat in Europe, but memories of those school days flavor the entire publication. "I miss the way Johnny leaned on the doorbell and ran into Jimmy's room and PULLED HIM OUT OF BED!" Mrs. Victorin wrote in a recent issue. "And Milton's drumming down in the rumpus room. [Remember the way you boys would ask me if you were getting BETTER?]."

Contents of the Flyer range from combat zone news—"Our own Lt. Richard E. Polak has been awarded a second oak leaf cluster"—and home front news—"Spoke to Don's Mom, who feels fine"—to a Chuckle department, original poems, and odds and ends of advice.

The line, "BOYS! Remember to write to your Mother, Wife, Sweetheart," is tucked at the bottom of one page. At the end of one issue there was a note: "Your trips across the sea, your flights thru the fluffy clouds, your journeys under the oceans. . . . These are all but interludes. The fresh-oven apple pies will be here, the potato chips, the pianos will be opened up again, the baseball bats pulled out of the clothes closets."

Visitors from many states have stopped at the Victorin home to tell Mrs. Victorin how much they have enjoyed copies of the Flyer sent to them by sons overseas, and fan mail to the Flyer's editor keeps the Victorin mail box full. One day recently 22 postage-free letters arrived.

Woman Marine on List

Not only Mrs. Victorin, but persons mentioned in her columns have made new friends thru the Flyer. Jimmy's cousin, Marine Pvt. Lillian Cecrle of Hopp, Mont., one of the few service women on the mailing list, receives letters at her Norfolk, Va., base from fighters over the world who found her address in the paper.

Meet on Invasion Transport

Schoolmates at Harrison Technical High school, three service men were reunited aboard an invasion transport headed for Iwo Jima. They are (left to right): John J. Deszcz, quartermaster 3d class, 1736 W. 33d pl.; Pvt. James J. Szalkowski, 1808 S. Troy st., and Charles J. O'Brien, seaman 1st class, 3552 S. Rockwell st. Deszcz and O'Brien are coast guardsmen and Szalkowski is with the marines.

otal, Sgt. Milton F. Rohlf, Berwyn, has received the bronze star. He was president of the 1941 class at Morton High school where he participated in athletics, and he is a former Northwestern university student. He went overseas in February, 1944.

Pvt. Leo J. Stevens, 3128 W. 15th st., was wounded in action March 17 in Germany. He went overseas more than two years ago. In Italy recently, he routed a German patrol with hand grenades from his platoon's outpost on the 5th army front.

Pvt. L. J. Stevens.

Lt. Anthony J. LaTorra, 716 Dekoven st., wrote that he "felt like a walking Blarney stone" on the day he met relatives in a small village in the mountains of Italy. He went overseas in November, 1942, as radio officer of one of the first signal companies in the Mediterranean theater, and is now signal supply officer of an advanced service group.

Lt. Albert W. Fowler, 4927 Congress st., is to return to this country soon, after flying 43 combat missions as an A-20 pilot. He went overseas in September, 1943, and has bombed targets in Dutch New Guinea, the Philippines, and other Pacific areas.

Many marines sought spiritual guidance before entering the battle of Iwo Jima, according to Lt. Lawrence Calkin, 3445 Congress st., marine chaplain. Chaplain Calkin gained his first battle experience on the Pacific island. He was ordained in 1935, and has two brothers, Philip and Thomas, studying for the order at Servite seminary, Hillside, Ill.

A distinguished service cross for extraordinary heroism has been awarded posthumously for Pvt. Edward J. Sharkey, 1513 W. 19th st. According to the citation, he defied close range German machine gunfire to destroy an enemy emplacement in France that threatened comrades. He was killed in subsequent action.

George B. Petrakis, 2726 W. Adams st., has received a battlefield commission as the result of leadership displayed during the Palau operations. He was inducted into the army June 19, 1942, and was a first sergeant prior to his commissioning.

Pvt. John R. Kaczmarek, 2308 W. 22d pl., helped knock out two Jap tanks and destroy a number of pillboxes on Iwo Jima while serving as an assistant bazooka man. He participated in the capture of Motoyama air field No. 1 on the first day of the invasion.

Lt. Col. A. B. Juell, 619 Gunderson av., Oak Park, will return to this country from Panama to attend the command and general staff school at Fort Leavenworth, Kas. Col. Juell is commandant of the coast artillery command training center in Panama, where he has been stationed since Aug. 10, 1942.

When Mrs. Russel Moug, 4000 Taylor st., opened the Sunday rotogravure section of THE TRIBUNE recently she was surprised to see a picture which she tentatively identified as that of her son, Pvt. Jack Moug, in a group photo captioned, "Americans disarm German bazooka operators captured in battle of Belgian bulge."

Pvt. Jack Moug.

Names of the Yanks were not given, so Mrs. Moug wrote to her son, asking if it were he and a companion photographed holding two captured Nazis at guns point while a comrade relieved the prisoners of their weapons.

Last week she received a letter from Jack stating he was the soldier in the left of the picture. The captured Germans had been routed from a haystack where they had manned a bazooka. At the time Jack was taking part in the allied drive to Bastogne to relieve American troops trapped by the German breakthru in Belgium and Luxemburg.

Since the picture was taken Jack, who is serving with the 9th army, has been in Holland and is now fighting on German soil. He has been overseas a year.

A former student of Crane High school, he entered the army April 6, 1942, when he was 18. His brother, Harold, naval motor machinist mate 2d class, is serving aboard a submarine tender in the Pacific. The brothers have not seen each other for two years.

DU PAGE CLUBS TO HEAR REVIEW OF YEAR FRIDAY

Austin Women Will Hold American Indian Day

The Du Page County Federation of Women's Clubs will meet Friday in Masonic temple, Elmhurst. The board meeting at 10:30 a. m. will be followed by a business meeting at which reports will be given by club presidents on outstanding events of the club year.

At the afternoon session Martha Scull, mezzo soprano, will sing. There also will be a round table discussion on "The Importance of National Educational Legislation." Participants will be Dr. Willard C. Jackman, superintendent of Elmhurst schools; Mrs. Ben O. Anderson of York High school, and Rodney Coulson of Hawthorne school. Entries in the art contest sponsored by the federation will be judged at the meeting.

Austin North End Club

American Indian day will be observed by members of the Austin North End Woman's club at 1:30 p. m. Friday in the clubrooms of Faith Presbyterian church, 1001 N. Pine av. Mrs. Edward H. Feddersen, program chairman, will present the chief speaker, John J. Neihardt, director of information of the United States department of the interior.

Western Springs Club

Three travelog films, "Loaded for War," "Grand Canyon of Northern Arizona," and "Carlsbad Cavern," will be presented before the Western Springs Woman's club at 1:30 p. m. Friday in the Congregational church community house. Mrs. C. A. Crawford is program chairman. Miss Jean Henderson will give a program of piano music. The business session will be led by Mrs. R. A. Kreitzer, president. Hostesses will be Mrs. C. A. Thommen, Mrs. A. F. Miller, and Mrs. A. J. Gembick.

Elmhurst Woman's Club

Tomorrow will be art day at the Elmhurst Woman's club. At the morning meeting Jeanette Jenkins will present "Old Glory Speaks." A "Concert in Miniature" will be presented in the afternoon. Entertainers will be Donald J. Gramm, bass-baritone; Lois Gentile, mezzo-soprano; Betsy Ross, ballerina; Esther Ross, narrator, and Madelene Dahlman, accompanist.

Glen Ellyn Club

The Glen Ellyn Woman's club will hold its spring luncheon at 1 p. m. Tuesday in the Methodist church dining hall. Goryl Schumann, character actress, will give readings, and the Amo trio will present musical selections.

Austin Woman's Club

"Mama's Bank Account," a comedy, will be presented before members of the Austin Woman's club at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the Austin Masonic temple, 241 N. Central av. Members of the cast include Mina Pendo, Katherine Green, and Priscilla Weaver of Northwestern university's school of speech. Jackie Lynn, soprano, will sing, and Eileen Bowman, American Conservatory of Music faculty member, will play a piano solo.

New officers are Mrs. Harold F. Scovel, president; Mrs. Carl Anderson, vice president, and Mrs. John Popp, corresponding secretary. Department chairmen are Mrs. Walter Halleman, American citizenship; Mrs. Raymond Shideler, art and literature; Mrs. Elmer T. Oha, press and publicity; Mrs. Russell Tamplin, printing, and Mrs. I. R. Sturges.

Maywood 20th Century

Ruth J. Williams will speak on "Victory Salads" at the Tuesday meeting of the Maywood 20th Century club. Mrs. Emory J. Chronister will be chairman and Mrs. Harry S. Johnson, hostess.

North Oak Park Club

MAYWOOD SEES CLOSE RACE AS 3 TICKETS FILE

Total of 24 Candidates Seek Eight Offices

Voters anticipate a close contest in the Maywood village election April 17 as three complete tickets listing candidates for each of the eight office vacancies have been filed.

Candidates for president are Curt O. Krausser, superintendent of a medical supply firm and former village head, nominated by the Better Government party; Earle K. Broberg, coal company owner and incumbent, representing the Citizens Victory party, and Edward D. Markham, attorney, recently retired from the air forces, for the Progressive party.

War Vets Seek Office.

Four veterans, one of the present war, are included on the Better Government ticket: Solomon Scharf, candidate for clerk, who is now in an army hospital after the loss of a foot in fighting last December on the banks of the Rhine, and August C. Hennig, William J. Kamm, and Carl B. Evans, World War I. fighters, who are candidates for trustees' offices.

Hennig and Kamm are past commanders of American Legion posts, and Evans is past commander of the Military Order of the Purple Heart. Hennig is a Chicago Board of Trade employe and was awarded the Carnegie hero medal last year for rescuing a high school boy from in front of a train. Kamm operates an insurance agency, and Evans is a former assistant superintendent of streets.

Pledges Better Street Care.

Other Better Government candidates are Richard H. Bailey, retired Maywood police chief, for police magistrate, and Mrs. Gertrude Dewar, former Proviso Township High school librarian, and Mrs. Edward B. Vogel, for library directors.

Included in the party's platform are improved garbage disposal and street maintenance, reorganization of the police department, establishment of civil service for all village employes, housing improvement, elimination of railroad crossings, additional paving, general referendums for proposed improvements, and veterans' assistance.

"Honesty in Government" and "Keep County Politicians Out of Village Management" are slogans of the Citizens Victory group, known as Maywood's amateur party because only Broberg, who is now president, and Mrs. Hazel D. Clark, former library director and again a candidate for that position, have held office before. Broberg, according to his backers, has waged a one man crusade during his four years in office against "machine" sponsored activities.

Stress Business Campaign.

That Citizens Victory candidates are business men rather than politicians is stressed in their campaign. Candidate for village clerk is Joseph M. Kearns, treasurer of a firm manufacturing motion picture equipment. The police magistrate candidate is John A. L. Siegler, attorney with offices in Maywood and Chicago.

Others on the ticket are William C. Perrin Jr., cost analyst for a baking company, C. Ray Fink, partner in a household appliance factory, and Albert L. Boerman, manager of a baking company plant, trusteeship candidates; and John Preston Bullard, real estate dealer, and Mrs. Clark, candidates for the library board.

Among pledges included in the party's platform are improved recreational facilities and transportation, impartial enforcement of building codes, veterans' assistance, and efficient and honest village administration.

Four Seek Reëlection.

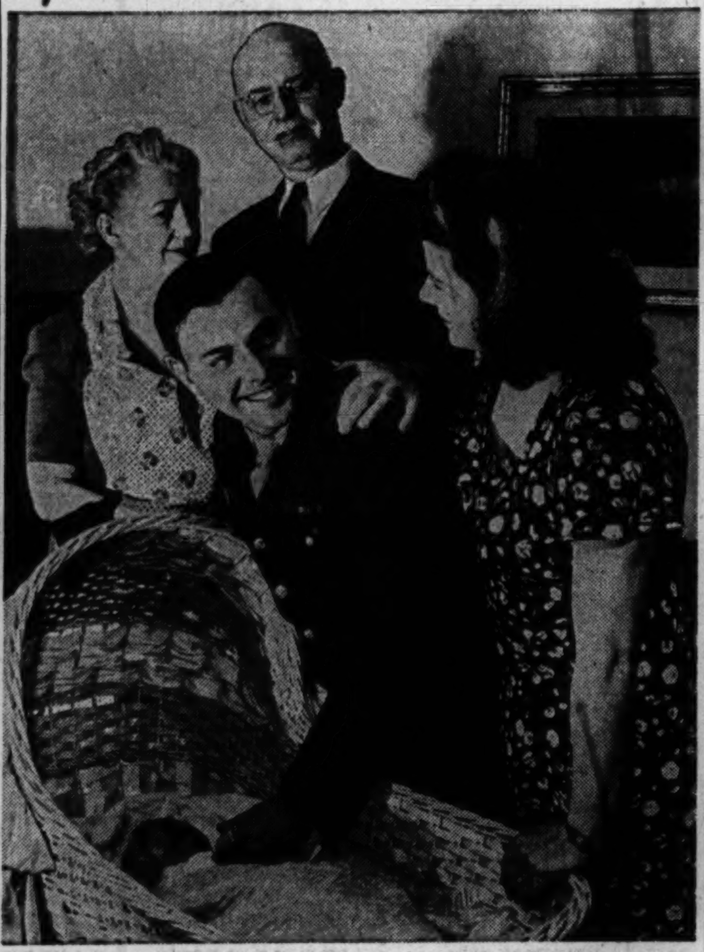
Names of four incumbents are on the Progressive ticket. They are Russell W. Cochran, Maywood attorney and police magistrate; Milton Sebastian, specialty shop owner and bank director, trustee; Clarence Tevander, clerk, and Frank H. Gay, sheriff's bailiff, trustee. Other Progressive candidates are Lee Dahl, electrical construction company superintendent, trutee, and Stanley A. Johnson, Chicago crime commission observer, and Walter R. Brunken, button company superintendent, for library directors.

Markham, nominee for president, is a former assistant state's attorney and Maywood police magistrate. He served in the marine corps during World War I., and was assigned to the Southwest Pacific criminal division as a lieutenant colonel in the present war until he was hospitalized and discharged.

The aim of the Progressive campaign, according to its supporters, is to establish in control of village government officers who are pledged to give the greatest possible return for tax money.

Thirty-one polling places will be open from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. for the election.

Three Generations United



Three generations were united when Corp. John J. McNeill Jr., 217 N. Cicero av., visited his home recently. On a medical furlough from Billings hospital, Indianapolis, Ind., he wears a Presidential citation. The soldier refused the Purple Heart because he saw too many badly wounded men who, he felt, deserved it more. He suffered a fractured knee and ankle in a mine explosion at Luxemburg. Behind Corp. McNeill and his wife are his parents. The corporal's son, John III., lies in the bassinet.

TABERNACLE TO HOLD BLESSED SACRAMENT GIVEN ARMY HOSPITAL

A tabernacle for the Blessed Sacrament, contribution of two volunteer workers in Vaughan General hospital's occupational therapy department, has been presented to the hospital chapel.

Sister Felix

The tabernacle, of aromatic cedar donated by a Forest Park firm, was constructed by Kenneth R. Simpson, 5804 Race av., while the hand wrought design on the copper and brass overlay is the work of Sister Mary Felix, master of art education at Rosary college in River Forest.

Brig. Gen. P. J. Carroll, commanding officer of the hospital, accepted the gift at a recent ceremony.

SCOUTS TO HOLD FIRST AID MEET TUESDAY NIGHT

Teams which received A ratings in community Boy Scout first aid meets last month will compete in the west side district finals at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the 132d infantry armory, 2653 Madison st. Winning teams in the contest will represent the west side district in the annual midwest meet in the La Salle hotel April 20.

Four teams will represent the Austin community. They are sponsored by the following organizations: Trinity Lutheran church, Hirsch st. and Laramie av.; St. Martin's Episcopal church, 5700 Midway pk.; Faith Presbyterian church, Augusta blvd. and Pine st.; and Temple B'nai Israel of Austin, 5433 Jackson blvd.

Two troops, one sponsored by the Douglas library, the other by the Jewish People's institute, 3500 Douglas blvd., will represent Douglas Park community.

Cicero also will be represented by two troops, sponsored by the Cicero post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and by Our Lady of Holy Mount church, 2414 S. 61st av.

Union Park will send three teams to the meet. The troops are sponsored by the Fireman House social center, 1109 S. Ashland av.; the Midwest corps of the Salvation Army; and the Off the Street club, 2413 Jackson blvd.

Troops sponsored by the Harris Dick Hebrew school, 3909 Congress st., and by the Men's club of Anshe Siple, 3808 Polk st., will represent Garfield Park.

Lawndale's representative troop is sponsored by Blessed Agnes Catholic church, 2651 S. Central Park av. Stanford Park will send a team from the troop which meets at Madonna center, 712 S. Loomis st.

Morton High Dance

Seasonal decorations will carry out the spring theme at an all-class dance Saturday night, sponsored by the Morton High school senior cabinet. Parents of cabinet members will serve as chaperones.

Des Plaines Women

Mrs. Ann Marco will be hostess to the Des Plaines Woman's club at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow at Rand park fieldhouse. Sgt. Rex Hogan will talk on "They Sing in the Pacific."

WALKIE-TALKIES FOR ALL AFTER WAR, SAYS FCC

Jett Sees Many Uses in Peace Time

BY LARRY WOLTERS

Every one may have his own private walkie-talkie type radio transmitter after the war, E. K. Jett, commissioner of the federal communications commission said in a radio talk last week. This radio device, which makes any G. I. Joe his own radio station, will get every chance to make good in a multitude of peace time roles, Jett said. With this objective in view, the FCC has set aside the band from 460 to 470 megacycles for the private use of citizens who may need transmitters for their own short range communication, Jett said.

An immediate need for this sort of service in rural communities and small communities where wire services are not available was foreseen by Jett.

"In large cities it will be more convenient to use the available telephone facilities to communicate between fixed points," he said. "The reliable range of low power walkie-talkie will be limited in large urban areas due to buildings which obstruct the transmission path."

Open to Every One

Jett said the service would be "thrown wide open to any citizen after the war, whether he be an individual who may want a portable suitcase type set for his own purposes, or whether it is a department store, taxicab firm, farmer or anybody else."

Operator requirements will be simple, Jett said. The applicant will be required to certify that he has read the rules and regulations and understands them. That will probably be all he has to do to qualify for an operator's license and a station license. The licenses will run concurrently for five years. This service will be free — no charges being permitted for the transmission of messages.

Low Power and Range

Because of low power and limited range—from 2 to 15 miles, depending on terrain—the 50 available channels can be duplicated many times across the nation in thousands of communities.

Asked how people will be prevented from interfering with one another, Jett said the FCC already had thrown out some suggestions. Public spirited citizens in any community might get together and organize a group [a nonprofit organization] that would hold meetings and agree on the particular channels within the band that should be used by particular organizations or individuals within a given area, he said. Jett said that if the public takes to this citizens service that the FCC may allot additional bands for this purpose.

Not for Big Cities

The service range of walkie-talkie will not be sufficient for reliable two way service thruout a large metropolitan area, Mr. Jett said. In such places the police, transit companies, and similar organizations will use frequencies in a different portion of the spectrum and operate under more restrictive rules.

"This will tend to solve the interference problem in large cities," he said, "in that the citizens' band will be used only by those individuals or organizations which cannot procure privileges in other parts of the radio spectrum."

EARL WILD IS SOLOIST WITH NBC ORCHESTRA

Earl Wild, pianist, will be soloist for the performance of Gershwin's Piano Concerto in F on the Symphony of the Air hour over WMAQ-NBC at 4 p. m. today. A presentation of Hans Spialek's Suite, "The Tall City" by the NBC Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Frank Black, also will be included in the program. Today's concert will be the first in the NBC Symphony orchestra's summer series, which will be conducted by Black.

Miss Langford on CBS

Frances Langford and the King Cole trio will join James Melton as guests on the Star Theater program over WBBM-CBS at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

Twins on W-G-N

Betty and Peggy Schoenbeck, twin "flagettes" on the Illinois Central's suburban trains will appear on the Quiz of Two Cities over W-G-N at 2 p. m. today. They are shown with Holland Engle, quizmaster.

PAINT ON BRICK SAVES FUEL AND BRIGHTENS HOME

Now Is Good Time to Wash Walls

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

At this time when fuel must be saved it may be that those who have old brick homes will want to take a step in the right direction and paint the exterior walls.

When mortar disintegrates between the bricks an invitation is extended to rain and moisture, and as a result such walls can become unnecessarily cold and clammy. Furthermore, if a light colored paint is used it not only will seal out moisture and help keep the house dry — and thus warmer in winter—but it also will reflect direct sunlight in the summer and thus keep the house cooler.

House Will Be No Colder

Because of the low degree of sunlight in winter the whiteness will have a negligible effect inasfar as the reflective factor is concerned and will not make the house colder.

Incidentally spring is a good time to give the outside of a house a thoro washing with soap and water if the walls are soiled and yet do not demand new coats of paint.

Test Paint First

First, the condition of the paint should be tested with a brush and soap and water. If results seem good one can start to wash at the bottom and move toward the top, using a scrubbing brush fastened to a long handle. After the washing is completed the hose can be used to rinse the walls.

If a chimney is badly soiled on the outside it can be scrubbed with a solution of trisodium phosphate [or commercial cleaner which contains trisodium]. Use three tablespoons of the trisodium phosphate to a bucket of water, but be careful this solution doesn't get on the house paint as it can soften paint.

Beatrice Lillie Guest on WMAQ Show Today

Beatrice Lillie, British comedienne, Perry Como, singer, and the Art Tatum trio, jazz instrumentalists, will be guests on Music America Loves Best over WMAQ-NBC at 3:30 p. m. today. Miss Lillie, accompanied by the Robert Shaw's chorale, will sing Coward's "Mad Dogs and Englishmen.' Como will offer Kern's "More and More." The trio will present "How High the Moon" by Hamilton-Lewis.

SUBURBAN BOYS TO TAKE ARMY'S COLLEGE TESTS

An opportunity for college training prior to active military duty will be offered Thursday to 17 year old boys, when qualification tests for the army specialized training reserve program are offered in high schools and colleges.

Any youth whose birth date is after Sept. 30, 1927, and before Sept. 1, 1928, is eligible for the program. Parents' consent is required. Any boy who can qualify and pass the physical examination will be sworn in as a member of the enlisted reserve on inactive duty and enrolled in a college or university, probably near his home. He will take such courses as English, history, geography, mathematics, and physics. Five hours a week of military training are included in the curriculum.

Chance for Four Terms

Before he is called to active duty at the end of the school term in which he becomes 18, a student may complete two, three, or four 12 week terms, depending upon the age at which he starts. Tuition and textbook expenses will be paid by the army, and uniforms, meals, and rooms will be provided. However, the ASTRP student will not receive pay or other benefits provided for soldiers on active duty.

At Proviso Township High school in Maywood, nearly 75 of the 336 senior boys will take the tests Thursday, according to Charles Taggart, assistant principal.

Another large group will take the tests at Glenbard High school in Glen Ellyn. Principal Fred L. Biester estimates that 50 seniors will be included.

Ten Downers Grove Community High school students are already enlisted in reserve programs, and approximately 25 more will take the tests Thursday. Principal Clarence W. Johnson will be in charge of the tests.

The number of youths already in reserve programs but still attending York Community High school in Elmhurst totals more than 25, according to Dr. R. B. Tozier, principal. Ten others will be tested Thursday, he said.

La Grange Boys in Course

L. H. Fritzemeier, dean of senior boys, and John Bjorlie, mathematics instructor, will supervise tests at Oak Park-River Forest Township High school.

At La Grange High school, 35 boys are enrolled in an after-school course in preparation for examinations for the navy's radar program. Under the direction of Carl Benz, physics instructor, the boys review mathematics and science, learn machine shop procedures, and study related subjects. Thirty other boys will take the army tests Thursday. George Hawkins, mathematics department head, will be in charge.

Because of previous enlistments, it is unlikely that any Elgin High school students will participate in the army testing program, according to Principal R. S. Cartwright. Few 17 year old seniors are still in school and not in other reserve programs, he said.

Elmhurst Not Affected

Altho college students who will have completed one term by July 1 are also eligible for the ASTRP, no 17 year olds remain at Elmhurst college to take the tests. A few students were 17 last fall when they enrolled, officials say, but all reached their 18th birthdays and were inducted.

According to military authorities, the program will enhance the student's value to the army, as well as offering him an opportunity for training of post-war value. Training under this plan is not deducted from the educational rights provided by the G. I. bill.

Mascagni's popular opera "Cavalleria Rusticana" will be broadcast on the Chicago Theater of the Air hour over W-G-N and Mutual from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday from the Medinah Temple auditorium.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Chicago Tribune, will speak.

Miss Marion Claire will sing the role of Santuzza, victim of Turiddu, the betrayer, to be sung by Richard Tucker. The part of Lola will be sung by Ruth Slater, and Alfio by Bruce Foote. Henry Weber will conduct the orchestra and chorus. The dramatic cast will include Laurette Fillbrandt, William Everett, Sondra Gair, John Barclay and Hope Summers. John Mallow will be the narrator.

Rudolf Serkin to Be Philharmonic Soloist

Rudolph Serkin, pianist, will be soloist on the New York Philharmonic program over WBBM-CBS at 2 p. m. today. He will play Beethoven's Piano Concerto in C minor, No. 3. The orchestra, under the direction of Artur Rodzinski, will present the Beethoven "Coriolanus" overture, the G minor Scherzo from Mendelssohn's Octet for Strings, and the Overture-Fantasy to Tschaikowsky's "Romeo and Juliet."

This Week in the Garden

Monday, April 9

Keep the pot plants well watered. The flowering kinds like a sunny window, but some, like the saintpaulia or African violet, palms, ferns, certain begonias, and viney things like the English ivy, philodendron, pothos, asparagus fern, dumb cane [dieffenbachia], need light but not direct sunlight. Watch for insects.

There is yet time to sow many annuals indoors to get fine husky plants for the garden. Do not plant directly in outdoor beds. Place the pots or boxes of young in a not too sunny place for a few days so that the plants harden.

Tuesday, April 10

Garden twine can be made to last longer if it is placed in a solution of alum for a few days. Cucumber seeds can be sown in strawberry boxes or pots and the seedlings transplanted outdoors in late May.

Watch for the cucumber beetle for it eats the leaves. Use about 20 parts gypsum to one part calcium arsenate as a dust to cover the foliage.

Prunings from roses can be cut into pieces a foot long and placed in the ground on a semi-shady spot. They should root in a short time and can be transplanted.

Wednesday, April 11

If early vegetables are well above ground, make another sowing, but do not overplant. To prevent cutworms from chewing most members of the cabbage family and young tomato plants, place a collar 1⅛ inches deep and 1½ inches above the ground around them.

Be sure to grow only disease resistant tomato plants. Varieties like marglobe are of this type. To prevent blossom end rot on tomatoes keep the plants well watered during dry periods.

Thursday, April 12

Newer annuals are much in demand. Here are a few introduced within the last few years which grow well: Pearly gates morning glory, a beautiful white sort, cleome pink queen, phlox salmon glory; marigold yellow supreme, zinnia fantasy star dust, marigold limelight, and cornflower jubilee.

Friday, April 13

Keep the immediate area around newly planted trees and shrubs free from weeds. It is best to cultivate the soil, keeping it stirred, and the plants watered whenever necessary. A mulch will keep moisture in the soil over a considerable period; the soil can be watered thru the mulch.

Gardeners wishing a few choice flowers can fill a fair sized coldframe with fragrant violets. They will stand in the frame over winter and furnish innumerable flowers in spring time.

Saturday, April 14

Few plants will stand much sand but the following are suggested: Lobelia, flowering tobacco, pansies, and among the more tender plants, usually grown as pot plants, are begonia semperflorens in variety, fuchsia, and Zanbibar balsam.

The iris in variety, the sedum spectabile, columbine, campanula, meadow rue, hardy aster, garden chrysanthemum, coreopsis, plantain-lily, lily of the valley, and others among the perennials.

The spurge or pachasandra, trailing periwinkle, and lily of the valley are good for planting beneath trees that are barren of grass most of the time.

ART OF POLAND PRESERVED BY MUSEUM HERE

Paderewski Items Highly Prized

Altho many of Poland's works of art have been destroyed by the war, some of them are being preserved in the Polish Roman Catholic Union museum, 984 Milwaukee av.

The museum houses paintings by Polish artists, some of whom are now in German prison camps, handfuls of soil from Poland's battlefields, the prized collection of Paderewski mementos and furnishings, and a library having one of the greatest collections of books on Poland in the world.

Many a Famous Painting

Many of the paintings were brought here for safekeeping from the Polish exhibit at the New York world's fair. Among these is the portrait of "The Red Haired Girl," painted by T. Pruszkowski, professor at the Warsaw academy of art. According to a press dispatch, he has been executed by a Nazi firing squad, the museum's curator, Miecislaus Haiman, said.

Haiman, himself, quiet and unsmiling, has had no word from his family in Poland since the German blitz.

Other treasures in the museum came from Polish immigrants here. Some few were slipped out of Poland and brought here by devious methods.

Rubens Valued at $50,000

In the latter class fall the Rubens, "Susanne at the Bath," valued at $50,000; the Fra Angelico miniatures which contain the relics of 32 saints, and the Lucas Van Leyden oil painting. For the safety of their owners in Poland, Dr. Alphonse Wolanin, assistant curator, in whose care they were entrusted, prefers not to discuss their history or how they got here.

Many of this country's congressmen are using the Polish library to make some decision for themselves on Poland's future. The collection contains about 5,000 books, the oldest of which was printed 437 years ago.

Prize Pianist's Mementos

With no disrespect to the other treasures, the most prized possession of the museum is the Paderewski exhibit. The great pianist's belongings, including the furnishings from his two room suite in the Buckingham hotel in New York, have been grouped as they were when he died—the last newspaper he read, folded on the table, the last sheets of music he handled, his piano, the specially constructed chair weighing 60 pounds which he used for more than 50 years at concerts. The chair, with a red leather covered lead seat, was heavy to prevent sliding during Paderewski's strenuous concert playing.

Among his mementos are the big gold watch. His secretary reported to the museum that Paderewski performed a nightly ritual of forming the watch chain into a perfect circle, sometimes working hours at it while in deep thought. There is also a relic of his premiership—the gold pen with which he signed the treaty of Versailles as premier of Poland in 1919.

ADVENT CHURCH WILL HOLD OPEN HOUSE WEEKLY

The Episcopal Church of the Advent, 2900 Logan blvd., will be open to visitors every Sunday from 3 to 5:30 p. m. until May 20, the Rev. Gordon E. Brant, rector, has announced.

Facts regarding the founding and growth of the church will be related and some of the furnishings and appointments, many of which are memorials, will be displayed.

The committee on publication, including Mrs. Brant, Mrs. E. N. Johnsen, and Mrs. L. E. Lehmann, will be hostesses.

Mount Calvary Church Women to Give Play

The Women's Aid society of Mount Calvary Evangelical Lutheran church, Mozart st. and Ardmore av., will have a dessert luncheon at 1 p. m. Tuesday at the church. "Crazy to Reduce," a play directed by Mrs. Clare Sears, will be presented by members.

ST. COLUMBKILLE'S DAY NURSERY AUXILIARY TO GIVE ANNUAL PARTY

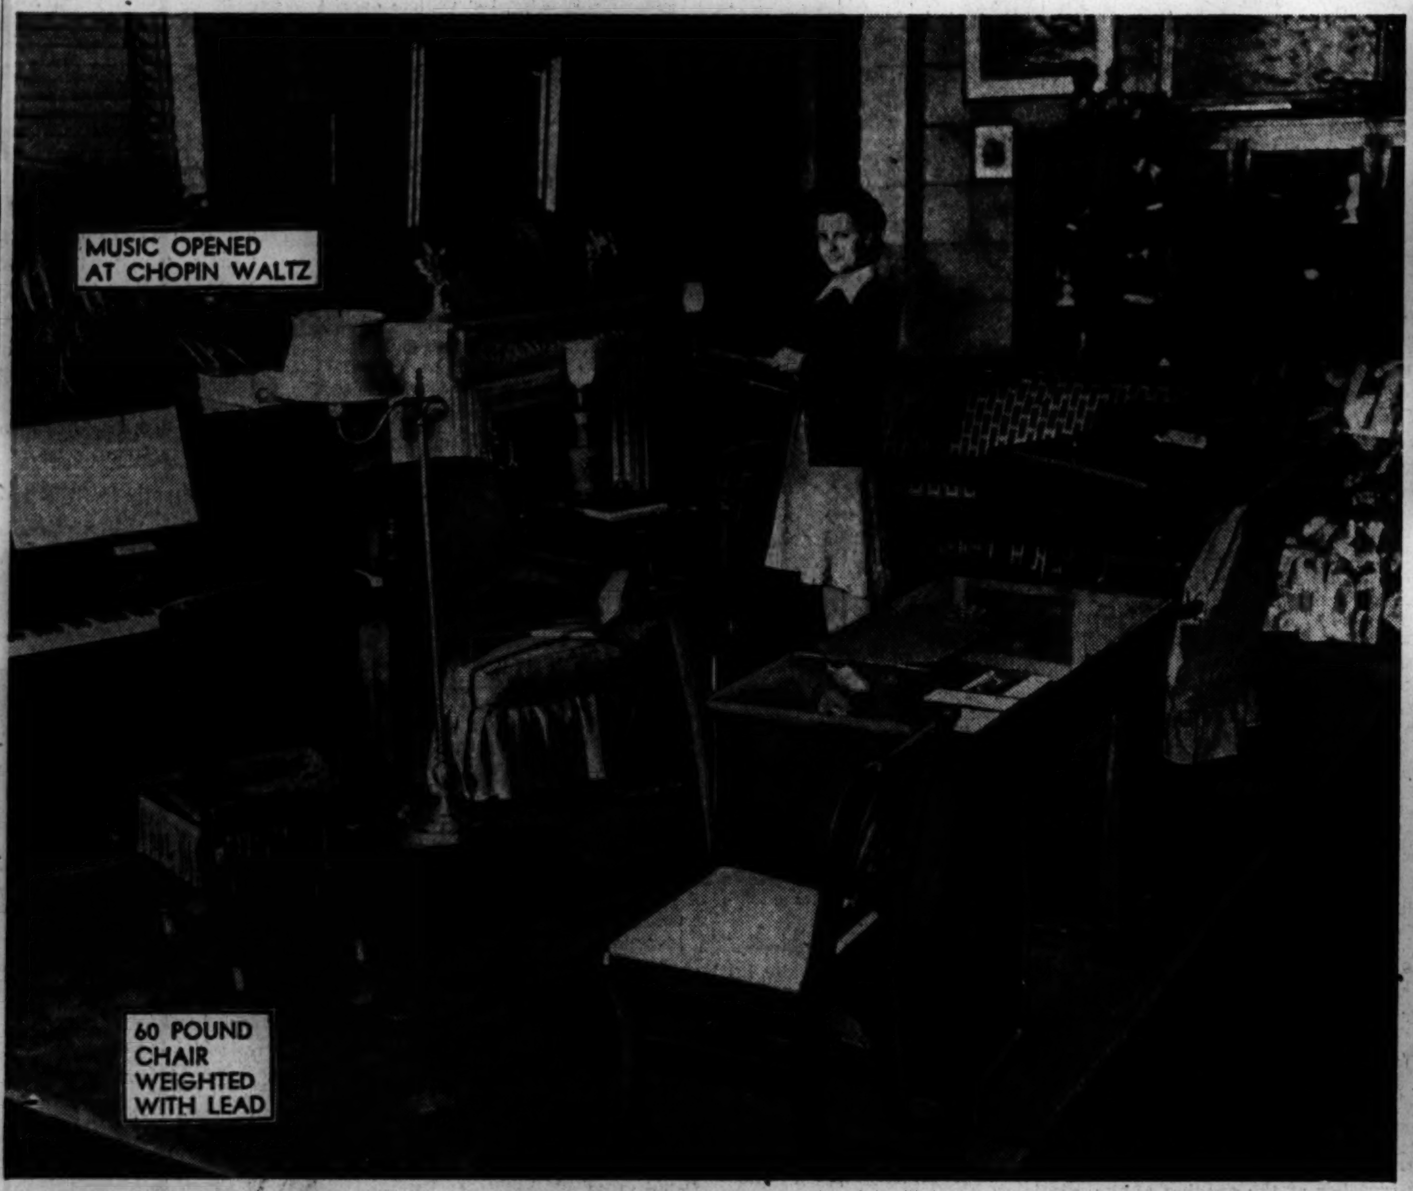
Jean Sullivan

The 11th annual spring party sponsored by St. Columbkille's Day nursery auxiliary will be held Friday night in the Crystal ballroom at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

A group of students from Sacred Heart academy under supervision of Miss Jean Sullivan, 1412 Glenlake av., will be junior hostesses and ushers. Miss Mary Ford and Miss Rose Helwig are in charge of party arrangements.

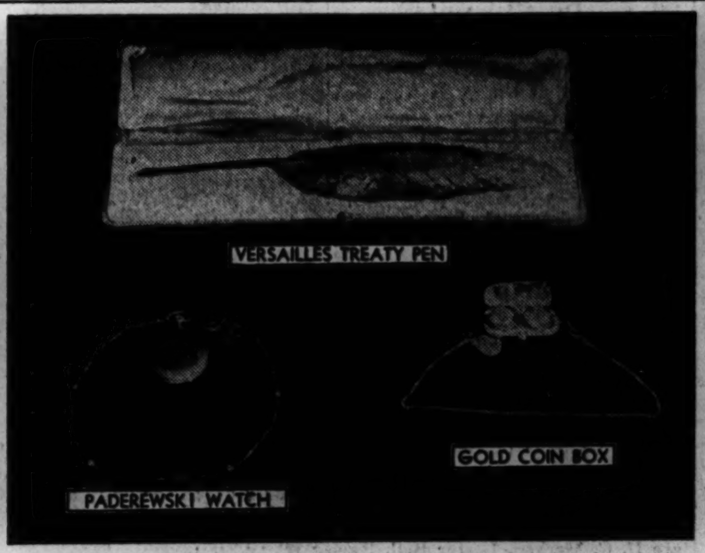
Proceeds from the party will go to the maintenance of the nursery, located at 527 N. Paulina st., where more than 75 children of working mothers are cared for daily.

Chicago Poles Strive to Preserve Culture of Native Land

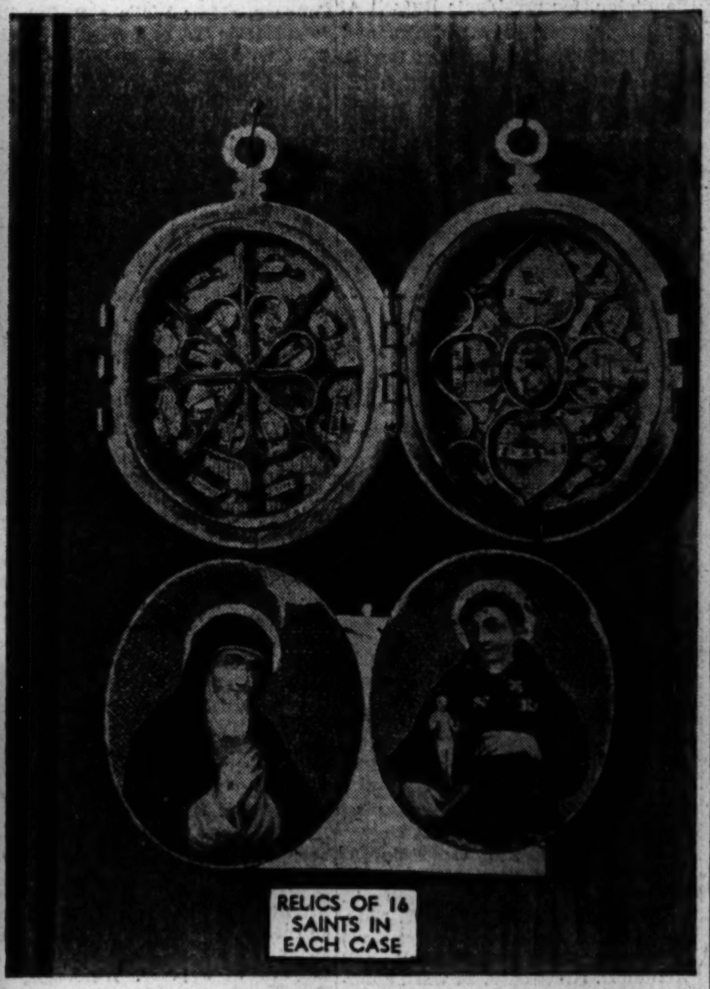


MUSIC OPENED AT CHOPIN WALTZ
60 POUND CHAIR WEIGHTED WITH LEAD

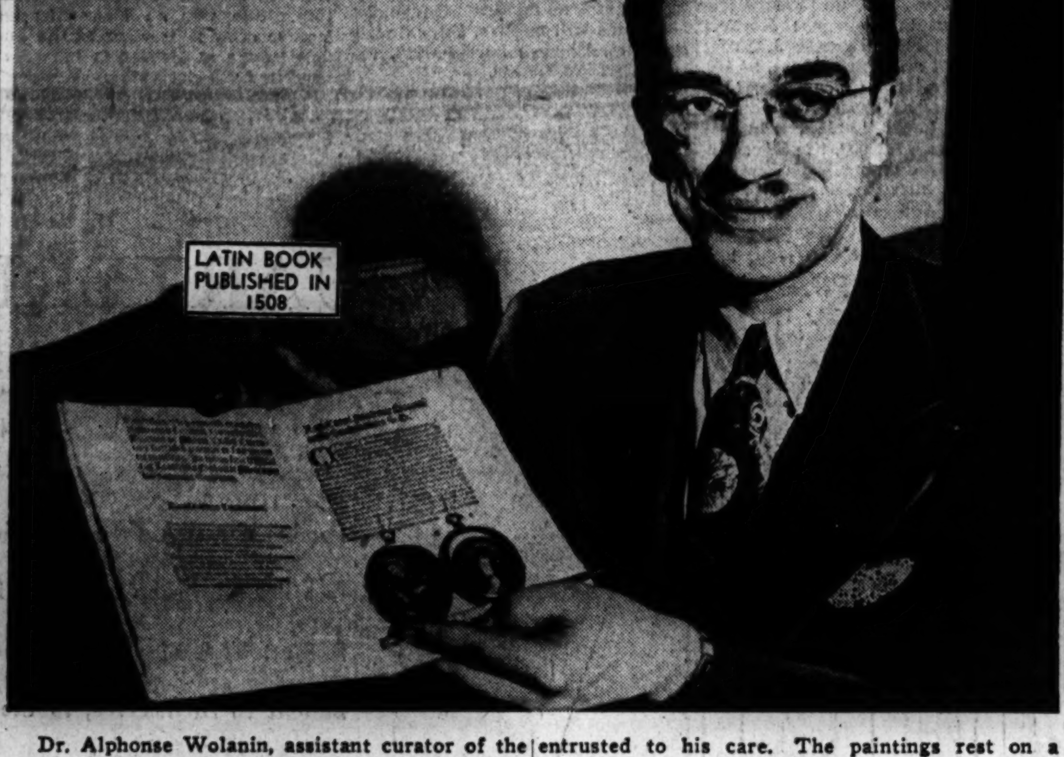
The furnishings from Ignace Paderewski's living room in New York City, including his piano and a 60 pound specially constructed chair, were brought to the museum and rearranged as they were at his death. On the piano is a book of Chopin waltzes open at the page he last fingered before he died in 1941. The chair before the piano was used by Paderewski for 50 years in his concerts. Miss Sabina Logisz, secretary at the museum, pages thru some of the music Paderewski laid on the corner of the piano.



Among the Paderewski mementos are the gold pen with which he, as premier of Poland, signed the Treaty of Versailles; his old fashioned gold watch, and his gold coin case. Paderewski, while in a pensive mood, went thru the nightly ritual of forming a circle with his watch chain and a triangle with his coin case chain before retiring.



In the back of each miniature is a section containing the relics of 16 saints—a piece of clothing or one of the holy man's possessions. Each is labeled with the saint's name. Below are the two paintings by Fra Angelico.



Dr. Alphonse Wolanin, assistant curator of the museum, holds two Fra Angelico miniatures, priceless paintings on copper sent here from Poland and entrusted to his care. The paintings rest on a Latin book printed 437 years ago.

N.W. SIDE HIGHS RUSTLE UP 400 TONS OF PAPER

Roosevelt Tops List for School Year

Almost 400 tons of scrap paper have been collected by high school students in the northwest area this year.

Some schools, such as Wells and Schurz High schools, started collections in January, others staged one day drives. Roosevelt and Lane Technical High schools initiated their paper drives last November. As a result, Roosevelt leads the northwest schools with a total of 242,000 pounds, or an average of 100 pounds a student. Outstanding in the Roosevelt drive are Jerry Sideman, 3227 W. Division st., with 1,350 pounds to his credit; Mitchell Smith, 4442 N. Drake av., 1,185 pounds, and Ben Hilfman, 3135 Montrose av., 1,020 pounds.

Taft High Runs Second

Crowding for second place is Taft High school, with 192,000 collected in a one day drive. The collection here was on a competitive basis, with the freshmen outclassing the others by lugging in 30 tons.

Lane Technical High school, in two drives, has collected 128,000 pounds, about 200 pounds a student.

Steinmetz High school suspended home work the night preceding the drive and received about 60,000 pounds.

At Wells High school the drive was worked in somewhat the same way, with scrap paper collection made part of the homework in the social studies classes. Collections, made periodically since January, have netted 51,000 pounds.

Queen Rules Kelvin Park

The high point of the Kelvyn Park High school's one day drive was the crowning of Virginia Frank, 4451 Wrightwood av., as paper queen. Approximately 20 tons were collected in the one day drive and another 10 tons in the following month. Jack Keller, 2423 N. Kostner av.; Marilyn Kootman, 2704 N. Whipple st., and Earl Sarner, 4323 W. Belden av., brought in the largest loads.

Schurz has collected 30,000 pounds since January and Foreman, in a one day drive, 28,000 pounds.

Von Steuben Drive Clicks

The drive at Von Steuben High school garnered 18,800 pounds for Uncle Sam and $141 in proceeds from the paper sale for the student fund.

The sophomore class nosed out the freshmen to lead Tuley High school in the one day drive recently. More than 9,460 pounds were collected. Three boys, Fred Frimet, 1203 N. Oakley blvd.; Robert Smith, 1717 Humboldt blvd., and Herbert Roth, 1250 N. Rockwell av., brought in 1,250 pounds.

BOSTON SINGERS WILL GIVE PARK RIDGE CONCERT

The Seminary singers of the Boston university school of theology will present a program at Park Ridge Methodist church at 8 p. m. Friday. Among the selections will be a Negro work song, hymns of the Russian liturgy, songs of Christian faith and a Victor Herbert song.

The group is a male chorus composed of 36 men preparing for the ministry, representing 22 states. They have traveled 15,000 miles in the last five years.

Dr. James R. Houghton, professor in the university college of music, who organized the group in 1926, is the director.

STEINMETZ HIGH GIVES REVUE AT VET HOSPITALS

Show of Junior Red Cross Lauded

The latest Junior Red Cross project at Steinmetz High school, 3030 N. Mobile av., is a variety show, "The Bobby Sox Revue." Directed by Miss Louise Viehoff, dramatic teacher and Junior Red Cross sponsor, the show is designed for the entertainment of hospitalized service men.

The revue was originated by Miss Viehoff. Try-outs and rehearsals were held during the 45 minute lunch periods. The cast narrowed down to 16 teen-agers who could sing, dance, or act.

Their first performance was given at Great Lakes naval hospital where, according to Mrs. Margaret H. Anderson, hospital assistant Red Cross field director, "they were fine, just what the boys needed." The show has been given since at other veteran hospitals in the Chicago area.

Master of ceremonies in the revue is Theodore Pethes, Elmwood Park. The cast includes Leonard Druss, 2311 N. Mango st.; Ruth Driftman, 2859 Newland av.; Anna Marie Zitella, 2035 Parkside av.; Joel Muzek, 3231 N. Oak Park av.; Connie Simms, Elmwood Park; Virginia Sczymczyk, Elmwood Park; Vivian Stocco, Elmwood Park; Laverne Taylor, 4015 N. Oketo av.; Rosemarie and Gloria Mae West, 6125 Nelson st.; Rosemary Livorsi and Lewis Mahlman, 3028 Parkside av.; Edith Lang, 3131 Octavia av., and Eleanore Schmider, Elmwood Park. Anna Marie Grippo is the accompanist.

Logan Square Legion

Logan Square Legion post will sponsor a party Friday night at Masonic temple, 2451 N. Kedzie av., to provide funds for sending two high school students to the boys' state conference in June.

CORP. F. J. SCHAEFER WINS BRONZE STAR FOR SAVING 18 MEN

Corp. Schaefer.

Flames chased Corp. Frank J. Schaefer Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scheafer, 2607 W. Schubert av., from a building in Germany. Then he remembered the 18 wounded Americans trapped in it.

Ordering a German prisoner of war to assist, Schaefer and another soldier went into the building and carried all the wounded to safety. For his heroism and concern for the welfare of his comrades, Schaefer, graduate of St. Patrick High school, has been awarded the bronze star. Overseas since September, he is with the 3d army.

Auxiliary of St. Mary Hospital to Hold Benefit

The junior auxiliary of St. Mary of Nazareth hospital, 1120 N. Leavitt st., will hold its annual benefit party at 8 p. m. Wednesday in the Hamilton hotel, 20 S. Dearborn st. Proceeds will be used for purchase of hospital equipment. The committee is composed of Grace Penkala, Helen Justis, Jean and Helen Szeklycki, Alice Walkosz, Helen Buinda, and Virginia Kuta.

Seven Park Ridge Douglas Men Are Cited by WPB

Seven employes of the Douglas Aircraft plant at Park Ridge have received awards from the war production board for suggestions on improving machine operations, reducing production hours, and tool installation. They are William C. Barkey, L. S. Ebert, Robert Erickson, R. A. Evans, Roy C. Foss, R. B. Whitesell, and J. B. Flodlin.

DEDICATE THREE N. W. AREA WAR PLAQUES TODAY

A triple memorial plaque dedication will be held at 3 p. m. today at 2928 N. Springfield av. The plaques will honor Sgt. John Krzoz Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Krzoz, 2907 N. Harding av.; Pvt. Vincent J. Cygan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Cygan, 2928 N. Springfield av., and Pvt. George Stanczewski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Stanczewski, 2929 N. Springfield av. A. W. Kaercher, assistant commander of the Avondale OCD, will be in charge.

ISSUE SUMMONS FOR ALL SINGERS AT WICKER PARK

Opportunity Beckons Tenors, Basses

If William Congreve knew what he was talking about when he said, "Music hath charm," the vicinity of Wicker park will be virtually spellbound in short order.

Two new choral groups have been formed at the park, Fowler and Damen avs., under direction of Dr. William F. Bergman, assistant music supervisor on the Chicago park district, and David Henderson, park supervisor.

All bathtub tenors, barber shop quartets, and anybody else who thinks he can sing are invited to call Henderson at the fieldhouse for a try-out. The children's group rehearses every Wednesday from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. and the adult section from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m.

Altho still in their infancy, the groups have laid the groundwork for concerts, an outdoor operetta, and a summer musical comedy.

Dr. Bergman, the director, is a graduate of Northwestern university college of music, and was associated with the Chicago Civic Opera company and with the Metropolitan Opera company of New York as bass baritone. He also has been soloist on concert and radio programs in this country and Canada. Henderson has 35 years of theatrical experience as producer and director.

INDEPENDENCE PARK CLASSES TO STAGE SHOW

Activities of Independence park gymnasium and dancing classes will be demonstrated at 8 p. m. Thursday and Friday at the park, 3945 N. Paulina st. The program will include various types of dances, tumbling exhibitions, demonstration of athletic apparatus, and games. Sumner Webb is park supervisor. Sidney Berberick and Harold Harper are physical education instructors.

MORE GARDENS UNDER WAY TO EASE SHORTAGE

N. W. Side Planning Wins Praise

The shortage of food expected in the coming months will be eased considerably on the northwest side according to present indications, George T. Donoghue, war garden director for the Chicago metropolitan area, has predicted.

A number of new garden projects on vacant lots are under way, and back yard gardens are being planted. Many of the northwest side residents have taken additional space outside the city limits, commuting to and from their gardens by street car or bus. Some have secured additional gasoline rations where the family and gardens qualify.

Extra Gas Provided.

Any one who is cultivating an adequate plot and has no space near home will be granted 20 gallons of gasoline above his A card allotment for the summer provided he can make sufficient trips to and from his garden, Donoghue said.

More than 20,000 war gardens were registered for the northwest side last year. A 10 per cent increase to 22,000 is expected this year by Richard Beu, chairman of the 5th division. He asks that gardeners not only utilize more space but plan their gardens in more detail so that yields may be increased.

Greenhouses Assist.

Coöperating in the food program are the greenhouse owners who during the winter have reduced their flower crops to give room to such plants as tomatoes, cabbage, and peppers which will be replanted later in family gardens. The Allied Florists' association, of which most greenhouse owners are members, also has aided with advice on problems of planting and caring for vegetables.

Five new garden locations are being plowed this spring in addition to plots used last year. Their locations and supervisors are Sawyer and Wabansia avs., Judith Kimmel; Berwyn av. near Washtenaw av., Mrs. Joseph S. Bjorum; 3746 N. Sayre av., George McAlevy; 4243 N. Mobile av., L. E. Dobat, and 6309 N. Nordica av., Harry W. Grossen.

Others Are Appointed.

Community garden chairmen recently appointed by Beu and M. C. Lichtenwalter, division chairman of the Chicago Horticultural society and Garden center, are: Northwest Town community, William J. Thomas, and Mrs. Stella L. Thumel; Humboldt Park, Zygmunt Lepkowski; Milwaukee, Armitage, and Western, Mrs. Anna Swanson; Wrightwood and Fullerton, Robert C. Riley.

Belmont and Cragin, Adolph Von Eitzen; Hanson Park, Henry Kloss; Mont Clare, Mrs. Esther Olberg; Belmont Heights, Aaron Kline; Logan Square, Maon Jones; Avondale, Henry P. Zmich; Irving Park, Mrs. F. B. Cheever; Albany Park, Harold K. MacShane.

North Park, Herman Nordlinger; Sauganash, John Kreutzer; Mayfair, M. C. Lichtenwalter; Portage Park, Mrs. Fred Ott; Jefferson Park, Kurt Buchholz; Forest Glen, Mrs. Ida Luedcke; Norwood Park, C. R. Mason; Edison Park, Mrs. Beulah V. Fox, and Edgebrook, Mrs. Florence Nystrom.

Logan Square Men

Mrs. Setsuko Nishi of the Parkway community center will address the Logan Square Men's club at 8:45 p. m. Wednesday at 3135 W. Fullerton av., on "Relocation, the Barometer of Democracy."

HER SCRAPBOOKS KEEP RECORD OF EACH WAR MOVE

There'll be no argument henceforth in the Anderson home at 5857 N. West Circle dr., Norwood Park, about what happened in this war, either on the home front or overseas.

Systematic Mrs. Charles W. Anderson has taken care of that. She is keeping scrap books of Tribune clippings on everything that has happened in this war beginning with the Jap conference in Washington back in November, 1941, thru every battle on every front, including the present local battle of the butcher shops for a hunk of bologna.

Her Job Not Small

The scrap book keeping, a task as monumental as a post-war project because of the multitude of battle fronts and the shortage of scrap book paper, was started shortly after Pearl Harbor when Mrs. Anderson found herself on the losing end of family discussions on this war and its predecessor.

"They could talk me down on the other war. But I got 'em dead to rights on this one. I just go to my clippings to prove I'm right—or wrong," she asserted amid a sea of scrap books and unpasted but sorted clippings in her home.

Eight Books, Two Drawers Plus

The war record up to October, neatly divided into the various fronts, already has overflowed eight huge books, two drawers, and a suit box. The finished product will be turned over to grandson Billy Simmons, 5, curly headed and freckled, whose father, Lt. [j. g.] J. P. Simmons Jr., is serving on a tanker.

Mrs. Anderson, herself, is a veritable walking encyclopedia of war information garnered from her hobby. She serves as information bureau to friends and relatives attempting to trace movements of their service men.

Special Volume for Heroes

She has reserved a white leather bound volume, embossed in gold, for the heroes, living and dead; for those beribboned and carried on shoulders in home town parades, and for the nameless, photographed in ungainly attitudes of violent death.

Her World War II. history is begun with the picture with which it appropriately could end— a snappy, resolute service man with a flag draped round his shoulders, under a banner headline, "You Can't Keep a Good Man Down."

St. Mary of Nazareth Hospital Unit to Meet

The women's auxiliary of St. Mary of Nazareth hospital will meet at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday at 1120 N. Leavitt st. Miss Dorothy McClure will give instructions on making lamp shades. Hostesses will be Mrs. John Radzinski, Mrs. Edward Jaroszewski, and Mrs. Bernard Kolter.

Miss Mary T. Kerekes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Kerekes, 4741 Ohio st., has been promoted to lieutenant [j. g.] in the navy nurse corps. An overseas veteran, Lt. Kerekes received the commendation ribbon and gold star for outstanding service in the main navy evacuation hospital in England during the invasion of France. She returned to this country in October and served at Naval hospital, St. Albans, N. Y., before reporting to the Fort Pierce, Fla., base where she now is stationed.

A graduate of Josephinum High school and Mother Cabrini hospital school of nursing, she worked in the Oak Forest infirmary dispensary until commissioned in December, 1942.

Miss Dorothy Jean Essig, specialist 1st class, recently became the first enlisted WAVE from the naval air training bases at Pensacola to be assigned to the staff of the aerial free gunnery standardization unit at Jacksonville, Fla.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Essig, 4313 N. Kostner st., she was among the first group of WAVES trained in gunnery instruction. She was an instructor and lecture crew supervisor at the gunnery range at Pensacola before reporting to Jacksonville.

QUARTERLY REPORT TO THE COMMUNITY

During the first three months of 1945, the 8,000 firms and families who save or invest funds or finance homes through Second Federal accomplished through this means much of benefit to themselves, to the community and to the nation.

Purchases of War Bonds totaled more than $100,000 during the first three months of 1945. And, every bond is a "bond" with your fighting men overseas, for your purchases have put the best equipment in the world in their hands.

$985,000 in savings and investments were placed with Second Federal during the first few months of this year. It means that your nest egg is growing, and it has enabled us to purchase more than a half million dollars worth of government bonds and to loan other thousands for home construction or purchases; building security for the saver and for the community as a whole.

Hundreds of families, firms and institutions were introduced to the many advantages of saving at Second Federal. These last three months 507 thrift-wise families (average 6 per day) have embarked on a savings plan that assures a secure future and happier living.

Second Federal's convenient and economical plans financed 40 homes and other residential properties during the first quarter of 1945, even during these times of minimum new construction.

Your community financial headquarters is served by 26 members of the community. Their wages are spent in neighborhood stores, contributed to community organizations. And more than 5,000 others share the dividend amounting to more than $35,000 for the first three months of this year.

You, too, can benefit by joining those who do business here in person or by mail. Use any of the services reported above, or the others too numerous to mention here. Write or come in . . . bring us your financial problems* . . . let us help you as we help others.

ATTENTION
Owing to an acute MANPOWER SHORTAGE and an UNPRECEDENTED SEASONAL VOLUME, causing a serious congested condition in the Dry Cleaning Industry, we wish to give preferred service to our REGULAR customers as a matter of LOYALTY to them. Therefore:
1. We cannot accept goods for cleaning from any new or occasional customers at the present time.
2. Regular customers please limit your orders to two ladies' garments, or the equivalent, and two men's suits, or the equivalent, until further notice. We may, from time to time, be obliged to reduce the limit and even be unable to accept any goods for perhaps a day or so.
3. Those of our store customers who, in the past have been calling for their finished goods on Saturdays, have experienced rushes, especially from 4:00 p. m. to closing time, which are very trying on the customers and even more trying on our employees. Therefore, our customers are kindly requested to call for their finished goods regularly throughout the week to avoid these last minute Saturday rushes.
4. By all means please call for all finished goods you now have at any of our stores to alleviate the overcrowded condition.
Thanking you for your past patronage, we feel sure that you will give us your full co-operation.

WALKIE-TALKIES FOR ALL AFTER WAR, SAYS FCC

Jett Sees Many Uses in Peace Time

BY LARRY WOLTERS

Every one may have his own private walkie-talkie type radio transmitter after the war, E. K. Jett, commissioner of the federal communications commission said in a radio talk last week. This radio device, which makes any G. I. Joe his own radio station, will get every chance to make good in a multitude of peace time roles, Jett said. With this objective in view, the FCC has set aside the band from 460 to 470 megacycles for the private use of citizens who may need transmitters for their own short range communication, Jett said.

An immediate need for this sort of service in rural communities and small communities where wire services are not available was foreseen by Jett.

"In large cities it will be more convenient to use the available telephone facilities to communicate between fixed points," he said. "The reliable range of low power walkie-talkie will be limited in large urban areas due to buildings which obstruct the transmission path."

Open to Every One

Jett said the service would be "thrown wide open to any citizen after the war, whether he be an individual who may want a portable suitcase type set for his own purposes, or whether it is a department store, taxicab firm, farmer or anybody else."

Operator requirements will be simple, Jett said. The applicant will be required to certify that he has read the rules and regulations and understands them. That will probably be all he has to do to qualify for an operator's license and a station license. The licenses will run concurrently for five years. This service will be free—no charges being permitted for the transmission of messages.

Low Power and Range

Because of low power and limited range—from 2 to 15 miles, depending on terrain—the 50 available channels can be duplicated many times across the nation in thousands of communities.

Asked how people will be prevented from interfering with one another, Jett said the FCC already had thrown out some suggestions. Public spirited citizens in any community might get together and organize a group [a nonprofit organization] that would hold meetings and agree on the particular channels within the band that should be used by particular organizations or individuals within a given area, he said. Jett said that if the public takes to this citizens service that the FCC may allot additional bands for this purpose.

Not for Big Cities

The service range of walkie-talkie will not be sufficient for reliable two way service thruout a large metropolitan area, Mr. Jett said. In such places the police, transit companies, and similar organizations will use frequencies in a different portion of the spectrum and operate under more restrictive rules.

"This will tend to solve the interference problem in large cities," he said, "in that the citizens' band will be used only by those individuals or organizations which cannot procure privileges in other parts of the radio spectrum."

Carole Landis on W-G-N

Carole Landis will visit the Earl Wilson show over W-G-N-Mutual at 9 o'clock tonight.

EARL WILD IS SOLOIST WITH NBC ORCHESTRA

Earl Wild, pianist, will be soloist for the performance of Gershwin's Piano Concerto in F on the Symphony of the Air hour over WMAQ-NBC at 4 p. m. today. A presentation of Hans Spialek's Suite, "The Tall City" by the NBC Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Frank Black, also will be included in the program. Today's concert will be the first in the NBC Symphony orchestra's summer series, which will be conducted by Black.

G.I.s KNOW VALUE OF EDUCATION, SURVEY SHOWS

Vets Eager to Resume Their Schooling

Even if the war doesn't guarantee permanent peace and a bright new world, it already has done one thing—taught the value of education.

This fact was brought out in a survey of veterans placement counselor services in northwest side high schools set up by the Chicago board of education.

From the hundreds of letters and the number of veterans streaming to high schools, it appears the 17 and 18 year olds who chose a military career in high excitement back in 1940 when anything could happen, and in 1941 when it did, are now tugging and shoving at plans to pick up the threads of their education at the earliest moment, some even before they get out of service.

Regret Leaving School

This Klondikelike rush for education, says Albert G. Bauersfeld, principal of Schurz High school, one of the principals interviewed, is inspired principally by educational requirements set up by the military services for commissioned officers. A common statement in most of the letters, he says, is "how I regret not finishing high school. How can I get enough credits to graduate now?"

The veterans counseling service, explained School Superintendent Johnson is set up to evaluate subjects taken by the students in their military careers in terms of high school credits, and to help the veteran adjust to high school life on his return.

Study Thru Army Service

A number of diplomas have been awarded in absentia, the survey showed, and the number will grow as the war progresses and more men avail themselves of the opportunity offered by the Army Forces institute thru which service men can study by correspondence while in the service. A few discharged veterans are back in school, and adjusting well, their teachers report.

If the plans indicated by queries in high schools materialize, this will be a nation of college graduates in post-war days. Most of the G. I.s plan to finish high school as civilians, then use their educational privileges under the G. I. bill of rights to obtain a college education.

Beth-El Women to Hear Rabbi Give Book Review

The Sisterhood of Beth-El congregation, 3228 Palmer st., will meet at 1 p. m. Tuesday in the temple. Rabbi Joseph M. Strauss will review "Yankee of Olympus" by Catherine Drinker Bowen. Mrs. Milton Vogel is president.

Richard M. Thorby, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Thorby, 5621 Waveland av., has been promoted to captain. In the army since April, 1941, he has been overseas 30 months.

Capt. R. M. Thorby

Pvt. Frederick Schneller, 19, doesn't think much of German pillboxes, according to a recent letter he wrote his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schneller, 5159 Medill av. "They didn't do the Nazis much good," he wrote from a captured pillbox after crossing the Siegfried line with Patton's 3d army. Schneller was wounded Dec. 15 in the Saar basin fighting. He received the Purple Heart recently.

Marine Pvt. George Pierce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wolf Pierce, 3145 Lyndale av., was wounded on Iwo Jima March 12. A veteran of the Tarawa, Guam, and Saipan campaigns, Pierce was shot by a Jap sniper after 13 days of front line fighting on Iwo. In a letter to his uncle, Herman Rapaport, 343 S. Dearborn st., the marine disclosed he is now hospitalized on a small island and expects to be transferred to a mainland hospital soon. Pierce, who enlisted in May, 1943, came to this country from Poland with his mother and father and younger brother on one of the last ships leaving Europe before Hitler invaded Poland.

George Pierce

Pvt. Anthony J. Mallek, 26, previously reported wounded in Germany on Feb. 26, is recuperating in an English hospital, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo S. Mallek, Park Ridge, have learned. In the army since November, 1941, Pvt. Mallek participated in the Aleutian campaign prior to being sent to Europe in January. He was graduated from Maine township high school and from the University of Notre Dame in 1941.

Wounded in the seize of Bastogne, Belgium, Pvt. Herbert J. Suerth, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Suerth, 6115 Patterson av., is expected home soon. Enlisting in the army in December, 1942, Suerth has been serving overseas with the 101st air-borne infantry since last June.

Pvt. H. J. Suerth

With more than 25 missions to his credit, 1st Lt. Sidney A. Mandel, 22, bombardier on the 8th air force Flying Fortress, Stinkin' from Drinkin' has been awarded a fifth oak leaf cluster to his air medal. Son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Mandel, 2233 Division st., he is a graduate of Tuley High school and was a student at the University of Illinois before enlisting in the service in February, 1943. His bombing group has received a Presidential citation.

Lt. S. A. Mandel

Two awards, the distinguished flying cross and the air medal, have been presented Pvt. Harry J. Chesney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Chesney and husband of Mrs. Mable Chesney, 2917 Gresham av. A radio operator, he has flown the hump often from his base in India.

Pvt. H. J. Chesney

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Brochocki, 2746 N. Neva av., have learned that their son, Pvt. Melvin Brochocki, received shrapnel wounds in the scalp, right shoulder, and right hand on Feb. 23, in Germany. A graduate of Schurz High school, he has been in the army two years and overseas since September.

Corp. Glenn T. McNamara, 5548 N. Austin av., with six other soldiers and a machine gun mounted jeep, captured 40 Nazis and liberated 89 Russians in the 1st army's drive across the Rhine. When the seven Yanks rode into town, the Russians staggered out of a factory where they had taken refuge to escape the artillery bombardment. They saluted, shook hands, profusely thanked their liberators, and then got into the fight themselves, tipping off the Yanks on the whereabouts of their Nazi captors.

A battlefield commission of second lieutenant has been awarded Charles J. Gatz, husband of Mrs. Pauline J. Gatz, 1422 N. Springfield av. With the 12th armored division on the western front, he was commissioned after demonstrating outstanding leadership in battle.

SCHURZ TIMES WINS SECOND IN PRESS CONTEST

The Schurz Times, student publication at Carl Schurz High school, 3601 Milwaukee av., won second place in the 21st annual contest of the Columbia Press association at Columbia university, New York City.

Doris Cliff and Luella Johnston are co-editors and Miss Irene Theobold is faculty advisor. The newspaper placed first last year, and for five years has taken top honors in the National Scholastic Press association contest conducted by the University of Minnesota and the international Quill and Scroll contest at Northwestern university.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, April 9

Keep the pot plants well watered. The flowering kinds like a sunny window, but some, like the saintpaulia or African violet, palms, ferns, certain begonias, and viney things like the English ivy, philodendron, pothos, asparagus fern, dumb cane [dieffenbachia], need light but not direct sunlight. Watch for insects.

There is yet time to sow many annuals indoors to get fine husky plants for the garden. Do not plant directly in outdoor beds. Place the pots or boxes of young in a not too sunny place for a few days so that the plants harden.

Tuesday, April 10

Garden twine can be made to last longer if it is placed in a solution of alum for a few days. Cucumber seeds can be sown in strawberry boxes or pots and the seedlings transplanted outdoors in late May.

Watch for the cucumber beetle for it eats the leaves. Use about 20 parts gypsum to one part calcium arsenate as a dust to cover the foliage.

Prunings from roses can be cut into pieces a foot long and placed in the ground on a semi-shady spot. They should root in a short time and can be transplanted.

Wednesday, April 11

If early vegetables are well above ground, make another sowing, but do not overplant. To prevent cutworms from chewing most members of the cabbage family and young tomato plants, place a collar 1½ inches deep and 1½ inches above the ground around them.

Be sure to grow only disease resistant tomato plants. Varieties like marglobe are of this type. To prevent blossom end rot on tomatoes keep the plants well watered during dry periods.

Thursday, April 12

Newer annuals are much in demand. Here are a few introduced within the last few years which grow well: Pearly gates morning glory, a beautiful white sort, cleome pink queen, phlox salmon glory; marigold yellow supreme, zinnia fantasy star dust, marigold limelight, and cornflower jubilee.

Friday, April 13

Keep the immediate area around newly planted trees and shrubs free from weeds. It is best to cultivate the soil, keeping it stirred, and the plants watered whenever necessary. A mulch will keep moisture in the soil over a considerable period; the soil can be watered thru the mulch.

Gardeners wishing a few choice flowers can fill a fair sized coldframe with fragrant violets. They will stand in the frame over winter and furnish innumerable flowers in spring time.

Saturday, April 14

Few plants will stand much sand but the following are suggested: Lobelia, flowering tobacco, pansies, and among the more tender plants, usually grown as pot plants, are begonia semperflorens in variety, fuchsia, and Zanbibar balsam.

The iris in variety, the sedum spectabile, columbine, campanula, meadow rue, hardy aster, garden chrysanthemum, coreopsis, plantain-lily, lily of the valley, and others among the perennials.

The spurge or pachasandra, trailing periwinkle, and lily of the valley are good for planting beneath trees that are barren of grass most of the time.

EVEN PRINCIPAL WOULDN'T KNOW HIS SCHOOL NOW

Building Made Into Coke Bar

Youngsters in Thornton township finally have a place to meet, dance, and leisurely drink their cokes. After a winter of work, reconversion of the old Washington school building into a youth center has been completed.

Open house will be held at 3 p. m. today, climaxing the dedication and first party scheduled for last Friday and yesterday. In today's receiving line will be the boys and girls who are officers and committee chairmen at the center. Guests will include Vernon T. Johnson, president of Thornton Township Youth Activities, Inc.; Dr. William E. McVey, Thornton Township High school superintendent, and Arthur E. Turngren, mayor.

Time Brings Changes

The three rooms of the old school house have been converted into a ballroom, a library or clubroom, and a refreshment room with a semi-circular coke bar. The center will serve youngsters of Harvey and surrounding villages.

Plans for the center were initiated early last winter after Joel Ketonen and Leonard Hirsch of the Rotary club of Harvey investigated the need. When the center was discussed with the young people, such enthusiasm was shown that search immediately was started to find a suitable building. Finally the old Washington school was settled upon and leased from the school board for $1 a year, with option to buy.

The youngsters did most of the alteration and repair work on the building, while their parents, led by Mrs. Harold F. Miller, Thornton High school PTA representative, met to discuss ways and means of raising funds. It was decided to organize the Thornton Township Youth Activities, Inc., and to seek a state charter.

Merchants Give Aid

Industries and merchants answered the call for funds by subscribing almost $1,200. Membership at the center was set at 50 cents monthly, and parents were asked to support the center by contributing $5. It is estimated that $2,000 still is needed to put the building in good condition. Some merchants also donated their time in helping fix the building, while still others gave articles of furniture.

To date the center has a radio, an old piano, chairs, divans, a public address system, a semi-circular coke bar, and is supplied with books and magazines. It is planned to have

LAUNCH BIBLE FUND DRIVE FOR MEN IN SERVICE

Goal in Chicago Set at $250,000

The American Bible society will open a drive this week for $3,000,000 to purchase 11,000,000 Bibles for service men, prisoners of war of all nationalities, and residents of liberated nations.

Chicago's quota in the campaign, which has as a slogan, "Bibles, not Bombs for Tomorrow's World," is $250,000. Daniel Marsh, president of Boston university, will speak Tuesday night at the Palmer House when Chicago's drive will be launched. District chairmen appointed to promote the drive will attend the dinner.

City in 20 Districts

Altho organization for the drive is incomplete, the city has been divided into 20 districts headed in each sector by a clergyman and two laymen.

Among southwest side pastors heading committees are: The Rev. Herman E. Brauer, St. Martini Missouri Synod Lutheran; Dr. J. C. Austin, Pilgrim Baptist; the Rev. R. E. Beckering, Hope Reformed Church in America; the Rev. William F. McDermott, Roseland Presbyterian, and the Rev. Hugh S. MacKenzie, Morgan Park Congregational.

Others to Assist

Other chairmen are Mrs. J. M. Evans, 4108 South Park way; M. E. Dennis, 4 E. 111th st.; Glenn Adams, 11055 S. Homewood av., and Mrs. Holland Flagler, 9762 S. Vanderpoel.

These chairmen will seek gifts of $1,000, $100, and $10. These amounts will purchase 4,400, 440, and 44 Scriptures, respectively. The group hopes to attain its goal by June 1.

SGT. GRACE RHEBERG, VET OF WAR I., BOTH GRANDMOTHER, WAC

Sgt. Grace A. Rheberg fails to see anything unusual in being both a grandmother and a WAC. Nor did she think it out of the ordinary to be one of the first women admitted to service during World War I. Then she served as a yeomanette in the navy, where she met her husband at Newport, R. I.

Sgt. Rheberg.

Sgt. Rheberg lived at 9029 S. May st. until her enlistment in February, 1942, at Fort Oglethorp, Ga. Her group left for foreign duty on Memorial day, 1944, and arrived in Scotland in the early days of the invasion of Normandy. After serving with the R. A. F. in England for three months she moved to France, where she is a teletype operator.

Her son, Warrant Officer Kenneth J. Rheberg, is a statistical officer at Truax field, Wis.

SCRAP MARK SET BY VOCATIONAL SCHOOL PUPILS

Chicago Vocational school collected 77,950 pounds of paper in a one day scrap drive March 23. Representing a total of 118 pounds of paper per student, this figure is the highest per capita average of any Chicago school. Amundsen was second with 109 pounds and Taft third with 90.

In recognition of this achievement Mayor Kelly will present a citation on behalf of the city to a representative of the school and directors, Warren E. Hill. James T. O'Connor, executive secretary of the salvage division, war production board, also will present a citation.

The school, located at 8023 Normal av., has students from all over the city. Some had to carry their bundles long distances. An assortment of cars, trucks, baby buggies, and even rented horse and wagons, were used to collect other bundles.

School Four Years Old

The drive was held under the auspices of the Student council. Mrs. Gregor J. Gentleman is sponsor.

Chicago Vocational school was organized four years ago at 87th and Anthony av. The navy took over the building a year later to establish an air techincal training center. During the past three years the vocational school has been located at its temporary address.

Altho most of the original equipment was transferred to the new school site, many new pieces have been added to the print shop, three machine shops, two wood shops, two electric shops, and aviation, auto mechanic, and welding departments. Four new shops have been completed recently.

Get Shop Training.

The courses are designed to prepare students for trade and supervisory industrial positions. The first two years of the curriculum offer regular high school courses. The junior and senior years combine actual working experience in the shops, with classroom theory. A total of 1,200 hours are spent in shops over a two year period.

Until this semester, only transfer students in their second year were accepted. Next fall, however, graduates of grammer school will be accepted. Is is expected that the school eventually will return to its original building.

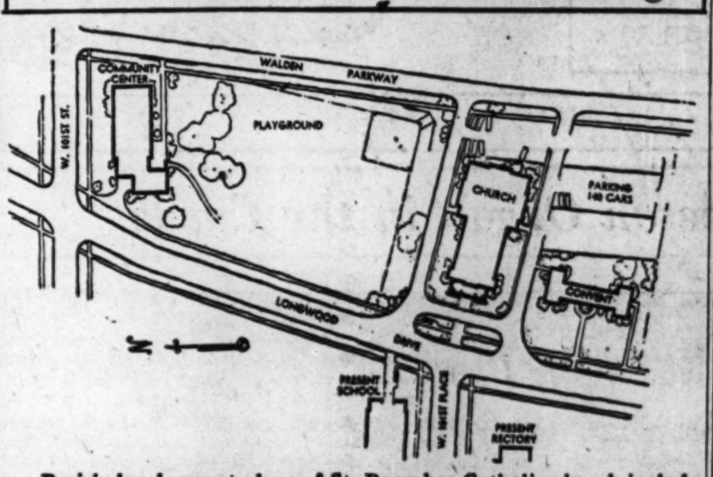
Group in Palmer Park to Seat New Leaders

New officers of the Movie and Slide club of Palmer park will be installed by Dr. Enion Smith, president of the Association of Movie Clubs of Chicago, at 7 p. m. Tuesday in the Nantucket restaurant, 10437 Western av. Officers are Otto H. Bark, 9750 Indiana av., president; William Brubaker, 11208 Indiana av., vice president; Miss Nora Wilson, 10746 Prairie av., secretary, and Kenneth Blackford, 33 E. 101st st., treasurer. Two motion pictures will be shown.

Band of Salvation Army to Give Concert on S. Side

The Salvation Army Chicago staff band will present a concert at 8 p. m. Friday in Foster Park Baptist church, 84th and Justine sts. The band numbers 31 musicians and has played in the United States, Canada, and London, England. The concert is sponsored by the men's brotherhood of the church.

St. Barnabas Parish Plans Buildings



Parish development plans of St. Barnabas Catholic church include a convent, soon to be erected at 101st pl. and Longwood dr., a new church, a community center, playground, and a parking lot. The new buildings will be on the 706 feet of ground on the east side of Longwood dr., running from 101st st. south beyond 101st pl.

ACQUIRE GROUND FOR EXPANSION OF ST. BARNABAS

Convent Is First in Building Plans

Development plans calling for a new church, convent, and community center have been launched by St. Barnabas parish with the purchase of 556 feet of ground on the east side of Longwood dr. from 101st st. south beyond 101st pl. The parish now owns a 706 foot stretch on which the new buildings, a playground and a parking lot will be constructed.

Raise $100,000 Thus Far

Since the beginning of the finance drive for the buildings in December, $100,000 has been collected.

The Rev. Timothy J. Hurley, pastor, has been ill, and the drive is under the direction of the Rev. Frank D. Hayes, administrator, assisted by the Rev. E. Oliver Boyle and the men's committee of the parish. The committee is rotated yearly to give more parish members an opportunity to serve.

Build Convent First

The three story convent, to be erected as soon as priorities can be obtained, will be built at 101st pl. and Longwood dr., and will contain living quarters for the Dominican sisters who teach at St. Barnabas and music instruction rooms. Plans also have been completed for an additional classroom to the school by Gerald A. Barry and Fred D. Kay, architects.

The church was founded in 1924 by Father Hurley and now has 900 families. The combination church and school building was dedicated in 1925 and a kindergarten was added in 1939.

Also with the 8th air force is Staff Sgt. Elmer R. Wilke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilke, 7136 S. Marshfield av., who received the medal in England for his service as tail gunner on a Flying Fortress.

Completion of 600 hours of operational flight in transport aircraft over India-China has brought an oak leaf cluster to the D. F. C. of 2d Lt. William A. Henderson, 6756 S. Green st., a pilot with the air transport.

Two Get D. F. C. in Burma

Two 10th air force pilots who have been awarded the distinguished flying cross in Burma are 1st Lt. Kenneth C. Schaible, son of Mrs. Nell Schaible, 6824 Yale av., and 2d Lt. Donald B. Glennon, son of John B. Glennon, 6344 S. Marshfield av. Lt. Schaible has been in the India-Burma theater four months and his crew is credited with the estruction of three enemy railroad bridges. Lt. Glennon, who also holds the air medal with cluster, has been in the same theater 18 months and is a troop carrier squadron pilot.

First Lt. James B. Heffernon, a student in the officers communications school at Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill., received the distinguished flying cross and a third cluster to his air medal for previous achievements in the North Africa and Mediterranean theaters. His father is John Heffernan, 7138 Harvard av.

CROIX DE GUERRE AWARDED TWO S. W. SIDE MEN

The French government recently awarded decorations to two southwest siders serving with the 3d army for outstanding contributions in the liberation of France. Col. James C. Fitch, husband of Mrs. Helen M. Fitch, 9359 Hamilton av., received the croix de guerre with palm and Lt. Col. William G. Whyte, son of Mrs. R. J. Whyte, 9544 Winchester av., received the croix de guerre with gold star. Col. Fitch, whose wife, Margaret, lives in Washington, D. C., is commander of an engineering regiment, and Col. Whyte is executive officer of the 3d army transportation division.

WALKIE-TALKIES FOR ALL AFTER WAR, SAYS FCC

Jett Sees Many Uses in Peace Time

BY LARRY WOLTERS

Every one may have his own private walkie-talkie type radio transmitter after the war, E. K. Jett, commissioner of the federal communications commission said in a radio talk last week. This radio device, which makes any G. I. Joe his own radio station, will get every chance to make good in a multitude of peace time roles, Jett said. With this objective in view, the FCC has set aside the band from 460 to 470 megacycles for the private use of citizens who may need transmitters for their own short range communication, Jett said.

An immediate need for this sort of service in rural communities and small communities where wire services are not available was foreseen by Jett.

"In large cities it will be more convenient to use the available telephone facilities to communicate between fixed points," he said. "The reliable range of low power walkie-talkie will be limited in large urban areas due to buildings which obstruct the transmission path."

Open to Every One

Jett said the service would be "thrown wide open to any citizen after the war, whether he be an individual who may want a portable suitcase type set for his own purposes, or whether it is a department store, taxicab firm, farmer or anybody else."

Operator requirements will be simple, Jett said. The applicant will be required to certify that he has read the rules and regulations and understands them. That will probably be all he has to do to qualify for an operator's license and a station license. The licenses will run concurrently for five years. This service will be free—no charges being permitted for the transmission of messages.

Low Power and Range

Because of low power and limited range—from 2 to 15 miles, depending on terrain—the 50 available channels can be duplicated many times across the nation in thousands of communities.

Asked how people will be prevented from interfering with one another, Jett said the FCC already had thrown out some suggestions. Public spirited citizens in any community might get together and organize a group [a nonprofit organization] that would hold meetings and agree on the particular channels within the band that should be used by particular organizations or individuals within a given area, he said. Jett said that if the public takes to this citizens service that the FCC may allot additional bands for this purpose.

Not for Big Cities

The service range of walkie-talkie will not be sufficient for reliable two way service thruout a large metropolitan area, Mr. Jett said. In such places the police, transit companies, and similar organizations will use frequencies in a different portion of the spectrum and operate under more restrictive rules.

"This will tend to solve the interference problem in large cities," he said, "in that the citizens' band will be used only by those individuals or organizations which cannot procure privileges in other parts of the radio spectrum."

Salute Hirsch High on 'Citizens of Tomorrow'

Hirsch High school will be saluted on the Citizens of Tomorrow program over W-G-N at 10 a. m. next Saturday. Miss Marie A. McCahey, principal, will speak. Philip Maxwell, who conducts the program, will add two names to the honor roll: Gladys Conley, valedictorian of her class at Hirsch, and Lawrence C. Hastings, Kenosha, Wis. Jack Montalbano, accordionist, will be the student star entertainer. The Hirsch Choral club, directed by Helen Kane, will sing. Dorothy Katzmann will present interscholastic news.

Kate Smith's Guests

Brian Aherne, Shirley Booth, and Jackie [Homer Brown] Kelk of Aldrich family fame will be Kate Smith's guests on WBBM-CBS at 6 o'clock tonight.

Twins on W-G-N

Betty and Peggy Schoenbeck, twin "flagettes" on the Illinois Central's suburban trains will appear on the Quiz of Two Cities over W-G-N at 2 p. m. today. They are shown with Holland Engle, quizmaster.

EARL WILD IS SOLOIST WITH NBC ORCHESTRA

Earl Wild, pianist, will be soloist for the performance of Gershwin's Piano Concerto in F on the Symphony of the Air hour over WMAQ-NBC at 4 p. m. today. A presentation of Hans Spialek's Suite, "The Tall City" by the NBC Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Frank Black, also will be included in the program. Today's concert will be the first in the NBC Symphony orchestra's summer series, which will be conducted by Black.

Ernest Liegl Soloist with W-G-N Orchestra

Ernest Liegl, flutist, will be soloist when the W-G-N Symphony orchestra, directed by Henry Weber, presents Griffes' Poem for Flute day over W-G-N. Other selections: Schubert's Symphony No. 2 in B Flat Major and Rimsky-Korskow's "Capriccio Espagnole."

Post-War Agriculture Round Table Subject

"Will There Be a Post-War Agriculture Collapse?" is the subject to be considered on the University of Chicago Round Table over WMAQ-NBC at 12:30 p. m. today. Participants will be Allan Kline, Arthur Moore, and Prof. T. W. Schultz.

STEGER WORKERS GIVEN E INSIGNIA FOR ATTENDANCE

For perfect attendance on their war jobs for the last three months 188 Steger workers recently were awarded the WPB individual E insignia by Paul A. Jenkins, deputy director of the agency. All are employed by the Steger Furniture Manufacturing company or its subsidiaries, Steger Steel and Steger Products Manufacturing corporations.

Among those receiving the award were George Seiter, 87, Pasquale De Lorenzo, 81, and Andrew Anderson, 74, all of Steger.

Steger residents employed by the company for 13 years who received the award are Angelo and Michael De Lorenzo, Victor Mattosz, Everett D. Cole, John T. Thorndike, and Francis Dunn. Other 13 year employes also honored are Gustave Luecke, Crete, and Philip Pastere, Chicago Heights. Angelo De Lorenzo is plant manager.

A SCHOOL CHILD'S HERO-COP WINS PARENTS, ALSO

$100 Bond Testifies to Their Gratitude

M. J. Lenehan

Gratitude of Brainerd residents to a 6 foot policeman, who has watched over their children at 88th st. and Ashland av., was expressed recently by a $100 war bond awarded him at a luncheon.

This is not the first such award for Policeman Matthew J. Lenehan, 8737 S. Carpenter st., who recently retired after 39 years on the force. He treasurers a gold watch bearing the inscription: "With the love and admiration of the Felsenthal pupils to their friend." He received it in Mercy hospital while recovering from injuries suffered when he pushed three children from the path of a runaway horse pulling a peddler's wagon.

"Kids by the 50" Visited Him

"It was a brisk fall day in 1921," related Lenehan, "and papers flying around scared a peddler's horse which bolted directly toward three children playing in 41st st. near Calumet av." Lenehan, who at 63 says he can run "like a deer," not only saved the children and caught the horse but held onto the reins until he stopped the horse a quarter block away.

"Matt's efforts above and beyond the duties of a police officer, and his understanding manner and kindly protection of small children and elderly people have particularly endeared him to Brainerd residents," stated Albert Eleder, 8619 Loomis st., chairman of the group which presented the bond.

Born in Ireland

Lenehan, who was born in Ireland, joined the force Nov. 29, 1906, and made two arrests his first night on the job. The men, coming out of a drug store at 26th st. and Wentworth av. at 2 a. m., looked suspicious so Lenehan took them to the station. It developed that they had broken into the store.

Another present of which Lenehan is proud is the $38 which children of St. Ethelreda's school presented him just before his retirement. "I heard the little ones asking each other if they'd brought their dime, but I never realized they were taking a collection for me," he said.

BROTHERS END THREE YEAR SEPARATION AT REUNION IN BELGIUM

Sgt. Frank J. Stec

Pvt. Matthew Stec

Two southwest side brothers recently met at an air base in Belgium after being separated three years. Pvt. Matthew S. Stec, a driver in a fighter-bomber group of the 9th air force, was visited by his brother, Staff Sgt. Frank J., who traveled from the 7th army front in France for the reunion.

Sons of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Stec, 5931 S. Artesian av., they have three other brothers in service.

Matthew hadn't seen Frank since the latter joined the army three years ago.

What kind of a receipt do you get?

When you pay bills by check you have a valid receipt in the handwriting of the payee.

When you pay in person you may or may not get a receipt and you may not be able to find it when you need it.

Receipts are more important than ever in these days of short-handed billing and accounting departments, forced to use inexperienced help.

Either type of checking account affords you a receipt—our regular checking account or our ThriftiCheck plan.

The regular checking account is best for the business house or business man who can maintain sizable balances. The ThriftiCheck plan is ideal for the individual who draws a comparatively few checks a month and does not wish to maintain any fixed balance. Our officers will be pleased to discuss with you which type is best for your purpose.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, April 9

Keep the pot plants well watered. The flowering kinds like a sunny window, but some, like the saintpaulia or African violet, palms, ferns, certain begonias, and viney things like the English ivy, philodendron, pothos, asparagus fern, dumb cane [dieffenbachia], need light but not direct sunlight. Watch for insects.

There is yet time to sow many annuals indoors to get fine husky plants for the garden. Do not plant directly in outdoor beds. Place the pots or boxes of young in a not too sunny place for a few days so that the plants harden.

Tuesday, April 10

Garden twine can be made to last longer if it is placed in a solution of alum for a few days. Cucumber seeds can be sown in strawberry boxes or pots and the seedlings transplanted outdoors in late May.

Watch for the cucumber beetle for it eats the leaves. Use about 20 parts gypsum to one part calcium arsenate as a dust to cover the foliage.

Prunings from roses can be cut into pieces a foot long and placed in the ground on a semi-shady spot. They should root in a short time and can be transplanted.

Wednesday, April 11

If early vegetables are well above ground, make another sowing, but do not overplant. To prevent cutworms from chewing most members of the cabbage family and young tomato plants, place a collar 1½ inches deep and 1½ inches above the ground around them.

Be sure to grow only disease resistant tomato plants. Varieties like marglobe are of this type. To prevent blossom end rot on tomatoes keep the plants well watered during dry periods.

Thursday, April 12

Newer annuals are much in demand. Here are a few introduced within the last few years which grow well: Pearly gates morning glory, a beautiful white sort, cleome pink queen, phlox salmon glory; marigold yellow supreme, zinnia fantasy star dust, marigold limelight, and cornflower jubilee.

Friday, April 13

Keep the immediate area around newly planted trees and shrubs free from weeds. It is best to cultivate the soil, keeping it stirred, and the plants watered whenever necessary. A mulch will keep moisture in the soil over a considerable period; the soil can be watered thru the mulch.

Gardeners wishing a few choice flowers can fill a fair sized coldframe with fragrant violets. They will stand in the frame over winter and furnish innumerable flowers in spring time.

Saturday, April 14

Few plants will stand much sand but the following are suggested: Lobelia, flowering tobacco, pansies, and among the more tender plants, usually grown as pot plants, are begonia semperflorens in variety, fuchsia, and Zanbibar balsam.

The iris in variety, the sedum spectabile, columbine, campanula, meadow rue, hardy aster, garden chrysanthemum, coreopsis, plantain-lily, lily of the valley, and others among the perennials.

The spurge or pachasandra, trailing periwinkle, and lily of the valley are good for planting beneath trees that are barren of grass most of the time.

Lack of Audience Contact Hurts Theater, Critic Says

'Venus' in Huge Opera House Is Case in Point

By Claudia Cassidy

Two people stole two shows last week, and tho both are faithful to song in their fashion, they haven't much else in common, being that Mary Martin.

Burl Ives.

dry point etching of a dryad, Mary Martin, and that matchless man mountain of a minstrel, Burl Ives. Mr. Ives got the better break. "Sing Out, Sweet Land!" isn't up to him, being half amateur, half professional, and sadly in need of singers like Josh White and Libby Holman to challenge him on their own ground, but it gives him the ballad boon of intimacy, so that you get the twinkle in his blue eyes, the merry twitch of his full lips, and the easy magic of his voice undistorted by amplification.

Miss Martin is cut off from her audience by a moat of an orchestra pit without a drawbridge. I'm told better sound equipment is being rushed in to clear up that feeling the stage is inhabited by a bunch of ventriloquists and their dummies, but how about Miss Martin herself? A connoisseur of such bewitchment, disadvantageously seated at the opening, asked me next day, "How does Martin look up close?" Harking back to my New York view in a relatively small theater and sorting adjectives carefully, I finally came up with devastating. He was overcome with woe. "From where I sat," he mourned, "she was all angles."

Now that not only isn't right, it isn't theater. The first thing we know people will be calling this show "I Married an Angle." If theater is to survive it must have audience contact. The movies can take the wink of an eyelid up to the remotest gallery, but who wants to sit up there and see a lot of puppets on a distant stage? Who even wants to sit way back on the main floor and guess at what is going on? I've been asking those questions for years, ever since plays that belonged in theaters began greedily to invade first the Auditorium and then the Civic Opera house, intent on ramming what could and should be a run into a few cleanup weeks. Producers used to reply that theater should not be a luxury, and that the bigger the house, the lower the prices. I haven't heard that lately, because between you and me and the boxoffice, the difference is in sight and sound, not cash.

'DEAR RUTH'

Rosemary Rice as the adolescent letter writer who causes all the complications in "Dear Ruth" Norman Krasna's comedy coming to the Harris April 16.

So the producers beat a strategic retreat to the high cost of production, wailing piteously about the necessity for larger capacity. No doubt that is why the Shuberts acquired the long abandoned Majestic on long term lease and propose to have it redecorated and refurnished by midsummer, remodeling to wait until after the war. Once the key theater of Chicago vaudeville and much later the home of "Lysistrata," the Majestic has a big stage and seats some 2,000 people, which is about half as many as the opera house and about twice as many as the town's average theater. It sounds like an amiable solution with both producer and customer satisfied. J. J. Shubert says he hopes to open the Majestic around the end of June, with "one of the outstanding musical successes of New York." What's your guess? Mine's "Song of Norway."

But getting back to Mary Martin, maybe she likes the wide open spaces, theatrical or otherwise. She is a Texan, from Weatherford, and you can't set foot in the southwest without hearing about it. She tried her luck first in Hollywood, with results so unimposing she called herself Audition Mary. But Lawrence Schwab saw her dancing at the Trocadero, and tho his Broadway show fell thru, Vinton Freedley's didn't. It was "Leave It to Me" and Miss Martin sang "My Heart Belongs to Daddy." Every one thought he was daddy, including Hollywood, so out she went for pictures, with Bing Crosby and others. When "Venus" ends its brief spring tour, she goes to the coast to make the film for Mary Pickford.

Count me on the Martin bandwagon. I like the way she looks, the way she moves, the way she almost sings, the way she unmistakably acts. I like her diamond cut precision of line and the way it melts into gossamer when she dances. I like the fact that she looks as much like a goddess as Zorina looked like an angel. It's casting like that that makes make-believe believable.

Burl Ives, they tell me, was born in Hunt Township, Ill. [pop. 50], no doubt so named because you have to hunt so hard to find it on the map. Because his father liked Scott he was named Burl Icle Ivanhoe Ives and in spite of it he grew up to 6 feet, 1 inch and 270 pounds. But it is a rolling name and he rolled thru 46 states, missing Washington and Oregon, tho with no thought of hurting their feelings. He took his guitar along the hobo trail and soaked up songs. His ballad recordings are in the Library of Congress, but he didn't know until Carl Sandburg told him that "Blue Tail Fly" was Abraham Lincoln's favorite song.

He lives on an 85 foot coal barge turned into a houseboat with a sun deck and a pine paneled cabin, keeps it tied up at Whitestone Landing, N. Y., with a sailboat handy. Once a professional football player, later a member of the cast of "This Is the Army," he was, of all things, a boy evangelist. "O yes," he says, "I used to bring 'em right into the fold. It's a wonderful feeling when you get religion. But the first dance I went to they played the 'Wabash Blues.' I had a little redhead gal with me and I got that same feeling. I said to myself, Boy, this ain't religion. It's music! And I decided not to be a preacher."

What is he now? The critics compared him to everything from Mark Twain to Mary Garden, but Mr. Ives may have the right idea. He says, "I'm just a guy who sings."

THE GOLDEN TOTEM

BY BARRETT WILLOUGHBY

(Copyright: 1945: By Barrett Willoughby.)

INSTALMENT XIV.

GREER angrily bolted away down the slope. When he was out of earshot Court said: "Flan, you old devil, I should poke you one for galloping down here with your blunderbuss. That was lousy business, my lad. But boy! Did he leap when the bullet hit that log!" Court lifted his chin and laughed.

Flan did not laugh. He stood watching the torchlight's flickering path in the night. His voice came to Lynn, clear and deep and free from the slightest trace of brogue: "Mother of God, how I hate him—that pseudo-Sourdough; that professional Alaskan. Drunk, sober, or in remorse, I hate him worse than I do a rattlesnake."

Lynn heard with a sense of shock. But she dared not wait for Court's response. If she was to get back to Illahee before the Prospector arrived there, she must ride and ride fast.

She was leading Troubadour into the stable when she saw the lighted lantern on the feed box. A tall figure stepped out from the roan's stall. She smothered a scream. "Tonglaw! How dare you startle me so? What's wrong with you tonight?"

"I'm sorry, Miss Clonard. I'll put Troubadour up for you."

"Look here! Have you been spying on me? Following me?"

"I did not follow you. I've been waiting for you."

In a moment he was back in front of her with a yellow slicker he had taken from a hook. "Button yourself into this, Miss Clonard. I'll attend to Troubadour after I've seen you to the house."

To save argument, Lynn obeyed. They had not gone a dozen steps along the woodland trail before the rushing black heavens seemed to fall apart. A solid sheet of gale driven rain hit Lynn's face with a force that flattened her eyelids. "O!" she gasped. Her groping hand went out and touched some one ahead of her. She felt strong, lean fingers close over hers. Tonglaw's voice came reassuringly: "I'm here in front, Miss Clonard. Hang on. I'll go ahead and break the force of the storm for you."

Lynn reached her room, and without turning on her light, made ready for bed. While she was still wide awake and shivering with excitement in her bed, the jingle of the Prospector's engine bells sounded down at the float. A heavy squall hit the house, sluicing the windows with rain and making the timbers of Illahee tremble. In the midst of it she heard a smothered exclamation and running footsteps — the men from the cruiser hurrying on to their distant quarters. She drew a deep breath of relief. Another day was over.

Morning brought problems that took precedence over Lynn's personal affairs. A summer gale was battering Illahee and the view from every window was a tossing blur of green seen thru sluicing rain. A dismal prospect for the visitors; and a distinct setback for Greer, whose commercial welfare depended on his guests being favorably impressed with the pleasures and advantages of Illahee.

Lynn found a note from him shoved under her bedroom door:

Dear Lynn:

It is important that you stay at Illahee all day and do your best to keep our visitors from becoming bored. Better lock MacFarlane in your room so he won't annoy Mrs. Chandler.

J. G.

Lynn went down to the kitchen to find still another problem. Tonglaw informed her that Mrs. Strum had received bad news of some kind on last night's mail, and would be unable to get breakfast. But she had promised to take over lunch.

"That puts it up to us, Tonglaw." Lynn was already tying on Mrs. Strum's voluminous apron.

Tonglaw surprised and pleased her by responding. "I'm a good cook, Miss Clonard. You give the orders; I'll carry them out. The guests all want breakfast in bed."

By noon, when the listless visitors began to straggle downstairs, Lynn had managed to create an illusion of cheer, even of festivity, thruout the house. In the living room the dreary windows and French doors were hidden under the heavy soft folds of drawn curtains. Driftlogs quietly flamed in the big gold-quartz fireplace. She had experimented successfully with lights, and had the right sort of recorded music playing just loud enough on the phono-radio under the gallery.

The guests had no sooner settled themselves in their chairs than Greer and Perry burst in out of the storm, laughing and glowing with vitality. With them came the clean, sharp breath of the gale, the rain-drenched forests, and the pungency of the yellow oilskins they wore. Each one carried a wet bouquet of wild hyacinths which they presented, with mock ceremony, to Stella Chandler.

Cocktails were served to those who wished them. Lunch, set out with the best silver, crystal, and linen, definitely banished the last sign of rainy-day lethargy.

Mrs. Strum had risen to the occasion by cooking Alaska products as only she could cook them: King salmon, caught yesterday, served with her peanut butter Hollandaise. Alaska grown vegetables and ivory hearts of lettuce, each with its incomparable "midnight sun" flavor. Dessert — a deep open faced raspberry pie—announced its withdrawal from the oven ahead of time by its delicious hot aroma, was served with Juneau dairy cream treated in some way that made it, so Doctor Baxter declared, the equal of any Devonshire cream he had ever tasted.

During lunch Greer apologized for his morning absence. "We had a little excitement at the mine," he explained. "The first blast uncovered an unusual widening of the vein."

"Bully!" exclaimed the doctor. "Since we can't go fishing in this weather, why can't we go over to look at the mine?"

Greer made a deprecatory gesture. "The storm is pretty bad, doctor. And you'd have to walk thru the woods. After you got there, I'm afraid you'd find little to interest you."

Mrs. Chandler looked up sharply. "We'd find the vein of ore that furnished the material for your fireplace, wouldn't we?"

"O, yes. But I've been working the mine only in a small way, Mrs. Chandler. Proving it before I risk much money in development work. However, with this very satisfactory widening of the vein I'm now in position to go after more capital, and take out the big values I know are there."

"I understand, Mr. Greer." She gave him her push-button smile. And then, as a terrific rain squall hit the curtained windows, she added, "And—I can wait."

Before dessert was served, Lynn slipped away from the table. Under her direction Tonglaw moved the living room furniture back against the walls. When the others came in after lunch, Stella Chandler swept the arrangement with brightening black eyes. "Ah! Dancing!"

"Well — no," replied Lynn. "I thought the men might like to get out their fishing tackle and look it over. The room is big enough and high enough so they can test the power and balance of their rods and even practice the laying of flies, if they want to."

Doctor Baxter greeted Lynn's efforts with a cheer. "Bravo, my dear! Where did you learn the way to a fisherman's heart?"

Lynn flashed her crooked little Clonard grin at him. "I was reared by a popular young aunt who was persistently courted by fishermen," she said.

Greer helped bring the tackle down from the gun room off the gallery; but he took no active part in the session that followed. He sat watching Lynn with his steady, gray gaze.

Meanwhile, Stella Chandler and Perry had staved off boredom in their own way. They visited the kitchen and brought back reports on the progress of the dinner Mrs. Strum was preparing. Prime sirloin roast of Alaska beef, with Yorkshire pudding. Perfection salad. English trifle. Between reports they experimented in the dining room with a cocktail shaker, liberally sampling their various concoctions, and finally deciding that Perry's special blend was the best.

At 5 o'clock, when the furniture was replaced and the men were comfortably seated telling fish stories, the pair marched into the living room side by side and singing. Stella bore a tray of hors d'oeuvre, Perry a service of glasses and a mammoth cocktail shaker filled with mamma's downfalls. They were singing:

"We're coming, we're coming, our brave little band!
On the safe side of temperance we now take our stand.
We don't use tobacco because we do think
That those who use it are most apt to drink."

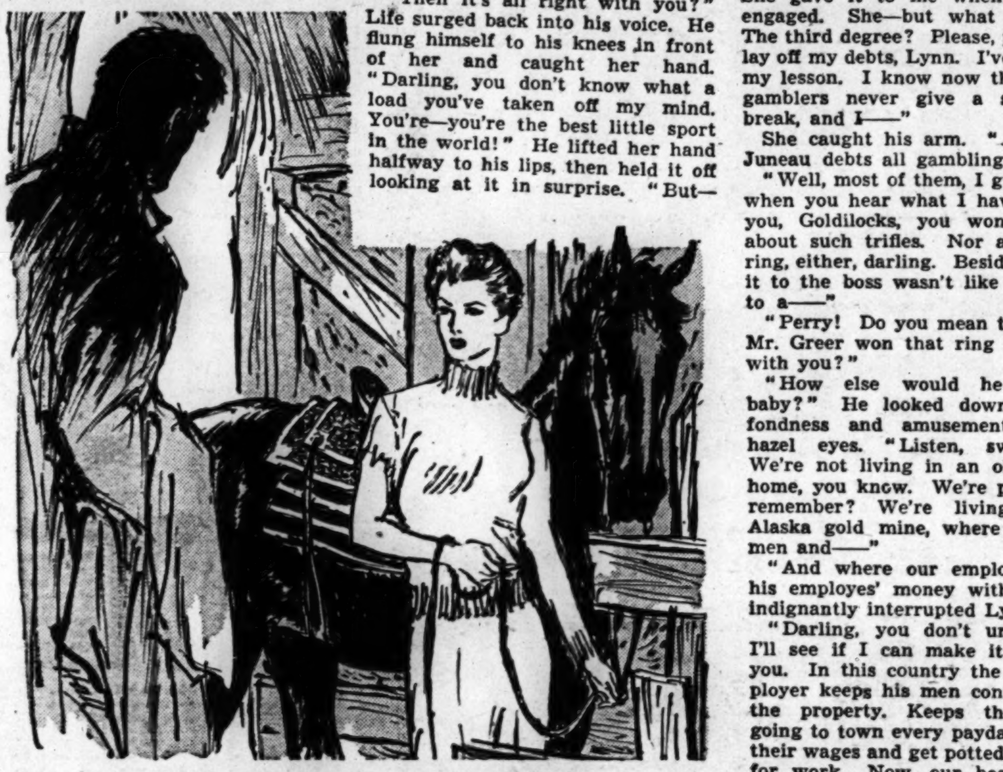
It wasn't until after dinner that Lynn found an opportunity to slip away and meet Perry in the gun-room upstairs.

"I suppose I'll never see you alone for more than a minute, until this mob leaves," he complained, holding her close. "Darn it, I wanted to stick around with you this afternoon—you were so cute with the fishermen, darling. But that Stella——" He finished with a shrug and a flip of his hand. "The way you dangle the customers along during this lousy weather is saving the boss' bacon. Stella even commented on it. Said your act this afternoon was a new one to her."



"Look here! Have you been spying on me?"

"What act?"

"You know—putting on the heavy, wide eyed interest in the fishing dope the paunchie old boys were handing you."

"That wasn't an act, Perry. I'm really interested in fishing. And I like men who are enthusiastic about sports—when they're not cruel. There's something clean and forever young about such men."

He held her off to study her face a moment. "Darned if I know much about you, Goldilocks. And," he added dismally, "I'll have small chance to learn anything this week. The boss has taken me off my job and sicked me onto Stella."

"Not really?"

He nodded. "She's not going fishing. I've got to clown around and keep her interested while he takes the Baxter party off on the Prospector. They'll be gone at least three days, maybe more," Perry groaned.

"It may not be so bad," Lynn responded absently. She was wondering how best to handle the subject of the sapphire ring.

"Sit down beside me on this low locker. . . . There. Now, tell me, did you bring me dad's picture from your suitcase?"

"O, that. No, lovely. It's still at the bunkhouse. I'm sorry. But don't look so sunk about it, Lynn. I'll gallop thru the storm and fetch it to you if you say the word. Shall I?"

"Of course not, silly." She was quiet a moment, then abruptly she said: "Mr. Greer gave your engagement ring back to me."

The statement dropped like a stone in the pool of his silence. But finally he answered. "Then—you know."

"Yes."

He got up, walked to the dark window a-run with rain, and came back to stand before her. "Lynn, I've been trying to tell you about that all week. Now—well, I suppose you hate me." His gaze was uncertain, wistful.

"No, of course I don't hate you. But——"

"Then it's all right with you?" Life surged back into his voice. He flung himself to his knees in front of her and caught her hand. "Darling, you don't know what a load you've taken off my mind. You're—you're the best little sport in the world!" He lifted her hand halfway to his lips, then held it off looking at it in surprise. "But—where's my ring? You're not wearing it!"

"I returned it to Mr. Greer."

"For gosh sakes, Goldilocks! You shouldn't have done that. The boss must have meant to wipe out the debt. Maybe you've hurt his feelings. Maybe——"

"I told him I would rather you gave the ring back to me—after reimbursing him. I told him you would do this when you returned from Juneau."

"Holy Pete! Why, I can't do that, Lynn. I haven't a dollar to my name."

"You will have. Henriette sent me a check for a wedding present. I didn't use it, of course. I put it in back of dad's picture——"

"Sweetheart, do we have to waste the only time we have together talking about money? Let's forget it, darling." His arm went about her in the old possessive way.

"Perry, it's important that we get this ring business settled. Henriette's check is made out to cash for $250. Just the amount you need. I'll pay her back when I earn some money. But now, tomorrow, you take it and give it to Mr. Greer for the ring."

Perry got up. He lit a cigaret, took a long draw on it, and crushed it out in a tray. He looked at her out of the corner of his eye. Then, seemingly encouraged by her expression, he grinned engagingly. "Lovely," he said, reaching for both her hands and drawing her up to him. "I've been a bad boy." He slapped his own cheek lightly with her fingers. "The photographer found the check. He gave it to me. And I"—playfully he hung his head—"I spent it."

"No!" Lynn jerked her hands free. "You couldn't do that! It wasn't yours!"

"Sweetheart, be reasonable! It was a wedding present, wasn't it? From my own cousin, wasn't it? We'd have spent it sooner or later, wouldn't we? And so—O, for Pete's sake, Lynn, don't look at me as if I'd committed a crime. I was up against it, I tell you. The fellows were crowding me so hard I——"

"What fellows?"

He spaced his words in gentle exasperation: "The guys I owe money to. Get this, Lynn—I was in Juneau for weeks without a job. I went into debt. And so—but can't we get off this damned subject, darling? Honest, I've got something to tell you that will——"

"Perry," she persisted, in a small, apprehensive voice, "you—didn't go into debt to buy that ring for me, did you?"

"O, no, no," he said with weary patience. "It's one Henriette picked up the last time she was in Paris. She gave it to me when we got engaged. She—but what is this? The third degree? Please, p-l-e-a-s-e, lay off my debts, Lynn. I've learned my lesson. I know now that these gamblers never give a sucker a break, and I——"

She caught his arm. "Are your Juneau debts all gambling debts?"

"Well, most of them, I guess. But when you hear what I have to tell you, Goldilocks, you won't worry about such trifles. Nor about the ring, either, darling. Besides, losing it to the boss wasn't like losing it to a——"

"Perry! Do you mean to tell me Mr. Greer won that ring gambling with you?"

"How else would he get it, baby?" He looked down at her, fondness and amusement in his hazel eyes. "Listen, sweetheart. We're not living in an old maid's home, you know. We're pioneers—remember? We're living at an Alaska gold mine, where men are men and——"

"And where our employer wins his employes' money with cards!" indignantly interrupted Lynn.

"Darling, you don't understand. I'll see if I can make it clear to you. In this country the wise employer keeps his men contented on the property. Keeps them from going to town every payday to blow their wages and get potted and unfit for work. Now, our boss likes a game of poker as well as the rest of us. That's really all the recreation we fellows have in this out of the way hole. And—well, you see how it is," he finished lamely, with a gesture of his long, slim hand.

Lynn looked at him, bereft of words. She felt his reasoning to be false, yet she knew it was hopeless to try to make him see her viewpoint. There seemed to be something missing in him.

"Perry——" She took one of his hands in hers. "I've just come to a decision. Illahee is no place for you and me. And I don't want to work any longer for a man who gambles with his employes and takes their money—even their jewelry."

"There you go again, Lynn! "Money! Can't you think of anything else? The boss is all right, I tell you. He's promised us each a big bonus at the end of the season in October. Look here, darling, you're a girl—an outside girl at that. You don't understand the way men run things in Alaska. You——"

"I understand enough to know this is no place for you—for us. We've got to leave, Perry."

"We can't leave. I haven't a cent. I——"

"But I have, Perry. That $50 on my salary account that you borrowed from me the other night."

Perry quickly glanced away as tho he didn't want to meet her gaze.

Lynn went on, "Darling, I'm not being capricious or dictatorial. Believe me, I don't want to leave Illahee. I love it better than any other place I've ever seen. But I feel there's something not quite right here now. I don't know exactly what it is, but I feel we ought to go away. With that $50 we could——"

"Lynn!" He faced her, suddenly grim. His voice was harsh. "Get this: I can't leave. I owe Greer a couple of hundred I borrowed before you came. In addition I owe him for the ring. I've got to stay here and work out the debt. Furthermore, since you drag it out of me, you haven't any $50. I shot the works that night in a poker game."

What Has Gone Before

Lynn Clonard spends her vacation with one of her Aunt Julie's friends and meets Perry Holloway, who is heading for Alaska. Perry asks her to marry him. They become engaged and will marry at Christmas time. Perry wires he has a job as foreman in a mine and asks her to come immediately to Alaska and marry him there. Lynn has just enough money for a one-way passage. Court Faber, young mining engineer, rescues Lynn and her dog from an accident on the boat. Perry is late meeting her, arriving helplessly drunk. Lynn tells Perry she will not marry him. Jefferson Greer is approached by Court and refuses to grant him a right of way to Faber's claim. Greer tricks Lynn into asking for a job as secretary at his mine, the Golden Totem. En route to the mine Lynn learns that Greer is Perry's boss. Out canoeing, Lynn sees Faber and Tonglaw, Greer's houseman, studying over papers. Perry asks for another chance. Out walking, Lynn meets Flan O'Hara and Court, who is impressed when he learns she is not married. Later Greer tells Lynn he loaned money to Faber's father and in his absence acquired the Golden Totem when the mortgage was foreclosed. Court's father was drowned and Court is still bitter. Greer sends Perry to Juneau to meet some prospective investors. While Perry is gone Greer tells Lynn she is his ideal woman. Mrs. Stella Chandler, one of Greer's former secretaries, arrives with the party from Juneau. Lynn dislikes her, but Greer asks Lynn and Perry to humor her. Greer discovers Court is taking advantage of the high tide to get his drill stem across Greer's land. Lynn slips out in the night and helps Court outwit Greer in getting Court's drill stem safely on his land.

by
HARRY SYLVESTER

A sex-ridden coterie of sophisticates wintering in New Mexico; a primitive sect practising strange and violent rites; a young man not quite the objective scientist he supposed—from these ingredients Harry Sylvester has built a novel in which the intense excitement of events is matched by the drama of spiritual conflict. Set against a weirdly beautiful background, it focuses in the harsh light of a modern intelligence the eternal war between good and evil.

THE LITERARY SPOTLIGHT

by Fanny Butcher

WHEN the Friends of American Writers made the presentation of their 1945 awards 250 enthusiastic members and guests assembled for luncheon in honor of the year's winner, Warren Beck, author of "Final Score." . . . Mrs. Colin M. Higgins, president of the club, turned the meeting over to Mrs. George A. Harriman, chairman of the award committee. . . . Before Mr. Beck made the main speech of the day Mrs. Harriman gave her colleagues word of Paul Hughes, last year's winner of the award. . . . He wrote that with its help he had been able to recover his health, rent himself an office where he could retire to work, in Ada, Okla., where he lives. . . . Mr. Hughes had completed his novel. . . . The title is "Challenge at Chang Sha." . . . The award, he said, had come to him at the moment when he was lowest in spirits and in health and had given him inspiration to regain both.

She then introduced the guests of honor, including David Appel, Frederic Babcock, A. C. Spectorsky, and Phyllis Whitney, and your Spotlighter—all of us purveyors of news about books; Stanley Pargellis, one of the city's most generous loaners of books—he is librarian of the Newberry library—and Walter McKee, representative of Alfred A. Knopf, publisher of "Final Score." . . . Mr. McKee quipped about Mr. Beck: "While 'Final Score' may be his first attempt, his first attempt will not be his final score."

Marion Strobel Mitchell, co-editor with Peter De Vries of Poetry magazine, in accepting the award of $50 for the magazine, made a graceful little speech about its importance to young writers. . . . She read poems written by Sgt. Karl Shapiro, who is serving in the South Pacific, and Robert Penn Warren, now a fellow of the Library of Congress.

A Modest Poet

Three days after the meeting of the Friends of American Writers, Robert Penn Warren gave a stimulating and erudite talk in the Poetry magazine's series of lectures on the modern arts. . . . He was introduced by Peter De Vries, here briefly from New York. . . . Mr. Warren talked about Robert Frost, whose "The Masque of Reason" has just been published to celebrate his 70th birthday. . . . A handsome special edition, printed at the Spiral Press, is limited to 800 copies, all of them signed by the author. . . . The Poetry group's audience was disappointed to find the lecturer so modest that he did not read any of his own poetry.

The talk which Warren Beck gave in accepting the Friends of American Writers award—$500 in cash, plus $250 in war bonds—was a witty enlargement of the subject, "A Writer's Friends." . . . He named many of the cantankerous writers of the past for whom friendship was difficult, if not impossible. . . . He amusingly labeled as ambiguous the title of Whit Burnett's "The Literary Life and the Hell with It." . . . He concluded, however, that most writers are not too markedly eccentric to have friends, that what makes a writer's writing count is reading, and that his readers are a writer's best friends. . . . Mr. Beck quoted his little boy of eight, who, when he heard that the Friends of American Writers had given his father $750, said, "They are certainly friends of yours," and gravely added, "Well, then I suppose that makes you an American writer." . . . A little while later, Mr. Beck said, the child asked him in all seriousness, "Father, are you really a novelist, or just a book man?"

How Novels Are Born

Another recent literary visitor was Henrietta Buckmaster, author of "Deep River," a moving novel about slavery before the Civil war, and "Let My People Go," a stirring nonfiction record of the abolition movement and the underground railroad of the pre-Civil war days. . . . She came to Chicago under the auspices of the Abraham Lincoln school. . . . Henrietta Buckmaster is her pseudonym. . . . Her real name is Henrietta Henkle [Mrs. P. J. Stephens]. . . . It was while she was doing research work on the underground railroad for the Reader's Digest that she became so interested in the subject that she made a deep study of it. . . . From the material left over from the factual "Let My People Go" she wrote "Deep River." . . . She prefers, she says, the fictional to the factual approach in her literary work, altho she gathers the material for her fiction with the same meticulous care that she uses in research for her factual books. . . . She has recently been awarded a Guggenheim fellowship to work on a biography of William Lloyd Garrison. . . . It is turning into a biography of a whole period [1831-'66]. . . . She has been given Garrison's courtship letters by members of his family in Boston.

Library Week Proclaimed

The T. B. Blackstone branch of the Chicago Public library celebrated its 40th anniversary last Monday. . . . The week of April 29-May 5 has been officially proclaimed as Chicago Public Library week. . . . To wind up the week's celebrations the Friends of the Chicago Public Library will give its annual luncheon, with the president, Otto Eisenschiml, author of a group of fascinating books about Lincoln and an autobiography, "Without Fame," presiding. . . . On Thursday of last week, before the Chicago Library club, Paul Witty of the school of education of Northwestern might have been extremely witty about the subject given him, which was "Implication of the Army Literacy Program for Librarians." . . . Couldn't the implication so easily be that it was the librarians for whom a literacy program had been devised?

Mr. Eisenschiml will undoubtedly be one of the countless Lincoln collectors who will pay their homages to the scholarly job which Jay Monaghan of the Illinois Historial society has done in compiling the two volume "Lincoln Bibliography." . . . It is Volume XXXI. of the collections of the Illinois State Historical library. . . . Every Lincoln collector in the country will rush to own a copy. . . . The items are listed chronologically, described in detail, and the annotations are a running commentary on the great man's career. . . . The index is lengthy and complete, and, believe it or not, 3,958 items are listed. . . . Jay Monaghan's scholarly book on Lincoln's foreign policy, "Diplomat in Carpet Slippers," is promised for April 18.

New York Likes 'Glass Menagerie' as Much as Chicago Does

CHICAGO'S major consolation for losing "The Glass Menagerie" is that New York likes it as much as we do. Reports by telephone, telegraph, newspaper, letter—in fact, by every known method of communication save the carrier pigeon momentarily expected at my window sill—indicate one of those first nights that make up to actors, playwrights, producers, and critics for what they suffer in pursuit of their chosen craft. There were, I hear, about 25 curtain calls in response to bravura shouts and whistles from the audience. Eddie Dowling, his teeth chattering with excitement, bolstered Laurette Taylor bravely, with "D-d-don't you d-d-dare faint!" He wasn't so very calm even when he reported by long distance [you remember his father was a telephone man who fell in love with it], saying Taylor was magnificent, Julie Haydon gave an exquisite performance, Tony Ross got his usual big hand on his exit, and Tennessee Williams, summoned by shouts of "Author!" blushed, held his hand to his heart and generally looked like a youngster getting his eagle Scout badge. He was, admitted Mr. Dowling, pretty happy at everything but leaving Chicago.

Nor did the reviewers do anything to dampen enthusiasm. A radio reporter rushed out to tell his palpitating public "The Glass Menagerie" should run 20 years and win all the awards for the next 10. Only two critics failed to be fully enmeshed in its magic. The AP's Jack O'Brian thought either Saroyan or Maxwell Anderson should have written it and PM's Louis Kronenberger thought Chekhov could have done a better job, but otherwise they had no complaints. Lewis Nichols of the Times found the whole thing as welcome as spring; Burton Rascoe of the World Telegram called it "an event of first importance"; John Chapman of the News called it "enchanting, truly hypnotic"; Wilella Waldorf of the Post wrote "high point of the season so far"; Robert Coleman of the Mirror said "sheer magic, restores faith in and distinction to the theater"; Otis L. Guernsey of the Herald-Tribune "hailed it with joy"; Ward Morehouse of the Sun said "A new hit"; Bob Garland of the Journal-American wrote "memorable, flawless, inimitable."

Well, as Mr. Chapman remarks in this very section, "Chicago's popular endorsement of 'The Glass Menagerie' has been vindicated, for the New York critics have greeted it and its star, Laurette Taylor, with all the ecstatic phrases at their command," and that's mighty white of him. Mr. Chapman, you must understand, still regards us severely for our hospitality to "Good Night Ladies" and "School for Brides," apparently not having noted that Broadway's long run records belong to "Tobacco Road" and "Abie's Irish Rose" and that while "School for Brides" was neglected here for nine weeks it has been flourishing in New York since August, which is suspiciously like nine months.

Just one more thing, before we sign off "The Glass Menagerie," at least for today. Those wonderful pictures taken of the play for the Tribune Graphic section of Feb. 11 have been widely copied, with cause. The one of Eddie Dowling as the narrator leaning against Jo Mielziner's shadowy stoop appears on the cover of the current issue of Theater Arts. I think it's high time you knew those pictures, all of them, were taken by Josef Szalay, a Tribune camera man. He awed even the actors by his temperament. He told Dowling what to do so often Dowling finally blew up and said, "If you're an actor, do it yourself." So Szalay did it—so well all the actors burst out laughing and from then on everything went fine. They loved the pictures. When Laurette Taylor left town she chose the one of her holding out the party dress to autograph for one of her dearest friends, that same Ashton Stevens who, like the rest of us, was "vindicated" by the New York critics.

A Letter from California

Remember that column about Jeanette MacDonald during the opera season in which she said she loathed being called Mme. MacDonald and I said the only thing that sounded worse was being called Mme. Cassidy? Well, comes a letter from California, beginning "Dear MADAM!" and ending, "Sincerely, Madame MacDonald." It says in part that she will be heading our way to sing for us in July, downtown, and possibly also at Ravinia. But as for all those inquiries as to whether Miss [or should I say Madame?] MacDonald will return to our opera, I am sworn to direst secrecy. But I see it printed other places that she will, and considering her success last season, what do you think?

And One from Nevada

Here's another letter, this one from the Hotel Last Frontier, Las Vegas, Nev.: "Dear Claudia Cassidy—I just can't begin to tell you how thrilled I was, reading your review of 'Some of These Days.' I'm just about the proudest gal in the whole world these days—and I am, O, so grateful. Thanks, Thanks, Thanks. Love, Sophie Tucker." You have a right to be proud of that book, Miss Tucker, and the thanks are due to you from all of us who enjoy reading it. Looks like a celebration when you open at the Chez Paree May 3.

Saga of a Piano Bench

Think of missing Horowitz and Schnabel on the same night because you have to be somewhere else! It happened to me and cut twice as deep because Mr. Horowitz had generously offered to play a preview of the Prokofieff the night before his recital—and his train chose that day to be eight hours late. Reports from both recitals are uncommonly glowing, even for two masters of the piano, and maybe you would like knowing the saga of Horowitz's piano bench. The one he carries about the country with him got lost in Texas, so Lyon and Healy sent a substitute over with a cabinet maker to get it set according to specifications. Horowitz used it to practice the afternoon of the concert and decided it wasn't quite right, so the Orchestra hall people cut some more off the legs. Horowitz began his performance with that bench, then changed for the Prokofieff, and changed back again later in the program. His piano was relatively static. It was just tuned twice that day, once before he practiced and again before the concert. Maybe it was Horowitz who started that business of "Trifles make perfection, but perfection is no trifle."

Edgar Nelson Will Direct Bach Oratorio

By Albert Goldberg

Ruth Slater

For the second time in the 222 years since its composition Chicago will have the opportunity of hearing Bach's "Passion According to St. John" when it is presented by the Apollo Musical club under the direction of Edgar Nelson at Orchestra hall tomorrow night at 8:15. Originally written in 1723—or 1724, authorities differ—the St. John Passion was revised by the composer six years later, and it is the revised version which the Apollo club will present, as it did on the occasion of that organization's first performance here in 1938.

Bach is known to have written in all five settings of the Passion, but of these only two, the St. John and the St. Matthew Passions, survive. It is believed that the reason for this lies in the fact that the manuscripts of the surviving works fell into the careful hands of Bach's third son, Carl Philipp Emanuel, who succeeded him as cantor of St. Thomas' church in Leipzig, an earnest musician with the ability to appraise his father's work at its true worth and to value accordingly the manuscripts he left. The three Passions which apparently have disappeared beyond hope of recovery are believed to have come into the possession of Bach's eldest and presumably favorite son, Wilhelm Friedemann, a gifted musician, but, as a man, ill balanced and dissolute, who finally ended his life in poverty and degradation. The manuscripts of the three missing Passions are supposed to be lost to the world because of the carelessness of this black sheep of the Bach family.

The St. John Passion was the work conducted by Bach on Good Friday of 1723 in St. Thomas' church in Leipzig as evidence of his fitness to fill the position of cantor of the church and teacher in its affiliated school. The work is smaller in scope and more intimate in character than the great "Passion According to St. Matthew" which was composed six years later. It is of interest that the first version of the St. John Passion began with the chorus "O Mensch bewein dein Sünde gross," but this afterward was transferred to the St. Matthew Passion, where it concludes the first part, and ultimately became one of the most famous sections in that masterpiece.

While Bach's practice in instrumentation sometimes was puzzling and not altogether consistent, the intimate character of the St. John Passion is emphasized by the small orchestral forces for which it was scored. Altho Bach had at his disposal both horns and trumpets and used them frequently in his church cantatas, in the St. John Passion he employed only two flutes, two oboes, violins, violas, and a continuo part for organ. There were, however, special obbligato parts for the lute, the oboe d'amore, the viola da gamba, and the viola d'amore. A modernized version of the orchestra score will of necessity be employed in the Apollo club's presentation, played by members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

Solo parts of the oratorio will be sung by Esther Hart, soprano; Ruth Slater, contralto; Charles Sears, tenor; Harry Swanson, baritone, and John Macdonald, bass-baritone.

Fire an Incentive to Ill. Wesleyan Fund Drive

Drive Is Given a Boost After Old Hall Burns

By The Rev. John Evans

What at first seemed a calamity but subsequently proved a benefaction has been told by President William E. Shaw of Illinois Wesleyan university, Bloomington.

When on Jan. 9, 1943, Old Hedding Hall, the main classroom building, was destroyed by fire many people were concerned about the future of the institution, which was faced simultaneously with a shrinking war time enrollment and a loss of facilities. But the fire has proved as an incentive rather than a handicap.

For the duration, an improvised structure on the first floor of the ruined building has served for administrative offices, even housing a naval V-5 WTS program for 14 months. In the meanwhile, other buildings have been refurnished and remodeled so that the present plant is in a measure better than before the fire.

What was une. pected was that the conflagration proved an incentive to the centennial campaign. This was started in 1940 with a goal by 1950 of a million dollars for buildings and endowment. Toward this, between September, 1943, and January, 1945, there has been pledged $790,000 of which amount $450,000 is already paid in, from more than 11,000 donors. This campaign has been conducted wholly within the resources of the university, the only extraneous assistance being that of the ministers of the Illinois conference of the Methodist church.

"A successful financial campaign would be unimportant if it were not accompanied by a similar quickening of the spirit on the part of the faculty and administration toward the curriculum," President Shaw said. "A course to teach more effective citizenship is planned, designed to induce youth to take a more active participation in government. Responding to this, Dr. Hugh S. Magill, an alumnus, has endowed a chair to be known as the Magill professorship in the history and science of government."

A new student building is the most important post-war project as a memorial to the 1,040 Wesleyan men and women now in service. It will comprise a central dining room, offices for campus organizations, alumni offices, and student recreation rooms. A new science hall to replace Hedding hall, and dormitories for men and women also are planned.

President Shaw intimated that an honor program might be inaugurated in which students of better than average ability could study independently. "They would be entirely on their own resources, meeting frequently with instructors, and passing a general written and oral examination as the basis of evaluation of their independent researches," he added.

mentally a good and necessary part of the lives of so many. But it seemed to this reader that Mrs. Hayes has a passion for the principles of unionism not unlike a devotee's passion for his religion, a passion so strong that she wants to root out every irreligious or sinful element from it. The victims of Blotz in this book are neither industry nor the public. They are the members of his union, whom he rules with a lust for power.

There may also be readers who will say that by showing Blotz, a Jew, as unscrupulous as he is crude, Mrs. Hayes has stigmatized a race. But the tyrannous Blotz is outnumbered and overshadowed in the book by Jews who bravely fight for their fellows' freedom.

As an indictment of a social and political evil much talked of and seldom written of in fiction, "Who Walk with the Earth" will itself be much talked about and probably much written about. As a novel I must confess that it has less reason for such popularity. To this reader Blotz is an idea, not a person. The young idealist, Stuart, has a little more reality, probably because when he talks his words are mere stutterings and not set down in a dialect which makes Blotz harder to read than a timetable. Sally has deeper reality, but 17 year old Lisa, whom Stuart yearns over, is less real girl than an idea of romance. It isn't what the characters do that gives the book its TNT quality. It is what they say. And they say everything about unionism—give voice to the bad with rage, to the good with conviction.

Tragedy Stalks an Immigrant's Return to Italy

"AN ITALIAN TRAGEDY," by Nicola Curinga. [Liveright, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Walter Havighurst

Tho the entire action of this lifelike novel is laid in a Calabrian village in Italy, it is about America, also, and it provides a valuable understanding of the differences between life in the new world and the old. As the story begins, Giacomo Cervo has returned to Italy after years in the coal mines of the United States to rejoin his family and regain his health. But it is not a happy homecoming.

The time is 1915. Soon Italy is overwhelmed by the social and economic stress of war, and war only emphasizes the problem of life for the peasant people of Calabria. Giacomo rediscovers poverty, and poverty was chronic there. He also rediscovers religious superstition and social oppression. These forces weigh down his humble people, but they have lost their hold on Giacomo. So, despite ill health, he determines to rebuild his little farm and to improve the life of his family. How he is defeated by circumstance and social forces makes up "An Italian Tragedy."

This sound and sober novel is enriched by its detailed account of Italian village life. Here are the toil and want, the occasional festivals and celebrations, the little satisfactions and the patient postponements that comprise the existence of a simple people. And, tho not immediately present, the American way of life emerges in a heartening contrast.

Against the rigid social structure, the entrenched privilege and the confining forces of the Calabrian village, the American ideals of equality, opportunity, and incentive shine with a strong, clear light. Giacomo, gone back to Italy to die, is an American at heart, and to read about him is to believe freshly in the America "he so ardently loved."

WHOSE FAULT is the food problem?

For some enlightening answers read

THE FARMER AND THE REST OF US

By Arthur Moore

Editor, The Daily Pantagraph, Bloomington, Illinois

Through the eyes of Illinois farmers among whom he lives and works, Mr. Moore presents a readable and entertaining account of matters important to us all. Soil conservation, farm prices, tenantry, farm legislation, the farmer and the factory worker—these are only a few of the factors he considers in analyzing the problem vital to us all—food.

BOOKMAN'S HOLIDAY

By Delos Avery

CONVERSATION IN ABSENTIA

THE odd thing about Israel Zangwill's informal visit to my library a few midnights ago was that he had been dead for almost two decades when he dropped in for a chat.

He was wearing a shabby brown leather jacket, I remember. His hair was handsomely white, and his profile instantly reminded me of Hamlin Garland's description, "ugly as Savonarola's—old, immensely, sorrowfully old." He looked a little like George Arliss in "Disraeli," or George Arliss in "George Arliss."

"Well, what shall we talk about?" he asked, pleasantly.

"Money," said I. "Money is always interesting."

"Money?" he exclaimed. "Do they still have money on earth? I thought I abolished money."

As a matter of fact, he did. He abolished it unconditionally in December, 1894, in a whimsical piece he wrote for Chicago's famous magazine of belles-lettres, The Chap-Book.

"Yes," I agreed, "you abolished it—but there seems to have been a resurrection. There's more money now than ever. We used to measure it in millions; now in billions—and there are reports from Washington and other world capitals that a trillion will be the common unit as soon as the paper scarcity is relieved. The poorer the nation the more money it has, with prices to fit. I had a German housemaid once who had sold a farm for 40,000,000 marks and spent the marks for a third class passage to America."

"Let me talk," said Zangwill, impatiently. "Let me tell you how beautiful the world was when I abolished money. The currency was all called in—and the morning stars sang together."

"You're quoting yourself," I protested. "That line about the singing stars is straight out of your Chap-Book piece. It's literature, even tho it's nonsense."

But I did let him keep on quoting himself and didn't bother to take notes, because I knew I could lift whatever paragraphs I pleased from the magazine.

"Tell me," I suggested, "how the artistic classes—poets, playwrights, novelists, men like yourself—got along when there was no money."

So he told me.

"Well, they only suffered during the earlier stages of transition," said Zangwill. "There was, for instance, the poet who went around among the workmen to chaffer verses. But there were few willing to barter solid goods for poetry. Here and there an intelligent artisan in love purchased a serenade, and an occasional lunatic became the proprietor of an epic. But the sons of toil drove few bargains or hard with the sons of the Muses. . . . Sellers were many and buyers few. Rondeaux were hawked about from butcher to baker, at 10 to the joint or three to the four pound loaf. . . . A ballade-worth of butter would hardly cover a luncheon biscuit, while a five act blank verse tragedy was given away for a pound of tea, and that only when the characters were incestuous and the caesuras irreproachable. A famous female poet was reduced to pawning her best sonnet for a glass of lemonade and a bun."

Zangwill insisted, however, that such suffering was brief and that even those artists who starved to death were not without reward, because, in dying that way, they "achieved speedy recognition."

In the end, he said, the great poets, and prophets, and workers in color and form earned their bread by manual labor, devoting only their spare hours to their art, so that they were "exempt forevermore all taint of trade."

"Now look here, Zangwill," I interrupted, "didn't you admit in the Chap-Book that it wasn't you, but a person you called 'The Cynic,' who really abolished money?"

"True—technically," he granted, squirming, "but since it was I who invented 'The Cynic' it follows that his deeds were mine. Did you read my last paragraph?"

At his urgent request I looked it up, and here it is:

"The Cynic paused and I sat silent, deeply impressed by what he had said, and striving to imprint every word of it upon my memory, so that I might sell it to a magazine."

Zangwill had me there. After all, it is a good way to make a magazine piece—or to do a Bookman's Holiday.

THE JUNIOR BOOKSHELF

By Agatha L. Shea

TITLE	SUBJECT	VERDICT
"LITTLE PEOPLE IN A BIG COUNTRY," by Norma Cohn. [Oxford University Press, $1.50.]	A collection of fourteen pictures drawn by children seven to fourteen years of age who come from many parts of Russia. Line of text tells something about child artist.	Will appeal to children who are interested in other children and their work, and to adults who will appreciate it from the child training angle.
"NATHAN — BOY OF CAPERNAUM," by Amy Morris Lillie. [Dutton, $2.50.]	This is a story of the days when Jesus walked the streets of Capernaum, and of 10 year old Nathan whose faith in the great Healer led to the healing of his little crippled brother, Enoch.	An appealing and beautiful story of the days of Christ's ministry on earth, as shown thru his relations with children and humble believers. For the middle grades.
"VICTOR HERBERT," by Claire Lee Purdy. Illustrated by Everett Shinn. [Messner, $2.50.]	A story biography of this popular composer telling of his work, and also of his early life, training and wanderings before America became his home.	Especially recommended to the young reader who is a music lover. Attractive and usable book with full index of compositions.

HOW INNOCENT WAS THE Innocent Flower?

MacDougal Duff reached the Moriarty house just in time to rush seven-year-old Taffy to the hospital —"before the police get here," the doctor said. But Duff was not in time to save thirty-eight-year-old Miss Brown from death by poison, and because of Taffy, Miss Brown's death became one of the meanest problems the great detective ever tackled. Not that there wasn't a solution. There was an obvious solution — so obvious that MacDougal Duff felt a chill terror along his spine.

How MacDougal Duff worried, watched, and, finally, jumped a fence to find the answer to his problem, and how the five other Moriarty kids served the cause of justice in their own way make The Innocent Flower a rare bloom among crime stories — a mystery even better than The Case of the Weird Sisters.

Tony Pastor's Band Makes Debut at Sherman Friday

Olsen to Head Palmer House Show April 19

By Will Davidson

They are turning the jitter kids out to Pastor Friday night at the Hotel Sherman.

Sandra Star

Tony Pastor will be making his cafe debut here that evening, and the kids will be lining up to hear the man who got the leader bug when he took over Artie Shaw's band once during Artie's illness. They'll hear Tony's younger brother, Stubby, on the trombone and the singing of Ruth McCullough and Dick Dyer.

A week from Thursday, April 19, the Palmer House will introduce George Olsen, last seen, just a year ago, at the Stevens hotel, where he and his versatile band provided the entire show. In the revue will be Henny Youngman, radio comic; Lathrop and Lee, the very popular dance team; Sheila Vogelle, a young Chicago singing discovery; Mari Lynn, former Abbott dancer, and the Abbott girls in new routines.

At the Hotel Continental they have just unmasked the Masked Belle of the Bal Masque and now you can see as well as hear Sandra Star. That's the name given her in the Continental's recent contest.

He's short on stature, but very long on personality and talent, this Georgie Price. Back in the Mayfair room of the Blackstone hotel, Georgie is better than ever. His income tax skit, done to the tune of "Figaro," is wonderful. The gradual change from confident good humor to frantic despair is very funny indeed, beautifully timed, acted with fine humor. George also is doing his standard and very popular impressions of his famous contemporaries—Jolson, Cantor, Richman, Jessel—and the greatest of these is Jessel. That is a caricature in good humored acid.

Georgie uses again his successful audience participation skit, allowing ringsiders to sing old songs into a portable mike—and he repeats his popular drinking song, "Fosh Nosh Kit." The reminiscent numbers are as popular as ever, too.

Give Georgie's accompanist, Buddy Arnold, and the Mayfair's new band leader, Dick La Salle, a large laurel for their musical work, too.

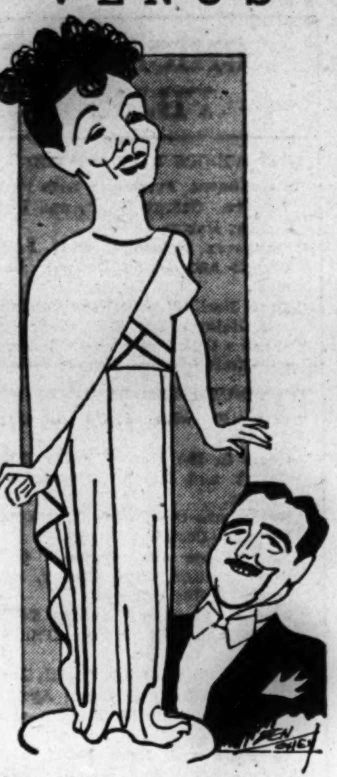
One of the town's most colorful and interesting dance teams is starring in the current show at the La Salle hotel. Zarco and Beryl have been here some weeks now, but alterations in the Pan American room's shows have prevented an earlier review. Mark down as the first of many assets a superb taste in costumes. In their Persian Rug number, the dancers wear striking outfits in two shades of blue, with beautiful gold trim. It is a smoky dance, sinuous, fast, sultry, humorous. It has a bit of rhumba and some magnificent lifts and spins. It's the only one of their routines I've seen, but I'm told their cape dance equals it.

'VENUS'



Mary Martin as the goddess of love in person, with John Boles appropriately at her feet, as they appear in "One Touch of Venus" at the Civic Opera House.
[Sketch by Ben Cohen]

Dick Gordon, long a popular figure in the Chicago musical scene, is doing a cracking good job as singing emcee. His tenor is still stirring as ever, and lends itself equally well to such varied numbers as the famous "Irish Lullaby" and "Stout Hearted Men." Dick is a gracious master of ceremonies, and moves the show along with good taste and good spirit.

Florian ZaBach, whose orchestra grows and grows in skill, continues to offer his superb violin numbers as part of the show. And his vibraphonist, Larry Grady, comes up with a good rhythm stint, "Tea for Two," and "After You've Gone."

Combine Al [Whitey] Roberts' corn and confusion with the fast antics of the Simpson Humanettes and you have a floor show that has more action and flash than any the Blackhawk patrons have seen in some time. Roberts is a variety artist who juggles plates, gets a customer to help him, skips rope, chatters incessantly, and in general keeps the audience in a happy mood.

The Simpsons have been displaying their marionettes in the loop quite frequently of late, and are a popular team. Their appeal, I think, is in the tricky nature of their dolls—as demonstrated particularly by the magician.

However good the floor show, Del Courtney and his del-ightful crew are the top entertainers. Del has improved his band consistently until it now is the best he's ever had. There is a rhumba unit within the orchestra that is excellent. And of course Johnny Williams is there to croon. But our hearts belong to Dottie—the wonderful Dotson. She's doing a grand version of "I Wanna Get Married" and a neat one of "Her Tears Flowed Like Wine."

Boswelling the Bistros:

John Paul, popular magician of the Nineties tap in the La Salle hotel, has just celebrated his seventh anniversary there . . . and a birthday bow to Art Goldie, manager of the Latin Quarter. The Quarter, incidentally, is revelling in the good show being put on by Lou Holtz, Dorothy Donegan and Jackie Heller, and in the coming on May 13 of Ted Lewis, who started the Quarter off last year on its first big money making spree. . . . Dr. Delos Avery, sage of the Sunday room and benign boswell of the book department, wonders, in view of the curfew, why some one doesn't start "day clubs."

Lt. Lloyd Wendt of the navy, Tribunite who will soon have his first novel published ["Bright Tomorrow"], quotes a friend as saying that a certain cafe emcee was so hammy the waiters collected red points from the customers. Presumably they had just been served their blue points. . . . A long and loud bravo to Jimmie Savage, editor of the B and K Balabanner, for his capsule criticism of the current Empire room show: "Somersaults by the Abbott dancers, insaults by Hildegarde."

Which reminds me, that every time I hear Hildy attempt comedy I wonder who writes her immaterial.

Met Opera Schedule

Drama Notes

"Othello" opens at the Erlanger Tuesday evening, with Paul Robeson in the title role, Uta Hagen as Desdemona, and José Ferrer, her husband, as Iago. The production is under the direction of Margaret Webster, with settings by Robert Edmond Jones, and is a Theater Guild presentation on American Theater society subscription.

Sigmund Romberg, whose newest musical success is "Up in Central Park," will be back April 29, this time at the opera house, with his orchestra and singers in a concert made up chiefly of his own music. Meanwhile, if it isn't going to be Civic Opera house, they had better cook up a title. Opera house sounds too much like the op'ry house of rustic joke fame.

Fradele Oysher, now at the Civic theater in the Yiddish musical, "Little Queen," opens a new show not yet named next Friday night, and on April 27 the celebrated Yiddish comedian, Menasha Skulnik, begins an engagement of four weeks in "Good News."

Mae West begins her last Studebaker week in "Catherine Was Great," and "Ten Little Indians" takes over the theater next Sunday night, releasing the Harris to "Dear Ruth," which starts its Chicago engagement a week from Monday night, with fond hopes of making it a run to match New York's solidly entrenched company.

Jacob Ben-Ami's production of "The Miracle of the Warsaw Ghetto," due at the Blackstone April 16 thru April 22, is presented by the New Yiddish Art theater, which Ben-Ami organized with Joseph Green. The play is by H. Leivick, who wrote "The Golem," and has music by Sholem Secunda. It had a 20 week engagement in New York.

SINGS, DANCES

Linda Darnell sings and dances for the first time on the screen in "Hangover Square." At the Garrick.

Vaudeville

Chicago theater. The stage show is held over for the second week, featuring Dean Murphy, mimic star of W-G-N and Mutual's "Screen Test," together with red haired Eileen Barton, queen of the bobby soxers, former singing partner of Frank Sinatra. Eileen's jive tunes are climaxed with a number written especially for her, "Dear Mr. Sinatra." Hal Le Roy entertains with nimble dances, and Lou Breese, director of the orchestra, gives a demonstration of a one man band, during which he plays nine different instruments.

She was beloved, hated, feared and fêted across a continent

JESSIE BENTON FREMONT was one of the most exciting women in American history—but her supreme achievement was the marriage she created with John C. Fremont. It left its mark on the major events of nineteenth-century America—and the institution of marriage itself.

1841 A SENATOR'S DAUGHTER GETS MARRIED—HER WAY . . . There was a stillness in the room. It was broken by a brusque knock on the door. Two newspaper reporters stood on the threshold.

"Senator Benton," said the man from the National Intelligencer, "we hear there is news about Miss Jessie."

Tom Benton glared at the man, then growled, "Yes, I have the pleasure of announcing the marriage of my daughter, Jessie Ann Benton, to Lieutenant John Charles Fremont."

The reporter from the New York Globe grinned. "Isn't that an unusual way of putting it, Senator? Families generally announce the marriage of the man to their daughter."

Tom Benton looked sharply at his daughter, then said, unsmilingly, "If ever I saw a woman do her damnedest to get married to a man, it's my daughter Jessie. But if you print that I'll sue you for libel. Good day, gentlemen."

1843 JESSIE PREVENTS HER HUSBAND'S RECALL FROM HIS GREATEST EXPLORING EXPEDITION . . . Colonel Stephen Kearny arrived, his face as bilious yellow as his eyeballs.

"I have just received a letter from the War Department," he said in a cold tone, "reproving me for having given Lieutenant Fremont a howitzer for his expedition. The affair is my fault; I did not stand firm in dissuading the lieutenant. I do not like being rebuked by the War Department, Jessie, but I will not be selfish enough to think only of my own humiliation; I'm sorry that Lieutenant Fremont has been recalled to Washington."

"He is not going back to Washington, Colonel Kearny," said Jessie, in a small but firm voice. "The order will never reach him. He started on the trail several days ago."

"I don't understand, Jessie. One copy of the letter must have reached you, since you know what is going on. Lieutenant Fremont was not scheduled to leave Kaw's Landing, for another week. The mail boat would have been there by now with a duplicate copy of the order."

"That is why I had to act quickly, Colonel Kearny," she replied. "When the message from the Topographical Corps reached me, I sent a note to Lieutenant Fremont asking him to break camp at once. I gave no reasons. Yesterday afternoon I received a message that he had started on the trail . . . There will be no consequences; Lieutenant Fremont will use the cannon only in the event that he is attacked."

"That is not for you to say!" shouted Colonel Kearny. "We are on the verge of war with both Mexico and England. How can we explain away an army howitzer, under the command of an army officer, being taken into disputed territory? I tell you this affair can precipitate a war."

1845 THE SECRETARY OF THE NAVY PAYS A CALL . . . Secretary of the Navy George Bancroft sent a message asking if he might come to tea. After downing three slices of spice cake, he spoke:

"Miss Jessie, the British think they are going to capture California with their warships. They're mistaken, they can capture the ports, but they can't move those ships into the interior."

"Yes," agreed Jessie, not knowing what he was leading up to.

"But what holds true for the British warships holds equally true for ours; warships cannot take possession of a country. We need soldiers in California."

Jessie did not interrupt, but rather said to herself: "He knows as well as I do that Captain Fremont will soon be on the Pacific coast. He is an army officer. He has sixty well-armed men with him, men who are unquestionably willing and ready to fight."

"Without official authorization," Bancroft continued, "nothing can be done in California." He was talking fast now. "That is, unless unofficial action is taken for which the government cannot be held responsible. If for example, we had someone in California who could act swiftly and decisively at the right moment, Mexico would have no opportunity to call for British protection, and England could not take possession. What we desperately need, Mrs. Fremont, is what we will call for the moment an irresponsible man, someone whom we can honestly repudiate if things do not turn out well.

Her heart beat wildly. What would happen to their life together, to their love, their marriage?

She must give John the signal for action. Everything he had said to her before he left indicated that he was willing to take these risks.

1849 GOLD IN CALIFORNIA . . . Late one afternoon in San Francisco John burst into the house, his face and clothing soiled from his long ride, but a fiery glow in his eyes. He was at her side before she could rise, had laid a heavy sack at her feet. She did not open it but only gazed up at him. He quickly untied the thongs about the neck of the sack, scooped his right hand into it and with his left hand grasping her wrist tightly, poured a slow bright stream of powder into her palm.

"Gold!" she cried.

"Yes, my darling, gold! Every creek is lined with gold. The Sonorans washed out seventy-five thousand dollars' worth in three weeks!"

This turn of events was more than Jessie could comprehend. She had been reduced to her last few dollars for provisions, and now suddenly she had hundred-pound sacks of gold dust dumped at her feet. When she at last found her tongue, all she could stutter, unbelievingly, was:

"It's . . . all . . . ours?"

"No, only half is ours; you remember, I promised the Sonorans half the gold they found. But there are millions of dollars' worth of gold in there. It's richer than anything yet found in California. But that's not the most important part; I think the Mother Lode runs through our Mariposa!"

1861 GENERAL FREMONT ISSUES AN EMANCIPATION PROCLAMATION, TWO YEARS BEFORE LINCOLN'S . . . "Jessie, I have decided that there is no time to be lost. We must clear Missouri of the guerrillas. This order will do it."

In order to supress disorder, to maintain the public peace, and to give security and protection to the persons and property of loyal citizens, I do hereby extend and declare established martial law throughout the state of Missouri. The property, real and personal, of all persons in the state of Missouri who shall take up arms against the United States, or who shall be directly proven to have taken an active part with their enemies in the field, is declared to be confiscated to the public use, and their slaves, if any they have, are hereby declared freemen.

BUT . . . . . John and Jessie were completely unprepared when a letter arrived from Abraham Lincoln, six days after the publication of the emancipation proclamation, requesting that General Fremont withdraw it. They were stunned and a little ill.

JESSIE GOES TO WASHINGTON . . . When she saw a frown come over the president's face, she continued more quickly. "That is why I have come, Mr. President, because General Fremont thought it would be advantageous if I could explain fully. The general feels that he is at the great disadvantage of being opposed by people in whom you have every confidence."

"Whom do you mean," demanded President Lincoln, "persons of different view?"

Jessie knew that she had been rebuked. She said, "The general's conviction is that it will be long and dreadful work to conquer by arms alone, that there must be other considerations to get us the support of the West. An idea sometimes can be as effective as a gun; if we convince the South that every Rebel will lose his slaves, the secessionist leaders will have an internal war on their hands, and that will seriously hamper their efforts to recruit and fight . . ."

"You are quite a female politician," said the president.

A Quaker Gives His Life to Help the Cause of Negroes

"WINDS, BLOW GENTLY," by Ronald Kirkbride. [Frederick Fell, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Edward Wagenknecht

This is an American "How Green Was My Valley." American and Quaker. Not typically Quaker in all respects, nor does the action take place in a Quaker community. In 1921, Joseph Jordan and his family leave Pennsylvania to live on a plantation in South Carolina. Why, nobody quite knows at the time, tho it comes to seem to Ruth Jordan afterward that they had been led by the Inner Light, so that Joseph might pioneer in the fight for fair wages and decent living conditions for Negroes in a backward southern community, and to lose his life at the hands of southern terrorists. "Fight" may not be quite the word for it, for it is part of Jordan's creed that he will not fight; like Jesus, he chooses rather to die than to fight. But the blood of the martyrs was the seed of the church, and there is a new south aborning. And that is true to Quaker experience and the Quaker point of view!

Yet "Winds, Blow Gently" is not a tract; it is a novel. The moral inspiration and the aesthetic inspiration of the writer coincide; the "meaning" of the book is not superimposed; the impression made upon the reader is therefore satisfying and whole. The same frank simplicity and sincerity evidenced in the author's appreciation of Quakerism shows in his attitude toward nature, and even [tho some Quakers will not like this part of the book] in his attitude toward love. [A David who went less directly to his Nina might well have been a less effective Quaker in the end.]

The action of the book is rather episodic—it sags, here and there, especially in the latter half—and some questions might no doubt be raised about the characterization here and there.

"And for all this, nature is never spent;
There lives the dearest freshness deep down things."

That freshness which Gerard Manley Hopkins celebrates, Kirkbride has felt also. It is this idyllic quality of his book which lends it charm. And it is this quality, combined with his reminiscent narrative method, which suggests and recalls "How Green Was My Valley."

Reference Books That Really Fit Children's Need

"BRITANNICA JUNIOR," edited by Walter Yust and associates. [Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc.]

Reviewed by Kelsey Guilfoil

The 1945 printing of "Britannica Junior" is fresh proof of the superiority of this 12 volume reference library for boys and girls. Numerous revisions have further simplified and clarified the subjects, and a new treasure has been added: Magnificent color prints of some of the paintings in the Encyclopaedia Britannica Collection of Contemporary American Art. This collection will be exhibited at the Art institute starting next Thursday.

The outstanding merit of "Britannica Junior" is its understandability. It is not only designed for the use of children in grades 3 thru 10, it is so written and edited that a fourth grader can understand about 90 per cent of the contents. And there is so much interest in the articles that youngsters take to reading them as a pastime.

Every library accessible to children needs a solid, authoritative reference work, but it is difficult to find one in which the writing down to children's level has not been done with some sacrifice of authority. This one is so packed with information that even adults can read it with profit.

An unusual feature of "Britannica Junior" is its ready reference volume, which is a small encyclopedia in itself, giving in concise form the essential facts of each subject, and references to articles in the other volumes giving more details.

As a parent and a former teacher, I unhesitatingly recommend "Britannica Junior" as the best thing of its kind that I have seen—a valuable addition to any home or school library.

A Boy Who Became Frontier Fighter

"I BECAME A RANGER," by Leon W. Dean. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.]

This novel of the French and Indian war, for older boys and girls, is told in first person in the language of the period by the hero, young David Ferris, fresh from England. Finding his parents and sister mysteriously missing from their burnt cabin in the New Hampshire grants [later Vermont], he joins the famous Rogers' Rangers fighting the French and Indian marauders. Action and suspense are well handled, carrying the crudity and violence of the frontier struggle into a happy ending.

Greeley Biography

A biography of Horace Greeley is being written by Gladys Burch for publication by Holt.

AMONG THE AUTHORS

By Frederic Babcock

IT was just 10 years ago that a young American novelist, then not long out of Crane Technical High school and the University of Chicago, sprang his first book on the none too expectant world. . . . He was Louis Zara, and his book was "Blessed Is the Man." . . . Since then his "This Land Is Ours" and "Against This Rock" have given him steadily increasing stature. . . . Now his latest, "Ruth Middleton," is about to be hatched out by the Creative Age Press. . . . It's about a modern American girl—"pioneer, rebel, brat, and angel." . . . Mr. Zara went into hiding for the writing job; you can't even find his phone number in the Chicago directory. . . . He's still in his mid-thirties, and some of us think he's on his way to the top of the literary pile.

Edward Wagenknecht, Tribune book reviewer and author of "Cavalcade of the English Novel" and many other works, last week sent to Bobbs-Merrill the manuscript for a 250,000 word anthology of Christmas stories for publication [the Indianapolis house hopes] some time next fall. . . . E. P. Dutton & Co. has just signed him up to do an anthology of childhood reminiscences, chosen from autobiographical writings. . . . In his so-called spare time he is working on his "Cavalcade of the American Novel" for publication by Henry Holt & Co. . . . And this month he is lecturing for the Caxton club on "Dickens Among the Moderns." . . . Between times Mr. Wagenknecht is professor of English at the Illinois Institute of Technology.

This wire came the other day from Harry Hansen: "New York publishers making special effort to stock San Francisco booksellers with all books bearing on foreign affairs and extra displays for conference. Dryden Press is printing another 25,000 of Sumner Welles' 'An Intelligent American's Guide to the Peace.' Welles to broadcast daily from Frisco." . . . I trust Mr. Hansen's telegram doesn't come to the attention of the people clustered around the Golden Gate. . . . Nothing makes them madder than to have their town called "Frisco."

Reynal & Hitchcock have let it be known that they're worried about finding enough paper for Marguerite Young's "Angel in the Forest," reviewed today by Paul Engle. . . . James F. Heidelberger of Dutton's relates that the first printing of "The Best from Yank" will run to 50,000 copies. . . . The book, a compilation of combat stories, G. I. humor, cartoons, and action photographs, all culled from the army weekly, will appear April 23. . . . J. A. McKaughan of Lippincott's writes this department that Daisy Neumann's "Now That April's There" [to be issued Wednesday] is going to deserve, and get, a lot of mention. . . . Fanny Butcher will review it next Sunday.

Paper Inequalities Cause Publishers Many Headaches

By Harry Hansen

New York.

THESE are the times when some publishers curtail their activities, because they must, and others expand them, because they can. It is a world of unequal fortunes and unequal quantities of paper. The houses of Reynal & Hitchcock and Henry Holt & Co. have used up so much paper on their best sellers that they have to turn them over to reprint houses, so that they can allot paper to some of their other titles. Reynal & Hitchcock are especially embarrassed because "The Ballad and the Source," by Rosamond Lehmann, is a book club choice and another novel, "Rickshaw Boy," by Lau Shaw, will be one a few months later. In June they publish Henry Wallace's "Sixty Million Jobs," which means prosperity for them plus a headache. Wholly different is the situation at the house of Prentice-Hall, which publishes its first novel, "September Remember," by Eliot Taintor, April 16 and starts its novel section with three books by June. Prentice-Hall has the paper.

Gorham Munson, editor, and Myron L. Boardman, manager of the trade department of Prentice-Hall, took me aside and talked to me with quiet confidence of their plans. Eliot Taintor is a pen-name for two men who are members of that curious group called Alcoholics Anonymous, which endeavors to rehabilitate men addicted to the liquor habit. The story has to do with reclamation of a dipsomaniac. Mr. Munson says the organization does not believe men are permanently cured of drunkenness, tho some members never touch the stuff. They guard against relapses and also practice "controled drinking." One of the two authors has been reclaimed, the other controled.

Friedrich Hayek Lectures

Friedrich Hayek, author of "The Road to Serfdom," has come to New York from England to begin a lecture tour. He has his first lecture Wednesday at Town Hall on the subject, "Is the Rule of Law Possible in International Affairs?" with a luncheon in his honor following it at the Town Hall club, where George V. Denny Jr. presides. His book was most cordially welcomed by American conservatives because of its attack on state management of all kinds; indirectly he gave American opponents of the New Deal arguments that no American had published. Mr. Hayek is Austrian born and was a thoro student of Austrian and German economics before he left for England with the coming of the Nazi movement. He became a British citizen and is a member of the faculty of the London School of Economics. A part of his book was published in one of the public policy pamphlets of the University of Chicago Press in 1939.

Kathleen Norris Honored

When a writer with the popularity of Mrs. Kathleen Norris is the guest of honor at a reception given by radio, you may be sure that many celebrities will attend to honor her. Besides people from radio, many from the literary activities, publishing, writing, and reviewing went to the Perroquet suite of the Waldorf Astoria Monday to greet Mrs. Norris. The host was Columbia Broadcasting system. Mrs. Norris is about to write the scripts for "Bright Horizons" five days a week, in addition to her other work. Her publisher, Doubleday, was well represented by Le Baron Barker and members of his staff; Edwin Balmer of Redbook, Norman Cousins of Saturday Review, Francis Ludlow of Baker & Taylor, George Frazer of Life, Don Gordon of American News and practically dozens of columnists swarmed around.

Mrs. Norris has had a most profitable writing career since she first wrote "Mother" in 1911. I know few writers who equal her in industry and dependability; her interest centers in the family, and her command of the emotions makes her highly popular with magazine editors. Soon after her first books were published she began to write two novels a year; in 1927 she raised it to three a year; in 1929 she went to four a year and in 1933 reached the total of five a year; not, however, all full sized novels. Then the writing tide receded a bit, but two a year is still her regular output, and that doesn't count such activities as radio scripts. Her husband, Charles Norris—a native of Chicago, by the way—does not keep pace with her. He usually takes a few yeads' rest between novels and had an interval of six years between "Bricks Without Straw" and his latest, "Flint."

Bemelmans Again Displays His Gentle, Puckish Humor

"THE BLUE DANUBE," by Ludwig Bemelmans. [Viking, $3.]

Reviewed by Will Davidson

Delightful is the word for Bemelmans, and "The Blue Danube" is the most delightful of all his works. It is more than that. This story of the quiet but persistent war waged against Hitlerism by the four radish growers of an eccentric little island in the river is a classic of warm understanding, of gentle humor, of penetrating wisdom.

Anton Fisher once owned the beer garden Zur Blauen Donau in Regensburg. But time and the National Socialists did their work, and now Anton grubs out a bare living for himself, his two elderly sisters, and his pretty young niece by raising the finest beer radishes in all Austria.

When Anton speaks disparagingly of the Fuehrer he makes inevitable a clash with the pompous little squeak of a man who is Regensburg's gauleiter. The clash comes in the beer garden, and it is a gem of understatement. Anton speaks his hatred of the indecencies that pass as law under Hitler, and he speaks his disgust with his passive fellow townsmen, the "gentle members of churches and libraries, the patient civil servants, the good householders . . . their little hopes ambushed and surrounded," who only avert their eyes like patient cattle even at a climactic moment when a wonderful, exquisite miracle signals them to assert their dignity once more.

There will be those who condemn this book as propaganda for a soft peace. But they will be blind to Bemelmans' kind wisdom, his consuming hatred of spiritual degeneracy. They will miss the superb good humor which by its very whimsical nature serves to highlight the underlying appeal for a society in which men again find contentment and good life within the limits of their own needs and abilities.

This is a precious little classic. Its 14 water color illustrations are a perfect reflection, in another medium, of Bemelman's style.

Good Guide for Career Seekers in Postwar Days

"TWENTY CAREERS OF TOMORROW," by Darrell and Frances Huff. [McGraw, $2.50.]

This is a sensible vocational guide for boys and girls in school, for men and women in the armed services and those in civilian life seeking new opportunities. It conscientiously seeks to keep in proper balance the traditional forces and the new developments which will shape the jobs of tomorrow.

Each description of possible kinds of careers open is followed by realistic answers to questions about essential training, wages, or salaries to be expected, chances of promotion; in fact the answers to questions which one seeks when choosing a way of using one's skills and talents for the important task of earning a living.

THE MURDER CHART

By Drexel Drake

ENTRY	PERFORMANCE	PAY-OFF
"THE PHILADELPHIA MURDER STORY," by Leslie Ford. [Scribner's, $2.]	Myron Kane, little liked writer, was stabbed to death after doing profile of Judge Whitney. Also, the manuscript disappeared. Col. Primrose, with help of Mrs. Grace Latham, solved that and another murder by prying into bitter feud between the judge and his sister.	Author has some fun with real names and places in framing background for murder puzzle typically patterned for never failing methods of the socially bulwarked colonel and his perennial girl friend.
"THE BIRTHDAY MURDER," by Lange Lewis. [Bobbs-Merrill, $2.]	When Albert Hime, movie director, was poisoned, Inspector Tuck had four suspects to appraise: Hime's recently wedded wife, who was a successful author; her first husband, her girl friend involved in infidelity, and Hime's favorite young actress.	Compactly plotted puzzle. Characters, situations, and excellent writing make tale thoroly interesting, but reader may take exception to solution.
"DIED IN THE WOOL," by Ngaio Marsh. [Little, Brown, $2.]	Mrs. Florence Rubrick, M. P. and sheep ranch owner in New Zealand, was believed on her way to attend session of parliament, but her body had been hidden in bale of wool. Inspector Alleyn had to do brilliant work to get lead to murderer.	Thoroly concealed murder makes this a tale of sharp detective work, involving persistent exploration of faint trails, many of them misleading. Plot neatly developed.

'Menagerie' Is Applauded by N. Y. Critics

By John Chapman

NEW YORK [Special]—Chicago's popular indorsement of Tennessee Williams' tender and lovely play, "The Glass Menagerie," has been vindicated, for the New York critics have greeted it and its star, Laurette Taylor, with all the ecstatic phrases at their command.

I don't want to sound snobbish when I use the word "vindicated"; there is no reason why Chicago should not be as good a judge of a play as is New York. It has been going to shows for a long time, and in happier days it was a production center of importance. But Chicago's popular indorsement of "Good Night, Ladies" and "School for Brides" was, to say the least, upsetting. Its indorsement of "The Glass Menagerie" is heartening, and New Yorkers are in agreement that here is a fine play in which are four perfect performances.

This season there has been more than the ordinary number of productions that are unusual—that is, off the beaten track. Some have been hits, others noble failures. "Harvey," for instance, is unique and wonderful whimsey. "I Remember Mama" is resourceful craftsmanship in putting a series of reminiscences upon a stage. "Dark of the Moon" is a creditable and imaginative attempt to make a theater piece out of a hill billy legend.

And "The Glass Menagerie" is a sensitive, intelligent, beautifully written little essay upon the supreme importance of being unimportant. It invades a home in a St. Louis alleyway and examines the insignificant people therein — examines them with deep sympathy, gentle humor, and rather sad fondness.

Williams' drama is no chronicle of events. Nothing happens in it. There are no villains, no great schemes [the only scheme is the mother's wish that her crippled daughter could have a gentleman caller]; there is no plot and there are no crises, beyond the son's losing his temper and flinging his coat at his sister's collection of glass animals. And there is no solution at the end—because there wasn't anything to solve at the beginning.

The return of Miss Taylor is a triumph, as was the comeback of Frank Fay in "Harvey." As a frowsy, faded southern woman who once was a belle, Miss Taylor is perfect. In turn one laughs with her, laughs at her, becomes exasperated with her, feels hopelessly sorry for her.

Eddie Dowling, as the son, and Julie Haydon, as the daughter, are equally touching in their small frustrations, and Anthony Ross' portrait of the gentleman caller is superb. Williams' notion that a man like the caller, a gauche, gum-chewing slob, also can have a soul, and have hopes, and have decent instincts, is one of the wonderful novelties of the play.

Joe Mielziner's setting matches in sympathy and imagination the work of the playwright, the actors and the directors, and Paul Bowles' unobtrusive music is a great help in changing or underscoring a mood.

'HOTEL BERLIN'

Andrea King plays the part of a scheming Nazi woman in "Hotel Berlin." Roosevelt.

Another triumph, I suppose, is Katharine Cornell's return in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." After having given 140 performances of Rudolf Besier's 14 year old chromo before adoring G. I.s in the European theater of operations, Miss Cornell has brought the most successful drama of her career back to Broadway and is again packing them in.

It is, I know, far too late for me to put in my two cents' worth, but I shall, anyhow, and then dig myself a nice deep foxhole. When I saw "The Barretts" in 1931 I thought it was junk, and when I saw it upon its return here I still thought it was junk. Nor have I at any time admired Miss Cornell's performance as Elizabeth Barrett Browning, for it is a gaudy job of overacting. At her comeback premiere Miss Cornell, busy impersonating a love-fevered invalid, clawed three or four handkerchiefs into what seemed like little bits, and when she wasn't worrying these poor little mouchoirs she was either waving them or digging them out of her brassiere.

In the guise of biographical drama about the Moulton-Barrett family and the poet Robert Browning, Besier wrote a ten-twent'-thirt' tear-jerker which is right in the pattern of "Way Down East," "The Two Orphans," and "East Lynne." His language is high-flown, and is accepted only because "The Barretts" is in the Victorian period when people, presumably, talked that way.

Browning's love making is as blatant as a lantern slide illustrating a love song in an old time nickelodeon. The role of the father is pure Simon Legree. Remember the gag line, "You ain't goin' to drive her out on a night like this, be ye, Pa?" Well, Father Moulton-Barrett tells his daughter, Henrietta, that if she does not obey him she must leave the house immediately and, in cold fact, never darken his door again.

Out of the script I have culled some fruity phrases worthy of a century-old river boat drama. Says Miss Barrett to Mr. Browning, "We must never see each other again." Says Henrietta to her old man, "I shall hate you for this for the rest of my life. . . . I have no choice." Says Miss Barrett to Browning, "O, Robert, have mercy on me."

When Elizabeth elopes, Henrietta tells her father, "She left you this letter." And can you guess what he says? He says, "Left me? What do you mean?"

And if there ever was dime melodrama, it is old man Moulton-Barrett's final moment. "Yes—yes—her dog. [An ugly smile flickers across his face.] Yes—I'll have her dog—Octavius!" And Octavius says, "Sir?" And the old hellion says, "Her dog must be destroyed! At once! You will take it to the vet—tonight! You understand me? Tonight! [A pause.] You understand me!"

Notes of Music and Musicians

Zino Francescatti, French violinist, will appear as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra at both the Tuesday and Thursday-Friday concerts this week. Désiré Defauw will conduct all programs, including the Saturday afternoon "Pop" concert which will have John Weicher and Milton Preves as soloists in Mozart's Symphonie Concertante, for violin and viola.

At the Tuesday concert Mr. Francescatti will play Mozart's sixth violin concerto in E flat major, and for the first time on these programs Paganini's "I Palpiti," a series of variations on an air from Rossini's opera, "Tancredi." For his appearance on the Thursday-Friday programs the violinist has chosen Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole."

Mr. Defauw lists Milhaud's "Suite Provencale" for the first time on these programs at the Tuesday concert, tho the work was played here originally by the Illinois Symphony orchestra in 1940 and was performed at Ravinia in 1941 under Pierre Monteux's direction.

Complete programs for the week follow:

Tuesday at 2:15
Désiré Defauw conducting
Zino Francescatti, violinist

Symphony No. 4, D major ....Johann Christian Bach

Dorothy Maynor, noted Negro soprano, who has forged a major concert career since her discovery by Serge Koussevitzky several seasons past, will appear in recital at the Civic Opera house this afternoon at 3:30, under the auspices of the Chicago Urban league, woman's division. It may be of interest to singers to note that Miss Maynor attributes her mastery of breath control to the fact that she once played the oboe in her high school orchestra. Ernst Victor Wolff will be her accompanist.

HEDY LAMARR

After years of yearning for a dramatic part in which she could wear the costumes of the gay 90s, Hedy Lamarr got her wish in "Experiment Perilous." Palace.

Dorothy Cline, a member of the violin section of the Chicago Woman's Symphony orchestra and of the music department of the Maywood public schools, will give a recital in Kimball hall this afternoon at 3:30. Her program lists Brahms' Sonata in A Major, Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole," Beethoven's "Romance" in F major, and shorter pieces by Sarasate, Chopin-Milstein, Kochanski, De Falla-Kochanski, and Saint-Saens' "Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso."

Jakob Gimpel, a Polish pianist of European reputation, will make his Chicago debut at the Civic theater this afternoon at 3:30. His program lists the Bach-Busoni Toccata and Fugue in C major, Prokofieff's Seventh Sonata, a Chopin group [Ballade in G minor, Nocturne in F sharp, Mazurka in C sharp minor, Polonaise in A flat], Brahms' Intermezzo in E flat minor, and both books of the Paganini-Brahms variations.

Rudolph Reuter, Chicago pianist, will give his second recital of the season at Kimball hall on Friday at 8:20. His program lists Mendelssohn's Prelude and Fugue in E minor, three Preludes and Fugues from Bach's "Well Tempered Clavichord," Franck's Prelude Chorale, and Fugue, two compositions each by Brahms and Chopin, Dohnanyi's "Winterreigen" suite, and shorter works by Fauré, Prokofieff, Granados and Liszt.

Virginia Parker, soprano winner of the Mid-West Audition contest conducted by the Society of American Musicians and the Adult Education council, will claim her reward of a recital in the Musical Arts Song cycle at Orchestra hall on Friday at 8:15. Miss Parker has been one of the most successful of local contest entrants, having twice been awarded the Oliver Ditson scholarship for voice study at the Chicago Musical college and the winner of contests conducted by the Chicago Artists' association, the Chicago Woman's Musical club, and the Society of American Musicians. Her program includes classical airs by Handel, Secchi, and Beethoven, "Pace, Pace" from "La Forza del Destino," lieder by Strauss, Loewe, Schumann, and Brahms, French songs by Fourdrain, Paladihle, Moret, Szulc, and Duparc, and a group in English by Burleigh, Warlock, and Mana-Zucca.

The combined choruses of Northwestern university, totaling 325 voices, will perform Haydn's oratorio, "The Seasons," this afternoon at 4 in Cahn auditorium, Scott hall, on the Evanston campus. George Howerton will conduct and the soloists will be Maude Nosler, soprano, and Richard Paige, tenor.

Ruth Wilkins, Chicago pianist, will appear in recital at Kimball hall tomorrow night at 8:15. Miss Wilkins was presented here in recital in 1940 by the Musical Guild as the winner of a young artist contest. Her program lists two Bach-Busoni Chorale Preludes, Mozart's D major Rondo, two Scarlatti sonatas, Franck's Prelude, Chorale and Fugue, short pieces by Rachmaninoff, Granados, and Debussy, and closing with two Chopin etudes and the F minor fantasie.

"I Pagliacci" will be presented in English at the Chicago Service Men's center No. 2 [Auditorium] this afternoon at 3 by personnel of the AAF training command, Chanute field. The artistic director and conductor of the troupe is Corp. Stuart F. Piggins, and all the roles, except that of Nedda—sung by Shoshana Brooke Freedman, wife of an officer on the post—will be taken by military personnel. The orchestra will be reënforced by musicians from Fort Sheridan. The performance will be for service men only, but any service man may bring a guest.

The American Opera company will give "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci" at Kimball hall tonight at 8. The former will be sung by Zelekha Ali, M. J. Lester, Mildred Staley, Helen La Veine, and Harold Willer, with Ruth Skurnik, Oswald Lehnert, Staff Sgt. N. Froman, Frank Lasker, and Harold Willer appearing in the Leoncavallo opus. Joseph Banahan will conduct.

The Chicago Association of Commerce Glee club, Herbert E. Hyde, conductor, will give a concert in Orchestra hall on Friday, April 20, at 8:15. Maude Nosler, soprano, will be the soloist.

BOOK NEWS AND REVIEWS

BOOKS ALIVE

by Vincent Starrett

SHALL we ever discover anything piquant about Gertrude Stein? As, for example, that she has been for all these many years just a humorist quietly enjoying herself at our expense? It would be a relief to have the matter settled one way or another; we might then turn our attention to the solution of bigger and better mysteries. Interest in her new book, "Wars I Have Seen" [Random], raises again all the old familiar questions, and none—one gathers from the reviewers—is answered by the present volume. It is still possible for a reader to wonder whether the literary abnormalities in which she indulges represent correlated distortions of the intellect or whether her whole performance is in the nature of a hoax.

Miss Stein herself is the enigma in this exasperating literary wordpile; she has yet to offer, I believe, a reasonable explanation of her method. Possibly it is to be found in a paper written in her student days at Radcliffe, where, it is interesting and pertinent to recall, she worked with the eminent Münsterberg. Printed in the Harvard Psychological Review for September, 1896, "Normal Motor Automatism" appears as a collaboration by Leon M. Solomons and Gertrude Stein and may be considered to be exhibit A in the Stein mystery. It was digested and quoted by B. F. Skinner in the Atlantic Monthly as long ago as 1934, but is not widely known even among bibliophiles.

Automatic Writing

In their experiments, Mr. Solomons and Miss Stein attempted to investigate the limits of their own normal automatism, undertaking to see how far they could split their own personalities in a deliberate and purely artificial way. They were successful, says Mr. Skinner, to the extent of performing many acts, such as writing or reading aloud in an automatic manner, while at the same time carrying on some other activity. Miss Stein reported that spontaneous automatic writing became easy after a little practice and is quoted as follows:

"A phrase would seem to get into the head and keep repeating itself at every opportunity and hang over from day to day even. The stuff written was grammatical and the words and phrases fitted together all right, but there was not much connected thought. The unconsciousness was broken into every six or seven words by flashes of consciousness, so that one cannot be sure but what the slight element of connected thought which occasionally appeared was due to these flashes of consciousness. But the ability to write stuff that sounds all right, without consciousness, was fairly well demonstrated by the experiments."

Obviously the writing of Gertrude Stein that appears in her books and plays and poems is precisely the same as that developed when she was experimenting with spontaneous automatic writing. But, even so, her intention may be simply mischievous. "All men are liars," said David in his haste; and Don Marquis has reminded us that now and then a woman, too, approaches the truth in an original manner.

The Hand of Destiny

One of the national treasures of France, if it still exists, is Napoleon Bonaparte's school copybook of the year 1788; its last entry is just four words of extraordinary significance: "Sainte Hélène, petite ile." There is nothing further in the book; at that point the entries were abruptly ended. One wonders if there was no more to the Abbé Lacroix's geography lesson, that day, or whether some strange premonition shook the composure of the future conqueror and caused him to put down his pen.

Saint Helena, little island! Did ever the hand of destiny show itself more clearly at the beginning of a notorious career? To anybody wishing to attempt a new "life" of the great Napoleon, I would suggest an interpretation of the island motif in its pattern—surely one of the most conspicuous symbols ever offered the romantic historian. There is an enormous parable hidden in the prolix pages of his innumerable biographies, and its high spots are not Marengo and Austerlitz and Waterloo; they are Corsica and Elba and Saint Helena. It is the parable of the man who felt himself too big for his surroundings. Napoleon, as I read the moral of the allegory, simply didn't know when he was well off.

One wonders what symbolical "last line" Adolf Hitler's school copybook would reveal.

How to Find Plots

To this department's series of notes on how to write, instruction offered gratis and copiously to all aspiring beginners, is now added the following paragraph from "Paperchase," by James Dunn, the story of an English journalist's 40 years of adventure in the newspaper world, published some years ago by Selwyn & Blount of London. Mr. Dunn is speaking of Edgar Wallace and how the prince of thriller-writers got his plots.

"'There are plots everywhere,' he chuckled. We were walking down Whitefriars st., passing Hanging Sword alley, once the heart of old Alsatia. Pointing to a tiny window covered by a shabby curtain, he said: 'Here's a plot! There's a murderer behind that curtain. He's hiding there just like the old cut-throats did. Here he is in the heart of Fleet st., where everybody is looking for him and nobody knows where he is. The Flying Squad is out. The Police Gazette has got his picture. Every station in the country is warned; but there he is, quite safe, and he will come down and have a steak in that little restaurant over there with a cop walking past the door. Damn it—I'll write it!'"

Prophecy Almost Fulfilled

Macaulay's gloomy fancy of the hypothetical New Zealander sketching the ruins of St. Paul's from the ruins of London bridge seemed likely to be realized not long ago, we are reminded by A. C. Ward in "A Literary Journey Through Wartime Britain" [Oxford University Press]. It was exactly a century after the essayist's melancholy dream that London withstood the most savage of Nazi blitzes, says Mr. Ward in the opening pages of his fascinating book, the story of England's losses in literary monuments associated with her men and women of letters.

If you have wished to know what happened to Keats' house at Hampstead and similar memorials during the air war over Britain, you will probably find the details in this valuable new guidebook. Of the Keats memorial, Mr. Ward reports that a fire bomb charred a few rafters; but the place has been reopened to visitors, he says, and passers-by, looking thru the screening leaves and branches, are scarcely aware of any change in its serene beauty.

LOUIS BROMFIELD PREACHES FARM GOSPEL

Gives Proof With Result of His Work

"PLEASANT VALLEY," by Louis Bromfield. [Harper, $3.]

Reviewed by Kenneth C. Kaufman

After Munich Louis Bromfield came home to Pleasant Valley in the beautiful hill country of Ohio which he wrote about so lovingly in "The Farm" many years before. He had spent 30 years in Europe and Asia and everywhere he took a passionate and intelligent interest in agriculture.

He became convinced that the degeneracy of certain Asiatic and Mediterranean peoples was due to the diet deficiencies brought about by the impoverishment of the soil and that the persistence and resilience of peasant countries like France is due to the fact that the true Frenchman is rooted in the soil. Not only does this give a sense of continuity and belonging, but it makes a kind of religion out of the business of raising maximum crops and at the same time leaving the soil with a little more fertility after each crop.

All during these 30 years he had felt a keen nostalgia for the country of his birth. When he came back he bought 640 acres of Pleasant Valley hill land including his family home, afterwards increasing it to 1,000, and made of it a coöperative farming venture.

The land was possibly half ruined by erosion and poor farming. The problem was to bring it back and at the same time to make it show a profit. The methods used were those of contour farming and strip cropping; i. e., planting rye, wheat, or clover between the strips of cultivated crops to stop erosion; the growing of a maximum of legumes to restore nitrogen to the soil; the utilization of every bit of barn yard manure and the essential minimum of commercial fertilizer.

Mr. Bromfield is a strong advocate of trash farming, the plan Edward H. Faulkner outlined in "Plowman's Folly" of leaving all vegetable matter on top of the soil to hold moisture instead of plowing it under. The results have justified the effort. Year by year vegetation grows lusher and a deeper green. The water table has risen; springs and streams have become clearer and more steadfast in their flow. The farm has furnished a luxurious living for six families—hams, bacon, beef, chickens, eggs, milk, fruit, and an endless variety of canned and frozen vegetables.

Mr. Bromfield knows that American agriculture is sick not of low prices but of low fertility. A quarter of America's farming land has been ruined by erosion and wastefulness and another fourth is well on its way to uselessness.

Some of his chapters are philippics against the imbecility of an economy of scarcity and of artificially bolstered prices. He feels that the economic structure of the nation can become sound again only as industry is decentralized and as the average working man gets one foot on the soil. Any other solution leads straight to totalitarianism.

This is a book for thoughtful people who love America. It is beautifully written, with many touches of quaint local lore, and filled with a religious-mystical fervor.

Dorsha Hayes' New Novel Rips Into Evils of Unionism

"WHO WALK WITH THE EARTH," by Dorsha Hayes. [Harper, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Fanny Butcher

Dorsha Hayes has written in "Who Walk With the Earth" a novel which, like, few other courageous novels of our day, is destined to be a storm center of discussion less as a novel than as a social indictment. She has chosen a subject—trade unions—and the Hitlerian methods in some of them, about which the reading public, whether it owns union cards or not, is vitally interested.

She has left no secret undisclosed about the methods which an unscrupulous, power loving manager of a union could use to perpetuate himself in power. She has made her protagonist of fascist methods within the union framework, a personification of lust for power and, failed, incidentally it seems to me, to make him a believable human being. But how real Blotz is, or Blotz's daughter, Sally, or the young Harvard boy who takes a job in the union as educational director because he believes passionately in union ideals, has little to do with the novel's explosive quality. For this is really a book about ideas rather than about people.

In the first sentence young Stuart Greene, an idealist by Harvard out of industry, is warned that Blotz will get him down. Blotz is the manager of a garment workers' local in New York which he has built up from literally nothing to a membership of 14,000.

Blotz has created a flamboyant background for the union local, where he provides "da spiridual and da maderial benefids fer dem ignoramuses," as he puts it. To young Stuart, Blotz is "upsprouting totalitarianism taking root in a democracy and in a quarter where it was least suspected." Supported by Blotz's own daughter, Sally, there is an "underground" to oust Blotz and hold free elections, which has never happened in all the years of Blotz's overlordship. Stuart joins that underground. How the underground finally succeeds furnishes the dramatic end of the book.

This novelist will be called courageous and this book dynamite. For there may be readers who will feel that Mrs. Hayes has undermined the cause of unionism by her terrifying picture of the methods used by Blotz in perpetuating his power—on the same theory as that no one should ever say anything against religion because religion is so funda-

Midwest Finds a New Voice in Miss Young's Rich Prose

"ANGEL IN THE FOREST," by Marguerite Young. (Reynal & Hitchcock, $3.)

Reviewed by Paul Engle

This is the rarest thing in publishing—a book utterly unlike any other. From the outside, it seems to be an account of the two settlements at New Harmony, Ind., the first by the German Rappites and the second by the English Owenites. But it is actually the bold and imaginative fact and sense and event of all idealistic colonies ever ventured in this country. Its prose alone would distinguish it from other books, for it is superbly new and yet solid, original and yet readable. It makes the prose of most books of the year sound like the dullest directions for making Irish stew. (Don't get me wrong, I like stew and admire the Irish.)

The story of the Rappites is told with all the spirit and irony their grotesque history demands. They were celibates, but excellent breeders of horses. They despised money, but held a profitable 6 per cent mortgage on most of Terre Haute. They fled the commercial world, but profited handsomely in their commerce with it. When they sentenced a member to jail for stealing a hog, he ate up three hogs while he served his time, and read detective stories with the jailer. Rapp's assistant, who traveled a good deal, went to Chicago, and on his return announced that never "on the thigh of an angel would be written the name of the King of Kings" in that city.

Robert Owen bought New Harmony from Rapp, and sent a wild mixture of men and women and kids and dogs to settle it. The old barracks where men and women lived separately had to be converted for families. There were plenty who came clear from England and away from such taxes as Miss Young lists: "a tax on hair powder, swans, horses above the size of ponies, marble tombs, windows, corset stays, the ermine which covered the judge, the rope which hanged the thief, the burlap which was his winding sheet."

Utopia had a grim time of it. A Mrs. Pears of Pittsburgh, who had joined with her family, wrote that she attended lectures on happiness, but went away from them far unhappier than before. The fear of God did not hold the Rappites together indefinitely, but it was far more successful than the hope of happiness, which was supposed to hold the Owenites together. The money Owen had put into this effort to make his wise ideas practical was lost. The colony broke up. And some stayed on as simple citizens. "Some enjoyed freedom of the will, and some enjoyed being enslaved by their wives or circumstance. Some were going to heaven, some were going to hell, and some were going to Vincennes to buy up dead horses."

This is a rich book. The only flaw it has grows out of its virtue: an occasional too dense prose, a blurring of the narrative in spontaneous image; an excess of not always cleanly integrated appeal to the philosophers. But these are little things in the book of "prostitutes who looked like fallen angels and smelled like skunks," of "human imagination gone hog-wild."

This country, and above all the middle west, has a new writer. I hope the universities of Indiana her own state], Chicago, and Iowa, where she studied, recognize that. For Miss Young not only writes about an angel, she writes like an angel. And she has done it not mysteriously in a forest, but actually and recently, right here in Chicago, in Indiana, in Iowa, and [alas, alas!] in New York. And she does a new thing—the combining of the straight fact with a profound image, the middle west as cornfield and as Elysian field, the little prairie villages loud with automobile engines and the rush of angel wings. A mature thing now. Our wholeness.

A Dwindling Food Supply in Prospect

"THE FARMER AND THE REST OF US," by Arthur Moore. [Little, Brown, $2.50.]

Reviewed by F. J. Keilholz

Associate Editor of Country Gentleman

Without even waving red ration points, Arthur Moore succeeds in conveying a conviction that the United States has arrived at a period of declining food resources without an agrarian philosophy and without wise and dependable food statesmanship to fit the nation's destiny. Writing from his vantage point as editor of the Bloomington Pantagraph, in McLean county, Ill., center of the richest and most favored area of tilled land in the world, Moore gives readers something to think about and remember thrice daily—every time they eat.

Food supplies are still a dull subject at the hands of some writers. But pork chops are not cold and the people who produce them are not colorless as presented by Moore out of his keen observations, his wide reading, and a decade of sober thought on the food problem. All such controversial and sometimes misunderstood matters as tenancy, peasantry, absentee landlordism, credit, cheap food, surpluses, and scarcities, cereal diets, parity, farm organizations, farm leaders, New Deal agricultural policies, coöperatives, corporation vs. family farming, academic freedom, and soil conservation are aligned in proper perspective with the main issue—that of stabilized food production.

Here is a national puzzle on which Moore has thought and worked hard enough to come up with some sensible answers. More than one of his solutions will leave some of the agricultural apostles unhappy. In fact he indicts all such standard creeds as technology, the farm organizations, Jeffersonian agrarianism, politics, and "business" farming for seeming to possess some fatal weakness.

In pleading with city dwellers to understand and act upon their most urgent problem—food—he leads them to four conclusions about farming for our times: [1] The family farm must be dominant; [2] Group vs. group strife must be resolved; [3] The land must be protected by a satisfactory rural life; and [4] Adequate diet for all is the legitimate goal of agriculture.

The author goes farther and outlines a beginning which will challenge the town, management, labor, schools, churches, and the newspapers. The book is concluded with a most important question: "When will the town, the city, and the capital understand what he [the farmer] means to American life?

Fashion Show Will Indicate 1945 Trends

Norma Lee Browning

As the deadline for entering CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S American Fashions contest draws near, the question in the minds of many is this:

What changes will there be in the new fall styles?

At least part of the answer lies buried in the great stacks of sketches arriving at THE TRIBUNE'S contest office. For, this year, as always, the contest is attracting some of the nation's top flight designers, many of whom help make fashion history by setting new style trends.

Altho THE TRIBUNE'S contest selection committee is as yet unable to appraise carefully the deluge of incoming sketches, Mrs. Grace Pickering, director of the contest, predicts what American designers have in mind for the American woman to wear in this way:

"I would say that the new styles will be definitely young in character."

Mrs. Pickering is especially enthusiastic about the teen age fashion group which is being sponsored by THE TRIBUNE for the first time this year in addition to the general contest.

"I observe," she said, "that several of the great Paris houses, famous before the war for their very sophisticated clothes, are now including a number of dresses especially designed for the teen age girl. This is very gratifying to me as I have always believed too little attention has been given in the past to dresses for young in this age group.

"It is for this reason that we conceived the idea of a special "teen age" group which will be one of the highlights of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S American Fashions contest."

Altho the contest closes midnight May 1, there is still time to fill out YOUR entry blank and try for one or more of the generous cash awards.

A total of $6,000 will be given to designers of winning costumes. The grand prizes are $2,000, $1,000 and $500, in the general contest, and $500 in the teen age group and 40 hororable mention awards of $50.

Both amateurs and professionals are invited to enter the contest. The objective is to discover and encourage American talent and thus help keep the fashion spotlight on America's shores, instead of relinquishing it again to Parisian couturiers.

It is generally conceded that after the German occupation of Paris, American designers took over the fashion field with a confidence and competence that have since brought the industry to the highest artistic level this country has known.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE had a vital role in this by sponsoring the first nation-wide American Fashions contest six years ago, shortly after the fall of France. Each year the competition has started off with renewed vigor, in an effort not to lose ground in the fashion world. Many new designers have been discovered and in general American fashions have profited by the national significance of THE TRIBUNE'S fashion contest.

Contestants are urged to mail in their sketches as soon as possible to avoid the deadline rush. Further details of the contest can be obtained by filling in and mailing the application blank on page two.

Mrs. Ted W., Chicago—To remove lint from my family's garments before I press them, I use an old rubber plate scraper which I keep especially for the purpose. I have serrated edges of scraper and after I lay garment over the board, I dip the scraper in a little water and brush lint off with it.

Fashions and Fancy................ By Judith Cass

Chicago's large Easter church attendance was swelled by thousands of service men and women here for the week-end, and by other visitors. A photographer watching the huge crowds around the Holy Name Cathedral for attractive pictures rushed to snap a pretty young woman done up in robin's egg blue with a white flowered hat and a corsage of white flowers, and her companion, a handsome young soldier. They were visitors, Sgt. William Ward of Cumberland, Md., down from Truax field at Madison, Wis., on a pass, and Miss Barbara Reynolds of Bluefield, W. Va. A smartly clad young woman whose stunning gray wool suit, simple gray beret and original corsage consisting of a single, gold calla lily, who caught the fancy of cameramen and reporters alike at the Fourth Presbyterian church was Mrs. James G. Coggill of New York. She went to the services with Lt. [j. g.] Pandora Briggs of the WAVES who is stationed at Glenview. One of the most attractive feminine worshippers at St. Philip Neri church was Mrs. Eric Duckstad, up from Louisville with Maj. Duckstad. Mrs. Duckstad, a former model, was picture perfect in a two piece navy wool suit with blue and white accessories. A white straw, modified coachman hat was on her head, and her flowers were white carnations. Easter was a red letter day for young Mrs. Frank R. Hicks and her father, Maj. John L. Walton, visitors from the state of Washington at St. James' church. It was the first time father and daughter had seen each other in two and a half years, as he just had returned from the Philippines, and that afternoon Maj. Walton was to meet for the first time his son-in-law, who is stationed at Glenview. One of the most smartly turned out tiny Easter worshippers was 3 year old Merrily Budlong, who accompanied her mother, Mrs. Robert Budlong, to the First Congregational church in Evanston. Merrily was dressed entirely in yellow, from her diminutive socks to her wing brimmed Easter bonnet. Two chic worshippers at the North Shore Baptist church were Mrs. Walter Skinner, in a gold wool topcoat over a fuchsia suit, and Miss Jean Sayers, who wore a deftly tailored suit of pussy-willow gray, and a matching roll brim sailor. Mrs. Gordon C. Thorne, who attended the 11 a. m. mass in the Holy Name with her son, Montgomery Ward Thorne, was a cheerful Easter picture in a bright, new suit which combined a canary yellow jacket with a black skirt.

Miss Hendrickson Wed Recently to Ensign Anderson

Mrs. W. F. Anderson.
[Du Bois of the Drake.]

Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Hendrickson of Indiana av. have announced the marriage Dec. 20 of their daughter, Betty Jean, to Ensign William Stuart Anderson of the navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Anderson of Chicago. Wedding vows were repeated in a ceremony in the Park Manor Congregational church. A reception followed in the South Shore Country club. Both Ensign Anderson and his bride are graduates of DePauw university in Greencastle, Ind. They are at home in San Diego, Cal., where Ensign Anderson is stationed temorarily.

Two Arts Groups to Discuss Pottery Crafts at Meetings

Programs on pottery are planned for this week by two groups whose interests is centered in historically significant arts and crafts. The Colonial Coverlet guild, meeting for luncheon Wednesday in the Wedgwood room at Marshall Field's, will hear a talk by Thomas O'Leary on "The Art of the Potter," and the speaker will have on exhibit several specimens from a large collection of vases. Mrs. L. D. Sasscier has arranged the program, and Mrs. Fred Lane is in charge of luncheon reservations.

Members of the Mid-Western Antique association who organized a group this season to study ceramics have had several sessions on English pottery and tomorrow will continue their discussions at a 1 o'clock meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. William D. Sawler, 402 N. Grove av., Oak Park. Mrs. Sawler will give a talk on Liverpool ware and Herculaneum, and those who own pieces will bring them for comparison. Mrs. John A. Clements is chairman of the study group and Mrs. Bentley Ramsdell and Mrs. Arden Lapham work with her as a committee in directing activities.

Church Group Plans Program on Wednesday

A musical trip to far away countries via the arm chair route is in store for members and friends of Second Presbyterian church's business and professional women's club when they gather at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday for an international night program. Following a smorgasbord supper Mrs. John H. Jones will sing Swedish songs and Miss Sheryl Becker will tell the story of Latin America in song. Songs of France will be presented by Mrs. Ethel de Poy and Norwegian folk songs by Miss Edna Thompson. Rounding out the program will be a talk on native foods of the Philippines by Miss Flora Rogers, a returned missionary. Husbands, brothers, and fathers of members will be welcomed as special guests.

Alice Corcoran to Wed William J. Russell

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Corcoran of Western Springs of the engagement of their daughter, Alice Louise, to William J. Russell of the navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell of Milwaukee, Wis. Miss Corcoran is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, from which her fiance also received his degree. She is doing chemical research at Camp McCoy, Wis.

Dr. Yen Tells Chicagoans of Work in China

By Thalia

Members of the American Friends of China and their guests, who heard Dr. Y. C. James Yen speak last week on the mass education movement in China, were all of the same mind—that they had come in contact with one of the truly great men of good will of the world. The story which he told of his work literally thrilled the audience which gathered in the Arts club to hear him. Miss Frances Whedon, president of the group, introduced Dr. Yen. After his talk, W. Woodbridge Dickinson invited every one to stay to tea to meet the speaker.

Jimmy Yen—as every one calls him—of China's traditional "aristocracy of education" has devoted himself to the 85 per cent of his people who were traditionally illiterate. His work began during the last World war when China sent 200,000 Chinese laborers to become a part of the allied armies. Two days after he graduated from Yale, Jimmy answered a call for volunteers among Chinese students in the United States to go to France and try to help the homesick, lonely, and unhappy Chinese laborers.

At first he wrote letters home for them, three or four hundred a day, and in the evenings read to them and told them the news of the war. One day, he said, it dawned on him that he might try to teach them to write their own letters, to read their own news. He called together the 5,000 men he had in charge and asked for volunteers in the terrifying business of learning to read and write. Only 40 had the courage to try it, but after three and a half months, 35 of them could pass the tests of reading the very simplified Chinese which Dr. Yen had devised and of writing a brief letter. He used the brightest as "guiding students" to help teach others. Eventually he was asked to take charge of the education of all of the 200,000 Chinese laborers in France.

"For the first time," he said, "we Chinese students began to see our own people. We went back to China and dedicated ourselves to the very great task of educating China's millions of illiterates." He applied the methods which he had used in France. A Chinese alphabet of 1,300 characters [from the vast classical Chinese alphabet] was used, which even the dullest witted could learn in 96 hours. A literature in those characters also had to be created, for previous to that time literature had been only for the 15 per cent of the Chinese who were highly educated.

The 400 million farmers were next taught how to improve their crops in the same way—by using the smarter ones to teach small groups. It was soon found that what the farmers gained as better producers they lost as poor business men, so the principles of credit coöperatives and coöperative marketing were taught them.

Dr. Yen's associates, most of them like him, eager students trained in the United States, next turned to the education of the masses in health. In three years smallpox and tetanus had been wiped out of the districts where the "schools" functioned. Finally, seeing that it did little good to provide better education, economics, and health for the farmers when local government was corrupt, they were trained in the rudiments of government. The war has not destroyed all of their work, Dr. Yen said. In free China the constructive work of mass education has gone on in the midst of destruction. Every man and woman in the audience was stirred by Dr. Yen's belief in and devotion to his fellow

Fresh from the Hills .... By Marge of Sunrise Mountain Farm .... General Store

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

IT was an unusually quiet Saturday. The five salespeople and the young owner of the general store at Summersville, Mo., seemed quite embarrassed at having a visitor catch them with their crowd down. "Everybody's making garden," they said over and over. To me, the store seemed plenty busy. Apparently every man, woman, and child who had climbed out of truck, wagon, or car, had made a beeline for this store.

Any one is just plain foolish if he believes the traditional general store which sells anything from pills and petticoats to plows, went out of style along with the surrey with the fringe on top! Along country roads in Missouri and Arkansas and in many a town of considerable size, such stores are still flourishing. Some of them are unspeakably dark and dingy, with dusty front windows showing a conglomeration of frayed Christmas decorations, cow spray, work gloves, and strings of fly paper thickly spotted with victims. Usually they reflect the drabness and dinginess of their owners. Other general stores, like this one at Summersville, are clean, crisp, and bright. However, all have a pungent aroma you'll remember far longer than your first whiff of Chanel No. 5. Step inside and you sniff an unforgettable perfume compounded of denim overalls, salt pork, vinegar, apples, calico, and saddles.

Now, in these days of shortages, visits to little out-of-the-way general stores are surprisingly fruitful. For instance, on the shelves of this store 16 miles from a railroad, I found more cotton dress fabrics than I had seen in a State st. store only the week before. Down here in the hills, so many homes have chicken feed sacks that the city store's mad scramble for dress cottons is unknown.

The Summersville store is fortunate in its personnel. The owner, Sonny Penninger, is young and progressive, with blond good looks and a friendly smile that could land him in Hollywood. Even tho he told me not to mention it, I think you should know he was our first "returned soldier." The whole community wore lumps in our throats when we first saw Sonny with an artificial leg. But Sonny never lost his happy smile. He moved his pretty young dark haired wife [a former Kansas City girl] and baby to Summersville and took over the store his father had been operating as a branch of the Mountain View store.

When his father, worn with war time shorthandedness and endless details, passed away last year, Sonny became owner of the store he had been managing. His mother, with Sonny's own blondness and friendliness, took over the Mountain View store. Salt of the earth, those Penningers! In Sonny's store, three men and two young women are the sales force, cream testers, egg counters, and fence measurers. One of the crew is Bill Smith, who has been with the store so long he can recall when its merchandise was hauled from the railroad by trains of horse drawn drays. Bill likes to tell how the drivers always made two day trips, stopping overnight to camp beside the river where bass and trout could be caught for supper and breakfast. Now, of course, merchandise comes to the store by motor truck.

Sonny's main store building is large, with sunlight streaming thru front windows and the ceiling swooping to third floor height above a gallery. A second building across the alley houses a stock of feed, grains, and seeds of wide variety. And beyond that, a third building is filled with barbed wire and woven wire fencing. About the store lies some of the best river bottom land of the whole state, making this a region of prosperous farmers. For generations this has been an open range country and cattle are often herded along the river for several weeks of hot summer weather. This is important to Sonny's store, for a country family's shopping trip must often suffice for a month or two. It is not unusual for such a family to spend $35 to $40 for groceries on a single Saturday. But for most families, the trip to town is a weekly event.

Let's pretend you have become an Ozark woman and you're making your Saturday trip to town. O, no, you don't barge in at Sonny's front door, hustle over to the grocery section, dash to the dry goods department, and then rush out with arms loaded. Shopping isn't done like that in the Ozarks. You come in thru the basement, entering by way of a door opening on the alley. You see, you must bring in your eggs, anywhere from two to 100 dozen, for which you receive 30 cents per dozen. The eggs are received and counted in the basement and you will be given credit for them. Believe me, that credit will be correct. Long ago, general store managers learned that hell hath no fury like a country woman who suspects that a merchant has miscounted her eggs.

Perhaps you will also bring in a canful of cream. That's fine! Cream pays good money. It isn't necessary for you to linger in the basement while the long drawn process of cream testing takes place. You hand over cream and eggs, then climb the stairs to the main floor, your heart fluttering with the same shopping thrill you experienced on city store escalators.

You'll probably spend that first shopping hour just looking at the items on the partitioned counters in the center of the main floor. Here are blouses, lingerie, nail polish, powder puffs, and a hundred "notions." Then you'll mosey over to the shoe section along the wall, where wide open spaces, like gaps in a small boy's teeth, show the war time shortages of sizes and styles. Maybe you will stop at the adjacent drug section to buy bay rum or tooth paste. Be careful as you walk along the aisle. Here Sonny and his helpers have placed seed sweet potatoes [7 cents a pound for ordinary ones, 8 cents for certified seed], onion sets at $1 a gallon, Bermuda onion plants at 15 cents a bunch, along with boxes of cabbage plants, rhubarb roots, and seeds in packages with beautiful colored pictures showing what you may grow.

Certainly you will buy some of these. But there is no hurry in making your selection. You have all day. You can stop to chat with a neighbor about the latest pie supper or your new quilt pattern while Floy Jean goes to wait on some one else. Eventually, however, you get to the grocery and meat section. Meat??? Of course! Country stores are allowed to butcher their own meat supply, and while the number of animals has OPA limitations there is always enough to go around. Remember most farm cellars are loaded with home canned meats and sausage and that cuts the demand on small town merchants.

You leave your groceries in an open box where your husband can pick them up at going home time, and go to the hardware department at the rear of the store. Here you'll find those carpet tacks you want and you'll also find trace chains, cross-cut saws, lezpediza blades [teeth like a bread knife and razor sharp], mower parts, lamp chimneys, plowshares, bolts, sickle stones, neatsfoot oil in gallon jars, and even a cradle blade. You wonder about the group of overalled bewhiskered men clustered about the nearby stove on such a warm day. But you understand when you see one tall farmer open the stove door and neatly ping! his chawin' terbacker inside. Then, having saved the best for the last, you go to the front of the store where women stand in groups before the dress goods and the ready mades, shifting heavy babies from one arm to another while they talk together.

This Saturday trip to town is the only outing of the week for many country women and how we enjoy this get-together at the general store. Here the news of the hills is exchanged. Prospective brides and coming babies are given thoro goings-over. Recipe and unsuitable feed sacks are traded with equal fervor. Letters from sons in service are read aloud, and eyes are wiped over good news and bad. After a week's so-called conversation with one's husband who is interested only in planting, brush cutting, fence building, and fishing, this feast of feminine companionship is manna to a starved heart. The fact that these farm women meet at Sonny's store is high tribute to this young merchant. Remember these women are buying Sonny's groceries and clothing with eggs from chickens they raised thru rain and shine, and cream from cows they milk night and morning with their own busy workworn hands. Spendthrifts and dollar foolish women are not found in rural communities.

But don't let such weighty problems as labor and its reward, or Sonny's shrewd merchandising keep you from enjoying these visiting hours. Talk with every one! Don't judge your sister shoppers by lack of nail polish or girdle. Remember any woman there could probably outsew, outquilt, outcan, and outgarden you. She could set a good table for her family where yours would starve. Look at the babies too. Maybe you will be lucky, as I was, and meet Albert Leroy Connor. Albert Leroy was taking his first shopping trip with stoical calm. He had opened his blue eyes exactly two weeks before on eight brothers and sisters, one brother-in-law, and a lively nephew, 10 days old.

Perhaps you may also meet little wide-eyed Margaret Louise who began a conversation with me by saying:

"Grandma had to stay home with the baby chicks."

"Poor grandma," I said. "Why didn't you stay with her?"

The youngster's mother, who had been selecting a dress pattern, size 12, for herself, explained that she had brought Margie to town so a doctor could tell why the child had been running a temperature each day.

"The doctor said it was some bowel condition. He gave her some medicine," said the mother chattily. Then she added darkly: "I still think it's worms!"

"If it's worms," said an older woman who stood nearby "give her a drop of turpentine in a spoonful of sugar every morning for three mornings. Then skip three. Then do it all over again."

The conversation continues. I asked the pint-size mother if she had her garden in.

"Lordy, no," she exclaimed. "I just plowed it yesterday."

"You mean you actually did the plowing?"

"Shore!" she said. "Only way I'd get it done! My man and my brother are both in the army. There's only Maw and me and the baby here on the farm. So I jis' hitched up them mules yeste'day and if I do say hit myself, I done a mighty good job. Only thing, I couldn't put them lines around my waist. They kept a-slippin' down. So I jis' put 'em around my neck and away we went."

Long live the general stores of this nation! May their aisles be wide so these unsung heroines of the war effort can visit in companionable groups, and may their counters be comfortable for leaning. Those good shoes get awfully snug after the second hour.

men and by his faith in a future of mankind.

The annual meeting of France Forever last Monday evening closed with a showing of the official French government film of the liberation of Paris, which showed dramatically how the French people inside Paris struck the first blows, how Le Clerc's F. F. I.s came in from the outside, and the American army consolidated the liberation and the jubilation. The picture must have been nostalgic to the new French consul general, Jean Joseph Viala, and his wife, who were introduced officially to Chicago that evening. For they shared in those fateful days after those long years of the German occupation. M. Viala made a speech in French, altho his English is a comfortable second language to him, as his consular service since 1920 has been in Sydney, Australia, and in Glasgow and London.

Mrs. Walter Brewster, president of the Chicago chapter, reported the extremely successful activities of the group in creating deeper cultural bonds between the countries. France Forever has already started the reëquipment and rebuilding of French libraries.

The principal address of the evening was made by James S. Walsh, midwest director of the French Press and Information Service, who, with clarity and authority, stated France's present position and plans for the future. Despite his Irish sounding name, he is as French as the Eiffel tower.

The distinguished allies group in Chicago has had a recent addition in the person of John Duncan Miller, who is replacing Graham Hutton as director of British Information Services. Mr. Hutton, who is going back to England, introduced his successor to friends at a hail and farewell party at the Tavern club.

Mr. Miller before the war was a publisher and, with his wife, a consulting architect. He joined the British army at the outbreak of the war, was stationed in Washington for two years in the ordnance supply division, and then went to the India-Burma area. He flew here directly from India and arrived on one of those lush March days to find, he declared, Chicago as warm as Calcutta. Time has already taught him his mistake.

One does not expect to see the exclusive Casino so crowded that there is no use opening the outside door, which was being stormed by crowds unable to get in, but such was its state recently when the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects had as their guest the great militant individualist, Frank Lloyd Wright. Mr. Wright gave a stirring explanation of his theory of organic architecture, focusing his words thru the lens of the great Chinese philosopher, Lao-Tse, who declared in the 6th century B. C. that "the reality of a building does not consist of walls and a roof, but the space within to be lived in." Mr. Wright generously shared his pessimism over the present and future of the world. He believes that cities are as dated as static in radio, that slums show "a poverty of soul built into a nation." And since, as he says, architecture is the structure of anything that is made, it is the business of architects to save the world.

Among the pre-lecture dinner guests of Alfred Shaw, who as head of the group of architects introduced Mr. Wright, were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lewis, whose house on the Des Plaines river west of Lake Forest is the latest of Mr. Wright's houses to be built in this neighborhood. Mr. Wright designed his first house 45 years ago, he said, and the other day signed his name to opus 497.

Last Saturday's scholarly lecture by Robert Penn Warren in Poetry magazine's Modern Arts series was the first one on the art of poetry. Mr. Warren is this year's fellow in poetry at the Library of Congress. The lecture lured a large group of Chicago's patrons of the arts from the age of 13 to 80.

Celebrating her 80th birthday recently, Mrs. William Calhoun, sister of Miss Harriet Monroe, who founded Poetry magazine in 1912, invited the entire staff of the magazine to help eat the birthday cake which she cut, as three generations of good wishers surrounded her. Her oldest guest was Carter H. Harrison, who quite frankly boasted of being 85. Mrs. Calhoun's nephew, Lt. Henry Monroe, impressive in his naval uniform, was here from Washington with his wife and their year and a half old child the birthday party's youngest guest.

Another tribute—beside the living monument of Poetry magazine—was paid to the memory of Harriet Monroe on Thursday afternoon at a tea party, under the auspices of the Chicago branch of the National League of American Pen Women, when a figurine of Miss Monroe and one of the late Mrs. Frank G. Logan were added to the Chicago Historical society's collection of miniatures of famous Chicago women. The tea was presided over by Miss Alice Gerstenberg, president of the pen women.

At the Easter flower sale which is traditionally held by the parish guild of the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest, the village square was abloom with plants and Easter toys for the children and well stocked with fauna as well as flora. Live bunnies and chicks and canaries satisfied yearnings for some Easter presents. From inside the deep fountain, well packed with hay, larger live stock looked with hostile eyes on the covetous humans around them. A lamb, so tiny that it had to be fed from a bottle, became the unenvied possession of Mrs. Russell Lord. The "big lamb," obviously determined not to become a chop without resistance, became the precarious property of Sally, the Laurence Robbins' daughter, who had a time persuading it to be her little lamb. The russet skinned calf, which was the most coveted of all, ironically went to an Armour!

Phoenix Guests Enjoy Annual Rodeo Festival

PHOENIX, ARIZ.

In the capital city this is Rodeo week. The citizenry is dressed western; the corral for sequestration of recalcitrants is in operation, and the pro-cowboys have arrived and are ready to do their stuff in the world's championship rodeo the end of the week.

This is the biggest money show of them all. In Madison Square Garden or at the Chicago Stadium they pay more, but it is spread over a longer period. The daily take here—some $2,500 a day, with entry fees added—is the greatest daily take in the dogie-chasin' and bronc-ridin' business.

Evidence of the spontaneity of the occasion is afforded by the array of noonday talent at the corral a block away from the Hotel Adams. Professional entertainers, with a few amateurs thrown in, are daily out at the corral for free, to beguile the nonwesterners whilst they await their fines for refusal to go western. Multi-gallon hats, levis, boots, and checked shirts are de rigueur here this week. The cowboys' clambake is here.

Strings of colored lights played second fiddle to the Arizona stars in lighting the patio and pool at the Paradise inn Wednesday evening when "La Fiesta Mexicana" was held. Chicagoans, disguised as Spanish ladies and Don Juans, danced to the pulsing music of the Caballeros. Flags, banners, and streamers transformed the scene into old Mexico, and strolling troubadours strummed their guitars.

Several hundred Phoenicians joined the inn's guests in making it a gala affair. Cocktail parties were held preceding dinner, with a buffet supper of Spanish delicacies served later in the evening.

Newly arrived guests who attended the fiesta were Mr. and Mrs. James M. Carry of Highland Park, Maj. and Mrs. James L. Meloy, formerly of Chicago, now stationed in Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Koch and daughter, Ruth, of Winnetka; Mrs. Flint Bondurant, Cairo, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Bamford, and Capt. K. Raymond Clark, Chicago. Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Sproule, with their children, Phoebe and Jack, and Henry R. Buchman, all of Milwaukee, were also there.

Arizona Chicagoans attending the party, who have their winter homes in Arcadia or in Biltmore estates, are Mr. and Mrs. Burridge Butler of Hinsdale, Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Johnson, and the William Bentons of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Octigan of Winnetka, Mr. and Mrs. Al R. Johnson of Oak Park, the Wilbur Smiths of Lake Forest, Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Zeiss and their lovely daughters, Joe and Ellie, and Dick Searles, all of Chicago.

Mrs. Walter H. Baldwin with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Baldwin of Highland Park, who are her house guests also attended the fiesta.

Chicago arrivals at the Arizona Biltmore this week are Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Davis, Frank McNair, Harry V. Barbour, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Stanley, and Mrs. James G. McMillan.

Other new guests are Mr. and Mrs. George Habicht Jr. of La Grange and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce MacLeish, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Payne with their daughter, Priscilla, and Mr. and Mrs. John Dern of Winnetka, and Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Falk of Glenview.

At the downtown Westward Ho many of the eastern guests linger to make sure spring really has come before going home.

New check-ins are Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin P. Steacy, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ellington, Mr. and Mrs. Herman S. Buck, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Davis of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs Norman Clark of Evanston.

Col. and Mrs. George F. Brewer of Chicago, guests at the Jokake inn, recently bought a farm on the Indian school road where they reside in Phoenix. Col. Brewer awaits his honorable discharge from the army.

Billy and Mary, children of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Susen of Park Ridge, vacationing at the Jokake, were top winners in the girls' and boys' prizes awarded for the Easter egg hunt.

A tennis tournament between William and Luke fields, with a general as one of the players, entertained guests last Sunday in the warm Easter sunshine. The tournament was followed by one of the ever-popular tea dances held around the pool.

New additions to the Chicago colony at the Jokake this month are Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Bengston, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meyer of Chicago and Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lang of Riverside, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Priebe Jr. of Wilmette, and Mrs. Theodore Smith of Lake Forest, who recently joined her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur C. Smith at the inn.

Out at Squaw Peak ranch, overlooking Paradise valley, Mrs. Leon Welch of Evanston is vacationing. She enjoys daily canters across the sun drenched desert.

Woman's Club to Hear Bible History Expert

By Irene Steyskal

From time remembered only in legend succeeding generations of children in his family played on the shores of the Sea of Galilee, and so as a lad, Stephen Haboush, too, roamed and dreamed, and peopled his playground with figures from the gospel stories. There was Simon Peter of the bronzed, hard arms, Peter as strong and tempestuous as a sudden gale, who left his nets with the silvery catch at the call of his Friend to become a fisher of men. There were the others who followed, James and John, the sea and wind wise sons of Zebedee. And, in the sunset hour of sheening water and sails turned homeward, there again to the shore imagination drew the throngs of the unknown, and One who spoke to them in a voice of living music.

Members of the Chicago Woman's club are promised an hour holding an afterglow of Easter when they meet Wednesday afternoon in Curtiss hall. Mr. Haboush, who, when he grew up, was sent to European universities and schools in America, and became an archaeologist and student of biblical history, will be the club's guest speaker that day. "Under the Galilean Skies" is the title of the lecture he will give. Assisted by Mrs. Haboush, he will illustrate his talk with colored pictures. Both Mr. and Mrs. Haboush will wear native Palestinian dress.

With the end of the season nearing, events crowd the calendar at the club. The special activities committee, which Mrs. Julius J. Bensabott heads, has recruited a company of 20 husbands of members to assist them this afternoon and evening in entertaining some 500 service men at the U. S. O. center at 131 S. Wabash av. Thursday night in the club's 8th floor lounge in the Fine Arts building, Mrs. Harry A. Biossat's art and literature department will present Lois Fisher, who draws the Ozark Mountain characters to illustrate Marge Lyon's "Fresh from the Hills" stories in the Sunday Tribune. Miss Fisher's chalk talk, originally scheduled for an earlier date, was postponed in order to give a greater number of members an opportunity to attend. Miss Herma Clark, author of historical novels and veteran TRIBUNE columnist who writes of "When Chicago Was Young," will appear with Miss Fisher. Miss Clark will wear a costume of the "elegant eighties." Among drawings on exhibit that evening will be cartoons reminiscent of the eighties which Miss Fisher made to illustrate stationery and note paper.

Those members of the Cordon who are gliding thru the clubrooms these spring days like so many Katharine Cornells gesturing gracefully and murmuring to themselves sotto voce, oblivious of all about them, are all to be identified with Melita Hamilton Skillen's Cordon Mummers. There is a play production in final rehearsal.

This is the Mummers' third season, and so popular have their plays become it was necessary for Miss Skillen and her troupe to transfer from the Cordon's music room to Curtiss hall in order that all of their enthusiastic audience might be seated. Two plays, "The Turtle Dove," a fanciful Chinese story by Margaret Scott Oliver, and a modern comedy, "Juliet and Romeo," by Harry Wagstaff Gribble, are on the spring program in which the company will appear Tuesday night. Curtain will be at 8:15 o'clock. The Cordon's president, Mrs. Michael Mason, and Miss Bertha Weeks, ways and means chairman, emphasize that attendance is not restricted to the membership, and friends will be welcomed.

Comprising the cast of the Chinese play, which recounts the legend of the willow pattern on Chinese porcelain, are Caroline Dillard, Dagny Helen Delph, Alice Mason, Mary Hibbard Schauffler, Priscilla Colditz, and Leta Vaughan, with Marie Merrill in the role of the invisible but important "property man." "The Turtle Dove" will be fully accoutered with authentic "props" and costumes.

Jeanne Bolan and Mickey Lynn have the title parts in "Juliet and Romeo," Jules Beskin portrays an elderly Romeo, Ray Nordine is an up-to-date Friar Laurence, and Annemarie Anrod is a remote successor to the Shakespearean nurse. Technical assistant to Miss Skillen is Johanna Doniat. Professionally, both Miss Skillen and Miss Doniat are instructors in drama and theatrical production at Senn High school.

Husbands who sometimes wonder what it is that keeps wives so busy in their exclusive feminine world of club activities will be given a look into the inner sanctum of the woman's club tomorrow evening by Chicago section of the National Council of Jewish Women. Mrs. William H. Sahud, the president, and her corps of officers and directors, have arranged a demonstration program for a general meeting of the organization tomorrow. The hour is set for 8:15 o'clock, and the husbands of members are invited to attend.

Posters and exhibits arranged in the auditorium at 185 N. Wabash av. will present a graphic record of the council's work, such as its service to the foreign born, thru which, in these war times, many separated families have been reunited with their American relatives; Council camp, where hundreds of underprivileged mothers and children each summer are sent for a restful and health building vacation; war activities, which include a large production program for the Red Cross, stamp and bond sales, and parties at U. S. O. centers; an educational program affording members an opportunity to study international and national problems and contemporary Jewish affairs, and other programs for recreation and artistic expression.

After viewing the exhibits, members and the guests will hear a lecture by Prof. Walter Johnson of the University of Chicago history department. Prof. Johnson is director of the American history course in the army's specialized training program on the Midway. "America Faces the Future" will be the theme of his talk. The evening will close with a social hour.

In the afternoon Mrs. Sahud, retiring from the presidency, will give an annual report, and the nominating committee, of which Mrs. Joseph G. Slottow is chairman, will present the slate of candidates for office. Mrs. Charles Levin is slated to succeed Mrs. Sahud.

Interest of hundreds of Chicago Catholics and many friends is directed to the closing program of the Charles Carroll forum, set for 3:30 o'clock next Sunday in the Mural room of the Morrison hotel. The meeting will focus on the pertinent question of "Labor in America," and both labor and industry will have spokesmen on the panel of discussants.

Heading the panel will be the Rev. Dr. John F. Cronin of Baltimore, Md., professor of economics at St. Mary's seminary in that city. Father Cronin frequently has served as arbitrator in the settling of labor-management disputes. Spokesmen for industry will be James M. Cleary, vice president of a large advertising agency and head of the speakers bureau for the Committee on Economic Development. Frank J. Gillespie, executive secretary of the dairy workers, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, will present labor's views.

The forum, named for Charles Carroll of Carrollton, signer of the Declaration of Independence and a champion of the Bill of Rights written into the Constitution, has become nationally known since it was founded here eight years ago by the Rev. James A. Magner of the Catholic University of America, who then was a professor on the faculty of Quigley Preparatory seminary. Behind the forum was the principle that democracy functions primarily thru the expression of free public opinion, and the purpose of its founder was to "make better known Christian principles and representative Catholic views on leading topics of the day."

Scores of famous educators, scientists, writers, and artists have appeared on its platform.

Now that he is in Washington, Father Magner has a sister forum organized and prospering there, but because of the reluctance of his old friends to part with him, he has continued as executive secretary of the Chicago organization. He will return for next Sunday's meeting to preside over open discussion at the meeting. Dr. Paul Kiniery, assistant dean of the graduate school of Loyola university is president of the open forum

LIVING IN ELGIN

Mrs. Walter Leinert, the former Martha Edwards, and Mr. Leinert are at home in Elgin, following their marriage recently in the parsonage of the Holy Trinity Lutheran church in Elgin. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Edwards of St. Charles, Ill.

Literary Club to Hold Book Talk Program

Now a closed chapter for the Friends of American Writers is the annual award luncheon, and the notebook opens to a new sheet. The circle will gather at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday in the Cordon club for a book review program by Alice Sheldon Clock on current, widely discussed works related to the war and the allied nations involved. Mrs. Cook will discuss Lin Yutang's "Ordeal of a Nation," Owen Lattimore's "Solution in Asia," Harrison Foreman's "Report from Red Russia," William L. White's "Report from Russia," Edmund Stevens' "Russia Is No Riddle," and William B. Ziff's "Gentlemen Talk of Peace."

Presiding at the meeting will be Mrs. Colin M. Higgins.

The American Pen Women's Northern Illinois branch will discuss plans for contributing an award to the forthcoming Writers' conference at Northwestern university when they meet next Saturday. Mrs. William Ewen is opening her home at 1316 Judson av. in Evanston to the Pen Women for their session, which will convene at 1:30 o'clock, with Mrs. Carl Victor Wisner presiding.

The lecture department, of which Mildred Miles Main is chairman, will present a program arranged in collaboration with Edith Allen Watts. Among the participants will be Hilda B. Farr, contributor to Arch Ward's "Wake of the News" column in the sports section of THE TRIBUNE, who will give "Inside Information on the Wake." Annual reports will be given by officers and department chairmen at the meeting. The Writers' conference at Northwestern to which the Pen Women expect to contribute a prize is set for July.

Chicago chapter of the Catholic Poetry society will hear George Schaeffer on "Some Aspects of Modern Poetry" at its meeting at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the Alliance Francaise in the Fine Arts building. Mr. Schaeffer has taught courses in literature and cosmology at the Sheil School of Social Studies.

There will be an open meeting of the Scribbling Sisters club at 8 o'clock Thursday night in the McCormick Memorial Y. W. C. A. at Oak and Dearborn sts.

Church Woman's Group to Meet Next Friday

"Our Church in the Post-War World" will be the program theme at a meeting of the Rock River Conference Woman's Society of Christian Service scheduled at 1 o'clock Friday in the Chicago temple. Mrs. Thomas Nicholson, honorary president of the World Federation of Methodist Women, will tell of the post-war program in Asia, and plans for Europe will be discussed by Bishop Francis J. McConnell. Devotions will be led by Mrs. Francis J. McConnell.

Grandmothers Club to Hold Style Show

Lace cap and rocking chair grandmothers are outmoded. At least this is true, if the Grandmothers Club of Chicago, which is sponsoring a fur fashion show and gay '90s revue at 3 o'clock next Sunday in the North ballroom of the Stevens hotel, may be taken as a criterion. Not only are these modern grandmothers sponsoring the show, but they are serving as models as well. Open to the public, the revue will swell the society's war service fund with which to continue its service for hospitalized veterans.

Musarts Club Schedules Meeting on Wednesday

The Musarts' Club of Chicago will hear Shirley Geis give a dramatic interpretation of Ada Jackson's "Behold the Jew" at 1 o'clock Wednesday in the Woman's City clubrooms, 410 S. Michigan av. The program, arranged by Mrs. Robert L. Huttner, will include incidental music by Bess Weinstein. Mrs. Edward Weinstein will conduct the meeting.

April Offers 3 Important Art Exhibits

By Eleanor Jewett

April is being ushered in by three important art shows. Last Thursday saw the opening at the Art institute of an exhibition of 40 paintings by members of Palette and Chisel Academy of Fine Arts to celebrate the academy's 50th anniversary. Today sees the opening at the Arts club of the 29th annual exhibition by professional members and, at the Stevens hotel, of the annual spring exhibition by artist members of the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts.

The Palette and Chisel paintings have been installed in galleries 52 and 53 of the Art institute. They make an unusually fine show. Many of the best known and best loved painters of Chicago are represented. Edward T. Grigware, who is now Lt. Comdr. Grigware painting somewhere with the Pacific fleet, is represented by "Paradise Valley," a landscape loaned by the Municipal Art league. Oskar Gross has to his credit the portrait of Fred Bauman, lent by the Institute of American Architects. Othmar Hoffler shows the beautiful "Brittany Girl" from the Palette and Chisel collection. "The House by the Sea" by J. Jeffery Grant, "Spirit of the Berkshires" by Karl C. Brandner, "The Ground Swell" by C. Curry Bohm, "Tuesday Morning" by Erwin Kummer, "Arrangement" by Leo Marzolo, "From Bean Blossom Ridge" by James Topping, "Mary" by Arnold E. Turtle, and "The Paisley Shawl" by Charles Sneed Williams are among the outstanding canvases in the show.

The exhibition will continue to May 20 and is well worth seeing. It promises to be one of the finest exhibits of the season and one which will be long remembered.

Teas are introducing the Arts club member show and the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts show this afternoon. At the Stevens hotel, where the All-Illinois brightens the long galleries on the third floor, there are numerous clever, charming, and pleasing paintings. Erwin Kummer has one of the most fascinating landscapes, rich and colorful; Winnifred Pleimling a stunning still life on a shell motif, and Adam Emory Albright an attractive view of a movie star's home in Hollywood. There are portraits, marines, landscapes, and still life in the show, and a number of delightful flower paintings. Peggy Palmer Burrows has two immensely clever paintings. She is one of our painters with a never failing wit and an uncanny knack at accurate drawing, which is not meticulous. Her skits flow from her brush as tho it were an ever bubbling brook alive with fun.

The Arts club, Wrigley Tower, is offering another of the popular exhibitions of each season. The annual members' show is the one event of the club's year in which the more extreme modern art is not seen. It would be horribly dull, we grant you, were the Arts club to change its habit of bringing to Chicago the last word in painting and sculpture [even tho sometimes that last word is spoken by an artist of some 70 summers], there is no other gallery in town that competes in the slightest with the Arts club in its choice of exhibits, but it also would be less exciting were the Arts club not to wind up each year by drawing a long breath and exhaling in pleasant pattern the pictures conceived and executed by its varied membership. Portraits, landscape, abstractions, marines, flower paintings, and still life, the full run of compositions each exhibition offers, hang now on the Arts club walls. It is a decorative and an intriguing exhibit. Among the artists represented are Clay Bartlett, Peggy Palmer Burrows, Nina K. Griffin, Charles P. Killgore, Clinton King, Oskar Gross, Elizabeth Millard, Jean Crawford Adams, Winnifred Pleimling, Averil Conwell, Frances Badger, and Ivan Le Lorraine Albright.

Water colors by Roy M. Mason make a brilliant exhibit at the Ackermann Galleries, 408 S. Michigan av. The water colors are big, impetuous affairs, full of color, beauty, and action. They are vigorous and vital, alive and penetrating. Mr. Mason is another man to rank with John Whorf and Russel Flint, two contemporary water color painters of international fame and reputation. For a half hour of sheer delight and unalloyed pleasure, we recommend a visit to this show where "Them Bayou Niggers," "Western Trout Water," "Adirondack Winter," and "Pickerel Fishing" will quicken your spirit and make the blood to run more warmly in your veins. It is a great show.

The exhibit will remain on view to April 21.

The Association of Chicago Painters and Sculptors will open its annual exhibition of work by members at the Chicago Galleries, 215 N. Michigan av., on Saturday.

The Polish Arts club of Chicago is sponsoring its 16th annual exhibition of paintings, sculpture, and graphic arts at the Museum of the Polish Roman Catholic union, 984 Milwaukee av., from April 15 thru May 5. Artists of Polish descent thruout the country are invited. The entries will be judged by a Chicago jury of recognized artists.

An exhibit of water colors by Rex Mason went on view at the Little Gallery, Esquire theater, last Sunday to continue to April 15.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, April 18, 1897.

Dear Julia: What terrible news from Europe! Greece and Turkey at war! It does seem as if, in this year of our Lord 1897, men should be civilized enough to achieve an understanding by means of arbitration, rather than bathe the ground of their country in blood. Sentiment here seems to be in favor of Greece, even tho Will says she has taken the first steps to induce war. I was reading the figures on the equipment of each country for the conflict and alas! Turkey has so much the advantage. The latter country has assembled 58,000 infantry, while the Greeks have but 45,000; their artillery, too, is inferior. Will says the Turks, who have been trained by the Germans, are much better prepared. I fear for the result. It would be too bad if the Greeks, with their background of culture, learning, art and government, should be defeated, while the Turks gained further ascendancy in Europe.

J. M. Harlan

Easter is past—a rather troubled one here, for the Humphrey bills having been passed by the legislature of Illinois, a mass meeting was held in Central Musical hall to protest against them. Will attended and came home with a report which made me wish I could have been there, but as women can't vote, there is no point in going. I think the men don't want us there, anyway.

On the platform were seated the best known men in Chicago: Sigmund Zeisler, Richard T. Crane, Ald. Jackson, Franklin H. Head, Ald. Gunther, Josiah L. Lombard, William A. Giles, Prof. Graham Taylor, and Edward D. Butler. John Hamline stirred the audience by promising to bring the head of the senator who represented his district "home on a charger."

Our new mayor, Carter H. Harrison, aroused much enthusiasm when he called the passage of the bills an offense against the principle of self-government. He said that even if the compensation was sufficient; even tho the city should be assured that the commissioners handling the matter should be ideal men; yet the bills should not be passed now, as there is no need of haste.

John M. Harlan, son of Justice Harlan of the United States Supreme court, in his speech really "called names." I should think he would hardly have dared to say as much as he did, but he is quite fearless. Will quotes him about as follows: "We've got to do some plain speaking. Erskine M. Phelps, L. Z. Leiter, Marshall Field and Samuel W. Allerton, do you know what the attorneys and officers of the Chicago Railway are doing? Do you know that they are making you partners in grand larceny?"

Wasn't that pretty bold? When a speaker attacks a corporation, it doesn't sound so serious, but to mention the names of these very rich men and to say that they are partners in crimes, that must strike home!

The meeting ended by the passing of a vote of lack of confidence in the 12 Chicago senators who on Friday voted for the passage of the Humphrey bills, and expressions of gratitude and admiration for Sen. Walter Warden of Cairo who had boldly championed our city's rights.

The senators who voted for the bill are feebly trying to explain their action. Lundin says he voted for the bills "because 68,000 Chicago citizens signed a petition asking for the arrangement." "Of course," says Will, "that petition was got up by the companies, who sent representatives around to the saloons and lodging houses where tramps congregate, not legitimate citizens at all." Another senator explained his vote by saying he felt sympathy for the companies, "who have been working under shameful terms."

"Shameful!" Will exploded. "So shameful that the companies have been able to pay only 12 per cent dividends and to repay to stockholders all the money they've put in."

We hope that Chicago will be able to do something about this. Mayor Harrison is with the best elements of the city on the subject. Lovingly,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOTNOTES

The brief Graeco-Turkish war ended disastrously for Greece. She was compelled to pay a large indemnity to Turkey, besides consenting to the "rectification" of the Thessalian frontier. Turkey's troops had been trained by German officers since 1880 and their methods were superior.

• • •

The massmeeting of Easter Sunday, 1897, was the first of many similar indignation meetings, and in May the notorious Humphrey bills were downed in Springfield. This was not the end of it, however, and Martha's succeeding letters will tell more of Yerkes' attempts to get a 50 year franchise for his Chicago street car lines.

This Column Starts Reader's Hobby

Would you think an item in this column could start a reader in pursuit of a hobby which has developed into a business? That very thing happened, when Mrs. Alice Daye, 1923 Lincoln Park West, read here of the beautiful home of Mrs. Frank G. Logan [then living] and her collection of dolls. Mrs. Daye wrote Mrs. Logan; that lady responded in her cordial way; and as a result of the friendship thus begun, Mrs. Daye started the making of character dolls. At first a hobby, this has developed into a business and Mrs. Daye recently has had displays of her work in two large Chicago stores. Thus Mrs. Logan's influence lives on, after her death. A figurine of Mrs. Logan and one of Harriet Monroe, made by Minna M. Schmidt, were presented to the Chicago Historical society April 5, thru the Chicago branch of the American Penwomen. Alice Gerstenberg is president of the Chicago branch and has done much to stimulate interest in local history by the monthly programs.

Ticket Offices in Palm Beach Are Swamped

By Helen Van Hoy Smith

PALM BEACH, FLA.

"Goin' Home" is the theme song of these last few weeks of the Palm Beach season. Lines begin to form in front of the city railroad ticket offices in West Palm Beach at about 5 a. m., and many a resorter has seen his first sunrise of the season while waiting for the office to open. Some people stay downtown all night in parked cars. Others bring camp stools. One bellboy brought a couch and slept in comfort on the sidewalk in front of the station.

There probably is no place where human nature is more human than when waiting in line for a railroad ticket. There are some instances of unselfishness and exquisite courtesy, tho these are few and far between. Most wealthy resorters first demand a drawing room and are likely to speak firmly to the clerk who doesn't have one.

John J. Bowen Jr. spent the Easter holidays with Mrs. Bowen and the children, Elizabeth Mansfield Bowen and John Bowen III., guests of Mrs. Bowen's parents, the Alfred W. Mansfields, at the Everglades club. Mr. Mansfield has returned to Chicago, but Mrs. Mansfield, Mrs. Bowen, and the children expect to remain until April 15.

Mrs. William A. Yager, who also has spent the season at the Everglades club, has left for Beverly Hills, Cal., for the summer. Mrs. Frank Osgood Butler is remaining at her Via Bethesda home until late in May.

Mrs. Paul Maddock, the former Mrs. Quigley Moffet, is here, accompanied by a couple from New York. Lt. Maddock is stationed near New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Baker of Hinsdale are guests of Mrs. Grant Warren Spear at La Boliche, where Mrs. Spear is remaining until the middle of May before going to New York. Mrs. Alice Littig Seims, Chicago sculptor, who has a studio at the Breakers, has just returned from the Florida keys, where she made a portrait head of William Mellon aboard his houseboat, Old River. Mrs. Seims' brother, Dr. L. V. Littig of Madison, Wis., and his bride are in Palm Beach spending their honeymoon at the Villa Atlantique.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hughitt will remain at their home on Miraflores dr. until the middle of May, when they plan to go to their farm in Bourbonnais, Ill., and later to Chicago. They will spend the summer on the lake shore in Michigan. Mrs. George A. McKinlock will remain at Casa Alejandro until June and will spend most of the summer in Saratoga, N. Y.

Mrs. Chester C. Bolton, congresswoman from Ohio, made a talk at the Four Arts under the auspices of the Red Cross nurse recruitment service. She also spoke of her recent trip overseas to visit military hospitals at the front and in England. Mrs. Bolton was the first civilian woman to enter Paris after the liberation.

Say Explorer Made Landing Near Miami

MIAMI, BEACH, FLA.

Florida always is history conscious on Easter, because it was on that day in 1513 that Ponce de Leon landed on the peninsula, claimed it for Spain, and named it.

Just where he landed it is no longer safe to say. History books say St. Augustine, but later editions may have to be revised. There is new support to Miami's claim that Ponce de Leon landed at or near Miami. Prof. Louis Charles Karpinski of the University of Michigan came here recently to address the Historical Society of South Florida and said his research led him to support the contention of David O. True, Miami historian, that Ponce de Leon landed at the mouth of the Miami river.

The noted cartographer also stated the studies of early Florida history by Lawrence Wroth, Brown university librarian and assistant director of the J. P. Morgan library in New York, substantiated True's findings. Prof. Karpinski said the Florida coast and Gulf of Mexico appeared on maps as early as 1502, were well known to explorers by the time Ponce de Leon sighted Florida, and stated that even John Cabot's cruise down the Atlantic coastline in 1497 undoubtedly took him as far as Cape Florida, just off Miami.

Present day tourists do not particularly care who discovered Florida, nor when, nor where. The only Florida explorations they are interested in are their own. Many newcomers discovered Florida for the first time this season, and now many of them are forming lines at railway stations as early as 1:30 a. m. for 6 a. m. opening of ticket windows. April 15 will see most of them headed for points north. But Miami no longer becomes a deserted village in the summer time. Best proof of this statement is the announcement by the Roney Plaza, one of the largest hotels at Miami Beach, which has closed every summer except two, when it quartered army officers, that it will remain open this summer for civilian occupancy.

Formal entertainment is drawing to an end, however, and every day finds some new door shut with the sign reading "closed for the season." The Bath club will remain open, starting its summer schedule May 1, the day after its winter program ends. The Indian Creek will remain open until the middle of May for golf, swimming, and tennis, but will discontinue its regular formal functions the middle of April. The Surf club has had its final fashion revue luncheon but will continue its Thursday night informal dinners, Sunday buffet luncheons, and dancing in the patio until the end of April, with cabanas, pool, and tennis courts open even longer.

Mr. and Mrs. James T. Igoe, who will be at the Seaway until May 1, entertained Chicago friends recently at the Surf club. With them were Mr. and Mrs. William E. Boynton and daughter, Patricia, who are at the Delmar; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Gallagher and Mrs. Gallagher's mother, Mrs. John Madden, who are vacationing at the Jeffery House in Surfside; Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Lyman, stopping at the Seaway; Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Boyle, occupying their home on North Bay rd.; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard E. Callahan, and their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Slater of River Forest.

Paul Galvin of Evanston entertained closing night at the Brook club in honor of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Galvin. Mrs. Galvin, the former Mary Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael D. Barnes, is here on spring vacation from Northwestern university. Her marriage to Mr. Galvin took place last October, and this vacation in Florida is really a belated honeymoon trip. Others in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Alsdorf of Winnetka, who have a winter home in Fort Lauderdale, Mrs. James Alsdorf of Glencoe and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Brach of Winnetka, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert R. Lanning, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. McKearnan.

Mrs. I. Newton [Ike] Sewell of Chicago is vacationing at the Tatem, and other recent arrivals include Dr. and Mrs. John A. Christenson, who are at the Beverly Terrace for their annual stay.

Mrs. Cleaveland B. Putnam will leave soon for Cuba to visit Mr. and Mrs. Julio Sanchez of Miami Beach on one of their periodical visits to the family estate at Central Senado, in central Cuba.

WED RECENTLY

Mrs. Herbert Hamilton Mendelson, the former Loretta Jean Horwich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Horwich of East End av., whose marriage to Corp. Mendelson took place recently. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Mendelson of Sheridan rd.

Y. W. C. A. to Fete National Staff Member

Miss Lydia Johnson

The Chicago Young Woman's Christian association will entertain at luncheon for Miss Lydia Johnson, staff member of the national association's board, at 12:30 o'clock Friday in the Loop center, 59 E. Monroe st. Miss Johnson is in Chicago to confer with officials and committee members on financing the Y. W. C. A. program abroad, now greatly expanded because of the war. A former member of the Y. W. C. A. foreign division staff, Miss Johnson returned from an internment camp in Shanghai on the exchange ship Gripsholm on Dec. 1, 1943. She first went to China to work with the national Y. W. C. A. of that country in 1926.

At 7 o'clock tonight, the student department of the Y. W. C. A. will present Horace Cayton in a book talk at the Parkway Community center. Mr. Cayton is director of the center. He is an author of numerous magazine articles and books, among them "Black Workers and New Unions," "When Peoples Meet," and "Black Metropolis." For tonight's discussion he has chosen Richard Wright's "Black Boy."

April 14 has been set by the national Y. W. C. A. as the date for its war time "stay at home" convention. Each of the 1,006 local community and student associations thruout the country will be meeting on that day to discuss the organization's fields of leadership, its program in other countries, and the education of groups within the association's scope of work.

Miss Helen Bull, president of the Chicago Y. W. C. A., will conduct the Chicago meeting in the Loop center. Local delegates include Miss Essie Maguire, Mrs. Solon C. Bell, Mrs. Marguerite Pearson, Mrs. Charles Gilkey, Mrs. Howard Goodman, Mrs. Ulysses S. Keys, Mrs. Edgar H. Williams, Mrs. Walter G. Warren, Miss Daisy Morre, Miss Grace Stafford, Miss Patricia Stover, and Mrs. Eileen Worth.

OFFICER'S BRIDE

Mrs. Charles Bradford Jones, the former Barbara J. Lewis, and Lt. Jones of the navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Jones of Pittsburgh, Pa., are at home in San Francisco, Cal. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Pryor Lewis of E. Chestnut st.

Relief Society to Hold Benefit Lunch April 17

Mrs. Louis J. Halpern

Senior and junior divisions of the Jewish Consumptive Relief society have united to give a large benefit Tuesday, April 17, by which they expect to raise $15,000 for the Winfield sanitorium. The party, a spring luncheon, is to be held in the Palmer House. Mrs. Jay Emerson heads the senior section, and Mrs. Louis J. Halpern is president of the junior group. Sharing chairmanship responsibilities for the event are Mrs. David Daskel, Mrs. Ethel Goldberg, Mrs. Ben Braude, and Mrs. William Solomon.

The $400,000 sanitorium, operated on a nonsectarian basis, was erected by the Jewish Charities. The Consumptive Relief society equipped and maintains at the institution an occupational therapy department which is recognized by medical circles thruout the country.

Another of the organization's services for the tuberculous needy is centered at 2636 S. Michigan av., where a craft shop is maintained for convalescents, aiding them toward gainful employment. Annually a contribution of $5,000 is given by the society to help finance social service given thru the Michael Reese hospital dispensary.

Hoping to interest new friends in its philanthropic work, the Chicago Women's division of the National Jewish hospital will give a cocktail party at 2 o'clock Tuesday in the 885 club. The hospital, founded by the B'nai B'rith lodge and located in Denver, Colo., is the oldest nonsectarian institution for the free care of the tuberculous needy in this country. The Chicago Women's division, of which Mrs. Jack A. Diamond is president, contributes importantly to its support. With a bed capacity of 235, the 16 unit hospital gives treatment to approximately 1,000 patients annually.

Daughters of 1812 Board to Hold Annual Meet

The National Society of the United States Daughters of 1812 will hold its annual national board meeting tomorrow and Tuesday in the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Lloyd De Witt Smith of Grosse Point, Mich., president national, will be here to conduct the sessions, and Mrs. Charles E. Shearman, who heads the Illinois state society, will assume hostess duties. One of the social highlights of the conference will be the breakfast which Mrs. Charles Frank Rice of Atlanta, Ga., will give for officers and past officers at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. Members of the Illinois society will join the executive group at an informal dinner tomorrow night. The patriotic society was founded back in 1892, and to date there are three chapters in the state of Illinois.

Kappa Kappa Gamma Group to Meet Friday

Chicago Intercollegiate association of Kappa Kappa Gamma will hold its annual meeting at 12:30 o'clock Friday in the English Parts room of Marshall Field and company.

Science asserts: faces may be more youthful again

What would you give for a younger, more attractive skin of face and throat? Well, science asserts that, for most women, this is possible with ENDOCREME. This is because scientific ENDOCREME acts to improve the skin itself, not merely its superficial "look" . . . . improve it to a degree hitherto thought impossible. ENDOCREME, with its 7-year record of success, contains that great discovery, ACTIVOL. This ACTIVOL is the laboratory counterpart to Mother Nature's own skin-vitalizing substance. This natural substance grows less with age and ENDOCREME, absorbed under the skin's surface to rebuild cells and tissue, compensates for this loss. Thus, coarse, dry, seamy, ageing skins tend to become fresher, firmer, smoother, lovelier, more youthful again. How better can you spend your cosmetic dollars? Try ENDOCREME. Many report big improvement in only 30 days.

Lady of the House

Sorting out old quilt patterns the other day, I came upon a lovely golden cornucopia—horn of plenty. As so often happens, my random thoughts ran from the immediate task, not to that much lauded happy past, but to some of the present bewildering problems confronting mothers and homemakers.

Perhaps those of us whose young years were spent close to the land—on farms, in villages, the little towns, the lesser cities—have a closer kinship with our great provider, and understand it better. We love it. Its awakening to generous giving, after the winter's rest. The smell of it warming in spring sun, the burgeoning life and color, the opulent fruiting; the tired land sinking to rest once more against a new season of labor.

However, there is growing concern among us, as day after day the list of farm auction notices lengthens. Altho farmers and gardeners are set to work early this year, we wonder will that golden horn, spilling lavish largess to the world, run out? Altho the symbol in my pattern is filled with flowers instead of fruits, and is intended merely to be decorative, Aunt Ella reminds me, a bit insistently, that every horn of plenty has a small, thin end.

Helen Virden bids us consider—

The Better Part.

You're moving from the old farm home today;
The greener pastures of a crowded place
Seem now to lure you from the loam and clay.
Think of this change: for you cannot erase
So easily the place the countryside
Holds in your heart. For once you till the soil
Your own then you cannot be satisfied
To watch a clock and do less noble toil.

For he who breaks the loamy, fertile sod
Waits patiently for sun and rain to bless
His work . . . he has a partnership with God
A task where duty, earth and God coalesce.
From city streets or country lanes to choose
There seems so much to gain . . . yet more to lose.

Alice Watts Matteson indites these lines to the 6th Commando Rangers at Cabanatuan—

On thru the dark of night,
On in the urge of right,
On in the power of might,
Moved the Rangers,
Braving dangers—
Nippon's dangers.

Those held in slavery,
Tricked by Jap knavery,
Freed by Yank bravery.
When the Rangers
Came like strangers—
Yankee Rangers.

Long may this tale be told,
Long may their flag unfold,
Let us their names behold
Till Freedom ring
And Earth can sing
The Peace they bring.

Every mother who will soon be outfitting a young daughter for college will appreciate Clyde Mitchell Morse's—

To Margaret, Sixteen.

This is my precious year. A twelve-month more
And you will go to school; and I shall wait,
Apart, yet almost with you, watching you explore
The stored-up treasures of the wise and great.
You will come home for sweet, brief holidays,
Loyal and fond, yet restless; I shall know
And understand how in a myriad ways
The future beckons and you yearn to go.
Your friends—ah! there the insidious danger lies—
Which to admire, which love, and whom to choose?
I hope, beyond those ardent, shining eyes,
Sound judgment offers you her scale to use.
This is my precious year. God help me lay
Foundations still more strong; for love will call,
And doubt, and duty; may some inner ray
Of wisdom guide you when the dark nights fall—
So young you seem to me, so young and small.

Gertrude L. Robb, adored by verse loving children, says little boys come in—

Cabbage Leaves.

Little girl babies, of course you know,
Are plucked from the heart of a rose.
The boys come wrapped up in cabbage leaves,
As everybody knows.

Little girl babies are tiny and sweet,
With delicate fingertips,
And I think a hummingbird, kissing the rose,
Left his song on their dainty lips.

For little girl babies, I'll have you know,
Are never squally and red;
And I love little girl babies,
But—I'll take a boy instead.

For O! I know the ecstatic thrill
A mother's, heart receives
When they hand her a red-faced squalling boy.
[Wrapped up in cabbage leaves!]

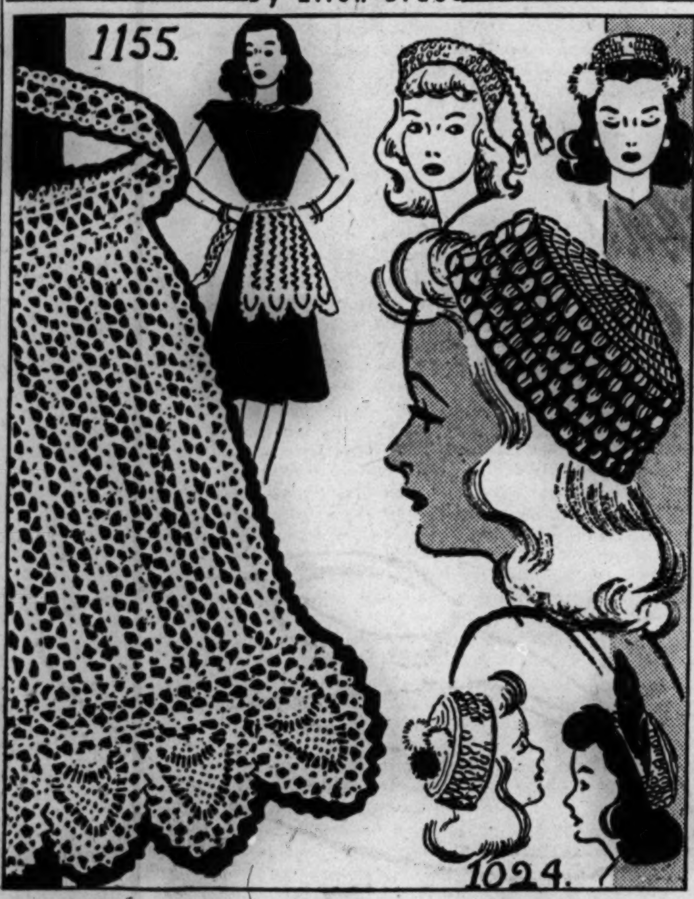
Designs for Needlework

By Ellen Bruce



A lovely, lacy, crocheted tea apron with a pineapple border, No. 1155, is simple to make and effective to wear. It is fashioned of white mercerized cotton.

A clever, crocheted pill box, No. 1024, is a perennial favorite with young and old. It may be worked in one, two, or three colors, and the trimmings are a matter of choice. Knitting worsted or synthetic yarns may be used effectively.

For instructions in making either of these items, send 15 CENTS in coin [30 CENTS for both—wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
2 no trumps	Pass	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of hearts.

The successful player must not only see to it that his own choice of bids and plays is always proper, but must at times save his partner from indiscretions committed in the defense of a hand. An interesting case in point is recorded today.

The final contract of four spades was hardly justified by the combined holding of the declarer's side. South's rebid after a moderate response of two spades was highly questionable. It is true that he had some excess values but hardly enough to hope for game with a mere single raise from partner. Perhaps the best way to avoid the problem on the next round with hands of this type is to open with one no trump. Unless partner is able to raise to two there will be little hope for game.

West made the normal opening of the king of hearts, which turned out to be unfortunate. The less attractive lead of a club would have settled the issue then and there. Declarer won with the ace, drew two rounds of trumps and then played the jack of hearts. This was taken with the queen and the shift was to the four of clubs, the queen forcing the ace. A club was discarded on the ten of hearts and declarer exited with a club. This was taken with the nine and the king of clubs continued, to force dummy into the lead.

Declarer then decided to lead the jack of diamonds [not a sound play]. Had East elected to win with the ace and exit with a low diamond, declarer would have been obliged to lose another trick in the suit. But East actually played the queen, for some reason or other, and declarer won with the king. Had West retained his ten of diamonds, the contract would have been fulfilled, since he would have been obliged to win the next trick in that suit and have no safe exit, inasmuch as the lead of a club or a heart would provide declarer with a ruff and a discard. On the king of diamonds, however, the ten was jettisoned and East was able to win the next two tricks with the ace and the eight.

Pan-American Day Fiestas to Be Held Here

Pan-American day will be celebrated with gay fiestas by two groups whose interest is focused on Latin America—the Pan-American council and the Friends of Mexico.

At the council party, set for 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the International Relations center, 84 E. Randolph st., the Mexican artist, Salvadore Mendoza, will be accompanied by Yvonne Angarola in a group of native songs, and Danilo Jiminez of San Jose, Costa Rica, will give impersonations. The program, which is open to members and visitors, is under the direction of Mrs. Allen C. Howes, Miss Lucile Carewe, and Mrs. Carlos Franklin. Special guests will be John F. Alexander, president of the council's board of directors, and the Latin American consular corps.

The Friends of Mexico will hold their celebration at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night in Bowen hall of Hull House, 800 S. Halsted st. Following a gala program of Mexican music and native dances, there will be a talk by Carlos Terrazas, representative of the secretary of labor in Mexico, on "Mexico's Part in the War Effort."

Two New Items to Old Rooms Give New Life

By Edith Weigle.

One of the most attractive new items of interest to the amateur interior decorator is a brand new adjustable cornice that will do a lot for the appearance of any window in the house. This product, in different designs for living room, dining room, bedroom, hall, playroom, and kitchen, is made in eight patterns and in 12 color schemes. There's even a "nursery lamb" cornice for the baby's room.

For the kitchen there's a cheery motif of red geraniums, another called "Dutch lattice," and still others, "Fiesta," and "Fruit arbor." All designs are processed in oil paints on tempered masonite and can be washed repeatedly without harm either to color or finish.

These cornices are made to fit any window up to 48 inches wide. For a narrower window it is a simple matter to cut the cornice, following a very clever special ruling on the back of each one. For instance, if your window calls for a cornice 30 inches wide you simply cut it at both ends at the 30 inch marking indicated.

By another ingenious little device the measurement from the cornice to the wall at either end can be whatever depth you wish. And for extremely wide windows it's not at all difficult to get two cornices and piece them together by means of a flexible metal strip made for that purpose.

You can give your cornice a custom made look by covering it with your drapery fabric, if you wish, or by painting it yourself to match your woodwork, or the background tone of the wallpaper.

Easy to follow directions come with each cornice, and the price of the whole kit is only $1.95.

Another new home beautifier is a roller shade that is made in decorator's colors. Hand painted and light proof, it also is duplex, that is, a uniform neutral tone on the street side and the hue you choose on the room side.

One Chicago store is showing it at a series of windows. One of these, for example, illustrates how beautifully the right tinted shade can harmonize with draperies. Long, floor length draperies of pale gray and light yellow pattern are hung over a roller shade that exactly matches the yellow.

At another window in the group a rose shade picks up the rose in the floral design of the draperies, which have a white groud. The effect is really lovely.

These shades have to be ordered individually and therefore you have to wait for them from 10 days to two weeks or longer. But they're well worth it.

[For information on where the items mentioned by Miss Weigle may be bought in Chicago, telephone The Tribune Public Service Office, Sup. 0200, or write in, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply.]

BUY WAR BONDS AND STAMPS

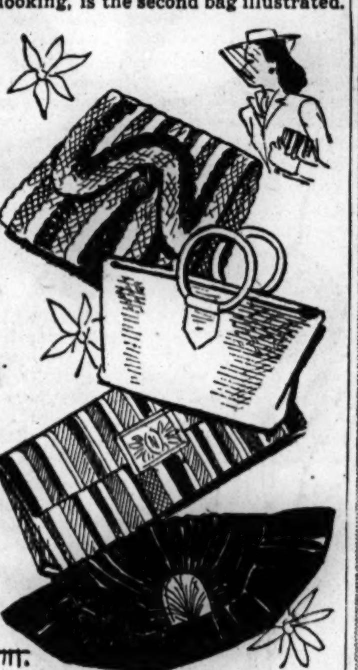
Fashions

By Angela

Handbags to be carried with summer costumes are varied in shapes, sizes, and materials, altho they range from conservative black and white to the multicolored and striped variety. Drawstring, carryalls, envelopes, pouches, and underarm bags are practical and popular choices. There are interesting straw weaves and plastics to compete with genuine and simulated leathers.

The voluminous underarm bag of braided straw, top, boasts a Mexican flavor in the vivid stripes of brown, rust, yellow, green, and natural. There is a single button fastening the braided loop.

White, but practical and so good looking, is the second bag illustrated.



This large plastic purse has two white bone bracelet handles and a zipper closing. It is large and roomy with a white lining, flat coin purse, and mirror. The main selling point aside from durability is that its fresh good looks may be maintained by the use of a clean damp cloth.

Again stripes appear on the handbag scene in the form of a multicolored, striped, plastic envelope model with a large clasp.

For dress occasions the large black faille bag with the giant plastic clasp is the thing to carry. It is shirred and fan shaped with ample interior space to house all necessary impedimenta.

Oversolicitude of Relatives Is Bad for Baby

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

I would be the last person in the world to belittle what grandparents are doing to help raise the babies and children of their married sons and daughters—especially when the young father is away in the services. But often, with the best intentions in the world, they make mistakes, sometimes of one kind, sometimes of another; and the grandmother who is oversolicitous, or actually apprehensive, becomes a hindrance rather than a help. The following letter will explain what I mean:

"I enjoy your column and would appreciate it if you would do a one soon about the over-anxiety of grandparents. This is such a common case that I'm sure many young mothers would welcome any suggestions you have on the subject.

"The war really has up-rooted my husband's family. All his brothers and sisters are gone, leaving the old folks alone.

"I was always on the best of terms with my in-laws, and not until our baby was born did any trouble arise. My husband's mother is generous to me, but I am getting so nervous due to their anxiety over young John that I hardly know what to do.

"If she reads of a child burning to death because its high chair was too near the stove she hastens over. She found that Johnny's bath toys contained pebbles so she methodically emptied every one, despite my feeble protests. Father is getting the same nervous feeling that she has because when I am alone with him he questions me to see if I am taking her advice.

"My doctor assures me that I am doing fine, and I really follow his instructions religiously, but the grandparents are unimpressed, as they seem to lack faith in doctors and to rely more on home remedies.

"I don't like to worry my husband about this trouble, and my own family [with whom we live] wisely adopts a 'dont's-involve-me' policy. However, when hints are voiced that I am incapable before our friends, I begin to realize the situation is really getting worse.

"I laughed it off in the beginning. I wish I could now. They began this worrying while I was in the hospital; they kept cautioning me against returning home with the wrong baby!

"Upon reading over my letter, this seems like a 'tempest in a tea pot,' but it has made me quite miserable indeed. I know I have much to learn about the baby, but I will have to gain my wisdom by experience!

"One of our worst arguments arose because I dressed the baby in only a shirt and diaper last July when the temperature was torrid. She worries now if ever the baby sneezes because she's afraid 'my unwise actions gave him sinus trouble.' When I asked the doctor [she was with me] to check up on this he did so and laughingly said; 'John was A-1.' She deeply resented his attitude.

"How shall I handle this delicate situation?

"Anxious Young Mother."

It is very hard to know how to advise this young mother about the attitude of acute anxiety which has developed in her husband's family. Yet I believe it is due partly to the fact that here is something for them to pin their hopes to; that they have less than usual of their own affairs to think about, and so are centering all their attention upon this baby.

Also, it is difficult for many older persons who have already raised a family to accept some of the new ideas which have really proved health-inducing for babies, such ideas as fewer clothes in warm weather and the early feeding of pureed vegetables, meatsoups, and fruits. Still, when a young mother is really devoted and the baby is well, older persons should cease interfering with their constant worry and fearfulness.

It is quite right for young mothers who are experiencing the difficulties of adjustment not to worry their husbands about it. But perhaps this girl could just keep repeating to her husband's parents that the doctor says she is a good mother and that the baby is doing beautifully. In addition, that it is going to be very bad for the baby to hold thoughts of fear over him all the time. It even might be advisable for the doctor to have a talk with the older woman and get him to express himself frankly in this way.

Perhaps if the older persons had some good reading about modern methods with babies and young children, they might realize how right the daughter-in-law is. To sum up, both sides have to make these human adjustments.

A firm, trim throat and chin line is a beauty asset of no small importance. Don't let it sag or age far in advance of its time, but, thru proper care, cultivate and preserve the youthful contour.

Are you pleased with the number of chins you're wearing and with the way the throat and neck are aging far in advance of the face? Naturally you're not, and it behooves you to get busy doing something about the situation before becoming resigned to it.

There's much that can be done about the extra chins and sagging throat line thru the exercise method. For the most part, they're simple routines which don't call for a great expenditure of time or effort but are effective nonetheless.

One good exercise you might like to try is to let the head fall backward as far as possible and while holding this position open the mouth wide and then close it slowly. You'll feel a pull on the muscles right down to the base of the throat. Perform the routine four or five times in the morning and again at night, and after a little while you'll notice a decided improvement in the throat and chin line.

Another excellent exercise is to rotate the head slowly, 'round and 'round, dropping it far forward, stretching it to the side, back, to the other side and then bringing it to normal position. Relax as much as possible while doing this one, and you'll not only improve the contour of the throat and neck but banish much of the tension and tautness so many women feel in that area.

The results achieved with these or any similar exercises will depend largely on how faithful and persistent you are in performing them and how willing you are to wait for results without expecting miracles overnight.

If the throat looks sallow and crepey, get after it with special lubricating creams and stimulate the skin thru massage and the use of a good toning lotion. There are many excellent products for the throat and neck on the market, and after choosing one of them, apply it with unfailing regularity.

Always remember to hold the head up when you're reading, sewing, knitting, or just plain sitting. Consciously tuck the chin up if it's inclined to droop, and remember that more than one double chin is simply the result of letting the head droop forward and resting it on the pad of flesh under the chin.

Of course, the outline of the throat and chin is bound to blur with advancing years, but, if you really want to, you can do much to forestall its happening and preserve a youthful contour.

A FRIEND IN NEED

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

By Sally Joy Brown.

Balmy breezes and warming weather have brought to our desk many pleas for wheel chairs from home-bound invalids who have known no respite from confinement indoors thruout the long winter. If any reader has one that is small and sturdy, which is no longer in use, we would be glad to have it to fill a recent request which came to us from an elderly woman who had her left leg amputated a few years ago and has since suffered a paralysis of her right side. She is entirely dependent upon an old age pension, and this small amount cannot provide more than the basic necessities of every day living. The rental or purchase of a much needed wheel chair is for her an impossibility, and the lack of one has caused her to be confined to her bed for almost a year. Her address is on the north side of the city.

Mr. M.'s inability to walk was caused by a severe spinal injury eight years ago. This long period of invalidism has been a great drain on him financially as well as physically. Inability to purchase a suitable wheel chair has necessitated his borrowing a dilapitated one which is quite unsafe and has upset with him on several occasions. He lives on the southwest side, and an offer from that general vicinity can be called for most conveniently.

• • •

Miss B., a medical social worker, has asked our aid in locating a wheel chair for a man who has been ill for many years, and recently hospitalized because of a rare bone disease. The nature of the malady is such that an amputation of one leg has been necessary. Since the person with whom he makes his home also is disabled and will be unable to wheel him about, a self-propelling chair will be most serviceable to him.

! FOOD FUN!

A drop of BURNETT'S Lime Food Flavor stirred into a fruit salad gives an extra tastiness . . . a hint of BURNETT'S Cinnamon makes a cup of hot coffee exotic! Give real personality to gelatines by adding a dash of BURNETT'S Peppermint, or a few drops of BURNETT'S Brandy, Sherry or Rum Extract! A jelly sandwich to which BURNETT'S Orange, Vanilla, Almond or Lemon Extract has been added is a sandwich de-lish! Glamourize meat dishes with your choice of Onion, Garlic or Mint Food Flavors. Ask your Grocer . . . add taste-magic and eye appeal to your foods!

What's the first thing you put into your mouth in the morning? Your dentifrice, of course! So don't you think you owe it to yourself to greet the new April day with a pleasantly fresh Spring-y taste? Yes, I'm talking about the refreshing taste of LISTERINE TOOTH POWDER . . . the kind that contains activating ingredients which surge into speedy action to attack ugly surface deposits and polish the enamel until it is really gleamingly clean! Remember what I told you about that sturdy DOUBLE SIZE round container with the red top of Prolon plastic to regulate exact pouring! Ask Druggists for LISTERINE TOOTH POWDER . . . a "tops" tooth cleanser in a "tops" container!

Are you an interior decorator? Don't laugh at the question . . . for any smart woman can become an expert in her own home if she'll heed a few common sense rules! These are that cleanliness, freshness and brightness are MUSTS! And it's miraculous what paint, judiciously chosen colors and something to add sparkle and "shine" can do! For the latter,—there's nothing like mirrors . . . mirrors to reflect decorative colors, to mirror the view an open window gives. So why not invest in a mirror this Spring? Look in your telephone directory under PITTSBURGH Glass Products for name of your nearest dealer . . . and look for the blue label —"Made from Genuine PITTSBURGH Plate Glass" . . . your guarantee of the finest in mirror glass!

"NAIL-DRI" Dries Polish . . . Immediately!

Many's the temper tantrum I've had just waiting 'round for slow-poke nail polish to dry. Many's the "conniption fit," too, when fresh polish smeared and I had a time-wasting "re-do" job on my hands. Not any more . . . at last, there's a remedy! It's NAIL-DRI, the brand new miracle liquid that dries fresh polish quick-as-a-flash. "IMMEDIATELY," its inventors say, and it's true! I've seen it work. I've used it myself. Apply your polish . . . then NAIL-DRI. BINGO! . . . you have a "dry-in-a-flash" manicure. And NAIL-DRI costs less than a penny for all 10 finger tips! 50c a bottle at Drug, Department Stores, and Beauty Shops. Treat yourself to NAIL-DRI today!

Ask a baker what a sifter means . . query the Army on what a filter means in tank performance . . . ask the dairyman how a separator helps him. Then let me show you how the unique filter tip in a VICEROY Cigarette can serve YOU! Resins, tars and other throat irritants are checked by the intricate folds of paper in the filter tip . . . leaving a mild, clean smoke that comes from the choicest blend of fragrant Domestic and Turkish tobaccos. In addition, the filter tip firmly holds tobacco crumbs IN the cigarette . . . eliminating crumbs on your teeth or littering up your handbag. Ask your tobacconist for VICEROY Cigarettes . . . the SMART cigarette for SMART women!

NEW YORK, N. Y., APR. 8th—Sum up the ingredients of a rare April day,—and you'll catch the spirit of this new BUY-LINE better than words of mine can tell you! It's a Face Powder that's in perfect harmony with the delicate, fresh mood of April . . . ready to give you a light, sheer make-up that lets your natural skin tones "glow through"! And how aptly it's named . . . "Translucid"! HOUBIGANT makes this clinging mist-fine Face Powder . . . sifting and micro-milling it to give you a sheer make-up for sheer beauty! It is, of course, enchantingly perfumed as only HOUBIGANT knows how to perfume a powder. Cost is $1.50 a box, in many lovely shades (my own particular favorite is Spring-fresh "Champagne Rosee"). "Translucid" is worth a search at better Dept. and Drug Stores!

Soup Sense

Ask yourself the question, "What WOULD I do without HEINZ Condensed Cream of Tomato Soup?" . . . and I think you'll be amazed at how many favorite recipes you'd have to discard! The blending of vine-ripened Aristocrat Tomatoes and real cream makes this not only a soup "par excellence" . . . but an extra-rich, extra-smooth "base" for so many dishes! Personally, I'd be lost for a good Thousand Island Dressing without this recipe:

Combine ¾ cup mayonnaise, ¼ cup HEINZ Condensed Cream of Tomato Soup, undiluted, and ¼ cup HEINZ India Relish. Chill and you'll have 1¼ cups of the most delicious dressing!

By the way, have you asked your Grocer for your FREE copy of 57-Ways to use HEINZ Soups? If not, get it today . . . it's full of soup-cookery wisdom! You'll learn more ways that HEINZ Condensed Soups can help you to new, tempting and time-and-fuel saving dishes!

Want to wrap yourself in the very spirit of Spring . . . to exhale it everywhere you go? Then whiff the fresh fragrance of English gardens captured for you by HERB FARM SHOP Toliet Water! There are five of them to choose from,—Night Scented Stock that has the heart-warming fragrance of a dew-laden nightfall in Spring . . . White Phlox that's precious as an armful of fresh white phlox . . . Green Moss that exudes the very essence of freshness . . . Lilac and Royal Purple! These HERB FARM SHOP Toilet Waters are triple strength . . so they last longer. Cost is $1.50, $2.50 and $4, plus 20% Federal Tax. You'll find these "sweet-as-first-love" fragrances at Marshall Field's or Mandel Bros.

Count the Helps . . .

RESINOL has to offer in everyday living, and you'll keep this famous, specially medicated ointment on hand ALWAYS! If Baby has diaper rash . . . soothing RESINOL can ease the fiery smarting. If Junior has ivy poisoning or sunburn . . . RESINOL contains quick comfort! Mother uses it for minor kitchen burns and scratches, chafing and local irritation . . . Father, for cracks between his toes and itching of dry eczema or occupational rash. Sister uses RESINOL Soap, followed by RESINOL Ointment, to hasten healing of pimply spots, externally caused.

A Tip to War Brides!

What's the most important "first step" a war bride can make toward building a home for the future? The best way I know and one that's open to her, even now, is to start her set of precious Sterling—destined to do her lifetime service. This isn't costly, either—a whole place setting of 6 essential pieces of TOWLE Sterling, in a choice of 12 patterns made even in wartime, costs only around $22, including 20% Federal Tax! Ask your Jeweler to show you Towle's SOLID silver patterns! Fashioned true to craft traditions begun in 1690.

Have you ever watched the bubbles of ginger ale . . . the fizz of carbonated drinks? Then remember that a similar action is invisibly present when you use ACTIVE OZONE CREAM from The House of GOURIELLI. It rubs in quickly—starts releasing nascent oxygen the minute it comes in contact with your skin. That's what makes this cream, compounded of moisture AND oil ingredients, perfectly wonderful for DRY, DULL, NEGLECTED SKINS! Try it just once, and you'll be convinced . . for your face will look fresher, smoother, and have a younger-looking, softer texture, yes, after even one night's use! Cost is $2.00 and $1.25 for trial size, available at smart shops, or at Gourielli, Inc., 16 E. 55th St., New York 22, N.Y.

Desirable after 30 . . . URGENT after 40!

A brave smile on a young looking face suits today's needs perfectly. So why not give that skin of yours a little help . . . especially if you're over 30? "PLUS 30" Cream I've been telling you about will supply active hormone ingredients to help replenish the natural supply that usually begins to decrease after a woman is 30. These are the substances that tend to keep the skin young and pliant looking,—substances that can be absorbed by the skin from this wonderful new hormone cream cosmetic science has developed. Cost is $3 for a 30-day supply . . . ask for "PLUS 30" Cream by Bonne Bell at The Fair or Stineway Drug Stores.

SUGAR SAVERS!

Last week I was served the most delicious dessert . . . made entirely without sugar! And it was WELCH'S Orange Marmalade that made it possible! Flannel-thin French pancakes were spread with this orange "sweet-treat" and then rolled deftly. I can't tell you how delicious this sugarless dessert is . . . and you might vary it for yourself by using WELCH'S Grapelade as a spread. Ask your Grocer for WELCH'S Orange Marmalade and Grapelade,—wonderful in "ingenuity" desserts and, of course, favorite spreads to make butterless bread delicious!

Again—I want to tell you about the MUSIC LOVER'S CALENDAR that illustrates in colored pictorial and chart form Two and One Half Centuries of Music up to 1944! It's beautifully printed in muted color tone that makes a stunning mounted or framed wall mat . . . listing more than 40 composers, from Bach to Gershwin . . . when and where they lived, their most representative compositions, what people love most about their works! Cost of this 17"x28" MUSICAL CALENDAR is only 25c . . . and there's a special greeting card for your name if you want to send it as a gift to some child studying music, or to a musical friend. MUSICAL CALENDARS are on sale in the Book Section at Marshall Field & Company, Chicago, or you may address your requests, with remittance, to the Musical Calendar Department, S-2, Bismarck Hotel, Chicago 1, Illinois.

"My Mother knows BETTER than to try to strait-jacket me! And she knows I don't favor being dumped into an undershirt that fits like a sack, either!" In fact, Chubby Cherub, your mother's a pretty knowledgeable lady where you're concerned . . . she KNOWS that for your comfort she must buy E-Z Shirts that eliminate binding and chafing and either too-tight or too-loose fit! She KNOWS that E-Z Underwear for Infants is labeled with the WEIGHT as well as the age of the baby . . . so there can be no mistake as to perfect FIT! Why not tip your mother off about the FREE booklet, "Don't Let the Scales Scare You"? It has a chart of age, size and weight measurements and lots of advice on baby-weight. Tell her to write to Nancy Sasser, 271 Madison Ave., New York 16, N. Y., for this FREE booklet!

A Permanent . . . Simple as A B C!

Want to eliminate the "bugaboos" of a new permanent? Then just eliminate heat . . . eliminate interminable waiting . . . eliminate discomfort . . . eliminate costliness! Way to do it is to ask your Notions or Cosmetic Counter for CROWNING GLORY, the ORIGINAL Cold Wave Permanent for home use! The lotion is non-irritating and harmless (for it can even be used on children's hair!) . . . contains NO ammonia. Just about 3 hours will do the trick . . . right at home as you go about your other tasks! Nicest thing is you can set your curls just where YOU want them . . . heavily or lightly, as you like! Cost is only $2 for a complete CROWNING GLORY Cold Wave Permanent. Results are wonderful!

I've told you often about the silver polish used to clean and polish the priceless silver and gold services in Buckingham Palace,—SILVO Silver Polish. But let me remind you that this creamy liquid polish is equally wonderful for polishing fine crystal and plate glass and mirror surfaces. It POURS on, you know . . sinks into chased or filigree silver work and comes right out again with only the lightest of rubbing! If you can't find SILVO, drop a line to Nancy Sasser, 271 Madison Ave., New York 16, N. Y., and I'll see that you get name of nearest dealer.

Ever been scent "deaf"? That's what happens if you use the same perfume a long, long time. And just the same kind of odor "deafness" happens with our own body odors . . hard for us to whiff because they're always present. But others can . . . so you MUST use a way to neutralize them! Smoothest way I know is with AMOLIN Deodorant Cream . . . the softer, sweeter cream that spreads on easily and vanishes quickly . . leaving underarms soothed and fragrant as a rose petal! AMOLIN is thrifty, too . . . for every speck in the jar will STAY soft so you can use the last little dab! Ask your Druggist for AMOLIN Cream Deodorant . . . to insure your fastidiousness!

Don't let its looks deceive you,—for though YARDLEY Hand Cream is the epitome of feminine luxury in its pale pink and flower scented creaminess, it has the performance of a rugged veteran of war! It is the cream which English women have used for years to protect their hands from the ravages of war work . . . and its lovely looks are no reflection on its efficiency. Just try it and see . . its lubricating action helps to smooth and soothe your skin and makes your hands look softer and fairer in spite of the work they do! Cost of YARDLEY Hand Cream is 65c at finer stores everywhere! Ask for it today!

Quick Breads Easy Enough for Beginners

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

If you've always envied and admired the woman who makes her own delectable homemade breads, stop it, and learn to make breads yourself! It isn't difficult, and there's much enjoyment to be derived from turning out golden loaves from our own oven.

The best way to start is with nut and fruit breads, which are easy enough for a child of 10 to undertake. They're almost failureproof and most of them are very good eating. They're usually mixed like muffins, in the quickest way, but some of them, the rich, sweet breads, have better texture when mixed like cake.

Any fruit or nut bread is better after 24 hours of ripening. It will crumble if cut too soon after baking.

Orange Cinnamon Loaf

[Good for Sandwiches]

1½ cups sifted enriched flour
¾ cup sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup rolled oats
1 cup seedless raisins
¼ cup orange juice
Grated rind of 1 orange
¾ cup boiling water
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons melted shortening

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder, soda, salt and cinnamon into bowl. Stir in oats and raisins. Combine orange juice, rind, and boiling water. Add to ingredients in bowl. Add egg and fat. Stir until mixture is just blended, but still lumpy. Pour into greased small loaf pan [8 by 4 inches] and let stand 20 minutes at room temperature. Bake for 1 hour at 350 degrees. Turn out and cool on a rack.

Apricot Nut Bread

[8 by 4 inches]

½ cup shortening
¼ cup sugar
¾ cup corn sirup
2 eggs, beaten
¾ cup chopped cooked apricots
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 cups sifted enriched flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup milk
1¼ cups milk

Cream shortening and sugar until fluffy. Add sirup. Cream well. Add eggs, beating well. Blend in apricots and lemon juice. Sift flour, baking powder, and salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Add nuts. Pour into greased loaf pan and bake at 350 degrees, moderate oven, for 1 hour and 15 minutes.

Quick Pecan or Walnut Bread

[9 by 4 inch loaf]

3 cups sifted enriched flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped pecans or walnuts
3 tablespoons fat
1 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
1⅝ cups milk

Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Add nuts. Cream fat, add sugar, then egg, milk, and flour. Stir only until smooth. Pour into greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 1 hour and 10 minutes.

Whole Wheat Date Bread

[Two 7 by 3 inch loaves]

2 cups sifted enriched flour
2 cups whole wheat flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons salt
¾ cup sugar
1 cup sliced dates
¾ cup broken nuts
2 eggs, well beaten
1-¾ cups milk
¼ cup melted shortening

Sift dry ingredients together. Add dates and nuts. Combine eggs, milk, and shortening and stir into flour mixture until just blended. Batter should be lumpy. Bake in two greased loaf pans at 350 degrees for 1 hour or until done.

On the House

By Louise Bargelt

If you are doing some redecorating this spring it is well to keep in mind that numerous small plaster cracks should be treated before painting over them, to help insure a good job. . . . Pigmented sealers are available from paint dealers for application on the plaster before a finish coat of paint is given to the walls. . . . Other treatments are possible for these "fire cracks" as they have been called, but this point is important—treat them before painting. . . . If cracks are wider they must be filled, or if plaster on a wall is bulging because it is separating from the lath, it must be cut out and replaced.

[If you wish above leaflet please send stamped, addressed envelope to Louise Bargelt, Home Owners' Editor, The Chicago Tribune.]

Custom-Made Blouses Boast Fine Detailing

By Rea Seeger

All new spring suits need contrasting blouses to make flawless costumes. A blouse becomes increasingly important because of the revealing low necklines of suit jackets, as some fasten with a single, decorative button just at the waistline. Hence, the blouse worn underneath is far more visible than ever before. While many costume suits include a blouse designed just for that suit and usually made of the same material as the lining of the jacket, there is a growing demand for individualized blouses as alternates—not only in color but in designs.

One superb collection of such individualized blouses features many exciting new designs. You can even select one or more from sketches and order them made in a particular color or fabric that best dramatizes your suit. These are the blouses that are faintly reminiscent of the fine, handmade French blouses of pre-war days. Only they are American designed and made right here in Chicago.

They are especially designed for spring and summer wardrobes. Many are decorative enough to wear with short or floor length evening skirts, thereby making a party or dinner costume. Some are soft and appealingly feminine; others are demurely high and round of neck and semi-tailored, and still others are designed with soft shirrings, folds, drapery to the side, and effective contrasting applique or band accent.

All details bespeak the knowing handwork of experts. Short or abbreviated sleeves are new and high fashion, altho there are many with elbow length sleeves and some full length. The beauty of this collection is that you can order your best blouse made to your exact specifications from the original sketch or with adaptations. The wait while it is made is well worth the time involved.

Soft, clinging crepes, satins, and even cottons can be used. The chalk white crepes, of course, are used for blouses when the suit is of semi-tailored silhouette. Striped materials are used most effectively with contrasting bands of the stripes.

Square cut scallops, tab effects, rows of fagotting, bows of the material, scroll work, double fagotting, and such fine handwork as thread thin tucks, insets of lace embroidery or insertions make them outstanding blouses of the year. You really have to see the sketches or some of the finished originals to appreciate properly the artistry and individuality of these fascinating new spring blouses.

While most of the collection are blouses for town or tailored suits, there are many designed to make dressmaker ensembles. These are the softly draped neckline models and those that can be worn over the skirts. Such blouses are fashioned with long peplums that are as exquisitely made and detailed as the rest of the blouse. Short, medium, and long sleeves are featured in these models, too.

Sketched are six representative blouse originals, all new and charming, to contrast with the smartest of spring suits. This collection is available in a Chicago store. For further information call Sup. 0200.

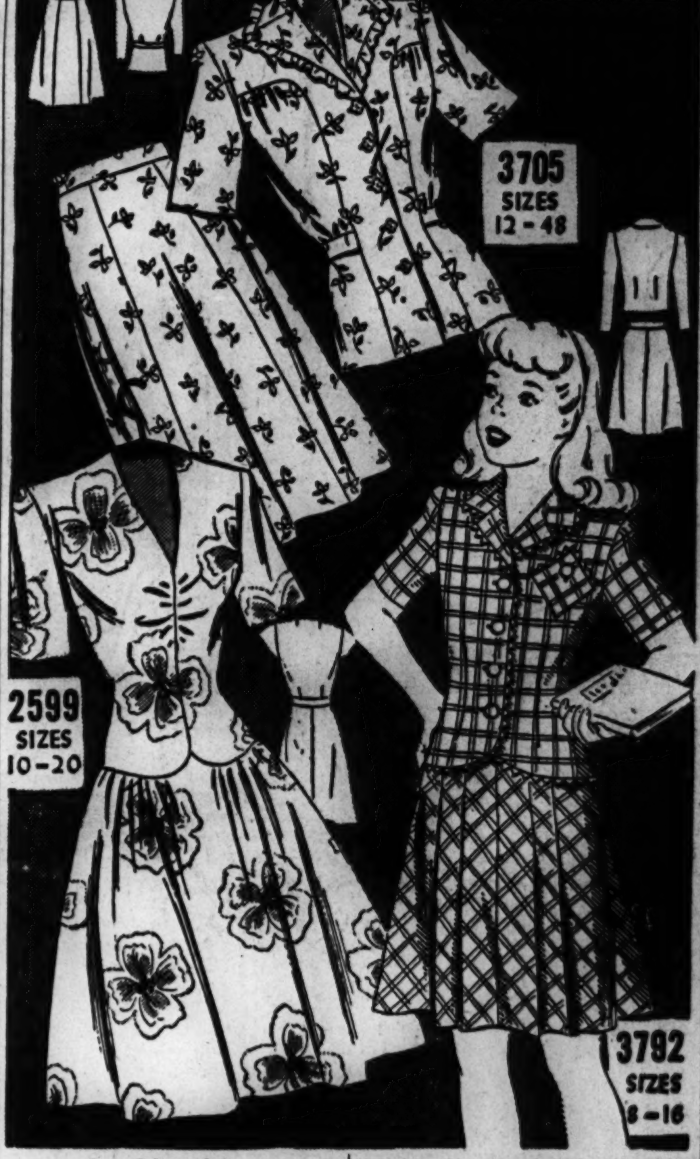
Patterns by Clotilde



By Clotilde.

In these times, when war bond purchasers are a "must" in the family budget, and when inflation must be staved off by every means possible, clever women recognize the importance of making their own clothes, thereby realizing savings.

These patterns all are wardrobe wonders and very easy on the budget. There is the soft little two piece frock, in two versions, one for adults and the other for school girls. There's the one piece dress, too, with flattering lines.

The women's and misses' two piece dress uses ruffling to match or contrast on the rever collar. The yoke makes the shoulders broad and smart. Both prints and plain colors make up effectively for this model which is ideal for spring and late summer.

The two piecer for girls uses rick-rack braid as trimming around the notched collar and outlining the blouse. Checks are smart for this ensemble.

Large prints are handsome for the one piece frock, which has a low waistline, a moderately full but graceful skirt, and a simple V neckline.
